HUERTA MAY QUIT PRESIDENCY

Said to Be Considering Resignation in Order to Personally Direct the Campaign Against the Revolutionists.

Mexico City, May 24.—Gen. Huerta is chafing under the restraint imposed by the duties and ceremonies attending his office as president, and some of his friends in the army will not be surprised if one day he throws off the tri-colored band and again dons the military uniform. It is said that the president, not fully satisfied with the progress which is being made against the revolutionists, is seriously considering the resignation of his office in order personally to direct the campaign.

That the army has not made any great advancement in restoring peace is evident, and Huerta, who planned and carried out the campaign against Orozco a year ago, is pardoned by intimates for believing that he could do the job more expeditiously. "I am not a man of governmental affairs," said Huerta recently in the course of an impromptu after-dinner speech, "I am a soldier, and every time that I see a body of men entraining, I long to go with them into the field."

Who Would Succeed?

Who would take Huerta's place as provisional president is a matter of much speculation. His inability to find a man who would satisfy the people and display the requisite executive ability is what may prevent Mexico's soldier-president from abandoning the palace. To place Felix Diaz in the presidency probably would not improve the situation greatly, and certainly it would not lease Diaz, since his occupation of the provisional post would greatly lessen his chances of holding it as elected incumbent. The selection of Francisco de la Barra would please many of his intimate friends, but the Catholic party has its eye on de la Barra as a candidate for the presidency at some future time when elections can be held. Once it was suggested that Gen. Geronimo Trevino take the provisional presidency. But the general is getting on in years, and in addition he does not want the place.

Whether Huerta would do any better, however, in the field than his officers now are doing is regarded as by no means certain. He probably has an influence over the army greater than that of any other general; but the army today is a poor thing compared with that left by Porfirio Diaz, notwithstanding that Diaz's army was far less efficient than he considered it. It has been demonstrated that the army is not a unit of loyalty, and the introduction into its ranks of thousands of ex-rebels appears not to have greatly strengthened its loyalty, and to have lowered discipline and efficiency. As minister of war Huerta might direct all phases of the campaign, but as a simple general in the field he could direct only a small part, and what he might accomplish in one region might easily be offset by what transpired in other parts of the republic.

Rebels Numerous.

Huerta and Diaz believed in February that they had restored Mexico to a peaceful condition, and they probably did not dream that the counter-revolution ever would assume the proportions it has today. There is no doubt now, however, that the number of rebels is greater than the number of the government's troops, and it has become practically a matter of money which side will win. May began with a government still on the defensive, but making promises of the early inauguration of a terrible campaign against the rebels. It was believed in the capital that by that time the rebels would have exhausted their supplies of ammunition and would be unable to buy more, or to get it across the American boundary line even if they possessed the necessary means to purchase it. Money is not plentiful in the rebel treasury; but neither is it in that of the national government. So far as getting guns and ammunition across the line is concerned, the rebels appear to be having less difficulty than did either Madero or Orozco, and Mexicans in the capital are open in their denunciation of the Washington government for not maintaining a stricter patrol.

Soldiers' Pay Raised.

Were it not for the fact that the Mexican soldier generally provides his own rations, he would today be the highest paid fighting man in the world. Madero raised his wages to a peso, 50 cents gold, a day, and Huerta has further increased it to a peso and a half, or 75 cents gold. The maintenance of the army in the past three years has been Mexico's greatest item of expense, but notwithstanding that the government is hard up and has had difficulty in securing the loan for which it has been striving, Huerta considered the increase a necessity. With this lure he hoped to gain recruits. Conscription, however, has been the method adopted.

Judged by some of the expenditures—or announced intention to expend—the government is not so poor as facts would seem to indicate. Recently it was stated at the national palace that in order to increase the efficiency of the army the war department had authorized the purchase of twenty aeroplanes and the establishment of a school of aviation. Already the government has two machines. Capt. Manuel Lebrija is in charge of aerial instruction, and the war department professes to believe that before many months army officers will be locating rebel bands through the use of these machines.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

RED RIVER CROPS FINE

Favorable Weather Condition Proving Big Benefit in Grain Belt.

Larger Acreage Is Being Planted This Year to Potatoes and Corn.

Crookston, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—More favorable weather has made the crop conditions ideal throughout the valley. While there has not been much growth above ground owing to the previous cool weather, there has been abundant moisture to germinate all grain sown, and it has rooted well and the warm weather now prevailing is resulting in a wonderful growth. Everything up. All the wheat is nicely above ground and early oats are well up. Practically all the grain is seeded, though some flax and barley will be seeded the coming week.

The wheat went into the ground under the best soil conditions. The corn acreage and potato acreage has been growing steadily for a number of years, so that this year a large percentage of wheat has been sown on corn and potato land, or on pasture land broken up.

Crop Rotation Benefit.

This rotation, together with more careful seed selection than ever before will result in a noticeable improvement in the quality of the grain this year if other conditions are favorable. The wheat acreage will be less than last year, as farmers will not sow wheat unless the land is in good shape for wheat.

The large potato growers have started planting and next week will see a large acreage planted to potatoes and corn. Henry O'Neill, the most successful corn raiser in the valley planted his early corn the first of the week. He never has trouble ripening his corn.

MEXICAN WAR VETERAN IS BURIED AT MINOT.

For thirty years he has lived on a farm near here, filing on a homestead when he was 60 years old and building a home for himself in the then northwestern frontier.

REDSKINS DRINK LEMON EXTRACT

Walker Town Marshal Trying to Learn Where Indians Got It.

Walker, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—A dozen or so real lemon-extract Indian jags were discovered here Thursday by Marshal Kennedy. A number of Indians had secured a case of this popular "intoxicant," and proceeded to celebrate in their unique way. Lemon extract contains 90 per cent alcohol and it is said that one bottle will make a Redskin feel as though he has been riding on a merry-go-round while standing on his head. He not only gets gloriously drunk, but deathly sick as well, but the beverage appears to have the proper "kick" that the drinking Indian is after.

No one appears to know where the Indians got the case of extract. As all chances of securing whisky in any form has been denied them, the Reds have fallen back on the extract with a vengeance and a lemon drunk is the proper vocation now days.

age of 87. The family moved to Dayton, between Anoka and Elk River, where he worked for Old Man Dayton when the dam and flour mill were built there.

Later he was foreman on Rum river at Anoka for W. D. Washburn from 1870 for five years, moving back to his Dayton farm for a couple of years before coming to Crookston in 1878, locating on a farm in Terrebonne, later moving to Crookston where he resided for many years, but for the past few years he has resided at East Grand Forks with his daughter, Mrs. A. Lessor, his other children being Mrs. A. Hayden, Mondyke, Mont.; Mrs. M. Champine, North Yakima; Mrs. Atcon Couture, Arlee, Mont.; and Officer Sam Godbout of the Crookston police force, his youngest child, with whom he spends a portion of his time.

Served in Eleventh Minnesota.

Mr. Godbout enlisted in 1864 with Company B, Eleventh Minnesota volunteers, under Capt. Paine, and came out of the conflict unscathed, though he saw much active service in the closing year of the war. He had some thrilling experiences during the Indian uprising in Minnesota, but knew many of the Indians well which served him to good service.

The old gentleman is a member of Col. Cobham post, No. 90, G. A. R., of this city and is always in line with the boys on Decoration day. Despite his years he still stands erect and is confident that he is going to pass the century mark. He also visited Duluth before there was any Duluth to speak of. He is wonderfully accurate regarding dates.

Pine River, Minn., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fifty cars of immigrants' effects is the record for Pine River so far this spring and this does not include quite a number of families of new settlers who came into the country without bringing any household goods with them. HEAD COVERED WITH ERUPTION Barber's Hair Began to Come Out. Combed Ounce of Scaly Matter from Head per Week. Had Become Bald. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment Cured.

Box 5677, Lancaster, Neb.—"My hair began to come out in 1903. It was perfectly dry at all times and I combed on the average about one ounce of white scaly matter from my head per week. I am a barber by trade so you can guess that I used pretty nearly everything on the map. But the trouble continued to get worse. I had come to the point where from scratching my scalp my head was covered with sores. Sleep was out of the question.

"After reading about Cuticura I gave it a trial, and after I had used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment twice, my head ceased to itch, and in three weeks the sores were nearly gone. I had become bald, but after three months' use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment I have a full head of hair again. My trouble lasted me from 1903 until the spring of 1912, and then the Cuticura Remedies did what all others had failed to do. I recommend it to my customers, and the public in general." (Signed) Luther B. Gibson, July 16, 1912.

A single cake of Cuticura Soap and box of Cuticura Ointment are often sufficient when all else has failed. Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Ointment (50c.) are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Orations will be delivered b Sigurd Ramstad and William Ogard.

Princeton—The high school commencement exercises will be held at Brands' opera house on Wednesday evening, May 28, and the address to the class will be delivered by Dr. L. W. Weigle of Carleton college, Northfield. Diplomas will be presented to twenty-two.

Grand Marais—Edward Lynch of Duluth was a passenger on the steamer America Wednesday evening, stopping off at Hovland in order to attend the meeting there. Mr. Lynch is interested in over 12,000 cres of land in Cook county which has been held for many years and is valuable for timber and mineral. He is very much in favor of bonding the county for $100,000 in aid of a railroad.

International Falls—Percy Roberts and J. P. Wright of Fort Frances have gone to the Steep Rock lake country near Atikokan, where iron drilling is being started for the Fort Frances Hematite company, in which the gentlemen mentioned are interested. The prospects for finding commercial ore in that section is said to be very flattering.

Temperance and Prohibition

LOUISVILLE, KY., March 19, 1913.

EDITOR COLLIER'S:

IN YOUR department of "Brickbats and Bouquets" you sometimes display courage in printing adverse criticisms of what appears in your paper, and it occurred to me that it was barely possible that you might give space to such a criticism of a recent editorial.

In commenting on a murder in New York by a man who had had several drinks, you express the wish that you Could bring about a state where no newspaper or reporter in a case like this would consider his story complete until he had found out the brand of whisky that the murderer drank, and got the name and photograph of the maker of it.

Continuing, you say:

There are a good many sad things about our civilization, but few more discouraging than the fact that in Baltimore and Louisville men who make whisky and use all of the arts of trade to stimulate its consumption are able, by virtue of their money, to escape the odium which attaches to all others, like gamblers and panders who stimulate crime and profit by exploiting human weakness.

It occurs to me that your language is intemperate and your reasoning unsound.

I know of nothing, and I believe you know of nothing, that is not subject to abuse. There is no denying that alcoholic beverages may be used to excess, and there is no denying that the freedom of the press may be so misused as to lower the standard of citizenship and cast odium upon an otherwise honored profession.

IN pandering to the prohibitionists you are encouraging men and women to excuse a guilty man and to accuse the innocent. If the man who committed the murder was intoxicated, his intoxication was due to the excessive use of liquor. The man had deliberately overthrown his reason and had made himself a menace to society.

He had the choice of being temperate or intemperate, and he became intemperate. In committing the murder he used a firearm. Firearms are subject to use and to abuse.

Would you have the name and photograph of the maker of the firearm?

If is conceded that the practice of carrying pistols is indirectly responsible for the majority of homicides, and yet I note that you do not strike from your advertising columns the remunerative advertisements of those who make it possible for men to carry concealed deadly weapons. You would make fish of one and flesh of another.

In the case of firearms, you can see that they are useful even though they may be misused; but in the case of liquor you profess to see nothing but the abuse, and you would place the blame for this abuse upon the maker

Neither the distiller, nor the firearm maker, nor the manufacturer of the butcher knife can follow his product to the ultimate user and guarantee that there shall be no abuse, and you will agree with me that the writer of an editorial cannot be expected to be willing to assume responsibility for the possible effect that that editorial may have upon the mind of the reader

F.

I KNOW of a case where an editorial is supposed to have encouraged an assassin, and yet, as a rule, editorials work for good, and there would be no sense in seeking to prohibit the writing of editorials on the ground that editorials sometimes work great harm

A murder by a man who is under the influence of liquor is a strong argument for temperance, but it does not excuse the murderer, nor does it give him the right to shift the burden of responsibility for his sin of intemperance or his crime of murder.

If the editor of COLLIER'S should advocate temperance as such, and not try to make the cause of temperance carry the back-breaking burden of prohibition that does not prohibit, and which is not intended to prohibit, he could do a great work and merit the respect of himself as well as of men who have respect for intellectual integrity

BIG PAYROLL OF THE BUTTE MINES IS CLOSE TO RECORD

Wages of Miners in April Reached Total of $1,350,000.

Butte-Alex Scott Shaft Being Sunk at Rapid Rate.

Butte, Mont., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The payroll of the Butte Mining company for the month of April aggregated $1,350,000, which is in round figures within $150,000 of a record month. The miners at the present time are being paid at the rate of $3.75 a day, according to agreement by which wages are regulated in accordance with the price of copper. When copper was selling for a short time at slightly above 17 cents a pound, for a month the rate of wages was $4 a day and this brought the total payroll up to $1,500,000. There is not another mining district in the world that can boast of such a payroll in proportion to men employed, of course of this amount the Anaconda company contributes the greatest part, possibly nearly three-quarters, but there are many new companies starting up which will soon have large payrolls and if expectations are realized and the price of copper is maintained somewhere around the present price, by the first of next year the Butte payroll will be running around a million and three-quarters a month. Outside of the Anaconda company, there are the North Butte, the East Butte and the Butte & Superior companies among the larger independent concerns employing about 850 each. Then there are the Butte-Duluth, the Bullwhacker, the Rainbow Development company, the Butte Main Range, the Butte & Zenith City, and several others, including the Corbin Copper company which expect to enter the producing class before the close of the year or early next spring. The Pilot Butte has such excellent prospects due to the rich properties surrounding it that there is a confident belief that, before the second half of the year is far advanced, it will be shipping ore of a good paying quality to the smelter. The Tuolumne, which has been shipping as high as 250 tons or ore a day, is now down to about 125 tons, but a recent opening of some rich ore on the 2,000-foot level is expected to place the company in a position to increase the shipments in a short time.

Bradley Plant to Resume.

Advices have been received in this city to the effect that C. S. Bradley, who is still in the East, has promised from men of financial standing of assistance in endeavoring to operate the plant at Anaconda for the treatment of slimes and tailings. Mr. Bradley claims that the process has been brought up to the point where there is no further question as to its success, but the men who were backing the enterprise became somewhat dissatisfied and refused to advance any more money until they were convinced that success could be achieved. The letter received here states that Mr. Bradley has received assurances of the necessary support, and that within the next month or six weeks the plant will again be in operation.

Butte Central.

Although Supt. McConnell says that the Butte Central Copper company is now operating at a profit, the people do not seem to have the faith in the stock that they once had. Mr. McConnell says that the last shipment of concentrates realized a very neat sum over and above the operating expenses.

Butte-Alex Scott.

The shaft of the Butte-Alex Scott shaft is going down at the rate of close to 100 feet a month. The 1,900-foot level has been reached. The work will be continued until a depth of 2,200 feet is reached when a station will be cut and the ore bodies opened on the upper levels explored. The Butte-Alex Scott is shipping about 250 tons of ore a day and the greater part of this is coming from the 500 and 600-foot levels where some rich ore was opened up within the past few months.

Bullwhacker.

The Bullwhacker leaching plant will be enlarged and ready for operation in about one month. The material has arrived from Chicago, and a large force of men has been put to work on the addition. The lessees are continuing to get out a large amount of ore running around 4 per cent, and as their lease does not expire until next September they will have the property explored to a considerable depth by that time. The lessees are sending the greater part of their ore to the Washoe smelter, as the leaching plant is only capable of handling a small portion of it.

Davis-Daly.

The Davis-Daly company has recntly been averaging 159 tons of ore a day, and in the near future the management expects to be in a position to increase the tonnage. The ore runs around 4 per cent copper, and at the present price of the red metal the company is making more than expenses. The Heasmaking more than expenses. The Heasperous claim is practically supplying all the ore from the 1,400-foot level. It has been drifted on for over 100 feet and the vein is now seventeen feet wide. Manager W. L. Creden believes that the same ore body has been uncovered on the 1,700-foot level. While the property was being worked under the management of F. Augustus Heinze, a fault was encountered and the ore body lost. Since Mr. Creden took charge new crosscuts have resulted in the vein being found again.

Electric Haulage.

It will be at least several months yet before the Anaconda company is sending its ore to the Washoe smelter by electric haulage, nevertheless considerable progress is being made in that direction. The yards of the railway company in Anaconda have been equipped for the operation of the trains by electricity, and a few days ago in the presence of a large number of railway officials, tests were made with two electric locomotives and the system was found to work perfectly. The tests were made by a representative of the General Electric company, who is to remain here instructing the engineers in the methods of operation. The electric locomotives took about the yards trains of ore even larger than those hauled by steam, and then the full capacity of the electric power was not brought into use. All the men available have been put to work electrifying the main line of the company, and every effort is to be made to have the electric cars running by Sept. 1.

Rainbow Development.

The shaft of the Rainbow Development company, a concern controlled by Thomas F. Cole and other Duluth capitalists, is now down to a depth of 400 feet. Every effort is being made to maintain an average of four feet a day in sinking, with a view of getting down to a depth of 800 feet as soon as possible. When this point is reached and a station is cut, it is intended to crosscut for the purpose of exploring the ground. There is a strong belief that the rich vein of the Butte & Superior runs through the ground.

Corbin Copper.

The Corbin Copper company has got the shaft on the Gambrinus claim down to a depth of about forty feet and in the course of another week the hoist will be erected and the compressor installed. The hoisting is to be done by electricity. Mining men who are watching the operations are of the opinion that ore of a good shipping grade will be encountered within a few hundred feet of the surface. There are several reasons for the formation of this belief. One is that it is well known that rich ore was uncovered in the Gagnon within a few hundred feet of the surface, and another is that the trenches being opened up on the ground for the laying down of water pipes show strong mineral formations. Every mining man who has inspected the ground is satisfied that the Anaconda vein runs right through the property.

Barnes-King.

The Barnes-King company cleaned up nearly $25,000 during the month of April, and this in spite of the fact that it was necessary to close down the mill for seven days on account of scarcity of water through repairs being made to the water pipes. Inside of another month the capacity of the mill will be considerably increased, as new tanks are being installed with that object in view. The development work in the North Moccasin is giving such excellent results that the mill capacity can be easily increased to 200 tons a day.

Pilot-Butte.

The Pilot-Butte station on the 1,800 and 2,000-foot levels will be completed in about two weeks, and by June 1 the work of crosscutting from both levels to strike the ore bodies known to exist not far from the shaft will be in progress. One of the directors said a few days ago that he would be very much disappointed if the mine was not hoisting ore by July 1.

BUTTE & SUPERIOR IS DOING WELL

Flotation Process Saving Very Close to 90 Per Cent.

Butte, Mont., May 24.—Manager J. L. Bruce of the Butte & Superior says the conditions at this time are highly gratifying to the company. With reference to the mill, upon which work was begun about a year ago, he says:

"The second section is not finished and will not be before about the middle of June. Naturally there can be no great increase in the tonnage handled until the mill is completed, although we have been crowding up the figures on tonnage handled for some time past. Last month there was a decrease, due to the shutdown while the flotation plant was undergoing a remodeling. This month, however, will equal in total product the month of March, which was a big one."

The company is highly pleased with the flotation process of handling the ore, and it is stated by Mr. Bruce that the saving is very close to 90 per cent of the copper values in the ore. The plant is now handling about 650 tons daily, this representing practically the capacity of the finished portion of the mill. When the second section is completed, a few weeks hence, the capacity will be 1,400 to 1,500 tons. This will be in excess of the present production, but conditions in the mine will be changed and the product brought up to the capacity of the mill, or very near the maximum, in a comparatively short time—probably by the last of this year.

It is the expectation in official circles that the average savings by the improved process from this time on will be very close to 95 per cent. On the present plan of operation, and with spelter at only 5 cents a pound, Butte & Superior is said to be earning $3 a share. On the actual market price of spelter the company is earning nearer $4 a share.

IS ADDING TO ITS BIG ORE RESERVES

Large Results in Development Division of Calumet & Arizona.

Bisbee, Ariz., May 24.—Good results are attending development work at the Calumet & Arizona properties. Prospecting to the west of the Junction shaft has been rewarded by entry to a high grade sulphide body from the 1,300-foot level of the mine. So far they have opened in this ore from nearly 100 feet, with the end not yet in sight. The find was made near the line of the Copper Queen's Hard Scrabble claim and has bearing on a considerable area in that vicinity. They are now crosscutting in the ore body on the Junction 1,300-foot level and are finding occasion for increasing satisfaction with the find.

From the Briggs shaft 1,303-foot level just south of the shaft they are opening another big ore body of ore to add to the already wonderful possession of this mine, the southern output of the producing proven area of the district. This particular ore body was entered 50 feet about two years ago, but more pressing work came up at that time the find was shelved for future exploration. They are now crosscutting and drifting in it with fine results. An important feature in connection with this ore is that the body does not appear to be connected with other developed ore of the mine, being apparently a large and independent deposit.

In the Hoatson the rich ore body encountered some time ago on the 1,200-foot level has developed into an important asset. It has been followed 20 feet above the 1,200-foot level. From the 1,300-foot level they go up toward the ore body, finding it 40 feet below the 1,200-foot level. Fifty feet of shaft level surface for the body, with its extent above and below and the high copper content of the ore, gives this bunch important money value. Aside from this development in the Hoatson there is a good deal of prospecting going on attended by the finding of occasional rich bunches of ore away from the main body of the mine and from which there is important production being made.

WORK GAINING AT GREENE-CANANEA

Calumet & Sonora to Resume When Cars Are Obtainable.

Cananea, Mex., May 24.—The Greene-Cananea properties are gradually increasing operations. At this time 2,200 men are employed. A few weeks ago there were but 1,600. Puertecitos mine has reopened with a small force of men and shipments are being made. Work was resumed at the Veta mine also, with one shift. A shift was also placed in the lower grade workings of the Capote. These properties are shipping to the concentrator, now operating one section, three shifts. The smelter is operating eight furnaces and two converters. Two reverberatory furnaces are in operation. The smelter is making an average of seventy tons of copper daily. Democrata mine and smelter are operating nearly full forces. Calumet & Sonora will resume as soon as cars are freely obtainable.

FROST IS CAUSING TROUBLE ON OLD LAKE IRON RANGES

Steam-Shovel Loading Into Cars Is Slow and Expensive.

Shipments From Mesaba Are Averaging 200,000 Tons a Day.

Frost in stockpiles is causing trouble at various mines on the old iron ranges of Lake Superior. This is particularly the case at properties producing soft, wet ores. Steam-shovel loading into cars is difficult, slow and expensive. Rarely if ever have conditions in this particular been more severe. Much work with picks is necessary and in many of the piles gads have to be used. The frost extends to the very base in some instances. Marquette range operators especially are experiencing trouble. At Pickands, Mather & Co.'s Sunday Lake mine, in the Gogebic district, the stockpile is frozen so hard and to such a depth that most of the ore already shipped from it has had to first be blasted.

As is to be expected of a range that produces more than twice as much ore as all the other Lake Superior fields combined, the Mesaba is shipping on an enormous scale, even though it has not yet struck its maximum gait for the season. Its output latterly has been approximating 200,000 tons a day, of which the Great Northern has handled 37 per cent, the Duluth, Missabe & Northern 35 per cent and the Duluth & Iron Range 28 per cent. The expected production for the range this year is 35,000,000 tons. Excellent progress on the construction of the mammoth steel and concrete dock of the Missabe company at Duluth has been made to date. Operating five pile drivers since the institution of the work in February, the contractors for the foundation of the pier proper and for the piling and concrete piers for the approach have completed their part of the undertaking. The dock itself is to be half a mile long, and the approach twice that length. For the foundation of the pier alone, 15,000 round and 5,000 pieces of sheet steel piling were used. The big dock, the greatest of its kind ever projected, will not go into commission until 1915. Its cost will not be far from $2,750,000. The American Bridge company, contractor for the steel work, has made a good start with its operations.

Marquette Movement.

While the Marquette range is expected to send out fully 4,500,000 tons of ore this year, a small increase compared with the outgo in 1912, the movement to date has fallen somewhat under that of last season. There has been no particular rush at any of the mines. Most of the product shipped has come direct from the workings. Due to the activity of the Volunteer Ore company of the Cole-Tomlinson interests, the Cascade district of the Marquette country will make a better showing than last season. The Volunteer was closed a year ago from spring until fall. The field west of Ishpeming also will produce heavier than in 1912. The shippers there are the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company's shafts at North Lake and M. A. Hanna & Co.'s American mine at Diorite. An increased tonnage likewise will come from the Michigamme district. The older fields of the range, those at Ishpeming and Negaunee and in the Gwinn district, will about hold their own compared with last year. Operations in each of these is materially below capacity.

M. A. Hanna & Co.'s Richmond mine in the Cascade district will break its record this season with an outgo of 150,000 tons. Operations have been much facilitated by the installation of a second crusher. The property is an open pit, about 700 feet square. The ore is of low grade, averaging between 40 and 50 per cent in metallic iron. It is exceptionally hard. With the overburden removed, holes are drilled into the ore and are blasted and the product thus broken is loaded by a steam shovel. Recently one mass estimated to weigh in excess of 140 tons was sent crashing into the pit. In this instance the holes were drilled to a depth of thirty feet and each was charged with more than 100 pounds of giant powder. The blast brought down more ore than was ever before broken from the bed at one time. The Richmond at present is employing a force of sixty-five men. A considerable portion of the ore now being shipped is going to the Mayville, Wis., furnace. Last year's production was 120,000 tons.

Preparing to Open Mines.

The Cleveland-Cliffs company is preparing to develop the Mackinac and Gartner mines, in the Gwinn-Princeton district. A concrete shaft was sunk 100 feet to the ledge at each property more than two years ago, since which time no work has been done at either location. Power houses and other buildings are now in course of erection and the nucleus of a little town is springing up midway between the properties. Transmission lines extending from the Princeton mine, five miles distant, are being strung, the intention being to operate practically all of the machinery with electricity generated at the company's big plant on Carp river. Forty miles of wire in all will be put up, a work that will keep the linemen busy for two months. It will be the greater part of a year before ore is hoisted at either the Mackinac or Gardner. The Princeton No. 2 mine recently was restored to the producing list, after having been idle since last fall. Except that the Stegmiller property is operated by the United States Steel corporation, all the mines in the Gwinn district are wrought by the Cleveland-Cliffs company.

Preparations to open another mine in the Negaunee field are in progress. This property, known as the Harvey lots, will be developed by the Cleveland-Cliffs company. The tract is directly north of the Lucky Star shaft, now being sunk by the Breitung interests. Each company is associated in the control of both properties and, under an agreement reached last year, one concern is to develop one of the two prospective mines and the other concern is to develop the other. There is no question about the value of either tract. Both have been thoroughly drilled and it is known that each one contains a deposit of high-grade ore lying, approximately 1,000 feet beneath the surface. Adjoining the Lucky Star at the south is the Prince of Wales mine of the Steel corporation. The Cleveland-Cliffs company will erect a steel head-frame and a brick power house at the Harvey tract at the outset and will build other structures as they are needed. The shaft will go down in the footwall. As is now the case at practically all of the company's mines, the machinery equipment will be electrical. The company is operating its crusher at the South Jackson property at Negaunee, a usual proceeding during the shipping season. Ore from the Cliffs Shafts mine at Ishpeming is being treated.

Mastodon to Be Stripped.

Stripping will soon be in progress at what is to be the biggest open pit mine on the Menominee range. The Mastodon property, owned in fee by the Keweenaw association of Boston and leased by Pickands, Mather & Co. from the Longyear interests, will be the scene of the operations. The ground has been cleared of trees and underbrush and made ready for the inception of the work as soon as the contract is awarded. Approximately the pit will be 1,200 feet long and 600 feet wide. In the neighborhood of 1,500,000 cubic yards of overburden will be removed. The average depth of the surface is ninety feet. In conjunction with the stripping work, underground operations will be carried on. An exploratory shaft, afterwards to be used for the transportation of timber and supplies, will be put down, to be followed later by the sinking of a working shaft through which much of the ore lying at depth will be taken out. Lumber and other materials are being assembled, preparatory to the erection of various buildings of temporary nature. Coincidentally with the activity of the Pickands-Mather management, the Longyear interests are making preparations to open that part of the Mastodon property they have retained to mine on their own account. In this case, all the development will be underground. Earl Richards, a former Mesaba range man, is the superintendent in charge and is assisted as mining engineer by E. J. Pearce. The latter comes from the Negaunee district of the Marquette range, where he held a similar post at the mines of the Republic Iron & Steel company, resigning the position to enter the service of the Longyear people.

The Great Western's Ore.

Due largely to the presence of sulphur in the product, there has been little demand for the ore mined at Corrigan, McKinney & Co.'s Great Western property at Crystal Falls, Menominee range, of late years. In fact, a big stockpile has not been touched for three seasons and the mine is closed down. Recently a consignment of 2,500 tons was loaded into cars and was sent on its way to a lower lake furnace. This ore is to be given a test in the stack and, if found satisfactory, it is understood the same pig iron-making interest is prepared to take practically the entire pile. Meanwhile Corrigan, McKinney & Co. are building furnaces of their own, so designed as to permit of the use of the Great Western product on an equality with other ores. With these stacks completed, an assured demand for Great Western ore will be created and mining will be resumed. The Great Western contains a very large body of mineral, and, in addition, the deposit extends into adjoining tracts, none of which are now being wrought.

Corrigan, McKinney & Co. are opening the Tully mine in the Iron River district of the Menominee. Operations are being pushed, the working force having been increased to 225 men. A town has sprung up at the location. There are sixty-five dwelling houses already, most of which have been built by the company this year, and forty more are to be erected this season. Various mine buildings also have been constructed or are in process of erection. The best of machinery is being installed, among other equipment the largest air compressor in the district. The No. 1, or Baker shaft, has been carried down to the ore body and mining is in progress in that locality. The No. 2, or Tully shaft, a drop shaft, 400 feet distant, is sinking through quicksand. The depth of the overburden is 185 feet, all but twenty-five or thirty feet of which has already been penetrated. The Tully has a large deposit and will be one of the best mines in the district.

The Antoine Ore company's Traders mine at Iron Mountain, Menominee range, will ship 100,000 tons or more this season. There is a scarcity of labor. One hundred men are employed and fifty more are needed. The pit at the eastern end is being enlarged by the removal of additional overburden, estimated at 7,000 cubic yards. The ore here lies at a depth of fifteen feet. The property known as the West Chapin, in the Iron Mountain field, has been leased by Capt. John T. Spencer of that city and will be explored by him. It is owned in fee by the Keweenaw association.

LARGE ORE BODIES BEING DEVELOPED

Inspiration Company Is Rounding Things Into Pretty Good Shape.

Globe, Ariz., May 24.—The Inspiration Consolidated Copper company is rounding things into pretty good shape. Railroad grading has been completed and track laid to the concentrator site and also to the Geneva cut.

This company is developing some very large ore bodies. The average thickness of the ore on the Inspiration property, as developed by diamond drilling, is 142 feet and on the Live Oak property, 114 feet, with a capping of country rock varying from 435 to 354 feet. Available within the area developed by churn drills is about 45,000,000 tons of 2 per cent ore. Work underground is moving along very nicely, there being a total advance made on the Inspiration property during the month of April of about 1,700 feet, which caused them to add about 1,400 tons of ore to their ore dumps, making a total of approximately 160,000 tons on the Inspiration ore dump.

On the Live Oak property there was a total advance underground for the month of April of about 800 feet, making a total footage of about 2,500 feet for the month. Drifting continues in both directions on what will be the main haulage tunnel, to connect the Live Oak shafts with the main shafts of the Inspiration.

GOLD DREDGING IS SUCCESSFUL

Operations at Lake Sewall, Mont., Continue This Spring.

Helena, Mont., May 24.—The operation of the Magpie dredge, twenty miles northeast of Helena, is one of the really big placer mining enterprises of the state. The dredge moves on an average 70,000 cubic yards of gravel and earth a month, and is operated day and night the year around.

The Magpie dredge cost in the neighborhood of $100,000, and has been in active commission about two years. It was constructed in San Francisco, shipped by rail to East Helena and transported by horse teams to Lake Sewall where it was assembled. The power is electricity derived from the Canyon Ferry dam. Prior to the building of the dredge the ground was thoroughly prospected and its value for dredging purposes ascertained. Purchases were then made of those occupying the ground and the dredge was ordered. The ground available for mining will keep the dredge operating five or six years.

At present the dredge is working about less than half a mile from the lake and is slowly moving toward the mouth of the gulch where it debouches upon the plain. It is the aim of the management to work as far toward the mountains as possible then turn about and work a strip of ground parallel to the one already excavated and return to Lake Sewall. This is expected to exhaust the available ground at the mouth of Maggie gulch, but the company has secured a similar tract at the mouth of White's gulch.

The amount of gold realized by the operations of the dredge is not definitely known, but it is certain it is paying well.

QUICKSILVER MINE IN ARIZONA RICH

In One Ledge There Is $33,000,000 in Ore in Sight.

Phoenix, Ariz., May 24.—Arizona has the richest quicksilver mine in the world. Exceeding all other mines in value of metal in sight, the Sunflower Cinnabar Mining company's holdings in the northeast corner of Maricopa county, seventy miles from Phoenix, with the carrying out of the development planned, will rank foremost among the red sulphide of mercury mines of the earth. California has no mine that will approach that of the Arizona corporation organized in February of this year, and the operations in Austria-Hungary and Germany, to say nothing of Australia, will sink into insignificance, when the Maricopa county mine becomes a producer.

These facts are not set forth in so many words in the report just submitted by Mining Engineer Fred M. Bowler, but that acknowledged authority does state that in one of the six rich ledges embraced in the twenty-four claims controlled by the Sunflower company there is $33,000,000 in ore in sight. Some of the assays of picked specimens run as high as $410 per ton of the ore, while a very conservative estimate based on assays of average ore places the figure at $52 per ton of rock.

All this has come to light within the past week. Heretofore it was known that the Sunflower company had what appeared to be valuable holdings in the Chileson ranch district, but not until Col. Bowler returned from his inspection trip and submitted his official report was it realized that at the very doors of the capital city of the new state was there such a rich mineralization. The Sunflower Cinnabar Mining company, capitalized at $1,000,000, with $750,000 of treasury stock in the vaults of its depository, the Valley bank, will make of its stockholders men of wealth within the next few months.

There have been mines and mines in Arizona. There have been gold rushes to this field just as there have been rushes to Goldfield and the Klondike. But there has never in the history of the world been such a stupendous discovery of rich metal, easily reducible and subject to preparation for the market as that of the Sunflower company.

It all reads like a fairy tale and the correspondent is quite liable to censure for exaggeration, but the fact remains, as shown in Col. Bowler's report, that a veritable mountain of rich quicksilver ore is present and that it requires only the fires of the retort to reduce it to the state of a marketable commodity.

Drift on Indiana 600-Foot Level Breasted in Heavy Copper Ground.

Superior Still Opening Excellent Ground at Depth in Two Lodes.

Houghton, Mich., May 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Indiana Mining company is opening very rich ground on the 600-foot level where a drift north and south on the so-called Indiana felsite is at the moment breasted in heavy copper ground. About twenty feet of this deposit has been opened, beyond which nothing more is known. The deposit was not entirely unlooked for, but its discovery is nevertheless somewhat in the nature of a surprise. At the bottom of the shaft a diamond drill is boring horizontal holes in the four directions for the purpose of locating the so-called Indiana felsite. The second drill hole of this series is now under way and at last reports was in a felsite formation though without copper. This work is nearly 800 feet below the openings on the 600 level. The company has been slow in developing copper ground but appears now to be on the right road and more and important developments in this property are expected shortly.

Adventure.

The Adventure has reached a depth of 600 feet in the drill hole which is sinking 800 feet north of Pepperrd Junction in the horizon of the South Lake lodes. The last 200 feet of drilling has been in trap rock in the formation immediately overlying these lodes. Drilling has been handicapped by broken and shattered ground, and a further lack of drill bits. A second hole, which, however, has no connection with this hole, is being driven from the end of the long cross-cut east on the 1,500-foot level of the No. 5 shaft. This drill hole is making slow progress for much the same reason found in the first hole referred to. The second hole is sinking well to the east in and beyond the horizon of the Lake lode, and may be said to be practically on the contact between the mineral-bearing zone and the great eastern sandstone. No other work is in progress at this property, and there is small likelihood that development work in the so-called Adventure lodes will be resumed at this time.

New Baltic.

The New Baltic is drifting both ways on the copper deposit recently encountered 1,500 feet west of the shaft on the 500-foot level. The north drift is showing exceptionally rich ground. The cross-cut which passed through this deposit at 1,525 feet is driving west to intersect a copper-bearing amygdaloid previously disclosed in diamond drilling. The identity of this lode is not known, but presumably it is an extension of the Isle Royale or the Portage lodes, as it lies in the approximate horizon of these amygdaloid beds. The drill hole which located this lode yielded a core of fairly rich copper rock. The company is making excellent progress considering the small number of workers employed and small monthly expenditures, and is in easy financial condition, with funds sufficient to continue work for the balance of the year without further assistance from the stockholders.

Superior.

The Superior continues to open excellent copper ground at depth in two lodes, particularly in the so-called west lode, which is showing rich on all levels below the twelfth. The Superior lode in which the shaft is sinking, has been opened to a depth of about 2,000 feet and discloses excellent copper ground both at depth and in the north drift on the fifteenth level, which is now over 1,500 feet from the shaft and in very good ground. These developments are all in ground tributary to the No. 1 shaft. The No. 2 shaft is sinking for the eighteenth level, where a drift will be run north to connect with the No. 1 workings. Work in this area has thus far failed to reveal copper ground of commercial grade. The productive area in the Superior acreage has not been proven beyond a few thousand feet each way from No. 1 shaft, but is in itself a mine, yielding in the neighborhood of 600 tons of rock daily and easily capable of a daily output of 1,000 to 1,200 tons. The rock is exceptionally rich as is evidenced by the yield, which ranges from twenty-two to twenty-eight pounds fine copper per ton of rock milled.

Mohawk.

The Mohawk expects to have the new No. 6 shaft ready for service about June 1st. The shaft has been equipped with a modern steel shaft rockhouse, and is now in shape to handle up to 1,500 tons of rock daily. Development work in this shaft discloses exceptionally rich ground. The vein is of fair width, strongly mineralized and not very much different from that noted in the Aimeek workings adjoining. The average yield of this rock will probably be in excess of 20 pounds fine copper per ton of rock milled, which compares with 14 pounds, 12 pounds, and even less, secured from the rock in the older workings, tributary to Shafts Nos. 1 and 2. The Mohawk of the present day is practically a new mine in the making.

Osceola.

The Osceola is pushing development work in the north Kearsarge branch. The No. 2 shaft is again sinking steadily and having been bottomed for several years at the thirty-first level. This shaft is now below the thirty-second. The No. 4 shaft is being cleaned out preparatory to sinking, and the No. 1 shaft is being entirely rebuilt both underground and at surface, all in preparation for increased production from this branch. The No. 1 shaft will probably be out of commission until September, because of construction work now in progress at that point. This work will, when completed, give the shaft a capacity to handle up to 1,500 tons of rock daily. This end of the mine is showing rock of good quality at depth and is generally richer in copper than is the north end, commanded by Shaft No. 4.

THE YOUNG MAN'S CHANCE.

Farm and Fireside: In spite of the cry that the high price of land is driving young farmers to some other occupation, there never was a time when an ambitious young country man had a better chance than right now. It is true that farm lands, implements, the cost of living and clothing are high, but there are some other things high on the other side of the sheet. Farm products are selling at a very high rate, and farm labor is very scarce, and farm opportunities are multiplying every year.

With his bare hands any young man can lay the foundation of a modest fortune in a short time, and do it under the most healthful and invigorating conditions. In other words, there never was such a demand for good tenanst as there is at present—tenants, not farm hands. Of course there is a steady cry for farm hands, but a young man should seek a place as a tenant instead of as a laborer, for in the former there are chances that the country is just waking up to all over the land.

Hundreds of middle-aged men in every county in the older part of the farming community are wanting to retire from active work either by moving off the farm or taking a young man into partnership with them. These men feel that they have earned a rest, yet there is no one to whom they can safely entrust their business.

Their own sons have gone to the cities or are settled on farms of their own, and the hired men they are able to get are a vexation to the spirit in most instances. In despair the farmer sells out and invests the money in bonds or something else, to be rid of the care of the farm, and then moves to town. And right here is where the ambitious young man finds his chance.

BIG SAVING FOR THE NORTH BUTTE

New Selling Contract Will Effect Annual Saving of $150,000.

Butte, Mont., May 24.—It is reported that the new contract made by the North Butte company with the United Metals Selling company, whereby it will finance hereafter its own copper, will effect a saving of $150,000 a year to the North Butte company.

The old contract between the two companies had several years yet to run, but as the North Butte is now in a financial position where it can finance its copper, the United Metals Selling interests agreed to the cancellation of the old and the making of the new one.

CLOSES AT HIGH POINT

Wheat Market Has Bulge in Face of Bearish Conditions.

Flax Opens Higher, But Drops Back Before the Close.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 24.—The wheat market closed at the top of the bulge at noon today, and with the finishing tone strong. July closed at an advance of 1c and September's net advance was 1¼c. May closed unchanged with no activity. On this market July durum closed 1c up and May closed ⅝c up. Minneapolis and Chicago also closed at heavy advances. Winnipeg held no session today.

Cash wheat equalled July option, oats closed ⅛c off, barley closed unchanged to 2c up and rye closed unchanged.

The Duluth grain market advanced from the opening of business this morning and there seemed to be no stopping it. Other markets did the same. The reason for the advance is hard to locate and the password on the trading floor today was: "What's the matter with the market?"

Wheat started the advance as soon as it opened, July option taking the lead. September came in and then July durum got busy. Almost all news was bearish. Cables were lower and Liverpool closed ⅛ to ¼d lower than yesterday on heavy shipment news, the discounting of crop damage in America, and the offerings of cargoes for reselling on the continent. The excuse of yesterday that coarse grain was bulging could not hold good today for coarse grains fell off during the trading hours.

There was a rumor of dry weather, but the only thing in that line that could be found was in Oklahoma. Other crop reports were of a bearish nature, but just now the market is reaching that stage where it is sensitive to crop reports, and the cinch bug talk may have had something to do with it. It is quite likely, however, that with no genuine bull news in sight shorts were covering and the demand was more than the offerings.

Flax Declines.

July flax this morning opened ¼c over yesterday's close and held steady there for a short time, but soon dropped back to the closing figure. Lack of demand caused it to break still further, and at the close July was ⅞c under yesterday. September was ½c under and October had lost a full cent. The flax market continues to be very narrow, so much so, that very little affects it either way.

Chicago: Advices from Kansas show a wide variance. Southeastern and Eastern Kansas report fine conditions, and from Greensburg, Kan., comes this message:

"Two hundred and fifty dealers at Coldwater confirm damage claim. Won't have more than half a crop along Engelwood branch west; at Coldwater from Mullinville to Greensburg, fair crop; Dodge to Mullinsville, very poor. Will take considerable moisture to raise half a crop."

"During the past week wheat has lost the extra promise that characterized it earlier in the season, but with reasonable conditions hereafter will make more than average yield. Crop is heading in river counties, but will not harvest until last week in June. Oats are irreparably damaged, small, late, thin and yellow. A considerable part of the acreage may be classed as practically a failure. Only the early sown is promising. Acreage is reduced. Corn is still being planted and there is some plowing yet to do. The ground is dry and hard to work. The early planted is in good shape and is up with a good stand."

CHICAGO MARKET.

What Prices Tend to Harden on Fears for Crop.

Chicago, May 24.—Renewed fear of crop damage Southwest made wheat prices today tend to harden. Oklahoma advices were less reassuring and Central Missouri was said to have lost its extra promise. Pit offerings were unusually light. Opening figures varied from ½c lower to ¼c advance. July, which at the outset was unchanged to a shade higher at 90c to 90@90¼c, rose to 90⅜c.

A further advance resulted from statements that without rain soon, 3,000,000 acres in Southwest Kansas would not make 25 per cent of a crop. The close was firm with July ⅝@½c net higher at 91⅜@91½c.

Fine weather weakened the corn market. July opened the same as last night to ⅛c off at 57⅛@57⅜c, and declined to 57⅜@57½c.

The market eventually rallied with wheat. The close was firm at 57⅝@57¾c for July, a net gain of a shade.

Oats eased somewhat, buying being only of a scattered sort. July started unchanged to ⅛c lower at 38¼@38⅜c and sagged to 37⅞@38c.

Provisions dropped in the absence of demand. First sales were at last night's level to 2½c up with September declines $19.50 for pork, $11.10@11.12½ for lard, and $11.12½ for ribs.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Leaders Start Fractionally Lower, But Soon Have Upward Movement.

Heavy Buying of Harriman Shares Benefits the Whole Market.

New York, May 24.—Stocks barely moved when trading was begun today. Most of the leaders were lower by small fractions. Pennsylvania touched a new low figure at 109½. Canadian Pacific opened with the sale of 1,000 shares at 235½ to 236, a maximum decline of 2 points. St. Louis and San Francisco second preferred, which has been especially weak recently, rose ⅝.

Expectations of an early announcement of a Harriman separation agreement caused heavy buying of Southern Pacific and Union Pacific, which lifted them 1 and 2 points respectively. The whole market was benefitted by their show of strength. Louisville gained 2½ and active issues half a point or more.

The market closed strong. The early rise in Union Pacific and Southern Pacific proved to be the beginning of a general forward movement. Bear operators were taken unawares by the manifestations of strength. Accumulation of the Harriman shares, especially Union Pacific, on a large scale gave rise to a more general belief that a solution of the problem involved in the disintegration of the system was at hand. The impetus left by the upturn in these stocks permeated the list. Even the St. Louis & San Francisco issues rallied, after temporary weakness. Union Pacific rose 3 points, Southern Pacific 2 and other standard stocks 1 to 2 points. Bonds were firm.

REAL ESTATE

ARCHITECTS AND BUILDERS IN MIDST OF SEASON'S RUSH

Volume of Building Permits Shows Duluth Will Have Good Year.

Architects Are Preparing Sketches for Many Buildings Planned for Future.

Building permits of the week, of which there were thirty-three representing an expenditure of $114,025, would seem to indicate that Duluth is enjoying a good building season. Architects, contractors, and in fact everybody connected with the building trades is busy, not only in taking care of the work already in sight but also in figuring on jobs which are now being projected for the future.

The largest building permit of the week was issued to the Gopher Real Estate company for the construction of a three-story hotel building at Twentieth avenue west and Superior street at a cost of $62,000. Another large permit for $24,000 was taken out by P. Johnson of West Duluth for the construction of the Colonial theater on Central avenue.

In the offices of the various architects, a healthy volume of new business is being lined up and many of them are busy in getting out sketches for proposed work.

A $20,000 addition to the Spirit Lake Finnish Socialist college to be built this summer on a site near the present main hall of the school, is being projected. The proposed addition will be three stories high and will be so arranged that additions may be made in the future. It will be of frame construction.

Anthony Puck, architect, is preparing plans for a 4-room schoolhouse to be erected at Mesaba this summer. The improvement will cost in the neighborhood of $20,000.

He is also taking figures on an addition to a hotel building at Crosby, owned by the Johnstown Land company. The addition will cost about $15,000.

The same architect is preparing plans for a new hotel to be built at Riverton, a Cuyuna range town, for the Johnstown Land company at a cost of $25,000.

A $25,000 machine shop will be constructed this summer at the new Berwind coal dock. The new shop will be built at Fiftieth avenue west and Redruth street just south of the Alger-Smith lumber mill. It will be 72 by 122 feet in size and will be equipped with its own lighting and heating plant, traveling crane and other modern features. The contract has been let to Barondt & Record and work will be started at once.

Holstead & Sullivan, architects, this week awarded the general contract for the Spina hotel to be built for Peter Spina at Ironton, Minn., to A. B. Rowley of Brainerd for $30,000. Figures are now being taken on the heating and plumbing contracts.

BUNGALOW FEVER ABROAD IN LAND

New Type of Home Is Gaining Popularity With Suburbanites.

It is almost impossible nowadays to open any magazine without finding some story exploiting bungalow life, says the Brooklyn Eagle. The daily newspapers seem filled to overflowing with advertisements, picturing the beauties and conveniences attendant upon bungalow living. The illustrated weeklies and monthlies contain plans, pictures and drawings of bungalows. In fact, there seems to be an epidemic of bungalow fever raging throughout the land. It is, however, not malignant; but rather beneficial to those who have it, and that it is catching is a self-evident fact, as is demonstrated by the great number of moving vans wending their way suburbanward loaded to the tailboard with all kinds of bungalow furniture.

The housewife has been among the first to appreciate the convenience and comforts offered by a bungalow life, inasmuch as there is no other class or style of architecture containing so much in such a compact and artistic setting as is found within the walls of a bungalow.

In the modern home the handsome and ornate parlor, with its gimcracks and ornaments, carved gilt chairs, upholstered in satins and velours, has been at its best only a display room where the hostess, standing on the threshold, points to its interior and has said: "This is our parlor," and the visitor has said: "My, isn't it pretty," and then is promptly ushered into the sitting room where a usable chair may be obtained and comfort is assured. The chief use of a parlor seems to be as an object of ostentatious display but poorly adapted for entertainment, requiring constant care in dusting and upkeep. The bungalow, however, has done away with all this; the wide, open, cheerful living room; with its massive fireplace, where comfortable chairs, furniture and other fixings are placed for use and comfort, forms the assembly place, not only for the family, but for the entertainment and comfort of the visitors. The living rooms of the family are on the first floor; the kitchen, compact, light and cheerful, is only a short distance from the living room, and thus the innumerable steps formerly necessary in the larger dwellings are saved. The bungalow is the direct solution of the servant problem, as the combination of utility, beauty, compactness and conservation of energy is all on the one floor.

Of Ceylon's 16,307,840 acres of land only about 2,870,000 are under cultivation.

OTHER CITIES TAKE NOTE OF DULUTH REALTY MARKET

Effect of Transfer of Gary, First Division, Already Evident.

Duluth Dealers Report Good Business During Past Week.

WEEKLY REALTY RESUME.

Wednesday	27	14,080.15

Friday	24	24,565.32
Saturday	34	17,383.75
Total	176	$91,803.34

New signs of life have been in the realty atmosphere since announcement was made last week of the big deal at Gary, whereby 700 lots in Gary, First division, were taken over by a Chicago and Minneapolis syndicate headed by A. W. Kuehnow of this city from Andrew C. Volk, a well known local operator.

Outside capital is showing a splendid interest in Duluth, according to inquiry which Mr. Kuehnow has received from out-of-town points since it became known that he and his associates had taken over the Volk interests in Gary, First division. The big turn which was made woke them up and made them open their eyes as to what is going on here.

In Minneapolis, St. Paul and Chicago real estate conditions in Duluth are being carefully watched and such deals as the one put through last week are considered as a good barometer of the times.

Mr. Kuehnow stated yesterday that he has applications for agencies from St. Paul, Minneapolis, Chicago and other points and that he expects to open up branch offices there and organize a big outside selling force in order to take care of the big deal which he has on his hands. The Home Realty company, a Clarke-Wertin subsidiary, has been given the agency for the city of Duluth. This company disposed of twelve lots at Gary during the week. Mr. Kuehnow himself sold thirteen. Watson S. Moore, another operator, disposed of twenty-nine lots during the past week through the Steel Plant Investment company.

The crying need of Gary at the present time is a hotel, according to the real estate men who are in touch with the situation there. The housing conditions are improving slowly with the completion of new houses. But the increase in population is keeping ahead of the house builders and as a result the demand is always greater than the supply. The trains between West Duluth and the steel plant are obliged to carry from eight to nine coaches daily to take care of the overflow.

GRANVILLE APARTMENTS WILL HAVE FEATURES NEW TO DULUTH PEOPLE

THE GRANVILLE APARTMENTS

In a number of particulars, the Granville apartment house which is now under construction at Fifth avenue east and Second street will be different from other apartment houses of the city. It will be strictly modern in all of its appointments and will have a number of features which will be new to the flat hunting public of Duluth.

The building is designed for thirty apartments, ranging from one to three rooms each. The majority, however, are three-room apartments each with a bath and kitchenette of its own. A fireplace and sideboard is to be installed in each living room, a disappearing bed in each sleeping chamber and a gas range, icebox and sink in each kitchenette. The average size of the living rooms will be 13 by 16. All of the apartments will be provided with one or more clothes closets.

Interior Telephone System.

The building is a three-story and basement structure. In the basement are quarters for the janitor, storeroom, laundry, drying room and two two-room living apartments. A freight elevator for moving furniture has been installed. Throughout the building has been equipped with an intercommunicating telephone system of its own and it is being wired to connect with both of the local telephone companies. Each apartment will be furnished with a dumb waiter.

The structure will have a simple Colonial front and will be finished throughout the interior in birch, stained in walnut. The heating plant will be located in a sub-basement. The Trane vapor system of heating will be used. Radiators, valved in quarter sections, will be used, giving the occupants of each apartment an opportunity to regulate the temperature of their rooms to suit themselves.

The building fronts seventy-seven feet on Second street and will run 104 feet deep on Fifth avenue east. The contract for the general construction work is being handled by Richard Hanson. D. R. Black & Co. are installing the ventilating systems and the electric wiring is being done by the Burgess Electric company.

The plans for the new apartment were drawn by Kelly & Williams, local architects. The cost of the structure will be about $65,000 complete. It will be ready for occupancy sometime this summer. The owner of the building is Harry E. Jones of New York city.

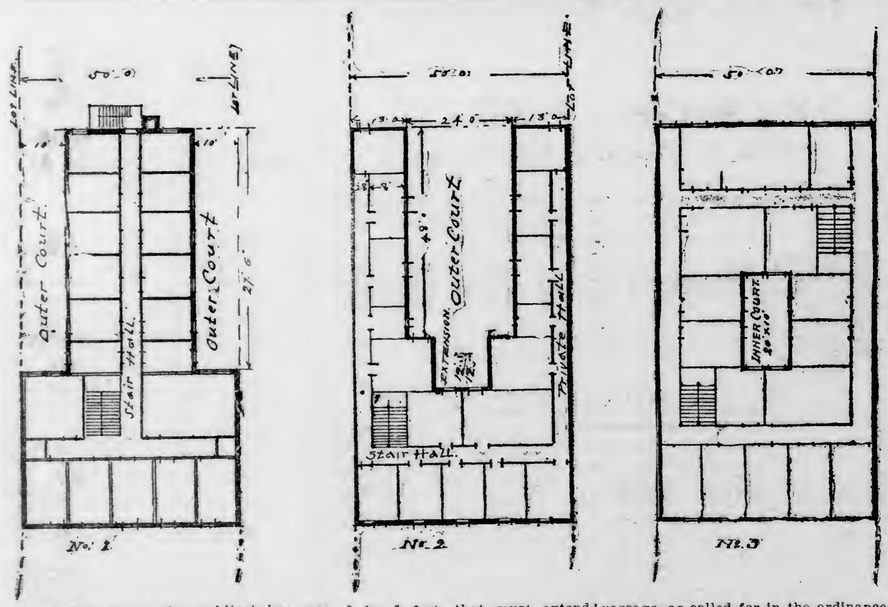
DULUTH ARCHITECT POINTS OUT DISCREPANCIES IN HOUSING ORDINANCE



Austin Terryberry, the architect, has prepared several floor plan sketches in which he shows the workings of the housing ordinance and the discrepancies contained in some parts thereof; one in particular of which comes in under the head of "Light and Ventilation."

Chapter 2, section 10, says "The minimum width of a court for a tenement house two stories in height shall be ten feet and such width shall increase two feet for each additional story. * * * The length of an inner court shall never be less than twice the minimum width above described, and the length of an outer court, other than one extending from the street to the yard, shall never be greater than twice its minimum width."

According to that clause, says Mr. Terryberry, an inner court need only be ten feet wide for a two-story building, but may be as much longer than that as may be desired, so long as it is made an inner court, but, should it be opened out at the one end it then becomes an outer court and must be widened accordingly, as shown on sketch plan No. 2, which court to the extension is 48 feet long, and therefore it must be 24 feet wide, according to the ordinance.

In the No. 3 plan there is a passageway, 2 by 5 feet, that must extend from the court to the exterior of the building or somewhere to the front or rear placed at the grade level, but should the court be extended and the whole end of the court made an opening, the width must be increased accordingly as above stated.

"It may have been an oversight on the part of the framers of the ordinance or copied from some other city ordinance and the matter overlooked at the time, otherwise we can find no valid reason for the divergence in the different plans as shown," says Mr. Terryberry. Should the buildings be run up another story or two, the width must be increased accordingly.

"These inner courts are always considered by owners and occupants as the most objectionable feature to a tenement building or any other kind of a building that may be used as a dwelling place, and are never planned by the architect only when absolutely necessary in order to economise in space, or when the building is placed close to the lot line and another building on the next lot is located similar; but we cannot see any reason why it is necessary to increase the width o fthe court if the whole end is left open, than it would be to have just a 2 by 5-foot opening at the bottom for an air passage, as called for in the ordinance.

"The inner court is more economical to build. For a small additional cost more rooms may be obtained just by enclosing two ends in the outer court.

"Take sketch plan No. 2, which is made on the basis of a two-story building, but should the building be made another story in height the width must be increased two feet. On a 50-foot lot, after taking out the thickness of the walls, hall space, and the width of the court, there would be space enough left to make a room seven feet wide on each side of the court. Plan No. 1 would work out to a little better advantage, as the space of a three-foot hall and the thickness of the partition would be saved and the extra space added to the other rooms. It makes no difference how long the outer court when placed along the lot line may be; it is only necessary to have the court ten feet wide for a two-story building and twelve feet for a three-story building, notwithstanding the adjoining lots may have buildings constructed close up to the the lot line.

"This section is one of the most objectionable features in the housing ordinance that we have yet run up against. There may be others when we get to them."

MAGAZINE SWALLOWS LIES

Publishes Account of "$30,000,000 Model Town" to Be Built "at Carnegie"---Duluth Mentioned But Casually.

Again those ingenious press agents of Carnegie, "the wonder city of Wisconsin," have broken into print—this time with a fairy tale about the Steel corporation building a $30,000,000 town there.

The story appears in a current issue of the American Contractor, one of the largest publications of the building trades in the country. Carnegie is again boomed as the steel plant center, the writer being condescending enough to make mention of Duluth once in his account of the big Minnesota industry.

Local real estate men and other interests resent the circulation of false impressions relative to where the Minnesota steel plant is located, and while there is no occasion to begrudge those few square miles of platted "business sites" on the Wisconsin side of the river what may be in store for the future, no real necessity is perceived for distorting the truth to sell real estate there.

The article referred to appeared under the caption of "Two New Steel Cities." It is reprinted verbatim as follows:

"One of the items of 'news' with which the financial centers were regaled this week was to the effect that the Steel corporation had perfected plans to create two towns at an expenditure of $40,000,000—one in Pennsylvania, to be named McDonald, the other in Upper Wisconsin, to be called Carnegie; the former to cost $10,000,000, the latter $30,000,000.

"It is rather tardy news, but the following concerning Carnegie may not be uninteresting:

"Carnegie is located on the Wisconsin side of the St. Louis river, where the Steel corporation's new bridge ends. Surrounding the new steel center are Ironton and Spirit Lake and other towns.

"The prospective expansion of the plant is unlimited, but present plans include the employment of several thousand skilled mechanics; it means the building of homes for the employes, schools for their children, stores to provide necessities, and the varied concerns that cater to human needs.

"The site of the new plant comprises 1,600 acres and cost more than a million dollars. There are now under construction seventeen buildings which will cost about $10,000,000. These seventeen structures, which make up the first unit of the plant, are:

"Two blast furnaces.

"Seven open hearth furnaces.

"One forty-inch blooming mill.

"One twenty-eight-inch and eighteen-inch combination finishing mill.

"One sixteen-inch continuous roughing mill in connection with twelve, ten and eight-inch finishing mill.

"One machine shop.

"One forge shop.

"One structural shop.

"One power house with gas-driven engines.

"One pumping station with four 10,000,000 gallon centrifugal motor-driven pumps.

"The first branches of the Steel corporation to locate there, it is said, will be the American Bridge company, the American Steel and Wire company, and the Universal Portland Cement company. Locomotives and car works will follow close behind, according to present expectations.

"One feature of the new development is the belt line, a road twenty-six miles long, encircling Duluth and Superior, and tapping every railroad that enters the district.

"It is reported that the Carnegie Steel company will start immediately on the construction of its proposed new plant at McDonald, north of the Ohio plant, where the company will build a new town. The slag plant for furnishing concrete for foundations has been completed, and the railroad built to the proposed site. The proposition will be one involving at least $10,000,000, and it is expected that the appropriation will be made shortly."

A GREAT OPPORTUNITY TO TAKE part in three big historical events. Read about it. Learn how you may be one of the men to go on the U. S. navy's big foreign cruise this winter; or to take part in the opening of the Panama canal; or to attend the great San Francisco Exposition.

All these opportunities are open to young men over 17, who are accepted by the navy before July 1st. Investigate at once.

In the late fall the Atlantic squadron will cross the ocean on an extended visit among the world's most interesting seaports. The greatest possible amount of shore leave will be given at every stop. Men will see great cities they've read about; strange people; curious sights; learn foreign languages and customs.

American naval vessels will be the first ships to pass through the new Panama canal when it is opened. Our fleet will be the center of the world's attention. Every civilized nation will be represented at this great occasion in history. If you are there, you'll remember it all your life.

Many navy ships will visit the San Francisco Exposition, giving plenty of time to see the famous city and the wonders gathered from all over the world to make a great world's fair.

All the time you're seeing these great sights, etc., you'll have steady employment at interesting work, with good wages. Not a cent of expense for travel, board or lodging. Even medical attendance, whenever required, is free. Thus your pay is practically all clear.

Pay averages $35 per month, starting at $17.60 for landsmen. You can work up to chief petty officer at $77, base pay; or after seven years, to warrant officer at $1,500 to $2,400 per year. After thirty years' service you can retire and live in comfort on your savings and a pension of three-quarters pay.

A man who shows special fitness may be taught one of the navy's fifty or more trades and special kinds of work, which mean better pay. Practically every known mechanical pursuit is taught on the battleships or in the navy trade schools. Large battleships carry no less than thirty electricians, for instance. Other occupations are machinist, plumber, shipfitter, coppersmith, blacksmith, boilermaker, painter, clerk, stenographer, bookkeeper, musician, steward, cook, baker, etc.

You eat splendid food; sleep in a good bed; churn with fine, congenial young men; have plenty of amusements and athletic sports, such as baseball, football and rowing matches between ships. You can save up money, and you have a career open to you.

Call at navy recruiting station, Postoffice building, Duluth, Minn., and learn the big experiences of men there. Know for yourself what a fine life it is. Act on this matter right away—today. If you can't call, write for interesting free navy booklet, "The Making of a Man-o' Warsman." Clear pictures. Simple language. Send today. Address:
BUREAU OF NAVIGATION, BOX 204, Navy Dept., Washington, D. C.

CITY REVIVES OLD CLAIM AGAINST UNCLE SAM FOR MORE THAN $200,000

FIRST FORMAL STEP TAKEN TOWARD CONSTRUCTION OF NEW BOULEVARD

FACTS WILL BE ASSEMBLED

Commissioner Voss Wants the City Reimbursed for Canal Work.

May Result in Securing Site for New City Hall.

Commissioner Fred J. Voss, commissioner of finance, this afternoon introduced a resolution at the meeting of the city commission for the appointment of a canal and dike commission to collect a claim, approximating $200,000, and interest against the Federal government for the construction of the ship canal and the dike subsequently built and later destroyed.

Commissioner Voss states that it may be impossible to collect the cash, but he hopes that the commission may be able to effect a trade whereby the city may come into possession of the property owned by the government on the east side of Fifth avenue west, now occupied by the Federal building.

Can the negotiations be carried through successfully the city would come into possession of property which would be available for the site of a

MAN FALLS ASLEEP; BUGGY TOP KILLS HIM

Horse Takes the Rig and Corpse Home During the Night.

Collinsville, Conn., May 26.—William Myers of this town met death in a peculiar manner during the night. While out driving in a covered carriage he evidently fell asleep, his head dropped between the ribs of the buggy top and he choked to death. The body was discovered in the carriage this morning under the wagon shed at the Myers home, to which the horse had returned.

KANSAS CITY BLOCK DESTROYED BY FIRE

Removal of Polar Bears From Scene Endangers Spectators.

Kansas City, Mo., May 26.—Fire that started early this morning from an explosion destroyed the three-story building at 1121 and 1123 Grand avenue in which were the O'Dowd Furniture company and a moving picture theater on the ground floor, and a poolhall and dancing academy on the upper floors. The loss is placed at $100,000, of which $25,000 was to the building, belonging to the W. C. Miller estate. The O'Dowd concern is the largest loser.

The fire was spectacular and was stubbornly fought by four fire companies. Only by hard work was the blaze kept from spreading to the surrounding structures, which for some time seemed doomed. The flames leaped high in the air, illuminating much of the downtown district.

A dozen polar bears, performers at a theater across the alley from the burning building, gave their keepers much trouble and were removed with difficulty and apparently great danger to hundreds of people attracted to the fire.

CYPRUS IS CEDED TO ENGLAND BY TURKEY

Carries Out Clause of the Anglo-Turkish Entente.

London, May 26.—Turkey has definitely ceded the island of Cyprus to Great Britain, according to the Constantinople correspondent of the Express, who claims to have received a formal statement to that effect from the best informed source. The cession of the island is said to have been due to clauses in the Anglo-Turkish entente.

SEEK TO STAMP OUT ANTI-MILITARY MOVE

French Government Raids Offices of Federation of Labor.

Paris, May 26.—Energetic action was taken by the French government against the anti-military campaign in France today. More than eighty offices of the General Federation of Labor Exchanges in Paris and provincial cities were occupied by the police.

All the documents found in the bureaus were seized by order of the government, which intends to prosecute on charges of sedition the organizers of recent demonstrations by the soldiers against the newly introduced three year term in the Federal army.

The arrangements of the police were carefully made and the seizures were carried out simultaneously everywhere.

It is asserted that much incriminating material was found.

WILSON TELLS PUBLIC ABOUT POWERFUL LOBBY ON TARIFF

Declares It Most Extraordinary Gathering Ever Seen at Capitol.

"Systematic Misrepresentation of Facts" Being Practiced.

Washington, May 26.—President Wilson told correspondents today that he believed the most extraordinary lobby ever gathered by special interests to overcome legislation was now mustered at the capitol against the tariff bill.

The president said he had no doubt that a few so-called lobbyists were there on legitimate errands, but that the great majority were occupied in a systematic misrepresentation of facts.

While the president believes that the "lobby" opposition is concentrated against free sugar and free wool, he is not apprehensive that it will be successful.

The president made it clear that he believed scientific business methods and efficiency would overcome tariff cuts, and that with the application of scientific methods Louisiana would not only be able to continue in the sugar industry, but do so profitably.

"Public Ought to Know."

The president later issued the following statement:

"I think that the public ought to know the extraordinary exertions being made by the lobby in Washington to gain recognition for certain alterations of the tariff bill. Washington has seldom seen so numerous, so industrious or so insidious a lobby. The newspapers are being filled with paid advertisements calculated to mislead the judgment of public men, not only, but also the public opinion of the country itself.

"There is every evidence that money without limit is being spent to sustain this lobby and to create an appearance of a pressure of public opinion antagonistic to some of the chief items of the tariff bill.

"It is of serious interest to the country that the people at large should have to lobby and be voiceless in these matters, while great bodies of astute men seek to create an artificial opinion and to overcome the interests of the public for their private profit. It is thoroughly worth the while of the people of this country to take knowledge of this matter. Only public opinion can check and destroy it.

"The government, in all its branches, ought to be relieved from this intolerable burden and this constant interruption to the calm progress of debate. I know that in this I am speaking for the members of the two houses, who would rejoice as much as I would to be released from this undesirable situation."

DAYTON RAISES $2,000,000 FUND.

Dayton, Ohio, May 26. — After a week's campaign to raise $2,000,000 to make the city safe against future floods, the successful culmination of the work was greeted last night with wild demonstrations of rejoicing.

An engineer and a corps of assistants has been hired to arrange for future flood prevention. Active work will be begun at once.

FARMERS ARE TO PAY COSTS

Supreme Court Makes Ruling in Reclamation Project Suit.

Also Says Patentees Cannot Dictate Retail Prices of Goods.

Washington, May 26.—More than 10,000 farmers on reclamation projects of the West will be affected by the supreme court's decision today that they must pay to the government the cost of maintaining and operating the various reclamation projects pending their completion.

The decision was in the suit by D. P. Baker and other farmers on the Sunnyside unit of the Yakima, Wash., project to have the reclamation service enjoined from cutting off the water supply to enforce collection of such charges, imposed under instructions from the secretary of the interior in 1902.

Nearly $1,000,000 has already been collected by the government. Half a million more is about due.

Justice Lamar announced the court's unanimous decision, and declared that congress intended the settlers should pay the cost of maintenance and operation.

Lid Goes in Oklahoma.

Federal laws against the "introduction of liquor into Indian country" were today held by the supreme court to prohibit the introduction of liquor from neighboring states into Oklahoma counties occupied by Indians.

The decision was in the case of Bob Wright, indicted in the Federal court for introducing liquor into Muskogee county, Oklahoma. The indictment was upheld today, the lower court being reversed.

Cut Rates Despite Patents.

Patented articles sold under price restrictions by manufacturers may be resold by retailers at cut rates. The supreme court so held today in the case of a newly patented nerve tonic. Safety razors, talking machines and thousands of other patented articles are affected by the decision.

MEN WHO THREATENED WILSON SENTENCED

Dunn Gets Five Years in Prison and Davenport Two.

Newark, N. J., May 26.—Jacob Dunn and Seley Davenport, the Wharton, N. J., wood choppers who sent threatening letters to President Wilson before he assumed office, were sentenced to Trenton state prison today, Dunn for five years and Davenport for two.

Both men were found guilty on four counts, but in the case of Davenport the jury recommended mercy. The letters, mailed in May and November of last year, demanded first $1,000 and then $5,000, under penalty of death.

The mountaineers were convicted also of sending similar letters to Theodore F. Kinq, postmaster at Ledgewood, N. J., and to a manufacturer of Dover, N. J., now dead.

Former President Demands $10,000 From Michigan Editor.

Bacon, Newberry and Pinchot Among the Colonel's Witnesses.

Marquette, Mich., May 26.—The libel suit brought by Col. Theodore Roosevelt against George A. Newett, a publisher of the Ishpeming Iron Ore, began before Judge Richard C. Flannigan here this afternoon.

Col. Roosevelt, accompanied by a retinue of friends, witnesses and newspaper men, arrived here this morning.

The basis of the suit is an editorial assertion of Publisher Newett that Theodore Roosevelt "gets drunk," and that not infrequently, on one side, and the latter's declaration that the charge is untrue and libelous and the proper basis for punitive damages in the sum of $10,000 on the other.

Judge Richard C. Flannigan of Norway, Mich., will preside. Attorney Horace Andrews of Cleveland will share the responsibility of the defense with William B. Belden of Ishpeming.

Three straw hats enlivened the scene when Col. Roosevelt and his party stepped from the train. A touch of winter still lingers here, and the appearance of the straw hats brought a round of applause.

In Roosevelt Party.

Accompanying Col. Roosevelt were Robert Bacon, former assistant secretary of state; Truman Newberry, former secretary of the navy; Gifford Pinchot, James R. Garfield, Regis H. Post, former governor of Porto Rico, Dr. Alexander Lambert, Jacob A. Riis, Dr. Rixey, former surgeon general of the navy; Lawrence Abbott, W. Emlen Roosevelt and his son Philip; William Loeb, Jr., Gilson Gardner, L. A. Curtis, O. K. Davis, Frank Tyree, John Callan O'Loughlin and James Sloan.

All of these are to be witnesses. Sloan and Tyree, as secret service men, accompanied Col. Roosevelt on many of his campaign tours.

Set For 2 o'Clock.

The forenoon proceedings in court occupied less than a minute.

"Roosevelt vs. Newett," read the clerk of the court from the calendar.

"The plaintiff is ready," said Attorney W. S. Hill.

"The defense is ready," supplemented Attorney W. P. Belden.

Judge Flannigan then announced that the case would begin at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Meanwhile Col. Roosevelt, James R. Garfield, O. K. Davis, Attorney Pound and others of the plaintiff's party were in conference at the home of George Shiras, whose guest Col. Roosevelt is.

SHIPPING PARALYZED BY TURKISH MINES

Disasters Near Smyrna Have Caused Caution Among Owners.

Smyrna, May 26.—Shipping is completely paralyzed in these waters on account of the recent accidents due to mines. The companies have warned incoming steamers to remain away, and outward bound vessels are afraid to leave port.

Forty Lives Lost

London, May 26.—Relatives here of Miss Juliet B. Higginson of Boston fear that she may have been one of the passengers on board the steamer Nevada, which sank on Saturday after striking three mines in the gulf of Smyrna and carried forty persons down with her.

Miss Juliet Higginson had been visiting Smyrna and was about due to leave that city. Inquiries are being made by cable as to her whereabouts. The American consul at Smyrna went today to the scene of the wreck to organize relief.

Miss Higginson Safe.

Boston, Mass., May 26.—Francis L. Higginson, J., received a cable dispatch from his sister, Miss Julia B. Higginson, today, stating that she was safe in Smyrna.

LAUNDRY MEN FAVOR PURE CLOTH LAW

National Association Will Work for the Linquist Bill.

Washington, May 26.—Representative Linquist has enlisted the National Laundrymen's association in a campaign for his bill for pure cloth fabrics and leather. Sixty-three hundred women's clubs have promised to cooperate, and now every laundry man in the association has agreed to inclose in all delivered packages a booklet asking the recipient to write his congressman to support the bill.

Mr. Lundquist's bill would require all fabrics and leather to be marked with a label showing the material of which they are manufactured. It is designed to show adulterations.

LAND WILL BE CONDEMNED

Commission Preparing Way to Accept Chester A. Congdon's Gift.

Much of the Needed Property Has Already Been Secured.

The ordinance providing for the condemnation of the roadway for the $1,000,000 boulevard between Duluth and Two Harbors is scheduled for introduction at the meeting of the city commission this afternoon.

The improvement will be the gift of Chester A. Congdon, one of Duluth's foremost public-spirited citizens and benefactors.

As announced in The Herald recently, the magnificent driveway will extend from the beginning of London road between Eighth and Ninth avenues east, incorporating London road and extending along the rock-ribbed, scenic shores of Lake Superior to Two Harbors, passing through the most attractive parts of St. Louis and Lake counties.

The profile of the roadway has been practically completed by the city engineering department under the direction of City Engineer John Wilson and will become a matter of public record shortly. It will not be placed on file, however, at the meeting of the commission this afternoon. The ordinance

JEWELER'S WINDOW ROBBED IN DAYLIGHT

Thief Tears Off Iron Screen, Smashes Glass and Takes Diamonds.

Chicago, May 26.—Tearing off an iron screen protecting a show window in the jewelry store of Lebolt & Co., 101 South State street, a thief today shattered the pane and escaped with a number of diamond rings valued at $5,000.

Later the police arrested D. L. Gordon, 40 years old. He could not explain cuts on his right hand, but denied knowledge of the theft.

NO GENERAL BREAK IN SILK MILL STRIKE

Thirty-Two Arrests Made During One Riot in Paterson.

Paterson, N. J., May 26.—There was no general break in the ranks of the striking silk mill workers today, as had been predicted. At some of the mills hands slipped back in small groups, but the wholesale return which manufacturers had said would come did not materialize.

At one mill there was a clash between pickets and a squad of employes who sought to get inside. Thirty-two arrests were made. Among the prisoners were fifteen women. Eight of them denied that they were pickets and asserted that they were school girls loitering to see a scrimmage.

HEAR MORE ABOUT PLOT

Further Testimony Is Taken in Trial of W. M. Wood.

Treasurer of Woolen Company Recalled to the Stand.

Boston, Mass., May 26.—Further evidence intended to show the connection of President William M. Wood of the American Woolen company with the alleged conspiracy to "plant" dynamite in Lawrence to discredit textile strikers during the industrial troubles of 1912, was introduced by the prosecution at today's session of the trial of Mr. Wood, Frederick E. Atteaux and Dennis J. Collins.

Checks and vouchers showing payments to Mr. Atteaux by the American Woolen company with Mr. Wood's approval have been presented and District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier endeavored to establish a relation between these payments and the alleged conspiracy.

The three defendants are charged with having conspired with John J. Breen and Ernest W. Pitman to place the dynamite. Collins and Breen have admitted their participation, Breen declaring that Atteaux paid for the work and that Pitman, who committed suicide at the beginning of the grand jury hearing furnished the explosive.

Corroboration of Breen's story of Pitman's part in the affair was furnished by William H. Rice, a quarryman, but Breen's charges against Atteaux remained unsupported when the session opened today.

William H. Dwelley, treasurer and director of the American Woolen company, who was the principal witness at Friday's session, was questioned further by the district attorney today.

ATTACKS THE INCOME TAX

Life Insurnace Official Appears Before Senate Committee.

Kingsley Has Tilt With Williams Over Campaign Funds.

Washington, May 26. — Darwin P. Kingsley, president of the New York Life Insurance company, appealed today to the senate sub-committee handing the income tax section of the tariff bill to exempt all insurance written for protection and mutual benefit and not for profits.

He had a spirited exchange with Senator Williams over campaign contributions disclosed in the Hughes investigation several years ago.

"When your company paid $20,000 to a campaign fund," asked Senator Williams, "none of that money ever was participated in by the policy holders, was it?"

"No. It was not," said Kingsley.

"Then that proved that your company's assertion that policy holders participated in all the earnings of the company was false, didn't it?"

"Proved Bad Judgment."

"It proved," Mr. Kingsley returned, "that the judgment of this company's officers who paid this campaign contribution, thinking it was necessary to protect the assets of the company, was bad."

"It proved more than that," asserted Senator Williams. "It was absolutely dishonest. I was a policy holder and a Democrat, and you took part of my money and gave it away to protect me against my own party. But has all that sort of thing been done away with in the insurance business?"

"Absolutely," replied President Kingsley. He explained laws which prohibit it.

Statement of Business.

President Kingsley submitted a detailed statement of his company's business and resources, to show that it conducted business actually on a mutual basis. The total assets of the company last year were $715,000,000, and he declared not a dollar was kept back from the fund in which policy holders participated.

BAPTISTS TO ELECT

Ready to Choose Officers at Convention in Detroit.

Extent of Non-Christian Population Told By the Speakers.

Detroit, May 26.—The principal business before today's session of the Northern Baptist convention, which has been in session in Detroit since last Wednesday, was the election of officers of the convention and co-operating organizations, the report of the Laymen's Missionary movement and the report of the general apportionment committee.

"The Gospel in the Industrial World" was the general topic for discussion at the session devoted to the American Baptist Home Mission society, at which addresses were to be delivered by widely known mission workers.

The convention is scheduled to continue through Wednesday.

Christians Outnumbered.

"A study of twelve large American cities show that in but one of the number do the communicants of Christian bodies—Protestant and Catholic combined—equal the non-Christian population."

This statement was made by Latham A. Crandall of Minneapolis in the annual sermon to the convention Sunday.

"The efficiency of the church as conditioned upon experiences of God," was Dr. Crandall's theme. He dwelt for some time on his declaration that the non-Christian population of the United States has attained almost unbelievable proportions.

"Dr. John Clifford, an incurable optimist, is reported as saying in his annual report of Christian work for 1912, 'the outlook is dark and threatening for organized Christianity,'" said Dr. Crandall. "According to the most reliable data obtainable, only 2 per cent of the rural population of Minnesota is found in the membership of Protestant bodies, exclusive of the Lutherans, and only 15 per cent of the population is identified with the churches of all Christian faiths.

"These facts do not appall him who believes in the Eternal and His purposes, but he is stimulated to renewed exertion. Only spiritual power can effect the spiritual renewal."

City Missions Discussed.

In an address on city missions at the afternoon session of the convention, Dr. Charles Matthews, dean of the University of Chicago, declared the problem of the city is not to be solved by any one denomination, but that the only method that could succeed was a great co-operative protestantism.

"City missions by city churches," said Dr. Matthews, "can be explained only by the fact that there is no romance connected with city missions, and by the psychological truth that it is easier to send armies to the Orient to capture a holy sepulchre than it is to free our own serfs.

"One can get plenty of money for evangelizing China, but the evangelization of our own cities is the question to which our churches are sublimely indifferent.

Cities and Paganism.

"Romance afar and lack of it here, is the one logical explanation. Romance has ever been the great urge for the warrior. There is a promise of adventure in the spice lands of the far East, but little in the garlic-smelling slums close by.

"Civilization means citification, and if we don't beware citification will mean paganization in America. We are getting too close to our problems to see them as they are. We have lost our perspective."

Edwin P. Barnham of Brooklyn and Charles Hatch Sears of New York also spoke on city mission work.

WILSON IN FAVOR OF U. S. ROAD IN ALASKA

President Has Interview on Subject With Two Senators.

Washington, May 26.—President Wilson told Senators Chamberlain and Jones today that he felt kindly toward the proposal for government construction of railroads in Alaska.

The two senators sought the president's views on getting Alaskan legislation during the present session. Mr. Wilson intimated that if the Alaskan question could be disposed of without interfering with the tariff and currency bills, he would lend his support to an Alaska bill within the near future.

LAUNDRY MEN MAY COME TO DULUTH.

Charles E. Armstead, Charles Lutes and Ernest Branton of Duluth left yesterday for St. Paul to attend the annual meeting of the Northwestern Launderers' association, which opened this morning.

The Duluth men were confident that they would be able to secure the 1914 convention of the association for Duluth, although Minneapolis will also make a bid for it. The Northwestern association covers Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wisconsin and Iowa, and includes in its membership all the prominent launderers of those states.

SLOT MACHINES IN 125 B. C.

Hero of Alexandria (about 125 B. C.) was an ingenious inventor of mechanical toys, says Henry E. Dudeney in the Strand. In his works, "Pneumatics" and "Automata," he describes some 100 small machines that he probably never carried beyond the "model" stage. These included a steam engine which is said to be of the form now known as Avery's patent, and a double forcing pump to be used as a fire engine. Hero was also the inventor of the automatic delivery, or penny-in-the-slot, machine. He describes "a sacrificial vessel which flows only when money is introduced." When the coin is dropped through the slit it falls on one end of a balanced horizontal lever, which, being depressed, opens a valve suspended from a chain at the other end, and the water begins to flow. When the lever has been depressed to a certain angle the coin falls off, and the valve being weighted returns to its seat and cuts off the supply. The mechanism is practically identical with the present system, and the ancient invention is, if anything, more ingeniously simple than the modern.

WILL LICENSE ALL THE HOTELS

Ordinance Being Prepared to Drive Out Undesirable Places.

City Attorney Harvey S. Clapp is preparing an ordinance to license all the hotels in the city. The purpose of the ordinance is to bring the hotels under the control of the city in order that a strong hold may be had on the assignation houses and other undesirable resorts.

The places which come under the classification of boarding houses do not come within the ordinance, as there is no intention of working any hardship upon those who legitimately keep roomers and boarders. The fee for the permit will be nominal. Commissioner Hicken, head of the division of public safety, will introduce the measure. He says that it is a revenue proposition but intended to afford machinery whereby the disorderly places may be eliminated successfully.

At least six concerts will be given this summer in conjuction with the entertainments of the Lark-o'the-lakers. The number will be increased if the city finances can afford it.

VALUATION IS COMPLETE

Assessment of Personal Property Will Show Big increase.

The Total Will Be Between $14,000,000 and $15,000,000.

The field deputies of City Assessor J. Allyn Scott have completed their work of taking the personal property assessment, establishing a record by turning in their last reports a week before the end of May.

Approximately 12,000 individual reports have been made to the city assessor. The deputies left a large number of blanks to be filled in and returned to the office. The assessor stated this morning that he expects to have them in by Wednesday and that if they are not in his hands by that time he will be obliged to take steps to get them. He said that he prefers not to be obliged to make an arbitrary assessment against anyone, but will be compelled, under the law, to do so by those who do not comply.

Although it is yet impossible to get any definite figures, the reports which have been checked show that the assessment this year will show a substantial increase, running from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000. The total last year was about $12,000,000 and this year it will run from $14,000,000 to $15,000,000.

Considerable increases will be shown in the number and value of automobiles. Lumber totals will be $150,000 to $200,000 higher, as will the returns from the banks. There will be little change in retail and wholesale merchandise.

Moneys and credits will show a big increase. Last year they amounted to approximately $11,500,000. The rate on moneys and credits is $3 per $1,000, and as the people are becoming more familiar with the law, the size of the amounts they turn in for taxation grows larger.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 26.—The bodies of Miss Frances Harriett Newell and Mrs. Mary Ferris Gates, two of the victims of the Long Beach pier disaster were sent to their former homes today, the former to Kenosha, Wis., and that of the later to Oak Park, Ill. The women were close friends and had purchased tickets for a trip around the world.

C. White Mortimer, British vice consul here, will be represented at the coroner's inquest, which will begin Thursday.

Prospective damage suits aggregating probably $1,000,000 or more and a grand jury investigation have engaged the attention of city officials as the most imminent outcome of the disaster Saturday when thirty-nine persons lost their lives in the collapse of a portion of the municipal pier just after the close of the British "Empire day" pageant.

Mrs. E. C. Bush, 70 years old, of Long Beach, succumbed to her injuries Sunday afternoon and Miss Ethel Wyvel, 16 years old, died at her home near Los Angeles Sunday evening. Her mother was among those instantly killed.

MRS. M. P. McDONALD, Compton, Cal.

Only One Man Killed.

Eales was the only man killed and his body remained unidentified until late today, as well as that of his wife. The list is expected to be further increased by the death of Miss Marguerite Reed, aged 14, of Long Beach, whose back was broken, and of William Cooper of Pasadena, one of the two veterans of the Crimean war who were in the van of the parade.

The weakness of the pier, which was built eight years ago and never repaired in that particular portion, is believed to have been due to decay caused by the action of salt air on wood and its iron fasteners and supports.

DIFFER ON SAME FACTS

Two Juries Bring in Verdicts Contradictory to Each Other.

Criminal Case Conviction May Bring New Trial in Civil Case.

The conviction of Matt Engel for the assault of Delaus Rensaa at the North Star lodging house on Sept. 3, last, by a jury in district court last week, may mean a new trial in the damage suit which was brought against Gust Eggdahl by Mrs. Inga Rensaa, husband of the man who was assaulted and kicked blind, in whose favor a verdict was returned in district court on March 17 for $7,488.

The conviction of Engel will probably be set set up by Egdahl, as grounds for a new trial in the civil action. This is in view of the fact that the juries in the criminal and civil cases reached different conclusions from the same set of facts. The jury in the civil case found that the assault was committed in the rear of the saloon or about twenty-five feet from the place in the lodging house where the criminal jury found that Engel had assaulted Rensaa.

The defense in the civil action which was set up by Edgahl was that Engel had committed the assault and not a man from the saloon.

Arsenate of Lead for Apple Trees.

Arsenate of lead has largely taken the place of Paris Green as a spray for apple trees and potatoes for two reasons. First, it is far less apt to injure fruit buds and foliage by burning; second, it adheres to the foliage and is not washed off by the first rain.

Arsenate of lead comes in paste form in cans of one pound or more. In mixing for a spray use a generous teaspoon of the paste to each gallon of water and stir thoroughly and often. It is used on apple trees to destroy the coddling moth—the cause of wormy apples—and any leaf eating insect. Apple trees should be sprayed just before the blossoms open and again a day or two after they fall. Use a 50-cent potato sprayer, but get your sprayer above the blossoms if possible so that the poison will strike the blossom end where the coddling moth lodges and enters the apple. In using for potatoes, apply as you would Paris Green just as soon as the first bugs appear. This poison does not affect aphis or other sucking insects—it is effective only for those which eat or chew the foliage.

If you have not already used a lime-sulphur spray for apple fungi and scales you can add the arsenate of lead to the lime-sulphur and apply the two together. For information in regard to lime sulphur spray consult my bulletin of last week.

Strawberry Beds.

If your strawberry bed is infested with dandelions, white clover or other troublesome weeds, they should be removed very carefully before the fruit buds advance any further. Unless the roots of the strawberry plant are violently disturbed, the removal of the weeds will not only get rid of the pests and permit the plants a better chance for growth, but it will afford the added benefit of cultivation. This work cannot be successfully done after the berries begin to form for two reasons. First, the weeds will be much more firmly rooted; second, the strawberry plant is much more sensitive to shock after the berries begin to form.

Dandelions and other weeds having a tap root are very easily removed just after a soaking rain. Carefully insert a forked trowel or a spading-fork, pry gently and then pull out by hand. All weeds removed should be gathered up and carried from the garden immediately.

If our cool weather and frosty nights continue better delay the planting of such seeds as corn, cucumbers, squash, etc. You will gain time by waiting for settled warm weather. Tomato plants should never be set in the open in the neighborhood of Duluth until after the first of June. They are extremely sensitive to frost and even where protected they become stunted by standing in ground that is wet and cold.

Do not forget that all early vegetables above ground should be thoroughly cultivated and kept free from weeds.

Pansies and asters may be safely planted in the open ground now, and nasturtium seed may be planted. Do not try geraniums just yet—it will probably be safe for them in a week or ten days.

OPPOSITION TO GOVERNOR

Plan for Extra Session and Utilities Will Be Vigorously Fought.

Home Rule Sentiment Shown at Stirrup Club Conference and Banquet.

Members of the Stirrup club of Duluth and those who attended the conference and banquet held on call of the club at the Spalding Saturday do not want an extra session of the legislature for the enactment of a law providing for state control of public utilities.

If the extra session is called by Governor Eberhart, the Stirrup club and the club's guests of Saturday hope that no law will be passed which will deprive the local communities of the power of regulating their own utilities.

A committee consisting of R. M. Funck of Duluth, chairman; R. J. McGhee of Virginia, Harvey S. Clapp, A. G. McKnight and C. R. Magney of Duluth will endeavor to obtain from city and village councils and civic organizations resolutions protesting against Governor Eberhart's program.

That was the net result of the conference and banquet held in the Duluth Saturday. The speeches, the resolutions and the very atmosphere of the conference left no doubt as to where the participants stood an state control of public utilities. The law proposed by the governor was declared to be a reactionary measure clothed in progressive garb. The governor was charged with bad faith in the veto of the Nolan and Minette bills. The public service corporations of the state were declared to be behind the movement for state control.

Prominent Visitors.

About forty people attended the conference in the afternoon and about 175 sat at the banquet in the evening. The out-of-town visitors were scarcer than the Stirrup club had hoped they would be, but there were some prominent figures in progressive politics in the number. Hugh T. Halbert of St. Paul, William E. Lee of Long Prairie, James A. Peterson, W. O. Clure, Stiles P. Jones, Clarence Anderson, Maurice McDonald and E. G. Hall of Minneapolis; Mayor M. A. Murphy of Virginia, Mayor B. W. Kelly of Aitkin, Mayor Barr of Wells and several other mayors of small towns attended.

The real business of the gathering was done in the afternoon. The conference was called to order by I. K. Lewis and T. T. Hudson presided. In his opening talk, Mr. Hudson declared that there are no skeptics in Duluth now on municipal ownership. He told of what the water and light department of the city has done in the reduction of rates and improvement of service. Mr. Hudson charged that the public corporations were anxious to get state control because they were afraid of stricter regulation by the cities.

"Is there any such exigency existing in this state that a special session of the legislature is necessary?" asked Mr. Hudson.

"I believe the real reason for haste is that in two years the initiative and referendum will be adopted and no state public utilities commission can be created then," said A. G. McKnight. "The vetoes of the Nolan bill and Minette bill were thrown in through fear that those bills would allay the demand for the correction of the only evils in the present system, and the program of the corporations could not then go through."

"The public service corporations want a state commission to control the utilities of St. Paul and Minneapolis. They don't care a tinker's damn about the rest of the state," declared Stiles P. Jones of Minneapolis.

Appeal to the Country.

James A. Peterson made an appeal to the country legislators. He said the city people are on to the public service corporations, while the attention of the country is directed principally toward the railroads.

"The great corrupting power in politics in Minnesota has always been the public service corporations of the cities," he said.

Mr. Peterson said the capitalization of the public service corporations in the three large cities amounts to about $100,000,000 and that 70 per cent of it is water.

"The franchise of the street railway company in Minneapolis expires in ten years," he said. "The company knows that with control in the city the water will be squeezed out of its stock by the city council granting a new franchise. So they must look to the state, and a special session is necessary because in two years they may not have a Governor Eberhart to sign the bill."

The public service corporations are the Tammany of Minnesota, said Mr. Peterson. He urged that the people of the cities set out to educate the country on the "deal" that is being put through.

"If we do our duty, there will never be a special session called," he said. "They don't dare to call a special session, because they know that we can and will put the people on."

William E. Lee remarked in passing that the cities haven't shown any overpowering desire to help out the country with any of its problems, but he said he would be willing to let that pass for the present.

"The country ought to address itself to the truth in any issue affecting the cities, and the cities ought to do the same by the country," he said.

Mr. Lee said that the first step should be toward preventing an extra session of the legislature.

"If we make the proper kind of a campaign, the governor dare not call the special session," he said.

Mr. Lee suggested that resolutions be obtained from city and village councils protesting against the special session. He expressed the belief that even though the session was called, the bill wanted by the governor would not pass. He said there may be a need for a bureau of information or a state statistician or some such office to advise the cities and villages, but that no state board should have absolute power.

Mayor Barr of Wells and Mayor Kelley of Aitkin both declared that they would welcome a state board acting in an advisory capacity.

The committee of which Mr. Funck is chairman was named with instructions to act in co-operation with a state-wide committee recently appointed at a meeting in Minneapolis. A committee on resolutions, consisting of Stiles P. Jones of Minneapolis, William E. Lee of Long Prairie, B. W. Kelly of Aitkin, Richard Jones of Duluth and M. A. Murphy of Virginia was named to report at the banquet in the evening.

"Woodchuck" Says Halbert.

Hugh T. Halbert of St. Paul was the principal speaker at the banquet. Mr. Halbert made an eloquent talk. He based his plea for support from the country for the cities' fight against state control of public utilities on Solon's answer to the man who asked how evils might be corrected "by those who are not injured feeling the same indignation as those who are."

Mr. Halbert talked on the power of the political boss and his effect on boards and commissions under party rule. He said the cities of St. Paul and Duluth have already reached the non-partisan goal, and now the public service corporations want to get under party rule again through a state commission.

"The greatest political travesty ever perpetrated on the state of Minnesota is the invoking of such names as those of President Wilson and Robert M. La Follette by Governor Eberhart," said the speaker. "He went to Washington to see them and he failed to see either."

Mr. Halbert said that the state utilities commission in Wisconsin was created because the cities were corrupt. The same condition does not exist in Minnesota, he said.

Mr. Halbert produced a copy of the bill for a state commission at the recent session and read what he termed to be a "woodchuck," the provision for indeterminate permits issued by the commission.

Mr. Peterson and Mr. Lee enlarged on their talks of the afternoon and Mayor M. A. Murphy of Virgina also spoke.

In opening the banquet, I. K. Lewis took the opportunity of explaining the motives of the Stirrup club. He said the club dealt in personalities with the kindest of motives and only because it felt that the aspirant for office became a public figure and the public was entitled to have all available information on him. Harvey S. Clapp was toastmaster.

Letters were read at the banquet from Thomas Fraser of Rochester, Representative L. C. Spooner of Morris, F. J. McPartlin of International Falls, C. Grimsrud of Minneapolis, Prof. Frank M. Anderson of the University of Minnesota and R. C. Dunn of Princeton.

Resolutions Adopted.

The resolutions adopted follow:

Whereas, The governor is considering the calling of a special session of the legislature for the purpose of passing a statewide public utility commission law,

Be it therefore Resolved, That we oppose the calling of a special session on the ground (1) that there is no public demand for the calling of such session; (2) that there is no public necessity involved.

Be it also Resolved, That we are emphatically opposed to any form of public service company regulation that would take from a community the right to regulate its own public utilities.

We oppose such a law especially at this time when the communities of the state are becoming so well equipped, through improved charters and direct legislation, to handle effectively their public utility problems.

We commend the principle of the Nolan and Minette bills vetoed by the governor, the first as giving a local community the right to regulate its own utilities, the second as giving to the state the power to regulate statewide utilities, and we urge the repassage of these bills at the next session of the legislature.

Offered by the resolutions committee,

STILWELL CONVICTED ON BRIBERY CHARGE

Senator Exonerated By New York Senate Is Found Guilty.

New York, May 26.—State Senator S. J. Stilwell was found guilty of bribery by a jury which had been out two hours and twenty minutes. Stilwell previously had been cleared by the state senate, before which the same charges were laid by George R. Kendall, president of the New York Bank Note company. Kendall claimed that Stilwell made demands for money to secure the passage of bills making it an offense for the New York Stock Exchange to refuse to recognize stocks printed by Kendall's company. The criminal action against the senator aroused wide interest.

The crime for which Stilwell stands convicted is soliciting money for his promised influence in reporting out of the senate and assembly a bill aimed to set aside a regulation of the New York stock exchange against listing securities not printed by designated bank note companies.

MAKE GALA DAY OF DOUBLE EXECUTION

Mexicans at Juarez See Two Soldiers Shot to Death.

El Paso, Tex., May 26.—At daybreak in Ciudad Juarez Sunday morning, two men faced their death at a public execution. The affair proved to be the chief Sunday attraction for residents of the Mexican border town.

The bells were announcing early mass from the tower of the old Spanish mission of Guadeloupe, but the townspeople, men, women and children, flocked to a barren spot back of the Federal barracks, where it was announced the execution would occur. A military band played a funeral march as the two firing squads took their places.

Backed against a wall stood Antonio Rodriguez and Iniccio Hernandez, privates of the Fourteenth battalion. They were charged with plotting to instill sedition to assist the constitutionalist revolution among the ranks of the Federal garrison. They had been convicted by a courtmartial.

Before the ten executioners leveled their rifles, Rodriguez accepted a handkerchief over his eyes, and cringed at the command "fire." An officer's pistol was necessary to end his life. Hernandez, however, refused the execution mask and stoically met his death. Both were young men, but long in the military service.

STEFANSSON ON WAY TO ARCTIC.

New York, May 26.—Vilhjalmar Stefansson, commander of the Canadian Arctic expedition which will seek the "unknown continent" that scientists believe exists in the Arctic, left this city last night for Ottawa, Ont., the first stage of the journey to Victoria, where he will join the expedition. He expects to return in three years. After three days in Ottawa, where he will complete final arrangements, Mr. Stefansson will go to Winnipeg and thence to Wynard, Sask., to visit his mother, whom he has not seen for five years. He will then journey to the coast, arriving in Victoria about June 4.

CURES GUINEA PIGS.

Micrococcus Is Fatal to Tubercule Bacillus.

Paris, May 26—The eminent physiologist, Prof. Raphael Dubois of the University of Lyons, has concluded a series of experiments demonstrating that the micrococcus, which causes the formation of pearls in oysters, is fatal to the tubercule bacillus.

Twelve guinea pigs were infected with tuberculosis and then innoculated with a culture of the micrococcus. Ten days later all had recovered except one.

Prof. Dubois does not wish either to draw conclusions or to make predictions as a result of his experiments, which he is continuing, but hopes that the discovery may aid in the extermination of tuberculosis.

LEADS IN FATALITIES.

United States Official Aviation Record Looks Bad.

Washington, May 26. — The United States has a larger percentage of accidental deaths among government aviators than any other nation save Italy, according to statistics filed with the chief signal officer of the army. In percentage of employes engaged it takes third place among the powers, while France is fourth. It is pointed out, however, that an examination of the records of the United States in comparison with those of England, the only other nation from which exact data are available, shows that American aviators average nearly twice the number of machines in the air and miles covered per aviator.

Has Narrow Escape.

Mineola, N. Y., May 26. — George Hamilton, aged 36 years, of Reno, Nev., had one of the most remarkable escapes from death in an aeroplane accident Sunday ever seen on an aviation field here. Hamilton was trying out a new type of monoplane, the framework of which is built of iron tubing. When about 100 feet in the air, the monoplane turned turtle without an instant's warning and crashed to the ground. Hamilton, who was pinned under the debris, was picked up in a dazed condition and taken to the Nassau hospital where it was found he had a bad scalp wound, a deep cut on the chin and chest and numerous contusions. He will probably recover.

DANIELS PRAISES BRYAN'S ACTION.

Washington, May 26.—Praise of Secretary Bryan for "the courage of his convictions" in refusing to serve wine at a dinner he gave recently to the diplomatic corps, was given by Secretary Daniels in addressing a Sunday school rally for prohibition in the District of Columbia yesterday. He advised all young men to follow Secretary Bryan's course and seek safety in total abstention. Secretary Daniels lauded Theodore Roosevelt for prosecuting for libel an editor accused of circulating stories relative to drinking on the part of the former president.

COUPLE REMARRY; BOTH CHANGE NAME.

San Diego, Cal., May 26.—Mr. and Mrs. Douglas E. Davis of Point Loma, Cal., were married here Sunday for the second time, and left for New York to sail for Maidenhead, Eng. During the ceremony, at which their infant child was present, the couple changed their names to Mr. and Mrs. James Douglas Bishop, and thereby qualified for two English estates.

Mr. Bishop is a son of the late James Bishop of Maidenhead, who was the owner of large amounts of property. Because of family difficulties, the son left home eleven years ago, assuming the name of Davis. He came to San Diego in 1910 and married Miss Mary Keith, a society girl.

A year ago a relative left him $100,000. He was traced to Southern California, and on a train one day Bishop saw behind him the chief of police of San Diego and heard him say that the San Diego police had received instructions to search for the missing Englishman. Bishop, however, did not disclose his identity.

Last year a child was born to the couple, and when Bishop heard a few weeks ago of the death of his father, he decided that for his baby's sake he would claim his parents' estate and name.

VETERANS AT SERVICE

Rev. C. N. Thorp Speaks on Genius of Grant at Pilgrim Church.

Edifice Crowded With Veterans and Members of Military Organizations.

Veterans of the Civil war and the Spanish-American war and members of the military organizations of the city attended memorial services yesterday at Pilgrim Congregational church. The church was crowded to the doors with members of the congregation and the visitors of the day.

The organizations represented were Willis A. Gorman post and Joshua B. Culver post, G. A. R., Ladies of the G. A. R., Women's Relief corps, Sons of Veterans, Diggles and McEwen camps, S. A. W. V., the National Guard and naval militia.

Rev. Charles N. Thorp spoke on "The Genius of Grant." His address centered in a graphic description of the storming of Vicksburg, which terminated in its surrender on the same day, July 4, 1863, on which occurred the victory of Gettysburg. The two events broke the power of the South, he said, and gave the North the victory. He said in part:

Vicksburg the Strategic Point.

"Mr. Lincoln realized that the control of the Mississippi between Vicksburg and Port Hudson by our forces would seal up the Red river and shut our supplies and reinforcements from the South. Jefferson Davis knew it and begged the Southerners to go to the relief of Vicksburg during the siege. Vicksburg was a veritable Gibraltar, surmounting a cliff 200 feet sheer above the river, fortified above and below by siege guns at Haine's Bluff and Grand Gulf. Four unsuccessful attempts were made by Grant before the fifth attempt resulted in carrying this stronghold."

The unsuccessful plans were then described in detail, and the growing Northern sentiment that Grant should be removed from his command. "I rather like the man," said Lincoln, "and I think we had better try him a little longer."

"At last Grant's time was come," the speaker continued. 'Waiting till Porter with his fleet had successfully run the gantlet past the guns of Vicksburg, Grant crossed the river and waited awhile for Banks to come up with his men. Pemberton in Vicksburg was hoping to be joined soon by Johnston, who was massing forces about Jackson. Grant had about the same force as Pemberton. He dared not delay longer. To march was to cut loose from his base of supplies. To wait was to give Johnston time to gather an overwhelming force. I doubt if any other general would have had the genius to break a rigid law of war by leaving his base of supplies and trusting to cut through again to the river north of Vicksburg before starvation set in. Sherman vainly tried to dissuade Grant from this plan. Dispatches from Washington forbidding the scheme came after Grant had started. Grant was already out of reach by wire.

"They set out May 7, leaving a few men to keep Pemberton bottled up in the town. Col. Grierson with 1,000 cavalry made a 600-mile raid that week, cutting wires, tearing up railroads, mystifying and terrorizing the enemy. One week after they left the river they routed Johnston and took Jackson, at which point his forces were centered. By a series of dashing engagements, they scored a victory each day, and just eleven days after they left the river Sherman and Grant were strolling on the summit of Haines Bluff, which the enemy had vacated on their approach. Sherman, with characateristic magnanimity, said: 'General, I never till this minute believed your plan could succeed. But this is success, whether we ever take the town or not.' Years after in his memoirs Grant wrote: 'It looks now as if Providence had directed the course of the Vicksburg campaign, while the Army of the Tennessee executed His decree.'

"Then came the siege, hemming in the city more and more tightly until on the Fourth of July Pemberton marched his men out in surrender. Oh, what a day that was, fifty years ago. When Gettysburg faced the southern squadrons again southward the North felt much immense relief that for the time Vicksburg was almost overlooked. But the calm verdict of history places Vicksburg side by side with Gettysburg among the decisive events of the war. We thank God today for great leaders like Gen. Grant and for the brave men who followed him to victory. God give us brave men in these days of peace; men of courage, men of heroism, men of sacrifice and patriotism, for it is true today as it was fifty years ago that 'Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty.'"

FIRST VISIT TO ZENITH CITY

John Drew's Appearance Is Chief Theatrical Event of Season.

John Drew, America's leading light comedian, will make his first visit to Duluth next Friday and Saturday.

Mr. Drew's appearance here will be the chief theatrical event of the season to date, and the only dramatic engagement of any importance for the week, aside from the appearance of Blanche Bates here this evening.

Mr. Drew's play this season is "The Perplexed Husband," a comedy dealing with the suffrage movement.

MATAMOROS GUARDED BY ELECTRIC FENCE

One Thousand Rebels Hesitate to Attack Mexican City.

Brownsville, Tex., May 26.—No attempt has been made yet to take Matamoras across the boundary from Brownsville. It is defended by 300 Federals, and 1,000 rebels are reported within striking distance of the city. It is believed the insurgents plan to harass the Federals into surrender, avoiding a general engagement.

Wire fences, built around Matamoras, have been charged with electricity.

Several Americans were detained by Mexican troops in Matamoras for a short time Sunday. It is presumed they were suspected of being rebel sympathizers.

The Glass Block Store

A Semi-Public Institution

—The GLASS BLOCK STORE is a semi-public institution. It was originally organized and is daily operated to fill a public need.

—To be of the greatest service and to supply the daily wants of a vast populace, diversified lines of merchandise are collected under one roof and management. The articles of a hardware store, piece goods that one might expect to find in an exclusive dry goods store, the range of wearing apparel a well organized specialty shop would show, china, embroideries, millinery, jewelry, shoes, drugs, carpets and other lines; in short, many stores and shops are organized into one great institution for the purpose of affording maximum convenience, simplicity and economy of time to the shopping public.

—As a semi-public institution, this store must give an adequate and satisfactory public service.

—The United States government acknowledged this store as a public institution when it established a branch Postoffice here. This feature is of daily use to hundreds of people, yet is but an arm of the store's public service.

—On every floor both lines of telephones are convenient for the public's free and unlimited use. On the Fourth Floor is a private booth ever at public disposal, with local service free of charge.

—The Second and Fourth Floors have commodious Writing and Rest Rooms, well appointed and luxuriously furnished, for the convenience and comfort of the shopping public. Marble lavatories are in connection with these rooms.

—The finest Tea Rooms in the Northwest on the Fourth Floor form an important branch of the public service. Here the fatigued shopper may retire for dainty refreshments and quiet rest. Here the hostess may entertain her friends at luncheon or give an afternoon bridge party. Here the business man may enjoy his luncheon free from the din of the street and amid the most pleasant surroundings, or may combine business conference in the seclusion of a semi-private booth. The cuisine is unsurpassed and the service dainty and prompt.

—The Circulating Library on the Main Floor Balcony is a practical purveyor of the latest popular fiction, bringing the newest books to readers at a very nominal cost and enabling all to keep well informed on the best books.

—The Marinello on the Third Floor combines to make this a greater public institution and to make the public service more complete.

—Courteous and efficient salespeople, quick making of change and delivery of "take-with" packages, the well organized system of city and suburban deliveries, together with the most complete and well selected stocks of merchandise throughout every department unite in making a service which the public has a right to expect from an institution of this kind.

—To make service ideal and most effective the store keeps in closest touch with the public. Suggestions as to how we might better serve are solicited. A Suggestion Box, located near the East elevator on the First Floor is one medium through which we receive many valuable hints from an interested public that augur well for the service.

—And so this store is a SEMI-PUBLIC INSTITUTION with a constant and growing ambition for giving the GREATEST PUBLIC SERVICE.

ASKS CUSTODY OF HIS CHILD

Two Harbors Man Wants Court to Modify Divorce Decree.

Says Former Wife Placed Boy in Orphanage at St. Paul.

Robert J. Dempster, a Two Harbors railroad man, thinks that his divorced wife, Catherine Dempster, has ignored the orders of the court with respect to custody and schooling when she placed John, their 12-year-old son, in a Catholic orphanage at St. Paul. In district court here Saturday he filed a petition in which he states that he has a good home at Two Harbors for the boy and asks that the divorce decree granted him in February, 1912, be changed so that he be given the custody of the child instead of his wife.

Although Mrs. Dempster brought the divorce action against her husband, the decree was granted to him on a cross bill. She had previously started and abandoned three former actions and when the fourth was called for trial before Judge Dancer in February of last year, she forsook both attorney and court in the midst of the trial and left for Minneapolis. The court then granted Dempster the decree but gave the custody of the child to the mother. Dempster was given the right of visitation to the boy. She was denied any alimony but was granted $15 a month for the maintenance of the child.

In the divorce court Dempster declared that he had patiently, for three or four years, humored her every whim and had without grumbling submitted to her taunts. He claimed that he had never laid a hand on her although she had often spit in his face and called him vile names. She brought the action on the grounds of desertion but Dempster told the court that she would not come to live with him at Two Harbors, that she had moved seven times in less than that many months, and that every time he came to visit her she was in a different place.

Says Child Is Neglected.

With his petition for a change in the decree, Dempster submits an affidavit in which he declares that he spent a week a short time ago trying to locate his wife and child at Minneapolis and was unsuccessful. Only recently, he claims, he was informed that the child was being cared for in the Catholic orphanage at St. Paul.

An affidavit is also submitted from Rev. Father James Donahue, a Catholic priest at St. Paul, which states that the boy's mother, Mrs. Dempster, has been going under the name of Mrs. Douglas in the Twin Cities, where she has been employed. The priest is of the opinion that the boy has been neglected, not only in the matter of food and clothing but also with reference to his education. Attorney John Dwan of Two Harbors appeared in district court Saturday for Dempster. The matter has been taken under advisement by the court.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Blanche Bates.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

VAUDEVILLE AT THE EMPRESS

A new vaudeville bill opened at the Empress yesterday before three audiences which completely filled the theater.

Housley and Nicholas, two former musical comedy stars, carried off the honors of the bill, judging from the applause. Their act is clean and entertaining throughout. Their comedy scored and their songs are of a high class.

"King Bolo" is a musical sketch presented by Billy Wyse, Ben Worth, Miss Elinor Jenkins and six other young women. It is simply a concoction of songs, dances and comedy. Worth has a tenor solo that pleases the audience, and the other songs and dances are put across in a lively manner.

Madge Hughes is a singing comedienne, who has a number of character songs and quick changes. Her slang is amusing, and she makes a good appearance.

Arthur Browning and his dog Spot are included in the bill. The eccentric dancing of Mr. Browning, who appears in the makeup of a tramp, contains many complicated steps. A revelation in canine training is given by Spot, the dog mathematician. His mind-reading stunts are cleverly done and he dances in time with his master.

Two comedy scenes in motion pictures opened the bill, which will continue the first part of the week with a daily matinee.

Blanche Bates.

In "The Witness For the Defense," the A. E. W. Mason drama, which will be seen here at the Lyceum tonight under the direction of Charles Frohman, Blanche Bates has an unusual opportunity for intellectual as well as emotional acting. She is called upon to reveal the soul of a woman as it labors under the stress of sharply contrasting conditions, the soul crushed by the brutality of a druunken husband, the soul made desperate to the verge of suicide by memory of the past and the hopelessness of the future, the soul buoyant and joyous again under the spell of a new love promising happiness in a fresh beginning of life, the soul fighting for its love and its chance, the soul yielding to the demands of duty and finally receiving the rewards of doing what is right.

In setting forth the inner feelings and the inner thoughts of Stella Ballantyne, the husband-slayer, Miss Bates is obliged to draw strongly upon her resources as an actress and the response is most satisfying, it is said. With subtleness but with surety, she goes beneath the dialogue and makes the audience see that which can be perceived only through mental vision stimulated by skillful artistry.

"The Witness For the Defense" tells an impressive story and it sustains dramatic interest to the end. Charles Frohman has provided Miss Bates with an excellent company, including Frank Kemble Cooper, Ernest Stallard, Gaston Mervale and others.

WANTS BAR PUT UP TO FRIEDMANN SERUM

Health Officer of Port of New York Asks Official Action.

New York, May 26.—Dr. Joseph J. O'Connel, health officer of the port of New York, sent a letter today to Health Commissioner Lederle requesting him to submit to the board of health at its next meeting a resolution prohibiting the administration of the Friedmann treatment for tuberculosis in New York "until such time as those interested affirmatively in its administration shall notify the health department of its innocuous character."

Patients Lose Ground.

"The reports of the investigator of your department," reads the letter, "whose peculiar experience with tuberculosis gives his reports a compelling force, are all to the effect that the dangers which must be apprehended in such a form of treatment are actually present therein. He finds that the patients subjected to this treatment have not improved, but have lost ground to an extent greater than might be expected from the natural ravages of the disease.

ST. PAUL MAN HAS FAITH IN DULUTH

Henry Wessel Sees All Conditions to Make Great Commercial Center.

Henry Wessel of St. Paul, candidate for state treasurer on the Democratic ticket last year, is in Duluth today. He and a number of other St. Paul men are interested in mining land on the Cuyuna range and they are returning to the capital after an inspection of the property.

"This whole territory at the Head of the Lakes is coming fast," said Mr. Wessel. "You can't stop it. Duluth has the natural advantages for becoming a great center of industry and commerce, and the country around is developing rapidly.

"It is extremely unfortunate that the reciprocity pact was not ratified on both sides of the line. That would have been a great boost to the Head of the Lakes. I hope the reciprocity act will not be repealed by congress. It should remain as a standing invitation to Canada to wipe out imaginary lines and to remove bans on trade that are a detriment to both countries."

Mr. Wessel is prominently mentioned for appointment as United States marshal for the district of Minnesota, succeeding W. H. Grimshaw. Political conditions, he said today, never looked better to him. "We have come upon a time in which everyone recognizes that it is respectable to be a Democrat," he said.

REVISION OF THE ITINERARY

Special Train for North Dakota Will Leave at 4 p. m. Sunday.

The trade extension committee of the Commercial club has changed the time of leaving for the special train to take Duluth excursionists through North Dakota from 6:15 p. m. to 4 p. m. next Sunday.

The change was made necessary in order that sufficient running time might be given the train from Duluth to Neche, N. D., the first stop. The run is 379 miles and the railroad required more time for the trip than was given by the original schedule.

There will be some other revisions of the itinerary before the train leaves. Several small towns will be cut out as the itinerary was found to be crowded.

The trade extension committee reports that the crowd for the North Dakota trip will be the largest that has ever left Duluth on a trade excursion. The towns along the way have been notified of Duluth's coming and they are preparing to extend a welcome to the visitors.

TALK OF SEPARATION OF HARRIMAN LINES

Lovett and Loomis Hold Conference With Attorney General.

New York, May 26.—Robert S. Lovett and F. H. Loomis, representing the Union Pacific railroad, today conferred with Attorney General McReynolds on plans for dissolution of the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific merger, which may be submitted to the department of justice within a few days.

It is understood here that the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific interests have not yet agreed on a method of dissolution. The plan of the Union Pacific is expected to represent the view of that road on the disposition of its $126,000,000 of Southern Pacific stock, and also its view of the proposed transfer of the Central Pacific to the Union Pacific. The Southern Pacific is averse to surrendering the Central Pacific.

RECOVERS $1,671 FOR SALARY DUE

Wholesale Firm Must Pay Salesman Who Was Discharged.

George A. McDonald, former city salesman for the Stone-Ordean-Wells company, who brought suit against his employers for a year's salary claimed to be due by virtue of a contract, this morning recovered $1,671 in a sealed verdict returned by a jury in district court before Judge Cant.

McDonald claimed that he found himself out of a job when he returned from a vacation trip during the month of March, 1912. He had been with the firm for ten years and at the time he was discharged was salesman for the cities of Duluth and Superior.

McDonald exhibited in court a contract which he had with the company for services during the year 1912 at $300 per month.

LONGYEAR LAKE CASE WILL BE APPEALED

State Will Definitely Determine Right to Ore Under Lakes.

It is expected that the appeal to the supreme court in the Longyear lake mining case, which was decided against the state a few weeks ago by Judge Cant in district court here, will be perfected within a short time. C. L. Weeks of St. Paul, assistant attorney general, has been in Duluth recently in connection with the case.

The question involved is whether the state has title or right to the ore underlying the waters of a public lake or stream. Judge Cant holds that the state has no such right in the Longyear lake case, which if carried to the supreme court will establish a precedent, which will be of considerable importance no matter which way it is decided in the higher tribunal.

STORES WILL CLOSE FRIDAY

Friday of this week, which will be Memorial day, will be a holiday not only for employes of banks and of public offices, but of the stores of the city as well. Mayor Prince will give the address of welcome to the delegates at the Spalding hotel on the morning of the opening of the convention. He will also take part in the Odd Fellow parade to be held during the afternoon.

The parade will commence at 1:30 o'clock from the Armory and march west on Superior street to Twenty-first avenue west. At this point the members will be the guests of the Duluth Commercial club at a boat ride about the harbor.

DELEGATES TO HINCKLEY

Low Rates Will Attract Big Crowd to Development Meeting.

The St. Louis County club, the Duluth Commercial club and other organizations of St. Louis county will this week name delegates to attend the meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association at Hinckley, June 5 and 6.

St. Louis county has sent a large delegation to each meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association and the Hinckley meeting will be no exception. St. Louis county is keenly interested in the work of the association and its representatives will be on hand to boost the work along.

The Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads, both of which touch Hinckley, will give a rate of a fare and one-third on the certificate plan for the meeting and that concession undoubtedly will increase the attendance. The Duluth men will probably have special cars to be spotted at Hinckley and used as sleeping quarters during the stay in the Pine County town.

Good roads, the public domain and immigration will be the principal topics of discussion at the meeting. The delegates will exult over the results of the legislative session of 1913 and lay plans for greater effort toward development in the future.

will designate the route as lying between the right-of-way of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad and the shores of Lake Superior.

City Has Authority.

The project has been in course of preparation since the legislative session of 1909. Mr. Congdon was a member of the legislature at that time and was responsible for the passage of the state law which makes possible the acquisition by the city of the property necessary for the driveway. The statute authorizes cities of the first class, operating under a home rule charter, "to lay out, open, build, maintain and repair roads, streets, avenues, boulevards, parkways or other public highways outside the corporate limits of such city, and to acquire property for such purpose outside said corporate limits, by gift, devise, purchase or condemnation."

The acquisition of the right-of-way for the boulevard has been in charge of Little & Nolte, local real estate agents. The firm has already secured much of the necessary ground. Part of it was purchased, but much of it was dedicated to the city. The holders of acreage in the district affected have shown an almost unanimous disposition to further the project in every manner possible. They have declared that they are more than willing to do all within their power to aid its construction and have been more than agreeable to transferring all rights to the city which might be desired.

Under the state law the city commission can, by three-fourths vote, declare the desirability of the acquisition of the property for public use and direct the city attorney to take the necessary steps for the condemnation of the same and direct the city engineer to prepare the profile and survey, which will be filed with the register of deeds, which will operate as a notice of the pendancy of an action against the property described. City Attorney Harvey S. Clapp will apply to the district court for the appointment of three disinterested appraisers, who will determine the benefits and damages.

Since coming into office, Mayor W. I. Prince has represented the city in the negotiations which have been pending. As head of the division of public affairs, which includes the park department, he will introduce the ordinance which will start to rolling the official machinery which will secure for Duluth and Northern Minnesota a parked driveway which will be without an equal in the country for picturesque scenery.

STEAM SHOVELS MEET.

Through Cut of the Panama Canal Is Completed.

Panama, May 26.—The first through cut of the Panama canal at grade from ocean to ocean was completed late this afternoon when two steam shovels, one from the east and one from the west, met at Culebra cut. The meeting of the shovels was a signal for a demonstration by all the workmen in the vicinity.

There still remains much excavation to be done, but less than 8,000,000 cubic yards of earth yet remains to be removed to bring the water way to the required depth.

Grouping Plan.

The proposed program is in accordance with the grouping plan of city buildings. The government now owns the whole block west of Fifth avenue on the upper side of the street. The new courthouse now occupies the center of the upper portion of the two blocks between Sixth and Fourth avenue west and First and Second streets. The government will build in the center of its holdings between Sixth and Fifth avenues. If the city can place its new city hall midway between the block between Fifth and Fourth avenues west the plan will be completed. The acquisition of the half block now owned by the government, abutting Fifth avenue west, would go a long ways towards its fulfillment. The city would use the western half of the site and negotiate with the county for the balance which would be needed. At present the county is holding the lots on the corner of Fourth avenue west and First street for the city, in keeping with the agreement which was made at the time the grouping plan was advanced. If the city hall can be placed near the center of the block instead of at the further end the entire plan can be carried out as suggested in perfect proportions.

The Ship Canal.

The ship canal was constructed in 1871 by the late Roger S. Munger. Superior objected strenuously to having it put through Minnesota Point. The people of Duluth quietly completed their plans. Saturday night Mr. Munger had his men on the job. They worked Saturday night, all day Sunday and Sunday night. When the sun peeped over the eastern horizon water was flowing through the big ditch. It was so arranged that any effort which might have been made by the Superiorites to secure an injunction would have been futile, as the government offices and courts were closed while the work was being done. The people of Superior were successfully outwitted but they carried their case to Washington. In response to their demands the government compelled the construction of a dike, or breakwater. The Superior people claimed that the rush of water into the harbor would greatly interfere with the shipping on their side of the bay and it was in concurrence with this allegation that the dike was installed. It was shown later that their claims were not founded on fact and the dike was later removed.

The entire expense, estimated at $200,000, in round figures, was borne by the citizens of Duluth, and it is compensation for that expenditure that the commission will endeavor to secure from congress. While that much cash might be hard to get, Commissioner Voss is confident that in lieu of that sum a deed to the property at Fifth avenue west and First street might be secured.

The Resolution.

The resolution introduced by Commissioner Voss reads as follows:

"Resolved, that the president of the city council of the city of Duluth be and is hereby authorized to appoint a commission to be known as the canal and dike commission, who are to take up and carry to completion the claim of the city of Duluth against the government of the United States for all monies expended on said canal and dike, collect evidence and prepare memorial to congress, and take any other action in this connection that they may think advisable.

"Be it further resolved, That the city auditor and city clerk are hereby directed to certify to said commission vouchers for all monies expended on said canal and dike, also copies of all resolutions directing such expenditures."

The dike was built in 1873 by A. M. Miller, now a resident of Duluth, but at present time in New York City.

At the time the dike was built and the lots bought for the government canal, Duluth was a city, but during the panic which followed, it again became a village.

During all these changes of conditions from village to city and from city to village, many of Duluth's best citizens took it upon themselves to assist in perpetuating the records, among whom were the Hon. J. D. Ensign, the late Hon. O. P. Stearns and many others.

From all that can be learned at this time the city of Duluth has really expended for lots for the canal and for building and then finally removing the old dike, which was upon request of the United States government the sum of more than $200,000, so that if 3 per cent interest were allowed, the government is morally owing the city at this time more than $450,000.

Supporter of Chinese President Is Victim of Plot.

Shanghai, May 26.—Gen. Hsu Pao San was killed by a bomb yesterday while opening a box in the belief that it contained porcelain, of which he was an ardent collector. He had sent for a piece of porcelain, and when the box arrived he attempted to pry off the cover. A terrific explosion followed, and he was hurled with great force to the opposite end of the room. A servant was also instantly killed.

The general, who was also known as "Tiger Hsu," was a strong supporter of President Yuan Shi Kai and the object of bitter hatred to the southern extremists.

BROKAW NOT GUILTY.

New Yorker Did Not Break Wife's Fingers With Frying Pan.

Colorado Springs, Col., May 26.—Clarence Pierce Brokaw, cousin of W. Gould Brokaw, New York multi-millionaire and society man, and himself a former banker and clubman of the metropolis, was dismissed in Justice Dunnington's court on a charge of assault preferred by his wife, Tillie Seaman Brokaw. The absence of the complaining witness caused the dismissal.

Mrs. Brokaw swore out a warrant for her husband about two weeks ago, claiming that he had broken two of her fingers with a frying pan.

While Brokaw was in jail his wife fled to New York, carrying with her their small son, "Buster."

FORM UNION OF HOTEL WORKERS

Under the direction of Max Holder, forty men and women workers in restaurants and hotels took preliminary steps at a meeting held yesterday at 104 West Superior street to form a union, and completion of the organization will be made at once. Holder asserts that he was yesterday discharged from a leading hotel, where he was working as waiter, because of his inclination toward unionism, and it is asserted that several others who attended the meeting were threatened with discharge should they attend.

Holder asserts that conditions in local hotels and restaurants will make interesting investigation. He says that cooks work long hours in rooms where the mercury tries to climb through the top of the tube and where there is practically no ventilation. He says also that 'bus boys must work from twelve to thirteen hours for $20 a month, chambermaids get $16 a month with no days off, and that other conditions are equally deplorable. Holder threatens to make things interesting for any hotels and restaurants who carry out their discharge threat. He claims to "have their number," and will deliver the goods.

B. C. WADE TELLS OF CINCINNATI STRIKE.

B. C. Wade, secretary of the Duluth Y. M. C. A., who has returned from Cincinnati, where last week he attended the international association convention there, declares that newspaper accounts of the street car men's strike, telling of rioting, violence and mob rule were not exaggerated.

"For twenty-four hours the whole street car system was demoralized," said Mr. Wade. "Every kind of article imaginable was thrown on the track by the strikers and sympathizers, who, not content with this, dropped sacks of cement and rocks on the cars from windows in tall buildings. For a time the police were unable to cope with the situation."

MRS. PANKHURST ARRESTED AGAIN

New Law Permits Making Her Finish Interrupted Term.

London, May 26. — Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant suffragette leader, who was released from Holloway jail on license on April 12 owing to the serious condition of her health arising from her "hunger strike," was rearrested today when she was leaving the house where she has been staying.

The house of commons passed a new law this year known as the "cat and mouse bill," permitting the prison authorities to release suffragettes suffering from the effects of "hunger strike," and at the end of a short period to rearrest them without warrant and make them serve the remainder of their original sentence. Mrs. Pankhurst's license released her for fourteen days, but it was then extended in consequence of her feeble condition.

MRS. SZABO'S DEATH IS DESCRIBED AGAIN

Sole Eye Witness Is Examined in Gibson Murder Case.

Newburgh, N. Y., May 26.—When the trial of Burton W. Gibson for the murder of Rosa Szabo was continued in the supreme court today, John Minturn of Greenwood Lake, the only eye witness of the fatality, was subjected to a rigid cross-examination. On Minturn and the medical experts the prosecution largely bases its case.

Minturn said he watched the boat containing the couple at a distance of three-eighths of a mile.

"It appeared," he said, "that Gibson seized the woman and pushed her overboard. Then Gibson went overboard from the other side of the boat, upset it, and seemed to pull off the jersey of his bathing suit."

The people charge that Gibson choked the woman, pushed her overboard, jumped overboard himself, upset the boat and tore off his jersey to make it appear that he had lost a part of his suit in a struggle to save the woman. The defense claims the death of Mrs. Szabo was an accident.

WANTS UNCLE SAM TO FORECLOSE MORTGAGE

Neeley Would Force Action Against Missouri Pacific Holdings.

Washington, May 26.—Representative Neeley of Kansas today asked President Wilson to direct Attorney General McReynolds to foreclose a mortgage on a 100-mile strip of railroad owned by the Missouri Pacific, between Atchison and Waterville, Kan., to recover $4,500,000 alleged to be due the government from aid by bonds issued in 1862.

President Wilson promised to study the question.

MAKES YOUR BACKACHE VANISH, DRIVES RHEUMATIC PAINS AWAY

Eases Stiff, Sore, Swollen Joints and Muscles, Relieving Backache and Bladder Disorders After a Few Doses Are Taken.

This is what Croxone, the new scientific discovery, does for sufferers of such troubles. It promptly relieves these diseases because it reaches the cause. It soaks right into the walls and linings of the kidneys and cleans out the stopped-up, inactive organs like water does a sponge—neutralizes, and dissolves every particle of uric acid and makes the kidneys sift from the blood all the waste matter and poisons that lodge in the joints and muscles to scratch and irritate and cause rheumatism. It soothes and heals the delicate linings of the bladder and leaves the kidneys in a clean, strong, healthy condition, so they can filter the blood and keep you well.

If you suffer with backache—have pains in the neck or sides—nervous or dizzy spells—a few doses of Croxone will relieve the congestion and you will be surprised how quickly all kidney, bladder and rheumatic troubles will disappear.

Croxone is different from all other remedies. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if Croxone should fail in a single case.

MARINE NEWS

PREDICTS A GREAT YEAR

Harvey C. Beeson Says Vessel Owners Will Have Hands Full.

Freight Rates Likely to Hold Firm---St. Louis River Channel.

Predicting a record season on the Great Lakes and full of optimism, Harvey C. Beeson of Chicago, publisher of Beeson's Marine Directory, gave a review of present conditions in an interview to The Herald this morning. Mr. Beeson is in the city for the purpose of gathering data and statistics for his 1913 directory, which will be out within the next two months.

Mr. Beeson said in part:

"Traffic conditions at the present time are in the best shape they have been at the opening of any season for the past ten years. Vessel men throughout the East are all optimistic with regard to the coming season and indications now point to a record year in every department.

"There is no doubt but what the rates will advance the latter part of the season.

"The amount of coal to come west from Lake Erie points will only be limited by the ability of the mines to get their product to the lower lake coal docks. Owing to the heavy shortage at your local docks this spring, they will be stocked up much heavier during the present season. There is no question of getting coal cargoes, but of the coal shippers getting enough boats.

Freight Rates.

"A number of vessels have this year changed ownership, going into stronger hands or combinations. This makes the matter of freight rates a more settled fact than they have been the past ten years.

"The Canadian water-born traffic and all the interests allied to it are very active and have been for the past two years, and are at present growing by leaps and bounds. The merger of upwards of a score of Canadian transportation companies into the hands of the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation company was the largest merger of lake traffic interests that has been promoted and successfully carried through. It includes practically every passenger and package steamer of any importance of Canadian register. There are about 100 vessels included in the company's list at present.

New Vessel.

"The new steamer Noronic for the Northern Navigation company at Port Arthur is coming along fine. She will be one of the finest passenger vessels calling at Duluth, and will class well up with the Detroit and Cleveland and the Cleveland and Buffalo boats. She will cost about $1,000,000 when finished, and according to the present schedule, will make her first trip next spring.

"Dredging contractors along the lakes have considerable contract work for this year, and many large improvements on lakes and rivers will be completed before the season is over.

"All navigation interests operating on or connected with the old Erie canal, now bearing the name of the New York state barge canal, in the hope that some day it will be completed, are thoroughly discouraged over the seemingly poor time made by the contractors in completing some divisions of the work. In one case at present the contractors have practically closed the canal to navigation. By their holding back on the work, many of the smaller boat owners will be practically ruined. How much blame is to be attached to the engineers in charge of the work it is difficult to estimate. Possibly all interested are doing the best they can, but if so, it is a very poor best. They might take an example of the efficient work that is being done for the government at the American locks at the Soo.

"The recent difficulty in navigating the Livingstone channel in the Detroit river by downbound boats has been entirely eliminated.

St. Louis River.

"The people of Duluth and Superior should rise up in a body and demand the improvement of the St. Louis river channel to the foot of Commonwealth avenue at New Duluth.

"I don't care what kind of a report the United States engineers make on the proposed improvement. Their decision is not final. And, in connection with such an important proposition as this, their report should never be taken as final—not as long as there is a person living at the Head of the Lakes who has brains enough to look into the future ten or twenty-five years and realize how big the shipping industry at the Head of the Lakes will become.

"People don't seen to realize the importance of the Duluth-Superior harbor. They don't seem to realize that this is the national gateway for lake shipments to the extreme Northwest, and a great portion of the Upper Mississippi valley. They don't seem to realize that, with the country all around here developing at a rapid rate, with the constant demands that are being made for eastern products, and the increased output that will come here for transport down the lakes that present harbor facilities will become inadequate to handle the volume of business.

CAPT. WILLIAM LYNN DIES SUDDENLY.

Word has been received here of the sudden death yesterday of Capt. William Lynn at Whiting, Ind.

Capt. Lynn was 56 years old and one of the veteran navigators on the Great Lakes. He was in command of the Renown, a Standard Oil company boat, which was taking on oil at Whiting at the time of his death. Heart trouble is given as the cause of his death. Capt. Lynn sailed the lakes for nearly 40 years.

Capt. Lynn is survived by a widow and two brothers. His home was at Port Huron, Mich., and the body will be sent there today for interment.

George F. Lynn of Cleveland, superintendent of the Great Lakes Steamship company, a brother, was in Duluth yesterday when he received word of Capt. Lynn's sudden death. Mr. Lynn left last evening for Port Huron.

Barge Damaged.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The barge McWilliams in tow of the steamer Noble, took a sheer while entering the upper approach to the American canal, and crashed against the south pier. The force of the collision caused considerable damage to the port bow of the barge.

COLLISION WAS UNAVOIDABLE.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 26.—The collision between the steamers Clement and Hartwell at Duluth May 1 was held to have been unavoidable and each vessel must bear its own damage, according to an opinion rendered Saturday by Attorney Harvey D. Goulder to whom the case was referred for adjudication. The statements of the crews of the ships were taken independently and submitted to Attorney Goulder.

Collision at Port Huron.

Port Huron, May 26.—When the steamer E. W. Oglebay, towing the barge Tyrone, attempted to round to at Miller's coal dock yesterday afternoon the towing cable became fouled in some of the wreckage of the sunken steamer Joliet and both boats collided doing considerable damage. They are now at Reid's drydocks, being repaired temporarily, and will leave for Cleveland tomorrow. The steamer C. Russell Hubbard, bound up, struck a sunken log above Corsica Shoals yesterday forenoon and broke a bucket off of her wheel. She returned here and had an extra one put on and left last evening.

Responsibility Fixed.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 26.—The steamer Thomas F. Cole has been held responsible for the collision between the steamer and the barge Iron City on May 3, which resulted in the sinking of the barge near Russell Island, St. Clair river. The amount of the damages was not fixed by Harvey D. Goulder, who acted as arbitrator. The barge has been abandoned as a total loss and the wreck will be removed by the government.

Notice to Mariners.

H. W. Brown, local agent for the Pittsburg Steamship company, has received the following notice from William Livingstone, president of the Lake Carriers' association:

"Beginning Monday, May 26, position of green and white lights on gas buoy at junction of Livingstone and Ballard's Reef channels will be reversed—that is, green light will be above white light. Green light will be made stationary and white light will continue to flash five seconds light, five seconds dark."

Van Hise Grounds.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 26.—One of the most serious accidents of the season was encountered Saturday morning by the steamer Charles R. Van Hise, which ran ashore two miles below the lighthouse on the rocky east shore of Eois Blanc island, in the northern end of Lake Huron.

The Van Hise is out three feet forward and leaking badly. She was bound for Lake Michigan with a cargo of ore loaded on Lake Superior.

Steamers Collide.

Detroit, May 26.—Striking a shoal on the Canadian side of Detroit river, just below Sandwich, shortly after midnight, Saturday morning, the steel steamer George W. Perkins of the Pittsburg Steamship company's fleet, hung while her stern swung into the channel and was struck by the downbound steamer William Nottingham of the Great Lakes Steamship company's fleet.

The Nottingham struck the Perkins' port quarter a glancing blow, breaking the Perkins' quadrant and damaging several plates and frames.

The Perkins released herself later and went to the Ecorse yard of the Great Lakes Engineering works. Four plates will have to come off and two will have to be replaced. The steamer Cornell brought the new quadrant from Cleveland yesterday.

The Nottingham suffered little damage and proceeded to Toledo with her cargo of ore. The Perkins also has an ore cargo and is bound down.

Recommended Draft.

The recommended draft of the Poe lock is nineteen feet, two inches. Notice of the change was sent out this morning by H. W. Brown, local agent for the Pittsburg Steamship company.

Wright, manager of the St. Lawrence & Chicago Navigation company, for which the boat is building, was sponsor. The Carruthers is 550.6 feet long, with 58-foot beam and depth of 31 feet. Her capacity is about 375,000 bushels of wheat or 11,000 tons of coal on 19-foot draft.

"DULUTH, THE CITY OF INDUSTRY."

The Herald today presents to its readers a review of Duluth and its tributary regions which has been months in preparation, and which shows that fact in its results. It is the most elaborate special edition ever published in the Northwest, and, as will be noted, it is especially generous in its pictorial display.

Most of the regular readers of The Herald will know that in this review there is nothing of the "boom" spirit, nothing exaggerated. To the thousands of people not regular readers, to whom this edition will come, it should be stated that a rigid attempt has been made to speak of things exactly as they are, and not as the optimistic town boosting spirit might wish them to be. In truth, there has been no need of exaggeration. The actual, tangible facts speak for themselves, and they tell a story that should be heartening to all who dwell in the empire of which Duluth is the capital and for which The Herald is proud to be spokesman.

The material entering into the edition may be divided into the following general heads:

1. Duluth as a manufacturing center, with the new steel plant of the United States Steel corporation, now nearing completion, as the backbone of the narrative. Since the pages describing this enormous new industry went to press, announcement has been made of a further appropriation of $1,300,000 for the construction of a model town adjacent to the plant for the housing of the men who will work there.

2. Duluth as the center of a rich and rapidly developing agricultural section, with many pictures of actual results and articles by experts. Much space has been devoted to this subject, but not a line more than its importance warrants in view of the fact that in the rapidly settling area west, north and south of Duluth is about the last chance in the nation for home-seekers to get richly fruitful farms at low cost and on easy terms.

3. Duluth as a great grain market, with full descriptions of the strength and growing importance of the Duluth board of trade.

4. Duluth as a mining center, with a copiously illustrated review of the Mesaba, Vermilion and Cuyuna iron ranges.

5. Duluth as the head of navigation on the greatest fresh water highway in the world.

6. Duluth as a railroad center, with a gridiron of railroads, nearly half of them new lines, radiating in every direction.

7. Duluth as a wholesale and jobbing center.

8. Duluth as a pleasure resort.

The mere summing up of these several heads is showing enough to explain why Duluth is confident of its wealth of opportunity and of the certainty of its future.

The Herald presents this evidence of Duluth's wealth and prospects with full confidence that it will give those who live here new reason for the faith that is in them, and that it will give those who live elsewhere new reason for interest in this community as a likely place to live in and to invest in.

The number was planned and edited by George Reid of The Herald staff, who has just entered upon his fourth year in The Herald's service after thirty-odd years in every branch of newspaper work, including twenty years in New York. During his employment by The Herald Mr. Reid has made a close study of the resources and development of Duluth and Northern Minnesota which fitted him peculiarly to handle this work. Mr Reid had charge of the illustrating, advertising and make-up and did much of the writing, though outside experts and other members of The Herald staff contributed a large share.

What is the Japanese attitude toward grape juice, anyway?

THE TRI-CITY ROAD.

A campaign is on to make a thoroughly good road between Duluth and the Twin Cities. There is a road, a kind of a road very much like the average—good in large part, indifferent in part, very bad in spots.

And a road, like a chain, is no stronger than its weakest link.

The impulse back of the movement to make this road what it ought to be unquestionably comes from the automobilists. But that's nothing against it. A good deal of the stimulation of the good roads movement generally is due to the automobilists.

And the very fact that this good road is desired by and will be used by automobilists forms a very good reason why the counties and communities between the two ends of it should be keenly interested in promoting it.

The possession of an automobile implies the possession of money to spend. An automobile party traveling between Duluth and the Twin Cities invariably leaves money along the route. And if the road were what it ought to be, there would be a hundred automobile parties where there is one now.

But the use of such a road would by no means be confined to automobilists. A road good for automobiles is a good road for wagons; and the farmers along the route would be money ahead if it were a good road throughout instead of a bad road in spots. They, like the merchants in the communities along the road, would be benefited.

For these reasons, it ought not to be difficult to arouse and keep aroused interest enough in this project to make that road sound and good every foot of the way from Duluth to the Twin Cities. It will be a wise and paying investment for every county that participates.

A man who wandered around for a month without anything to eat lost eighty pounds in weight. Now there's an example for the really earnest flesh reducer.

THE FOURTH IN DULUTH.

Duluth is not to be without a Fourth of July celebration, after all.

The Norwegians of the city have taken the matter up and arranged an elaborate and attractive program which guarantees that there will be entertainment and diversion day and evening.

This is well. In abolishing the old noisy Fourth and substituting the "sane Fourth," which was the right thing to do, Duluth failed to go on to the next step and provide a substitute. This left the Fourth a very tame and uninteresting affair, more like a dull Sunday than a holiday.

We are not going to say that the American people, or even American youth, have to be entertained to remember their patriotism; but just the same it will be a help toward keeping alive the glorious memories that cling to the Fourth if we can have a rousing celebration, such as our Norwegian fellow-countrymen are going to give.

Thanks and congratulations to these good citizens from another land who are setting us a fine example in patriotism. But let's not let it go at that, only. If we see a chance to help them, we should do it with a will.

When you have to put on mittens and a sweater to go out and plant potatoes it does seem as if there's something wrong somewhere.

"..... NINE, TEN! OUT!"

One Luther McCarty, who had dedicated his brain and brawn to the business of beating up his fellow men for the encouragement of the relics of savagery that lurk beneath the veneer of civilization, engaged himself in a fist battle Saturday with one Arthur Pelkey, who had similarly dedicated himself.

In the first round Mr. Pelkey delivered to Mr. McCarty a blow on the point of the jaw, following it up with another blow in the region of the heart. McCarty dropped, and was counted out; but he never knew it. He was dead.

There is some discussion as to which particular blow it was that killed McCarty. There is no disputing the fact that he is dead, and that prizefighting probably has died with him.

For when McCarty took the count, the game he played took it, too.

And this is just as well, and not unexpected. The prizefighting game has been kept alive only by the use of oxygen for some time, and that it is passing is a triumph of civilization.

Now that that German wedding is over, elopers will have a better chance to get their names and pictures in the paper.

THE WAR ON WAR.

Dr. M. S. Rice of the First Methodist church preached a good sermon yesterday morning on the wicked folly of war, and declared himself enlisted for life in the war against war.

This is a Christian world, and its leading nations are professedly Christian, bowing their heads on Sundays before the Prince of Peace. Yet these leading Christian nations swagger about on week days with their pockets full of firearms and their boots stuck full of daggers. They absorb a tremendous proportion of the productive power of their people for armies and navies, ships and guns, forts and gunpowder. They haven't schools enough, they haven't roads enough, they haven't churches enough, they haven't food and clothes enough; yet they insist upon having armament enough.

There is no higher thing a minister of the gospel can do than to set his face against this foolish and anachronistic practice.

It is a fight for humanity against woe and want. It is a fight for civilization against barbarism. It is a fight for the twentieth century against the Dark Ages.

They say that Vice President Marshall eats buckwheat cakes all the year round. But it was predicted he'd make an unusual vice president, anyway.

They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. AGREES WITH MR. GRIGNON.

To the Editor of The Herald:

A. D. Grignon's letter is a good piece of common sense reasoning and it would be better if the heads of all big cities would use common sense. Prostitution has thrived ever since the Roman times and always will until conditions industrially are changed. Minneapolis was all right until they decided to wipe out such districts. Now these places are scattered into some of the best localities. And I can point out scores walking the street, plying their trade. There is no regulation then, and when you drive them out you only drive them somewhere else. You haven't eliminated the evil by a long shot. I wonder the officials cannot see this. If we cannot better conditions then let these places alone. Regulation is all that's necessary, and if a man cares to patronize such resorts, let him do so. It's his business. Those who object can keep away. They don't have to see these places.

Close every vice resort, cafe and cheap dance hall and what is the result? You'll drive them into your own door yards, back yards and parks. Again, I ask is that eliminating the evil itself? As Mr. Grignon says, you're beginning at the wrong end.

The conditions causing the evil still remain, and always will in one form or another until the cause itself is fought and removed. It is damnable all around, but the methods used will only drive them out to infest some other locality. I can take you to swell brown-stone houses in first-class localities in Minneapolis and St. Paul where scores of girls are rooming, girls who work in department stores mostly, and I can show you worse conditions of vice than you can find in any part of either city.

I can show you automobiles with suit cases full of liquor and men from the cities' finest clubs who have met these girls in department store cafes. I've seen from twenty to thirty young girls in one house all under the influence of liquor.

And I'll defy anyone to deny these things I have seen.

It isn't these girls who are at fault. It's the system we have in America that's driving these girls into a life of shame.

There's excuse for them now, but if they were getting salary enough there would be no excuse. Sooner or later they go still deeper, but you cannot stop it by arresting and driving these girls away. That's the vital spot which should be fought. What drives them to such methods? That's the thing to get at. The root, not the fruit.

And until the wise men, the so-called educated class, come down to the level of common sense we will have vice.

SEGREGATION.

To the Editor of The Herald:

My personal opinion is that in closing up the so-called segregated districts in the larger cities, it will scatter the same to all parts of a city. Even the finest residence districts will not be spared in this scatteration. It also has the tendency to bring out petty graft in the ranks of the patrolmen. The police officers, if they are wise, will soon find that there are speakeasy places within their respective districts, and woe to the man that is tempted. Once a bad woman, always a bad woman. The traffic will be carried on on the speak-easy plan. I am absolutely in favor of the segregated district in a city the size of Duluth. You can call it commercialized vice or anything you mind to, but you cannot stamp it out by scattering it all over the city. Mr. Roe has only to look to Chicago and see the results. In Chicago the best districts are infested with the traffic of prostitution. The phase in the new law that hits the property owner as well as the inmates therein is a fine proposition and will have its good effect.

Kindly give the above space in your valuable Open Court department, and hoping to hear from someone with an idea. Respectfully, V. VAN.

NO BETTER THAN RUSSIA.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In reading The Herald yesterday I noticed the new ordinances passed by the council and could hardly believe my eyes were not deceiving me when I read ordinance No. 332.

Is this ordinance a big joke on the Duluth people, or is it a real bona fide ordinance passed upon by the council?

We read of just such things in Russia and shudder at the way the Russians are oppressed. And now in America, which is supposed to be a republic, we are to be oppressed the same way, if I understand the ordinance right.

Under this ordinance every citizen of Duluth will have to have a passport the same as in Russia, and if he wishes to make a visit outside of the state and doesn't care to tell the man who takes his trunk to the depot where he is going he is liable to be put in the county jail for thirty days or less, that is, if the ordinance is passed as it reads in The Herald of May 22. Surely this is a joke, or if I have not read it right please set me right through the Open Court. Thanking you in advance,

A READER.

Ice Cream Soda

Pharmaceutical Era.

Ice cream has been the dominating influence in the progress of the soda water industry since the advent of pure fruit syrups. The addition of this frozen palate tickler to soda water not only improved the richness and smoothness of the beverage, but at the same time it increased its food value. Statistics as to the consumption of ice cream show an enormous increase since it was first added to soda water, and the soda fountain has not only been the greatest quantity consumer of ice cream, but its best advertiser. With the advent of the luscious sundae came still additional increase in the consumption of both soda and ice cream at fountains. Everyone knows just what constitutes a sundae, and how tempting the appearance of the ice cream with the added syrup, fruits and nuts—a combination pleasing alike to the eye and palate. The combination was christened sundae—so the legend goes—because a druggist originated this "one best bet" on a Sunday. There are many claimants to the honor of "I did it first," as there are to almost all of the combinations represented by the modern menu or dispenser's guide, but whoever thought of the sundae first did a good thing, for which the public, as well as the fountain industry, owes a vote of thanks.

In the spring of 1874 Robert M. Green of Philadelphia, who at that time was acting as agent for John Matthews of New York, at the same time had begun the manufacture of smaller types of fountains of his own. He secured a concession to dispense soda water at an exposition held under the auspices of the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia, and stress of business compelled him to do something to attract the patronage of the public. At all events, such was the inspiration, according to Mr. Green, which prompted him to put ice cream in soda water. For the first time he advertised ice cream in soda water at a soda fountain, and he unquestionably is entitled to the honor and the credit of originating "ice cream soda," which as years have passed, has developed an enormous demand and given unquestioned impetus to the business of soda-water dispensing.

On the other hand, the credit for commercializing ice cream as an adjunct to soda water, even though Mr. Green was the first to use it, unquestionably belongs to Fred Sanders of Detroit, a prominent confectioner of the Michigan city. The inspiration to use ice cream with soda water came to Mr. Sanders one night when his plain cream had soured, and without the knowledge that it had already been used as a component of soda water in the East, Mr. Sanders used ice cream and featured it. He did more to popularize "ice cream soda" than any other fountain owner in this country.

Trials of the Progressives

New York Evening Post: The secretary of the progressive national committee, Mr. Davis, in charge of the party headquarters at Washington, has sent a warning to all faithful progressive newspapers. They must be on their guard. An insidious attempt is being made to undermine their loyalty. Moved solely by "their own dire necessity," Republicans are making advances to the Progressives, looking towards reunion. But these, solemnly exhorts the Progressive secretary, who may be presumed not to have uttered his cry of alarm without hearing from Oyster Bay, must be rejected at all hazards. It is all a trick and a trap. No real reform of the Republican party is intended, Mr. Davis asserts, but only blandishments to induce the prodigal Progressives to return to their father's house, whereupon the fatted calf will be appropriated by the same old gang.

This seems to be the official reply of the Progressives to the conference of Progresive Republicans at Chicago. The proceedings at that gathering have evidently been followed with watchful and jealous eyes by the Progressive leaders. They saw several of their old allies meeting in the hope of bringing about Republican reorganization and harmony. Some of the Progressives before the Progressives were there. Middle-Western senators, who first made the breach through which the Colonel later rushed, were present. Senator Borah was there. So was Governor Hadley. And the call which these approved Progressives made upon the Republican national committee to summon a convention, this fall or next spring, in order to revise the rules of representation and to make the party more directly responsive to the sentiment of the voters, has been cordially received by Republicans of high influence. Everything appears to be in train for a genuine effort to remove the old complaints and grievances, and to make the Republican party once more a loving home for the Progressives. And this is the moment chosen by the Progressive secretary to kindle the warning signal-fires!

This Progressive protest against having anything to do with the unclean thing is partly, no doubt, an honest appeal to party fidelity. But it plainly witnesses also to a fear of desertions and of party disintegration. Previous signs had been ominous. More than one Progressive of prominence had announced that the object of last year's bolt had been accomplished, and that now the thing to do was to go back to the Republican party. Elections in Michigan and Massachusetts, in St. Louis and Chicago, had been depressing. The Progressive vote seemed to be melting away. And there was also the hard fact that two of the most "practical" of the Progressives, Mr. Munsey and Dan Hanna, had declared that there was no hope of success in ploughing the lonely furrow, and that honorable terms of merging with the Republicans must be sought. Then came the Chicago conference, with its plan of reform and reunion. No wonder that the Progressive committee felt that the time had come to try to stiffen the backs of the faithful.

Safes Easy for Him.

Herbert Corey in New York Globe: "I've forgotten the combination," said Mr. Ryan, proprietor of a Columbus avenue cafe. He had been on his knees in front of the safe for an hour twisting at the lock. "If I don't get that safe opened before the close of banking hours I lose a good business chance."

"Want it opened?" asked a beer drinker at the end of the bar.

"Foolish question," said Mr. Ryan bitterly. "I'll give you fifty if you can unlock that door in the next ten minutes."

The man put his ear to the door and wet his finger tips, and in five minutes had Ryan's $5,000 out of the box.

"What safe company do you work for?" asked Ryan, admiringly. "Gimme your address. I can get you a lot of business."

"Like thunder you can," said the expert. "I'll get my own business." And as he backed out he added: "And I didn't say that I worked for any safe company."

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator "Billy" Hughes of New Jersey wore a pair of button shoes to the senate chamber the other day, and after he got comfortably seated his great toe began to itch. He earnestly desired to scratch the toe. For the moment it seemed to him that he would rather forsake all political honor and emoluments than let that toe go uncaressed another moment. So, unostentatiously, he removed the shoe, toyed with the toe for a moment or two as if it were a fox terrier pup, and then all was well. He replaced his shoe. Then a new problem confronted him. It was a button shoe and he had no button hook. He looked about him trying to locate a senator who wore button shoes, and was rewarded by finding that his own colleague, James Martine, was wearing the buttoned-kind.

"Lend me your buttonhook," whispered Hughes to Martine.

"Sure," says Martine, and he reached in his pocket.

Hughes looked at the article Martine gave him, and handed it back.

"You've made a slight error," said he; "what I want is a buttonhook. This is no buttonhook."

"So it isn't," said Martine, and he looked at the little article critically.

It was nothing but a common corkscrew—of no use whatever in fastening a shoe.

John Sharp Williams recently wrote a book, and nearly every time he devoted a day to the book he broke a dictating record. Several times he dictated continuously for eleven or twelve hours, with the exception of a few minutes for lunch. Once he dictated from 7 in the morning until 2 the following morning. During that time he rested once for twenty minutes, and another time for half an hour. Senator Williams' method of writing a book or a formal speech is to dictate several times as much stuff as he intends to use and then trim it down. When preparing the Jefferson book he took 2,000 pages on one occasion and pared it down to 600 pages. Then he made slight revision in these, had them recopied, and cut the 600 pages to 400.

Secretary Bryan was recalling here not long ago a joke on one of the campaign speakers the time he ran for president back in '96. One of the big issues of that campaign, as many will recall, was the question of gold or double standard. The speaker referred to was discussing the currency problem at a meeting held in a famous old horse market at Twenty-third street and Third avenue, New York, where most of the audience were horsemen. In order to make the argument simple and appealing, the speaker compared the gold dollar to a sorrel horse, and the silver dollar to a white horse.

"Suppose," said he, "that a law were passed prohibiting the use of white horses. What would happen? Why, the white horses would greatly depreciate in value, wouldn't they? The man who owned white horses would suffer a great loss. It's the same with money. If we adopt this gold standard, and you can't pay a debt with a silver dollar, then the man who has only silver dollars comes out at the little end of the horn. Suppose that only sorrel horses could be sold from today on, and you had in your stables only white horses. What would you do? I ask you, what would you do with your white horses?"

The speaker didn't really expect an answer, but he got one.

"Paint 'em!" yelled a man who had been carried away by the force of the argument.

Committees of manufacturers who come down here to pour woeful tales into the ear of Secretary of Commerce Redfield, in connection with the forthcoming tariff bill, find it a tough proposition trying to make progress with their talk while looking into those big Alice blue eyes of his. Those optics can impale an exaggerated statement and hold it up in the air wriggling where all can see it, while their proprietor asks questions that go right down and bring up bottom.

Redfield has nothing to do with framing the tariff bill, of course, but inasmuch as he is regarded as a tariff expert, is a manufacturer himself, and is in the cabinet, he is the first man that a committee of manufacturers make a bee line for when they come here to oppose tariff reduction.

One manufacturer told him the other day of the struggle he was having to make 6 per cent on his capital stock. Redfield listened patiently, and then began to ask a few innocent little questions. They were such casual little questions, asked as if for no other purpose than to make chat, that the manufacturer readily answered them. In a little while Redfield had information showing that the manufacturer had increased his capital stock six time without any corresponding increase in his investment or equipment, so that in reality he was paying several times 6 per cent dividend on the original stock; also, that he had such an inadequate system for determining costs in his plant that he had little idea where actual cost left off and waste began. When he left Redfield's office, the manufacturer found that he had told more about the inside workings of his business than he had ever confided to any human being. Those Alice blue eyes of Redfield did the trick.

Today May Be the Only Day You Have.

William Johnston in the American Magazine: Good days and bad days exist only in your own head. The weather has nothing to do with it. Each day is what you make is for yourself. Bad weather is only an unfortunate opinion.

Suppose it is raining pitchforks. You get word that your salary has been doubled or that a forgotten uncle has left you a million dollars. What do you care about the weather then? Or suppose the person you love is dying. Unexpectedly a turn for the better comes. The doctor says your dear one will live. What if it is hotter than Tophet? It is a good day, a great day, a happy day.

It's what you think and feel about it that makes each day what it is. You, within yourself, can make each day, every day, a good day. Put down in the notebook of your soul the poet Runeberg's thought:

"Each day is a life."

When you get up in the morning throw back your shoulders, take a deep breath. Meet the new day like a man. Say to yourself:

"Another day—another life!"

For all we know it may be the only day we'll ever have. Let's make it the best day we can. Let's strive to see that it is a day worth while. Let's move a step forward in our work. Let's do all the good we can. Let's get all the happiness we can—today.

Right now is the only time you can control. Yesterday is a record. Tomorrow is a secret. Today is yours, is mine.

Minnesota Opinions

Comments of the State Press.

Loaded Sessions.

Cambridge North Star: There is to be a special session of the legislature next October, so the governor says, because it is necessary in his opinion to have a public utilities law. Some special sessions have been loaded.

Suggestion From Gordon.

Browns Valley Tribune: The members of the next legislature should be elected with the understanding that they will work and vote to cut down appropriations and taxes one-fourth to one-third.

If They Only Knew.

Pillager Herald: Minnesota has opportunities that are hard to make the renters in the older states believe possible, and if this section was properly advertised there would soon be a marked falling off of immigration to Canada.

Is It Right?

Alexandria Post-News: The country will not welcome the day when three large cities control the destinies of this state, but the quesion is not whether such control will be beneficial to Minnesota. The question is whether or not we approve of unequal representation in the state legislature. Are we to have one basis of representation for urban centers and still another for the state? Are we to practically disfranchise residents of the city that we may legislate for the good of the country? If you are convinced that the amendment is right in principle, support it; if not, oppose it.

The Great Problem.

Aurora News: Road building is the most important of all development work in this north country. Covered with trees, stumps and underbrush, the fertile acres offer little inducement to the progressive farmer until he can see a way to get crops out and to market. But with good roadways leading to the market places it would take but a short while to fill St. Louis county with progressive farmers who would prosper, build neat homes and add greatly to the wealth of the county.

Going a Step Further.

St. Peter Herald: A number of cities which have adopted the commission form of government seriously propose to further centralize authority. They have found that three or five commissioners are an improvement over the old system of a mayor and a city council, but the criticism is made that, even under the new form, there are too many bosses. To overcome this defect, it is suggested that but one man be elected. He would be known as the mayor, and would be entrusted with the management of all municipal affairs.

A Warning.

Red Wing Republican: Nearly 20,000 people from Minnesota located in Western Canada last year. It is, in the long run, a mistake for any one who is well situated on the fertile farms of this state to exchange them for the wild stretches of lonely prairie on the other side of the line. They and their families lose immeasureably by exchanging their American citizenship to become British subjects. However, it is also a warning to the state and county governments here that they should wake up to the necessity of making every possible improvement and giving every possible inducement for our agricultural classes to remain here. Never was there a more urgent and imperative need for better roads and better schools and a larger, broader community life in the rural districts than there is right now.

On to Hinckley.

Mora Times: The Northern Minnesota Development association will hold its next meeting at Hinckley, June 5 and 6. Besides the set program the future work of the association will be discussed and plans agreed upon for carrying on the work of advertising the resources of this part of the state. This organization is doing a good work and it should be encouraged. It has already done a great deal towards attracting settlers in this direction and with the proper encouragement can do still more. Every county in the northern part of the state reaps a benefit from the work of this organization and each county should do its share in a financial way to help the good work along.

The Old Mill

Here from the brow of the hill look,
Through a lattice of boughs and leaves,
On the old gray mill with its gambrel roof,
And the moss on its rotting eaves.
I hear the clatter that jars its walls,
And the rushing water's sound,
And I see the black floats rise and fall
As the wheel goes slowly round.

I rode there often when I was young,
With my grist on the horse before,
And talked with Nelly, the miller's girl,
As I waited my turn at the door;
And while she tossed her ringlets brown,
And flirted and chatted so free,
The wheel might stop or the wheel might go,
It was all the same to me.

'Tis twenty years since last I stood
On the spot where I stand today.
And Nelly is wed, and the miller is dead,
And the mill and I are gray.
But both till we fall into ruin and wreck,
To our fortune of toil are bound;
And the man goes and the stream flows,
And the wheel moves slowly round.

The Leisurely Shopper.

National Food Magazine: For four entire hours had the lady remained in the shop. She had visited every department and worried the majority of the salesmen without spending a penny.

Toward the close of the afternoon one of the salesmen feeling somewhat exasperated, ventured to make a mild protest.

"Madam," he asked sweetly, "are you shopping here?"

The lady looked surprised, but not by any means annoyed.

"Certainly," she replied. "But what else should I be doing?"

For a moment the salesman hesitated, then blurted out:

"Well, madam, I thought perhaps you might be taking an inventory."

Then the lady melted away among the shadows by the door.

A Discreet Sportsman.

Fort Plain, N. Y., Standard: Linn McEwan, while fishing recently, caught a fine eighteen-inch black bass in the Canajoharie creek, and sportsmanlike returned it to its water home, because of the closed season for that specie of fish. Game Protector Gauding, being nearby, praised McEwan for his observance of the game law.

Madame Steinheil and Zola.

That mysterious human document recently published under the title "My Memoirs" (Sturgis & Walton company) is not interesting merely as an account of the ghastly double murder of which the author of that book, Madame Marguerite Steinheil, was accused and acquitted. Its sketches of the artists and men of letters who were Madame Steinheil's friends and admirers are to the last degree graphic and lively. Here is one of Zola. Madame writes: "Zola lacked in conversation what he lacked in his writing: delicacy, refinement, lightness. He was heavy, ponderous and rather aggressive.

"I teased him one day: 'How is the chase after human documents going on?' I asked.

"'Quite well, madame. I hunt my quarry everywhere, and all day long. Human documents, slices of life, searching character-studies, that is all there is in literature.'

"'But what of the writer's personality? Is that of no account whatever?'

"'It shouldn't be. I try to eliminate my personality from my books.' . . .

"'And don't you succeed?' I asked.

"'I have the misfortune of being possessed of a temperament which I cannot altogether get rid of, alas,' came the pompous reply.

"Another time, after re-reading 'La Terre,' I told him 'You are a pessimist, Mr. Zola!' You see only one side of life, the ugly and animal side; and but one kind of people, the bad kind. And to cap it all, you exaggerate. You believe yourself a realist, but as a matter of fact, you are an idealist . . . with an ugly ideal!'"

Lucky Enough.

Harper's Weekly: A city woman who recently passed a few days at a farm bought some poultry from the farmer with a view to providing fresh eggs for breakfast every morning. She sent them to town by messenger, at the same time dispatching a note to her husband, telling him to look out for the consignment. Her husband, on reaching his home that night, asked if the poultry had arrived. He was informed that it had, but that the servant had carelessly left the basement door open and all the chickens had escaped. A fowl hunt was immediately organized.

The next day the husband, meeting his wife on her return, exclaimed: "A nice time I had with your poultry. I spent three hours hunting and only found ten."

"You may consider yourself lucky then," replied his wife, "for I bought only six."

SAYS UNCLE SAM PLANS NEW CANAL.

Washington, May 26.—A great Atlantic-Pacific waterway, making a shiproute between the eastern and western coasts of the United States 2,000 miles shorter than through the Panama canal, will be built soon by the United States, in the opinion of Dr. Salvador Castrillo, retiring Nicaraguan minister. Dr. Castrillo, who leaves this week for Europe on an important mission for his government, declared in a statement that he believed a canal treaty would be negotiated between the United States and Nicaragua, and that a canal would be constructed across his country.

Hotel Burns; Guest Missing.

Kirksville, Mo., May 26.—Fire starting in the kitchen of the Willard hotel here destroyed the three-story hotel building, the building of the C. A. Robinson Mercantile company next door, and damaged a grocery store and a hardware store. The total loss was nearly $100,000. One guest of the hotel has not been accounted for.

POPE GRANTS TWO AUDIENCES.

Rome, May 26.—The pope received in audience in consistorial hall Sunday morning 200 persons, including twenty or more Americans. The pontiff appeared in excellent health. In delivering a short address his voice was resonant. He thanked them for the visit, and expressed the wish that for this act of filial piety, God would bless them beneficently.

In the afternoon the pope received in audience a great number of Viennese pilgrims who were accompanied by the Austrian ambassador. This reception took place also in consistorial palace, although it had been arranged to have the pilgrims gather in the court of San Damaso.

MUST SHOW MORE SPEED

Health Department Inspectors Will Work on Schedule Hereafter.

Teamsters Dumping Refuse in Forbidden Spots After Nightfall.

Health department inspectors will no longer be practically sole judges of their individual activities.

Henceforth they will not be able to wander about in a district assigned to them, making four or half a dozen visits a day, or maybe only bestirring themselves sufficiently to call up the office once or twice a day.

Their work will be largely directed from headquarters in the city hall. Not only will they have to show that they have followed the orders which have been issued, but they will have to get results on their own hook. And each day they must turn in a written report of what they have done.

Dr. Webster's recent visits throughout the city demonstrated that Duluth is a long, long ways from approximating a spotless town. He recognizes that handicaps exist, but he says that despite them conditions should be greatly improved. And he puts it up to the inspectors to get results. He declares that any man who cannot show forty or fifty visits a day, and more in the congested districts, is not earning his salt and will be replaced. He announced that efficiency is to be the standard of service and that all employes will be checked up to ascertain whether or not they are doing work which warrants them in continuing on the payroll. A card system has been installed in the health department and through it a complete record will be kept of the numerous branches of work of the department employes.

Dumping At Night.

The residents along the east side of St. Croix avenue, along the lake shore, have not taken kindly to the innovation of having an inspector stationed in their district during the day. To show their overpowering desire to cooperate with the health department in cleaning up one of the filthiest spots in Duluth, they have taken to dumping their garbage and refuse after nightfall, when the inspector is not there to watch them. And if anything they are making things even worse than they were before. Next week a night inspector will start to patrol the district.

Several days ago the Northern Pacific hauled away several flatcars of garbage and refuse which had accumulated along its right-of-way, between the downtown yards and Garfield avenue. Notices that dumping will no longer be allowed have been posted and the special watchmen have been instructed to enforce the rule. Some teamsters have also taken to doing their dumping by night. Last night one of them got stuck in the mire near Garfield avenue. Before he could get away he was corralled by railroad specials. They took his name and address and a warrant for his arrest will be issued today.

Reports are being received of others who are violating sanitary regulations of the department and as soon as the evidence can be collected they will also be haled into the police court. The days of the "bluff" seem to have passed and the indications are that unless certain people change their tactics the health department will do quite a rushing business through the medium of the police.

CHILLY BREEZES DO NOT KEEP CROWDS HOME.

Despite the frigid tendency of the weather yesterday, Duluth spent Sunday out of doors.

Although the breeze from the lake was both cool and brisk, summer garments and summer finery prevailed.

Motor cars were out in full force and a few motor boats were on the water.

The ball game drew a record crowd, which managed to keep warm, at least with enthusiasm.

Quite a number of fishermen—or near ones—made their annual weekly junket to the woods and favorite streams.

The church also drew good attendance at both morning and evening services.

SUFFRAGISTS ARE MOBBED IN LONDON

Women and Men Faint and Children Are Trampled in Rush.

London, May 26.—Victoria park, in the West end, was the scene of rioting Sunday when trades unionists and Socialists attempted to hold a meeting to inspire votes for working women. Fifteen platforms had been erected, elaborately decorated with flags. The crowd stormed a truck on which were Silvia Pankhurst and other militant suffragists, and dragged it outside the park.

Mounted and foot police, by repeated charges, finally drove the crowd away. Women and men fainted in the crush, and children were trampled upon. In many instances the women's clothing was nearly torn off. There were innumerable free fights, and ambulance corps were kept busy.

Suffragists paraded with their colors, the standard bearers wearing red "liberty" caps. This was the cause of disorder. The mob tore the decorations from the platform and carried away the flags as souvenirs.

On Saturday suffragettes attempted to blow up Wheatley hall, at Doncaster, owned by Sir William Cooke. The place was unoccupied. An unexploded bomb and suffragette literature were found under a staircase.

TO VOTE ON BONDS.

Red Lake Falls Election to Provide New School Funds.

Red Lake Falls, Minn., May 26.—A special election to vote on the proposition to issue and negotiate bonds to secure a fund with which to construct a modern public school building in Red Lake Falls will be held Friday, June 6.

It is proposed to issue bonds in the sum of $16,900, the bonds to bear interest at the rate of 4 per cent and to be sold to the state of Minnesota.

The proceeds from the sale of the bonds and the money paid by the insurance companies on policies carried on the building destroyed by fire a few weeks ago will provide the fund for the construction of the new building.

FIRED TWIGE AT HIS WIFE

Arthur J. McLaughlin Fails in Attempted Murder and Escapes.

Police Say He Tried to Force Wife Into Life of Shame.

Arthur J. McLaughlin fired two bullets into the jaw and shoulder of his wife in an unsuccessful attempt to murder her in her room at the boarding house at 222 West Second street Saturday afternoon.

McLaughlin escaped. The police have no clue of his whereabouts. Mrs. McLaughlin was hurried to St. Luke's hospital. She suffers much pain but will recover.

McLaughlin has a poor standing in police circles. The officers characterize him as little better than worthless. The motive they ascribe for his effort to kill his wife is that she refused to enter an immoral resort or become a woman of the streets in order to help support him from her earnings.

Mrs. McLaughlin appeared at police headquarters about four months ago. She told Capt. Fiskett that McLaughlin had threatened her with bodily harm if she refused to accede to his wishes. At that time she was living in Superior. Since that time the troubles of the couple have come to the attention of the officials several times, brought about by McLaughlin's arrest for various petty offenses. The last time he was arrested was for disorderly conduct. He went to a lodging house on the Bowery, where he heard his wife was stopping. The police stated that he was angered because he could not find her there and assaulted another woman who was in the room at the time.

When the police reached the scene of Saturday's shooting they found Mrs. McLaughlin lying in a pool of blood on the floor. She said that her husband had shot her. One bullet went through her jaw, shattering her jaw bone, and the other lodged in the fleshy part of her shoulder.

McLaughlin is said to have been working recently as a switchman in Superior. His wife was Mary Dressel, living at Park Falls, Wis., before her marriage ten years ago.

ITALIANS FALL INTO TRAP LAID BY ARABS

Censorship Prevents Full Reports on Reverses in Tripoli.

Chiasso, Switzerland, May 26.—The strict censorship which the Italian government has imposed on all news relating to the state of affairs in Tripoli, and particularly with regard to the defeat of the Italian forces at Sidi Garba on May 16, has made it difficult to obtain exact information on the recent reverses in the territory. It has been learned, however, that the disaster at Sidi Garba was due to a well-laid plan of the Arabs.

An Italian workman named Michaevelle, who had been taken prisoner by the Arabs, was allowed to escape after being carefully primed with false information, which he carried to Gen. Ganbretti. Instead of waiting to carry out a scheme of co-operation with Gen. Tassoni, who was on his way from Benghazi with a strong force, Gen. Ganbretti, on the strength of Michaevelle's report that the number of the enemy was small, decided to attack alone. Accordingly he divided his 3,000 men into three columns, which were supported by four guns and a battery of howitzers.

Attacked Front and Rear.

After the first flush of victory, the Italian soldiers were resting when suddenly each column was set upon from front and rear and cut off from the others. At the same time they were subjected to a heavy shell fire.

The Italians showed admirable courage and endurance.

Some of the companies lost all of their officers. One advance detachment lost 36 out of 40 men, and it was soon apparent that retreat alone would save the forces from annihilation. Col. Magdalena was shot, and as he lay dying, wrote a report praising his men and recommending for promotion his major, who, although twice wounded, took command.

Gen. Ganbretti, on his return to Derna, said:

"It was the bloodiest day of the whole Italo-Turkish war."

The Italian losses are estimated at 1,000.

SOIL SURVEY WORK IN MINNESOTA COUNTIES.

The survey will be finished in the fall, when the report will be prepared and published later, together with a soil map in colors, showing the locations and extent of the different types of soil, farmhouses, churches, schools, railroads, public roads and streams in the county.

The bureau of soils has made complete soil surveys in Blue Earth and Rice counties, and partial surveys in Carlton, Lyon, Polk and St. Louis counties, Minn.

LOCK UP FAMILY AND ROB HOUSE.

Chicago, May 26.—Burglars took possession of the residence of William Yager early Sunday morning, and after locking the family and the servants in their rooms, cutting the telephone wires and switching off the electric lights, stole $20,000 worth of jewelry. The jewelry had been hidden in a closet of a bathroom. The leather case was cut open in the cellar.

The police are seeking for a butler and maid who left the employ of Yager a few days ago, in the hope that they might give some information about the robbery.

The stolen jewelry consisted chiefly of diamond rings, necklaces and brooches belonging to Mrs. Yager. The robbery was discovered when the servants found themselves locked in and were forced to break out of their rooms.

(BY BRUCE.)

While part of the elements roared, also the people and Comedian Nick Allen, the gallent White Sox yesterday defeated the Minneapolis Bronks by the count of 4 to 3, in a matinee that was unexcelled in the season's offerings in the heart interest and spectacular line.

She were a pitchers' battle, she were. Mr. Robert Unglaub, the late Baltimore & Ohio player, brought out Ralph Comstock, Beau Brummel of the Northern league and also its leading pitcher. Until yesterday's tilt the Comstock boy was credited with seven straight. Peggy Rhoades, who has been hiding his light under a bushel in Superior, was our choice and right well did he fling.

Guest Comstock was nicked for seven blows during the course of the soiree, while pegging Peggy let the opposition down with four whacks, three of these being bunched in the third round. In six of the nine innings the Duluth twirler pitched phenomenal baseball and was unbeatable. In spasms of the other three rounds he showed signs of weakening.

There was a great crowd on hand. Some of the loyal friends of Rhoades crossed the ice on sleighs and sat in the bleachers and yelled encouragement during the heart-breaking rounds. Several of our Duluth people had tonneau's of their automobiles filled with straw and blankets and then had warming stones and little stoves to fight off the cold.

Doubtless you have heard of muffled roars. Yesterday we had the muffled rear. The grandstand was filled with people wrapped to the eye brows with mufflers and bright purple and red scarfs. Thus, one fond of description is perfectly able to state that the grandstand was riot of color. When a glittering play was pulled, and there were several during the waging of the combat, roars would fight their way out of the folds of the mufflers and make the welkin ring with a peculiar buzzing sound.

Vapor Pall.

At one stage of the contest it was thought that the game would have to be called account of breath. It was so terribly cold that the breaths coming from the assembled multitude caused a vapor to hang like a pall over the grounds. When the people began cheering and then settled down to take several long breaths, it was an eagle-eyed task to discern the players through the jet of human throat fog.

From the bell she bore the facial resemblance of a close and thoroughly excruciating combat. The first two innings were unproductive of anything save air-tight twirling. In our first all three batters went out from Comstock to Unglaub.

In the third, after Comstock had grounded to Meniece and Briere had whiffed, Cosgriff singled past third and counted when Grodnick tripled to deep center. Then came Robertus Unglaub with a screaming double against the paling in left and the second run of the inning was in.

Rhoades singled to properly inaugurate our third. O'Brien strolled and business picked up. McGraw attempted to sacrifice, but Allen stopped Rhoades at third by a lightning throw of the benedict's bunt. At this point Miller doubled to left center and the Orator hurried home ahead of the ball. Meniece single through the ingrawn infield and the newlywed and Miller of Sandusky were seated on the bench when the smoke of battle cleared somewhat.

Tree visitors did not threaten again until the eighth. Briere was hit and Cosgriff beat out a teaser down the left foul line. Grodnick advanced the twain by a sacrifice. Unglaub was walked intentionally, for the simple reason that he is a mean and rude person with the bat. Allen came to the rescue of his mates and banged one to McGraw in left, Briere beating the chuck to the plate.

Getting Even.

Dusty Rhoades, remembering that it is quite the thing to double in vaudeville under the names of Smith & Smith, or Bellevlew & Belleview, etc., did some doubling under the name of Rhoades & Rhoades. He swatted the pill on the second ball heaved far over the right field fence, this being the second pellet to be pushed out of the park in this immediate section of the grounds, for know ye that the paling has been set back. Thus did we get back the run of the prevailing round.

In the visitors' ninth there were heart aches, screams, exhortations, faint and dizzy spells and perhaps lumbago and neuralgia superinduced by the excitement coupled with the cold weather.

Vigerust walked to start the gloom. Then Chase, who had taken the place of Enkhause in right field, also walked. The fuss was further complicated by Peggy Rhoades imitation of a green cook trying to do a double flop with a fried egg. He missed and thoroughly mussed Comstock's little grounder and the bases were freighted.

Brier hit to Schreiber and that estimable young gent chucked Vigerust out at the plate. Warner was called to the breach and ordered to hit for Cosgriff. He didn't though—he fanned on three beautifully thrown balls. The issue was up to Grodnick and he flied to Smith and the greatest game of the season was ended.

While Comstock pitched a beautiful game, it must be stated that Peggy Rhoades had as much stuff as any pitcher who has ever worked around these parts. His drop was something beautiful and his breaks were wide and broke sharply. Comstock had everything, but he was hit when hits counted the most, and that is just what a pitcher strives against.

Thomas Zachary Taylor, former performer in left field for the White Sox, was behind the plate and giving decisions in a clear and unspotted tenor voice. His judgment was very conservative and it is quite within the bounds of reason to say that Thomas is about the best that we have had here this season. We hope he will remain.

GRAND FORKS WINS FINAL FROM VIRGINIA.

Grand Forks, May 26.—Grand Forks took the final game from Virginia here yesterday by the loose score of 11 to 10. Rube Waddell was on the mound for two rounds, and the fact that the famous pitcher was billed to appear brought out the largest crowd of the season, there being over 3,000 people present.

The Rube went only two innings, three runs being gathered off his delivery in the second round. Schimmers and Faeth went the rest of the route for the visitors, both of them being hit hard. Virginia gathered more hits than the locals, but the blows of the visitors failed to come at the most opportune times. Two double plays by the locals and a circus catch by Dietrich with three on bases prevented the rangers from taking the contest.

The score: R. H. E.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 26.—Virginia took the second of the series Saturday in a loosely played game. Errors marred the contest. TOOK BOTH GAMES.

Winnipeg Won Double-Header Before Nearly 12,000 Fans.

Winnipeg, Man., May 26.—Nearly 12,000 people celebrated Empire day by watching the Maroons give Winona two bad lacings. In the morning the visitors were walloped by the count of 12 to 1, while in the afternoon the locals took the large end of a 14 to 5 score. Bud Moe performed the iron man act by twirling the Maroons to victory in both games. The morning game was a good one until Umpire Dunleavy put Bell out of the game in the fourth and the locals garnered six runs in this round off Pitcher Reiger. The afternoon was somewhat similar. The visitors took the lead in the seventh but the Flood tribe had a big session, also scoring eight runs in the same inning before the last man was retired. The scores:

ZBYSZKO SUFFERS FRACTURED SKULL

Polish Wrestler Seriously Injured in Match With Le Marin.

Montreal, Can., May 26.—Stanislaus Zbyszko, the Polish wrestler, is suffering from a fractured skull and other injuries as a result of a plunge from the ring to the floor and alleged fouling tactics used by his opponent, Constant Le Marin in a match here Saturday night. While his condition is serious, it is not believed his injuries will prove fatal. The big Pole, however, will be out of the running for some time.

The men had been wrestling only a few minutes when they plunged from the ring. Zbyszko received a bad cut over his left eye in the fall and when the men returned to the ring, the referee had to call time and have the wound stitched as the blood from it had completely covered the wrestlers.

When hostilities began again, the Pole was the aggressor. He had secured a partial crotch and reverse half nelson when the Frenchman, it is alleged, by the referee, fouled Zbyszko so fiercely that the contest was stopped and the decision awarded to the Pole.

Zbyszko rose to his feet, but tottered and fell unconscious. He was taken to a hotel and an examination by the doctors disclosed a fractured skull.

Zbyszko was to have met George Lurich, the Russian wrestler, in New York city Wednesday night.

YALE CONTINUES WINNING STREAK.

Boston, Mass., May 26.—While Yale's crack baseball nine continues to add to its intercollegiate record of consecutive victories—now numbering seventeen—other colleges are gathering strength for the crucial tests of the season which are close at hand.

The past week in Eastern college baseball was notable not only for Yale's repeated success, but also for the strength acquired by the Harvard nine. Pennsylvania and Princeton went down before the Crimson, the latter by a 7 to 0 score.

Princeton will oppose Yale in the first game of their series next Saturday.

Pennsylvania supporters found satisfaction in their team's defeat of Michigan Saturday. The work of the Ithacan nine in pushing Yale eleven innings was accepted by Cornell followers as honor in defeat.

CLOQUET SHUTS OUT TEAM FROM SUPERIOR.

Cloquet, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Cloquet shut out the fast Golden Rule team of Superior in the game played here yesterday by a score 4 to 0. The game was featured by exceptionally good fielding on both sides. Cunningham, the local twirler, struck out ten men and allowed but four scattered hits, while Cloquet gathered eight safe hits off Olson, who also passed four men and struck out five.

Next Friday, Saturday and Sunday Cloquet will play at Brainerd, and a large number of fans will probably take the trip to witness the Sunday game. The score: R. H. E.

FAMOUS FINN RUNNER TO APPEAR IN DULUTH

Hannes Kolehmainen, the winner of the 10,000, 8,000 and 5,000 meter races at the Olympic athletic games at Stockholm, and acknowledged by followers of athletics the world over as the greatest runner in all the history of the world, not even excepting the great W. T. George or that other illustrious Englishman, Alfred Schrubb, will appear in a match race against two men at Duluth Athletic park on the afternoon of June 15, the famous Finn permitting the two men selected to run against him to divide the distance between them.

It is largely through the instrumentality of the great number of Finnish societies of the Northwest that the world's famous athlete has been induced to leave the East for the short tour of the Northwest. Among the Finnish people this man is naturally almost idolized, for perhaps he has brought more fame to that northern nation than any man of recent times.

A poor boy, the son of a brick layer, Hannes entered the Olympic games only because the money necessary to defray the expenses of the trip to Stockholm was provided by the working people of his native city. No one ever heard of Kolehmainen; no one in the world, aside from the few people who held abiding faith in the speed of the boy, ever gave the little Finnish runner a serious thought.

Those victories startled the athletic world and set people to asking who Kolehmainen was. Since the victories at Stockholm the Finnish bricklayer has met all of the greatest runners of the world and his victories at Stockholm have been repeated many times. Today the son of the humble old bricklayer back in Finland is considered without an equal among the runners in all the world.

OPEN SAFE BY MUSIC.

Popular Electricity Magazine: A safe that can be opened by means of a musical tone, and in no other way, has been made by Thorne Baker, electrical expert of the London Daily Mirror.

The safe is made of chilled steel with the regulation knob on the door, but without combination or time lock. Attached to it on the inside are electro-magnets connected by wires with a circuit of batteries. These are in turn connected with another set of dry batteries, which are wired to a curicus looking apparatus that looks like a carpenter's miter box, with a double row of numbers down the inside of the channel. Across this is a gauge, attached to which is an ordinary violin bridge. Over this fret is stretched a music wire of metal, drawn taut to a binding post and passing turough this to form a coil below it and outside the tuning box and thence down into the dry batteries.

This miter box is really a musical scale, set by numbers so that the tone can be gauged up or down by twos as may be desired, to meet the needs of a new combination, or a new tuning fork, if it is desired to thus change the combination or opening note. The music wire, which may be a guitar, banjo or violin string, is selected and gauged to synchronize with the tuning fork used.

When the tuning fork is struck and touched to the top of the safe, the wire inside catches the vibration from the fork and vibrates in sympathy. This vibration passes through the binding post into the outside coil and thence down into the small circuit of dry batteries, mechanically closing this circuit. An electric current is thus started which passes on and is made to close the larger circuit of dry batteries which starts a stronger current moving. This stronger current acts through wires directly on the electro-magnets that throw the bolts on the concealed lock. Once these are thrown, the door may be pulled open.

After the tuning fork and wire are set to the same gauge, no other tuning fork will have any effect whatever upon the lock. As no two tuning forks are exactly alike in pitch, it is obvious that only one tuning fork in the world could open the safe, once it is closed and locked, and only the person possessing the fork could have access to the safe. However, once it is opened, it can be reset to accord with another tuning fork, whereupon the original one is useless.

SLAG AS FERTILIZER.

Philadelphia Ledger: In the course of the investigations made by the bureau of soils of the fertilizer resources of the United States, the possible utilization of the waste products from various industrial processes is receiving serious attention. One of the most important of these by-products, that is at present regarded as s omuch waste, is the slag produced in the manufacture of iron and steel.

The disposal of this slag has become quite a problem, for though small quantities are consumed in the manufacture of cement, brick and mineral wool, and larger quantities for roofing materials, road building and railroad ballast, the vast bulk of the slag produced in this country is thrown away. Near many of the plants all the space available for dumping purposes has been utilized, and in order to dispose of the molten slag a haul of half a mile or more is frequently made necessary.

In foreign countries, particularly Germany, where the iron ores used are high in phosphorus and the basic Bessomer process for the manufacture of steel is largely used, the slag produced is rich in phosphoric acid, and, therefore, finds a ready market as a fertilizer. The iron ore used in this country, however, with the exception of some mined in Alabama, are very low in phosphorus and consequently give slags containing, as a rule, considerably less than 1 per cent of phosphoric acid.

WHY THEY CAME.

London Answers: Willie, aged 4 had been invited out to tea with his mother, and, while he was being dressed for the occasion, the delights in store for him had been depicted in glowing terms.

While his mother chatted with their hostess, Willie sat in solemn silence, and at last the lady of the house rose.

"Now I must bring in tea," she announced, then added: "Would Willie like some tea?"

The child eyed her in astonishment, and, in a deeply hurt tone, responded: "Why, that's what we came for!"

Fargo, secretary of the state game and fish board of control. "The sportsmen will continue to shoot wild water fowl for many years in the fall without interruption. The primary object of the Weeks-McLean bill was the protection of insect destroying migratory birds, not protected under many state laws.

"The Weeks-McLean bill turns over the protection of migratory birds to the United States department of agriculture. The bureau of biology will have charge of working out the regulations for the protection of game under this measure.

"There will be a conference of the heads of this division with the representatives of the state game boards and the state Audubon societies, probably in Chicago in July, when matters governing the birds will be determined and zones arranged in which there will be periods for closed and open seasons for shooting.

"North Dakotans need not fear their favorite sport will be eliminated. The season may be shortened somewhat, but wild ducks and geese will be shot in the fall for many years. As North Dakota is one of the states prohibiting spring shooting, the changes here will be less ardical than those of some other sections of the country. More migratory birds will undoubtedly be added to the protected list."

Pitchers' Battle.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 26.—Cincinnati defeated Pittsburg here yesterday, 1 to 0, in a tight pitchers' battle between Benton and Adams, the former having a shade the best of it. The lone run of the game came in the fourth inning. Bates, first man up for Cincinnati, tripled to deep left and scored soon after on Bescher's long sacrifice hit to Hofman. Pittsburg threatened in several innings, but Benton was able to stop all impending batting rallies. Becker's great running catch of Miller's long drive in the ninth inning, after Wagner had singled, was the stellar feature of the game.

Adams was taken out in the eighth to allow Hendrix to bat for him. Score: R. H. E.

Win Double-Header.

St. Louis, Mo., May 26.—Detroit won both games of the double-header from St. Louis here yesterday afternoon, taking the first contest by a score of 7 to 4 and the second, 8 to 6.

In the first game the visitors hit the St. Louis pitchers hard in the sixth and eighth innings and took advantage of the local twirlers' wildness and their team-mates' errors. In the second contest the visitors bunched their hits in the earlier innings and scored almost enough runs to win. The winning run came in the eighth inning on Cobbs triple and Veach's single.

White Sox Lose.

Chicago, May 26.—Hard hitting by Cleveland combined with poor fielding by Chicago gave the visitors a lopsided game yesterday, 8 to 1. Mitchell, though shaky once or twice, was effective most of the time while none of the three local pitchers could prevent Cleveland hits when they meant runs. Russell, who began the game for Chicago, was knocked senseless by a pitched ball in the sixth inning and although he recovered, was unable to finish the game.

A fumbled grounder by Lord and Russell's muff of a pop fly in the fourth put Olson in a position to score on Ryan's single. Chapman's double followed by a sacrifice and Turner's hit gave the visitors one in the sixth and singles by Jackson and Ryan in the same round were wasted when Russell forced Graney and O'Neill to hit pop flies.

Singles by Johnston and Chapman and Olson's "Cincinnati base hit," filled the bases for Cleveland in the seventh. Turner flied out but Jackson's drive to left scored on a careless throw. A pass to Turner, Jackson's double and two singles added to the Cleveland total in the ninth. Collins double, Zeider's sacrifice and Bodie's sacrifice fly gave the locals their one run in the fifth. For Bright Eyes and Clear Nose

Remarkable Catarrh Cure That Gets Right into the Affected Parts and Stops Gatherings.

S. S. S is a Wonder for the Eyes, Nose and Throat.

It is definitely known that catarrh can be cured by the simple process of inoculating the blood with antidotal remedies that stop inflammatory conditions throughout the mucous linings of all the organs of the body. This is done with the famous Swift's Sure Specific, or, as it is widely known, S. S. S. It is taken into the blood just as naturally as the most nourishing food. It spreads its influence over every organ in the body, through all the veins and arteries, and enables all mucous surfaces to exchange inflammatory acids and other irritating substances for arterial elements that effectually cleanse the system and thus put an end to all catarrhal pollution. S. S. S. cleans out the stomach of mucous accumulations, enables only pure, blood-making materials to enter the intestines, combines with these food elements to enter the circulation, and in less than an hour is at work throughout the body in the process of purification.

You will soon realize its wonderful influence by the absence of headache, a decided clearing of the air passages, a steadily improved nasal condition, and a sense of bodily relief that proves how completely catarrh often infests the entire system. You will find S. S. S. on sale at all drug stores at $1.00 per bottle. It is a remarkable remedy for any and all blood affections, such as eczema, rash, lupus, tetter, psoriasis, boils, and all other diseased conditions of the blood. For special advice on any blood disease write in confidence to The Swift Specific Co., 137 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Do not delay to get a bottle of S. S. S. of your druggist.

ALL OFFICIALS IN FATAL FIGHT WILL BE ARRESTED

Warrants Issued for Burns, Referee, Manager and Seconds.

Death Due to Dislocated Neck and Not to Heart Failure.

Calgary, Alta., May 26.—Warrants were issued early today for the arrest of Tommy Burns, who staged last Saturday's prizefight in which Luther McCarty, world's white heavyweight championship claimant, met his death; William McCarney, McCarty's manager; Referee Smith and several trainers and attendants connected with the fight. This development followed an order from the attorney general at Edmonton, Alta., that all principals in the arrangements for Saturday's fight be arrested, and the Northwest mounted police were instructed to execute the order immediately. It is understood that they will be charged with complicity in manslaughter.

Arthur Pelkey, McCarty's opponent in the latter's fatal ring appearance, who was arrested shortly after the champion's death on a charge of manslaughter, will be given a preliminary hearing in police court at 11 o'clock this morning, but owing to the decision last night of the physicians who conducted the autopsy that McCarty's death resulted from dislocation of the neck and not heart failure, as had first been announced, it is anticipated that the hearing will be adjourned awaiting the result of the coroner's inquest, which will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Dr. Moshier, who conducted the autopsy, will lay his findings before Coroner Costello's jury and it is expected that that body will reach an early decision.

The origin of the fire that late last night destroyed the Burns' arena, where Saturday's fight was held, has not been discovered, but authorities are extending every effort in an endeavor to ascertain whether or not it was caused by incendiaries.

Cause of Death.

Calgary, Alta., May 26.—A dislocated neck caused the death Saturday of Luther McCarty during his fight with Arthur Pelkey, according to information given out last night following the autopsy conducted by Dr. Moshier at the request of Coroner Costello.

It was stated by the physicians that death undoubtedly had been caused by the dislocated neck and that the heart was found to be sound. A clot of blood on the brain aided in convincing the physicians that death was not due to the blow near the heart.

Shortly after the contest began Saturday, McCarty received a sharp jab to the jaw, which sent his head back quickly. It did not appear to have caused any pain and he was on his feet for half a minute. The left to the jaw was followed by Pelkey with a right to the heart region which caused the spectators to believe that the latter blow had brought the knockout.

Physicians are of the opinion that the dislocation of the neck was not sustained in the fall which followed. He fell slowly and did not strike his head.

Shortly before midnight last night the result of the autopsy was made known. The physicians stated the investigation showed that McCarty died as the result of the blow to the jaw which dislocated his neck causing a rupture of the spinal cord and a hemorrhage of the spine. The medical evidence will be produced at the inquest today.

The autopsy held last night and the announcement which followed came unexpectedly and after the belief had become general that death was due to heart failure superinduced by the blow.

Large crowds gathered on the streets yesterday and discussed the events of Saturday which transformed the arena into a bedlam. Surging crowds about the ring after the fall of McCarty tore down ropes and knocked over other spectators in their eagerness to gain points of vantage.

When McCarty wilted to the floor of the ring, the Associated Press representative seized the only telephone at the ringside and sent the flash of the knockout. The onrushing spectators then knocked the telephone to the ground and trampled it out of commission. Other wires were pressed into service and reports were only momentarily delayed.

McCarty's body will be shipped to his birthplace at Hastings, Neb., Monday night.

The fatal ending will have the effect of putting the lid down tight on boxing bouts in Western Canada. Tommy Burns succeeded for just one year in running bouts at his arena located outside city limits.

Betting on Saturday's contest was at two to one on Pelkey holding out for ten rounds, while McCarty was straight five to one favorite for the decision.

It was not generally supposed that Pelkey could assimilate enough science in three weeks to give him a chance with McCarty. Pelkey showed a great deal of improvement over former appearances. In the brief contest he exhibited better judgment of distance than his opponent, and also put more steam into his blows.

It was stated unofficially that as soon as the responsibilities for McCarty's death have been placed, Pelkey will go South to meet "Gunboat" Smith.

Just before the death of McCarty was announced, it developed today, Pelkey had slipped into his street clothes at the request of his trainers, and was whisked down to his hotel in an automobile. It was nat until after he had washed and dressed that he learned of McCarty's death. He started from the hotel when officers arrived and took him into custody.

Brilliant fielding by both teams featured the contest. Score: R. H. E.

AMERICAN POLO TEAM PLAYS PRACTICE GAME.

Hempstead, N. Y., May 26.—Not since the international polo games of two years ago, has such keen and daring action been seen in a match in this vicinity as that yesterday afternoon on the estate of John Phipps at Westbury when the players who will represent America in the coming international matches lined up with a team which proved equally clever. Throughout the game exciting plays kept the 2,000 spectators on edge. Among the on-lookers were the challenging English players.

DO IT NOW

Duluth People Should Not Wait Until It Is Too Late.

The appalling death-rate from kidney disease is due largely to the fact that the little kidney troubles are usually neglected until they become serious. The slight symptoms often give place to chronic disorders and the sufferer may slip gradually into some serious form of kidney complaint.

TED SULLIVAN IS IN DULUTH

Dean of American Baseball Is Spending Day in Our Midst.

Ted Sullivan, famous over the face of the earth as one of the baseball pioneers of the grand old game; author, authority and student, the veteran of some four decades of America's greatest pastime and one of the oldest scouts in the business, is here today. The veteran will leave late today for Winnipeg on business.

Yesterday Mr. Sullivan witnessed the game in Superior, his purpose in stopping over in the village being to watch the work of Schaeur. According to the statement given out today by the old friend of Comiskey and one of his chief baseball advisers, the Superior flinger is far from being ready for fast company. The famous scout declares that as yet Schaeur is just a minor league twirler and should remain that for some time to come.

One of the treasured possessions of Ted is a letter from Former President Taft, in which he pays a glowing compliment to the dean of the national game and gives him a formal introduction to the representatives of this country in all of the countries of Europe, for it is known that Sullivan is going to be ahead of the tour of the White Sox and Giants, which is to embrace many of the countries of the world.

While in Duluth Mr. Sullivan called on President Blume of the Duluth club.

TWEED WINS THE FIRST GOLF GAME

Season Starts Auspiciously on the Links of Northland Club.

The 1913 golf season was formally opened on the Northland links on Saturday afternoon. One of the largest gatherings in the history of the club was on hand, indicating that the interest in the game is very great and auguring that golf is in for the best year of its local history.

Christopher Tweed won the initial contest of the season and thus gets his name on the Pryor handicap cup. Tweed was low man in the Saturday event, his score being three up on bogey.

Some very pretty golf was played, especially when it is considered that it is very early in the season for some of the players, and also that the weather was against the top form.

Following are some of the scores: F. E. House, 1 down on bogey; T. F. Cole, 2 down on bogey; John Markell, 2 down; Ward Ames, Jr., 3 down; R. T. Goodell, 2 down; George H. Crosby, 3 down; Robert Reley, 3 down; Judge Page Morris, 5 down; Pentecost Mitchell, 6 down; R. S. Patrick, 6 down; A. L. Ordean, 6 down; F. S. Finkenstaedt, 7 down; A. H. Comstock, 7 down; C. S. Wilson, 7 down; William Harrison, 7 down; Elmer Whyte, 9 down; J. H. Harper, 10 down; E. P. Alexander, 10 down; H. H. Grace, 12 down; William Moore, 14 down.

SUFFRAGETTES INVADE LINKS

Try to Stop Play for World's Golf Championship.

St. Andrews, Scotland, May 26.—Two militant suffragettes attempted early today to damage the golf links here and so interfere with the opening of play for the amateur golf championship of the world.

The women were interrupted near the seventeenth green by the night guards, who have been on duty in considerable force for over a week, owing to the threats of militant leaders. One of the two women escaped, but the other was caught. She was liberated after being searched, and was not handed over to the police.

The weather was perfect for the opening of today's matches.

The sun shone brightly and a mild breeze was blowing in from the sea, drying up the course and favorably affecting the players, especially the Americans. Douglas Grant of San Francisco, who had entered as a member of the Richmond Golf club in England, scratched at the last moment. Harold Weber of Toledo; C. W. Inslee of the Oneida Community club of New York; W. Heinrich Schmidt of Worcester, Mass.; Campbell D. White of San Francisco and Findlay S. Douglas of the Nassau Country club, Long Island, were all present and ready to start.

ANNUAL AUTO RACE FRIDAY

Preparations Made for Annual 500-Mile Event at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 26.—Final preparations for the third annual 500-mile automobile race to be held at the Indianapolis motor speedway Memorial day here, started at the speedway yesterday. The electrical timing devices were given a thorough test and the arrangements for scoring the drivers were set in order and tried out by the men who will have that work to look after during the race.

It was estimated that fully 15,000 persons watched the drivers give their cars the preliminary speed tests. Each machine entered must be able to make at least seventy-five miles an hour, and there is not a car that will contest that cannot better this figure by several miles. When the timekeepers announced that the cars were exceeding eighty miles an hour, the crowds at the track shouted their appreciation. Some of the machines went as fast as ninety-one miles.

The race this year will assume an international aspect, as several foreign-made cars are entered. England, Germany, France and Italy will be represented with one or more cars, which will be piloted by the best drivers of Europe. Among the better known foreign drivers are Jules Goux, Paul Zucarrelli, Albert Guyot and Theodore Pilette. There will be so many foreigners at the speedway this year, that the management will install an interpreter to look after their wants.

Last year the crowd that filled the large grandstand and overflowed into the automobile parking places, was estimated at 80,000 and an even greater crowd is expected this year. Most of the hotels are booked to their capacity, but plenty of accommodations can be found in private dwellings.

The speedway has been remodeled since the last $50,000 race. The start has been moved farther up the home stretch and a new five-story pagoda, which will house the race officials, timers and newspaper men, has been built to replace the smaller buildings about the track.

BASEBALL REVIEW IN MAJOR LEAGUES

Work of Teams During Past Week Makes Race Interesting.

New York, May 26.—Although the pacemaking clubs in the two major leagues maintained their lead during the baseball week which closed with Saturday's games, there was considerable shifting among the teams following in the wake of the Philadelphia Nationals and Athletics. Quakertown fans have a right to be proud of the type of game being played by their representatives in both leagues. Dooin's men are traveling at a speed which is causing the rival club managers much worry.

Brooklyn managed to hold second place more on account of her early lead, than because of the week's record. It was distinctly a disappointing period for the Superba fans.

The New Yorkers who finished the previous week in third place abdicated in favor of St. Louis, opening with a 14-inning victory over Pittsburg, the Giants proceeded to drop two games to St. Louis and the bad weather caused a postponement of the next three games.

The Cardinals edged into third place by winning four out of five games played with New York and Cincinnati acting the role of stepping stones. Chicago failed to improve its standing, winning two and losing two.

While the Athletics lost 31 points in the American league race the Mackmen held safely to first place, winning three out of five games. Cleveland moved from third to second place, winning four out of six games, including three out of four from Washington and incidentally breaking Walter Johnson's winning streak after the famous pitcher had run ten straight victories in the six weeks of the 1913 season.

American Association.

Chicago, May 26.—The pennant race in the American association was marked by the neck and neck race of Columbus and Milwaukee for leadership. The contest reached a climax in the three-game series between the two teams at Milwaukee where the home club, after going into first place by winning the first two, dropped back to second by losing to Columbus yesterday. Louisville lost a chance to draw up by losing to Kansas City yesterday, the latter's victory served to tighten up the struggle among the leaders.

Badger Crew Wins.

Madison, Wis., May 26.—The University of Wisconsin eight-oared crew Saturday afternoon easily won the mile and a half race from the Minnesota Boat club over the Lake Mendota course. Owing to an accident to two of the Minnesota crew, they being thrown into the water, the others did not finish. No time was taken of the race.

The University of Wisconsin freshmen crew were easy winners over the men in the St. John's Military shell, winning by two boat lengths over a mile and a quarter course in 6:24. The men pulling 5 and 6 in the soldiers' boat rowed ragged and spoiled a good start they made.

Athlete's Death Puzzling.

Chicago, May 26.—Frank Carbone, a member of a physical culture school here, died yesterday from injuries believed to have been received while sparring in the school last Tuesday. The police have been unable to locate the owner of the school or learn the identity of the person with whom Carbone was sparring.

Carbone returned home Tuesday night and told his mother he had been struck in the abdomen while sparring. Next morning he was unable to arise. He became seriously ill yesterday and died before a physician could arrive.

SPECIAL TRAIN FOR THE BANKERS

A special train may be run over the Soo to bring the Twin City delegates to Duluth to attend the twenty-fourth annual convention of the Minnesota Bankers' association, which will be held in this city July 10 and 11. Minneapolis expects to send 100 delegates and St. Paul nearly that number.

The delegates will be met by a local reception committee which has arranged a good program of entertainment. The visitors will be taken on a trip to the steel plant while here.

Minnesota iron mines are making millions every year for their stockholders. Read Mutual Iron announcement on page 15, mining section.

STATE RECEIVES BIG INCOME FROM MINES

According to estimates made in the office of the state auditor, the income from state iron mines is becoming larger and it appears that it now amounts to about $1,000,000 a year. This amount goes to the state school fund, for the land mined is school land. Shipments from state lands, it is estimated, will be about 2,000,000 tons this year, about twice the amount shipped during last year. The amount of money mentioned as going into the state school fund comes entirely from royalties for ore taken from the lands, the state getting 25 cents a ton royalty. Rental fees and minimum royalty payments also are counted in.

SETTLER ANSWERS WIFE'S COMPLAINT

Edward Nickson, homesteader near Ely, who was made defendant in a divorce suit filed by Elizabeth Nickson, his wife, in district court about a week ago, Saturday filed an answer in which he interposes a general denial to charges of cruelty which are preferred.

Nickson declares that his wife is dissatisfied because she is obliged to live on a homestead instead of residing in the city. He admits chastising the children, but claims that it was not unreasonable.

Nickson also asserts that his wife is not as sweet tempered as she might be or as she would have the court believe. Nickson states his objections to paying her temporary allmony of $40 a month on the grounds that he cannot afford it.

The defendant asks that the case be heard on the range, instead of Duluth.

GILBERT TEAM GETS SHUT-OUT

Walloped By Eveleth By One-Sided Score of 18 to 0.

Eveleth, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eveleth shut out the Gilbert ball team in the Sunday game here. The visitors were unable to solve the article handed them by Foster, who allowed but one hit in the entire game, while only two Gilbert men got as far as the second bag. It was a spectacular game, the wide difference in the score notwithstanding. Boyle in the box cleaned over the back fence, has performed beautifully behind the bat for the home team, while his base running was one of the features of the game. Other features were the home run of Boyle and the fielding of Meehan for Gilbert.

Played Fifteen Innings.

Virginia, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Baseball fans at the Virginia-Hibbing game here Sunday afternoon saw big league ball played in a fifteen-inning contest at Oliver park. The game stood 1 and 1 at the end of the eighth and a tie at 3 and 3 at the end of the ninth inning. Then in six more innings Hibbing failed to score and in the fifteenth Foy for Virginia, made one run with one man out. Manager Overpeck of the Mohami's used Tedisco on the mound to and through the eighth and Bert Rosevear, an old time range player, finished the route. For Hibbing, D. Booth did the slinging to the ninth when Dave Williams went to the box. It was a pitchers' battle strictly after the ninth and the batters went out in one, two, three order, generally. Errors and slow throws prevented Virginia from winning the game earlier. Both teams made strenuous objections to decisions of Umpire McMahon of Gilbert. Hibbing won the Saturday game against the Mohamis by a score of 6 to 3. Hibbing's defeat Sunday takes the team out of the 1000 per cent column in the trolley league for the first time this season.

Chisholm-Biwabik Result.

Chisholm, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Biwabik got an even break with Chisholm winning the Saturday's game, 5 to 2, and Chisholm winning Sunday, 7 to 5. In the Saturday game Jensen pitched an errorless game and yesterday Blazing made a home run in the eighth with the score a tie, bringing in two men besides himself and giving Chisholm a lead of three. Biwabik got another score in the ninth making them five scores for the game.

The weather was cool throughout both games. The field was in better condition than during the last series with Hibbing, having had a chance to settle where it was recently filled and giving the surface a hardened appearance. This added materially to making the game faster throughout. The score Sunday:

FOTOPOULOS TO HAVE HEARING

Companion of Murdered Hibbing Greek to Be Examined Before Judge.

Hibbing, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The authorities appear to have learned little additional in the case of Pames Karas, the local Greek, who was murdered Friday night presumably by highwaymen, on the private road to a resort a mile and a half east of town except that his hat was found about seventy rods from his body indicating he ran while being shot at.

In order to ascertain, if possible, something additional the state, will, in accordance with the finding of the coroner's jury, examine Tom Fotopoulos the Greek who was with Karas when the murder occurred. Assistant County Attorney Boyle is here for the preliminary examination which will be conducted this afternoon before Judge Brady.

The body of Karas is being held pending further investigation.

ANNEXATION HAS DIVIDED HIBBING

Mass Meeting Tonight to Discuss Taking Over Village of Alice.

Hibbing, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The people of Hibbing are divided into two camps upon the question of the feasibility of annexing the adjoining village of Alice in accordance with the resolution passed by the village council of that place—one side favoring the proposition and the other opposing. The opponents are said to be in the majority. They live in the north end of town, or at least, own property there, and object to the proposed annexation on the ground it may tend to depreciate the value of their property for renting purposes.

Both sides will be heard at a mass meeting to be held in the village hall tonight to discuss this all absorbing question. Alice is a growing community and many see mutual benefits to the two towns in the proposed annexation. It is expected that Rupert Swinnerton will preside at tonight's meeting and that there will be animated speeches on both sides.

DULUTHIANS LOSE AT TWO HARBORS

Elks' Nine Defeated 9 to 3 During Very Chilly Weather.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Playing in almost zero weather the local baseball team defeated the Elk team of Duluth by the score of 9 to 3 here yesterday afternoon. There was a good attendance at the park when the game was called but owing to the extremely cold weather many left before the game was over. Stevens, who was on the mound for the visitors, pitched good ball with the exception of the third and fifth frames. In these two innings the locals made seven runs. Roberts for the locals pitched a steady game throughout and while he only struck out four men he allowed but four hits. Owing to the cold weather errors and wild throws were very plentiful on both sides.

The local team has won every game so far this year by big margins and Manager W. B. Woodward is anxious to take on some games with teams which will offer more opposition to the local team. The score:

CURED TERRIBLE HUMOR ON FACE

Could Not Go On Street Without Veil. Tells What Resinol Did For Her.

Philadelphia, Dec. 16, 1912.—"In December, 1908, my face became sore. I tried everything that was recommended, and my face got worse instead of better. I spent over $100 and got no benefit. The face and nose were very red and the eruption had the appearance of small boils, which itched me terribly. I cannot tell you how terrible my face looked—all I can say is, it was dreadful, and I suffered beyond description.

"I have not gone on the street any time since 1908 without a veil, until now. Just four months ago a friend persuaded me to give Resinol a trial. I have used three cakes of Resinol Soap and less than a jar of Resinol Ointment, and my face is perfectly free from any eruption, and my skin is as clear and clean as any child's. It is about four weeks since the last pimple disappeared." (Signed) Mrs. M. J. Bateman, 4256 Viola St.

Practically every druggist sells Resinol Ointment (50c and $1.00) and Resinol Soap (25c) but if you are suffering from itching, burning skin troubles, pimples, blackheads, dandruff, ulcers, boils, stubborn sores, or piles, it will cost you nothing to try these soothing, healing preparations. Just send to Dept. 26-S, Resinol, Baltimore, Md., for a free sample of each.

Have Color in Your Cheeks —Be Better Looking— Try Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients.

These Olive Tablets oil the bowels—yet have no oily taste. They are a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil.

If you want a clear pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause. Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c per box.

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own." Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

Beautiful weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 4:20 and it will set at 7:49 this evening, giving fifteen hours and twenty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four to forty-eight hours light to heavy rains fell over the Upper Mississippi valley and Atlantic states, Lake region and the greater portion of the Northwest and the Middle West. Heavy to killing frosts occurred last night in Northeastern Minnesota and Northern Michigan. Rather high temperature prevailed Saturday and Sunday in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. Conditions favor mostly fair weather at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours. Many reports are missing on account of inefficient telegraph service."

ASK REHEARING OF MURDER CASE.

Panama, May 26.—A petition bearing 3,000 signatures has been sent to President Wilson requesting the reopening of the case of J. Frank Houston of Kentucky, a Panama canal employe who was recently sentenced to ten years' imprisonment for killing Harry Stern at Gatun on Feb. 8, on account of jealousy arising out of correspondence that had passed between Stern and Mrs. Hougston.

Burch, as attorney for the department of justice in suits against lumbermen for the recovery of White Earth Indian reservation lands, and it is reported that the position may go to Daniel W. Lawler or John W. Wills. Mr. Lynch said that a Democrat is to have the position, and that Mr. Burch had failed in his work.

Coincident with the announcement that Mr. Lynch is to dictate the appointment of Burch's successor, Maj. Howard, Indian agent at White Earth, charged that Gus Beaulieu and John Carl of White Earth packed the recent Cass Lake council of the Chippewa tribe, in order that Daniel B. Henderson and Thomas F. Woman's Realm

The first day of the finance campaign for the Young Women's Christian association, which will be conducted all week by the board of directors, the members of the finance committee and their assistants, was most satisfactory and at noon today $1,291 had been subscribed for the fund. The campaign is a repetition of last year's successful campaign, started for the purpose of raising funds to carry the association through the year and which has been made an annual affair.

The women met at the association building this morning at 9 o'clock and after a short devotional service, conducted by Miss Frances Crittenden, city secretary of the North Central territorial committee of the national board, Miss Clara I. Taylor, also of that committee, explained the working plan of the campaign, the card system used and other details of the work and the women started out for subscriptions.

Returning to the Y. W. C. A. building this noon for luncheon, reports were made and announcement made of the amount donated by calling and posting on a large blackboard. The results of the campaign will be announced each day at noon.

The women are canvassing the city, each one taking so many office buildings and visiting business men.

The membership campaign which was started the first of last week, has been most successful and the members of the two companies are working for members and have obtained a large number of new names on the rolls and many memberships which have run out for a year or so have been renewed, making a most pleasing showing. All women interested are asked to assist in this work if they care to, and any who care to join the association and receive the double value of the membership privileges and the privileges of sharing in the upkeep of the institution, which has proved its worth—who are not reached by the members of the teams working in this campaign, are invited to send in their names to the office of the association.

Unashamed to Be Human.

Whatever else I may be ashamed of let me not be ashamed of being human, writes Dr. Frank Crane in Woman's World.

I may well blush for my little store of knowledge, for it might have been greater; and for my imperfect wisdom, which might have been sounder; for my sins, that might have been fewer; and for my righteousness, which is paltry enough.

For excesses, lacks, and want of balance, I may be justly blamed, but for any genuine human feeling I have no right to hang my head.

So I dare say frankly that I love to eat and to drink, I love woman and the child, I love my slippered ease and a crack with good company, I love adventure and the shining sail, I love a rousing book, a clever play and a fair fight.

And whatever pride or joy is built upon the contempt of others I hate.

The best part of the heritage the twentieth century brings me is the privilege of being wholly human and not ashamed of it. To quote from William Watson's recent poem:

For now the hour of dreams is past;
The gibbering ghosts depart;
And Man is unashamed at last
To have a human heart.

MATINEE MUSICALE SYMPOSIUM

Suggestions on Methods By Which Organization May Extend Influence in Developing Musical Talent of Duluth.

Suggestions for the work of the Matinee Musicale, points along which development would be most beneficial and especially the co-operation of the musicians with the schools for the development of music among the children, made the "Matinee Musicale Symposium" at which Mrs. John A. Stephenson, president of that club, was hostess Saturday afternoon at her home, 1931 East First street, a valuable and interesting afternoon.

The active and special members of the club were guests at the "Symposium." A report by Mrs. George S. Richards on the biennial convention of the National Federation of Musical Clubs was presented clearly and briefly covered the main points. "The main object of the federation," she said, "is to develop, encourage and promote our own native talent."

Mrs. Stephenson said that one of the main points made at the convention was that the clubs should not give their attention alone to their own development but that they must look outside and do things on a broad scale for the widening of the sphere of music.

"Our first aim outside of the club itself," she said, "seems to be drawn towards the schools and we wish to co-operate with them in ways that we can and help make music mean something to the school children."

Praise For The Herald.

Resolutions expressing the appreciation of the Matinee Musicale in the work done by The Duluth Herald for the cause of music by giving free band concerts during the summers in the parks and of the new city administration which will take over this work and arrange the free concerts, were adopted and voted sent to The Herald and Mayor Prince.

The suggestion was made that the choral work in the schools might be strengthened and stimulated by the arranging of contests among the various schools for a silver cup and the giving of a big concert by school children at the close of the year.

Miss Clara Thomas, musical director of the schools, declared her eagerness for the support of the Matinee Musicale, Miss Taylor of the normal school sent a request that the Matinee Musicale send programs there during the school year; Miss Agnes Wells of the high school asked that the club stand back of the high school students in their work with their school concerts and orchestra; Mrs. A. B. Siewert suggested that much value could be obtained by the addition of a course on music and harmony in the high school. "A study of harmony," she said, "is of as much value for mind training as higher mathematics and would be of real value to the students."

Other music teachers suggested that the giving of credit for music work in the school courses would sustain instead of discourage outside work in music and other points were brought out.

Miss Mary Syer Bradshaw sang a group of darky songs during the afternoon which were delightfully given and the meeting closed with a social hour.

Resolutions Adopted.

The resolutions follow:

"Whereas, The Matinee Musicale has taken great pleasure in the generosity of The Duluth Herald, whereby band concerts have been held in the public parks of Duluth during three consecutive summers and only discontinued when the city council voted to add music as a feature of city government, a year ago last February; therefore be it resolved:

"That the Matinee Musicale hereby extends to the publishers of The Herald an expression of our appreciation of the service that has been rendered the cause of good music and of recreation for the citizens of Duluth and that we recognize the important influence that has been exercised by The Herald in thus being the pioneer in the cause of public concerts.

"Resolved:

"Whereas, we have been given to understand that the new city administration under Mayor Prince proposes to carry on the good work begun by The Herald and which though sanctioned by the former council has been allowed to lapse; therefore be it resolved:

"That the Matinee Musicale of Duluth wishes to extend to his honor, the mayor, and the city officials an expression of the satisfaction with which we hail this new advance in city government, believing as we do that nothing contributes more largely to the pleasure and contentment of the people than the opportunity to listen to and enjoy good music.

"We are delighted to find that the city administration is caring for the idealistic uplift of our people as well as their material prosperity.

"Resolved:

"That a copy of these resolutions be sent to The Duluth Herald, also to his honor, Mayor Prince, and spread on the minutes of the Matinee Musicale."

Signed,
MRS. JOHN A. STEPHENSON,
President.
MRS. K. A. OSTERGREN,
Committee.

CUT OFF BY TIDE.

Here's an Old-Fashioned School Reader Story in Real Life.

London Chronicle: Cut off by the swiftly rising tide while gathering shellfish on the coast of the Isle of Wight, three little children were drowned. Their bodies have been recovered.

They were the children of George Salter, an agricultural laborer, living at Stitch Cottage, Chilton, and left their home to gather winkles on the rocks at Sudmore Point, Brighstone, about midway between St. Catherine's Point and the Needles.

As they did not return to tea their parents became anxious. The father set out to look for them and searched all along the shore and cliff until darkness set in, but could discover no trace of them. He then informed the coastguard, three of whom, together with the father, continued the search with the aid of bicycle lamps and lanterns.

They failed to find any trace of the little ones, but another coastguard from Brooke, patrolling the shore at 2:30 yesterday morning, found the bodies of the two younger children lying on the sand about half a mile from the ledge of the rocks where they were drowned. The body of the third victim was found later.

The tragedy is rendered the more piteous by the fact that only a month ago the parents lost a baby girl, so they have been deprived in a month of four out of five children.

The fishermen state that at the point where the tragedy occurred the tide rushes in very quickly between the rocks near the shore, leaving the rocks farther out dry for a while. The children, absorbed in their task, evidently got out too far, and when they attempted to return to the shore found that they were cut off. Two keepers on the cliff above saw them on the rocks at 4 o'clock, but the tide was then very low, and they thought nothing more of the matter, as children frequently go out winkling in this district.

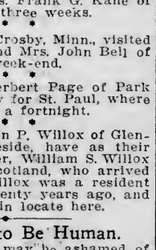
Women May Do Wonders in Practical Good Works.



I have had occasion once or twice before in this column to speak of the lofty ideals and ideas of the wife and daughters of President Wilson. Every once in a while something happens to increase my admiration for these women of the White House. Surely they are living fully up to their opportunity to set magnificent examples to the great body of American women who really desire to do something practical toward making life easier and happier for the unfortunate, and this world in general a better place in which to live. And their splendid example cannot but prove an inspiration to all right-minded women.

We do not hear so much of these Wilson women shining in society, or cutting the social swath which they might easily do in their positions. True, indeed, they figure in numerous social events in Washington, but they are only those which their standing as women of the chief executive's household impose. Certain social duties are incumbent upon them, as an obligation both to the president and to the nation of which he is the head. These they discharge gracefully and well. But their hearts are not in this sort of thing, and they endeavor to keep social activities in their proper relation with other things.

They are much interested privately in art, music and other forms of culture, but first and foremost are they interested in all movements for social welfare. One of the daughters is a leader in Y. W. C. A. work, another does practical work along sociological lines and Mrs. Wilson herself takes an active part in all movements which point the way upward.

Only recently Mrs. Wilson took the initiative in seeking to abolish the tenements of the national capital. She visited the homes of the lowly and the poor and enlisted the aid of congressmen and others who could render practical assistance. As the result the poor people of Washington are certain to have hygienic, healthful, attractive homes in the future, rather than the miserable haunts of sordid squalor which has been their lot heretofore.

All of us women, who are in more or less ordinary or humble station in life, cannot do, perhaps, what the "first ladies of the land" can accomplish; we have not the position or influence at our command. But there is not one of us who cannot do something in our own communities along these practical, helpful lines. Some of us can lead in starting these movements, while others can follow and give assistance.

Are you living up to your opportunities in this way?

You need only three minutes to make a perfect bisque from Campbell's Tomato Soup.

Making tomato bisque used to involve much time and labor. But with this favorite Campbell kind at hand, all you have to do is add a small pinch of baking-soda to the contents of the can; heat it in a stew-pan; heat separately a canful of milk; mix them; bring them to boiling-point and serve. Don't let them boil.

You'll have a far more delicious bisque than you could ever make in the old way with all its trouble and fuss.

Try it tonight and see.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

AROUSING CRITICISM

North Dakota State Banking Board Assumes Extraordinary Power.

Will Attempt to Decide When Community Needs a Bank.

Bismarck, N. D., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota state banking board passed a resolution at a recent session here which challenges anything in the history of the state in its extraordinary assumption of power. The resolution was introduced by Governor Hanna and received the support of Secretary of State Hall and Public Examiner Severtson, but was vigorously opposed by Attorney General Miller.

The resolution, in brief, provides that when an application is received by the secretary of state for a charter for a bank the same shall be referred to the state banking board. This board will then undertake to decide whether or not the bank is needed in the locality for which the charter is asked, and also as to whether or not the individual or individuals making the application are suitable persons to operate such a bank.

Attorney General Miller opposed the resolution on the ground that it was unconstitutional and in conflict with sound public policy. The resolution has been the subject of a great deal of criticism. It is claimed that it strikes at the very foundations of free competition. It is pointed out that if the state board can decide when a community needs a bank, and who is fitted to manage such a bank, the state printing board can just as well decide when a community needs a newspaper and who is a fit person to conduct such newspaper. It is argued that the state might just as well attempt to decide when a community has enough grocery stores, general stores, elevators, mills and ice cream parlors as to attempt to say when it has enough banks.

This resolution, in connection with the high rate of interest being charged in North Dakota by banks, is expected to be the object of more criticism than any other act of Governor Hanna during his entire administration. All classes of business men fear that, with such power given to the state banking board competition among banks will be curtailed and that, as a result, interest rates will remain at their present all but prohibitive height and other business throughout the state will be correspondingly crippled.

JANES QUITS STATE.

Assistant Attorney General Goes With Great Northern Road.

St. Paul, Minn., May 26.—Alexander L. Janes, assistant attorney general, has tendered his resignation to Attorney General Lydon A. Smith, who accepted it and immediately announced the appointment of Judge J. C. Nethaway of Stillwater to his staff.

Mr. Janes will be associated with A. D. Countryman, trial counsel for the Great Northern railway. Mr. Janes was active in the 1912 campaign and was on the stump for the Republican ticket for several weeks. He is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and was appointed to assistant attorney general by George T. Simpson about three years ago. He has served as county attorney in Pipestone county and it was his work in that position that attracted the attention of Mr. Simpson.

Judge John C. Nethaway, Stillwater, who has been named assistant attorney general to succeed Mr. Janes, will come to the department with a legal training before the bar and judicial and other official positions. He has frequently been mentioned as a possible candidate for attorney general on the Republican ticket and many thought that he would be named to succeed George T. Simpson when the latter resigned late in 1911. He has been city attorney of Stillwater, county attorney of Washington county and has held other positions.

"Every fact is a solemn thing; it is the voice of truth in nature." Emerson

And we bring a new and portentous fact. Nature has decreed that Picric and Citric acids combined in test tube will coagulate and determine the presence and amount of another of her products, viz., albumen.

Thus when albumen is disappearing in a case of Bright's Disease, Nature's agents will establish the fact.

Hence the curability of Bright's Disease by Fulton's Renal Compound is not a question but a fact in Nature that any open minded scientist can prove who cares to take the time.

But like all of Nature' proceses, it is deliberate. Hence it should be invoked before the patient is in crisis. Even food can be taken to a starving man too late.

The heart and tonic treatment given by physicians in this disease does not conflict with the Renal Compound—the motive of which is to prevent the escape of albumen—the reaction necessary to recovery.

If you have Bright's Disease you owe it to yourself and family to try Fulton's Renal Compound before giving up.

"Tell Me the Secret"

"How do you make such delicious muffins? Mine are always so dry. And if I make the batter thin they fall. How do you do it?"

"I make them about as you do, only I use K C Baking Powder. Mine always turn out well, so it must be the baking powder."

It is the baking powder. To make muffins, cakes and pastry rich and moist, yet light and feathery, a modern double acting baking powder must be used—one that will give off leavening gas in the oven as well as in the mixing bowl.

KC BAKING POWDER

is really a blend of two baking powders, one of which starts to raise as soon as moisture is added. The other is inactive until heat is applied. This sustains the raise until your muffins, biscuits or cake is done.

K C Baking Powder costs less than the old fashioned quick acting kinds, yet you need use no more and it is superior to them in every way.

IRONTON-SPIRIT LAKE-SMITHVILLE

STEEL PLANT FACTS FOR INVESTORS:

As every one knows, a great steel plant is being built by the United States Steel Corporation at Spirit Lake, Minnesota. Our townsite is immediately adjoining the Steel Plant location and on the City of Duluth side; all city improvements, street cars, water works, gas, etc., must pass through it before reaching the plant. The location is ideal, and one of the most beautiful places at the Head of the Lakes.

Lots at Spirit Lake-Ironton-Smithville are adjoining the site of the Steel Plant and between Duluth and the Steel Plant. They are near enough to the great buildings and works being erected that employes can walk to and from their work. There will be large industries along the water front at Spirit Lake and Ironton, in addition to the United States Steel Plant, and these lots will be only a few blocks from such industries.

The street car line from Duluth will pass through our properties on its way to the Steel Plant and will be extended before the end of this year. Water mains will be extended to the Steel Plant's Model Town, and when so built will furnish city water and gas, thus affording all modern conveniences of an up-to-date city.

It already has stores, school, Finnish college, hotel, two railroad stations and steamer dock with a 20-foot depth of channel. The Northern Pacific R. R. main line to St. Paul and Minneapolis, also line to Fond du Lac and the Canadian R. R. to Winnipeg pass through it.

The announcement by the United States Steel Corporation of the expenditure at once of $1,300,000 in building a model city northeast of its plant at Spirit Lake adjoining Ironton and Smithville is another very interesting piece of news for Duluth and illustrates what an immense undertaking the erection of the Steel Plant is and that it is backed by financially strong people.

The immense amounts of money being expended simply as side issues of the Steel Plant proper ought to make people sit up and take notice of what a huge undertaking it is—$600,000 for one bridge connecting the Steel Plant site with its Belt Line railway, $1,000,000 for Belt Line railway, $250,000 for sites for docks and terminals, $1,750,000 for cement plant and now $1,300,000 for a model town.

The location of the model town adjacent to Ironton means that will be the business and residence center of the Steel Plant district and a very striking coincidence is the fact that this location is almost identical to the center of Duluth's main business district, viz., Third Ave. West and Superior Street. There are today three distinct business districts in Duluth, viz., Third Ave. West and Superior St.; Twentieth Ave. West and Superior St., one in the center of West Duluth, and the next will be at Spirit-Lake-Ironton.

BUSINESS CENTERS

At Ironton, at this point, the topography of the land is such as to establish the business center there. The Steel Plant property on the south creates a situation similar to the Third Ave. West district, where property is between $2,000 and $3,000 per front foot.

The Steel Company has located its town north of the plant for several reasons, it being that much nearer Duluth, hence easier reached by street cars, and as the prevailing winds are from the northeast, the town won't suffer from the cement plant dust and smoke and gases which from such a big institution are a serious drawback to property lying too close.

Without disparaging any other properties, there are no lots on the market that combine all of the natural advantages and will increase so rapidly in value as the lots at Spirit Lake-Ironton-Smithville.

DENOUNCES WAR AND ARMED PEACE

Rev. M. S. Rice Says Glory of America Is Volunteer Soldier.

"These shall make war with the lamb and the lamb shall overcome them."—Revelations 17:14.

Rev. M. S. Rice, pastor of the First Methodist church, took that text from the closing book of the Bible as a basis for his address yesterday morning on "War on War." Dr. Rice declared that the kindly grace of peace will some day put war out of business even though men instinctively fight. He observed that the carrying of firearms by individuals has been prohibited and has proven a good thing, and he expressed the belief that in the not far distant future it will be found and acted upon that what is good in the individual will be found good in the nations, and disarming will be the result.

"I have been interested," he said, "in watching the development of battleships just at the time when it seems clear that they will all be displaced. Airships and aeroplanes will doubtless render them useless. It seems clear that when another European war breaks out it will be settled not by armies and navies, but by hunger—a most complete stoppage of commerce.

"Just in proportion as the people have become their own rulers, so have wars begun to disappear. Self-government is making more rapid strides among the world's people than any other political fact, and that is our country's contribution. Thank God, our wars have been few and they have had great cause of human rights in them. The glory of America is her volunteer soldier. When America fights with professional troops she will no longer be America, but must take her place with the rest of the militant world under mob rule.

"We scarcely realize today just what the world in its individual disputes has learned to settle in courts, and just what the great significance is that lies in the fact that we come far nearer justice in our courts than we ever did in physical battle. It it surely high time that the governments of the world should find a way to replace suspicion and farce by reason and law. A world-wide sentiment against war and the folly of an armed peace is bound to win at last."

During his sermon Dr. Rice referred to The Herald editorial on war Saturday evening and warmly commended it.

LITTLE CHICKEN FOUND IN SOUP

North Dakota Food Expert Analyzes So-Called Chicken Soups.

Agricultural College, N. D., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Some chicken soups placed on the market in the United States are merely rice soups flavored with chicken. They also are illegally labeled, failing to comply with the national and the North Dakota laws on thas subject.

This finding has been made by the North Dakota department of pure foods, of which Prof. E. F. Ladd is the head, and he publishes the results of analysis made of eight different brands of chicken soup found on the market in this state. These soups were labeled "condensed" and "concentrated" chicken soups, the average of the eight disclosing the following ingredients:

Boiled rice, 27.18 per cent; meat extract, 3.54 per cent; meat fibre, 8.1 per cent: salt, 2.05 per cent; water, 59.12 per cent.

Beef was substituted for chicken in some instances. In one can a piece of chicken with an abscess on it was found.

Leon A. Congdon made the analysis under the direction of Prof. Ladd, and he makes a striking comparison of the food values of these soups.

NO TUBE UNDER PANAMA CANAL.

Panama, May 26.—A plan for the construction of a tunnel under the canal, which was recently forwarded to Washington with a favorable recommendation, has now been abandoned, it is understood, by Col. George W. Goethals, chief engineer. This is due to the excessive cost as shown by the final estimates. The construction of a bridge or a ferry boat system will be taken into consideration.

POET'S ASHES SCATTERED.

Joaquin Miller's Wishes Regarding Funeral Are Observed.

Oakland, Cal., May 26.—The ashes of the late Joaquin Miller, poet of the Sierras, were scattered yesterday among the flames of a funeral pyre that had been built by the poet's own hands. The ceremony was held at the Miller home, The Heights, situated in the picturesque hills near Oakland. The Bohemian club of San Francisco was in charge of the rites, which were witnessed by more than 500 persons, including the poet's widow and daughter, Juanita, and many old-time friends.

The services were short but impressive and were in accordance with Miller's dying wishes. At their conclusion Col. John P. Irish of Oakland mounted the steps of the pyre.

"This," said Col. Irish, "is not an occasion for mourning, but for rejoicing. We are here not to mourn the death of Joaquin Miller, but to rejoice that through his genius he still lives."

Col. Irish then applied a torch to oil-soaked fagots on the pyre. As the flames shot upward, he took the copper urn in which the poet's ashes had been sealed, and gave them to the fire. Instantly a jealous wind whipped the ashes from the flames and bore them away. A chorus of sixty voices of the Bohemian club sang "Good Bye," a poem of Miller's.

The exercises began with a brief speech by Charles K. Field, president of the Bohemian club. He recited that Miller had asked the club to take charge of his remains and burn them on The Heights, and that the club had endeavored to carry out the request so far as it was able.

Prof. William Dallam Armes of the University of California made the chief address.

UNIVERSAL CHURCH FOR ALL MANKIND

Rev. George R. Gebauer Says Men of Many Churches Are in Union.

"The Holy Catholic Church" was the subject of a sermon by Rev. George R. Gebauer, pastor of the First Unitarian church, yesterday. He said in part:

"The idea of the Holy Catholic church contains deep truth. That Catholic church is not the Roman Catholic church, for that church is limited. It does not appeal in many of its teachings to the universality of man's spirit, akin to God. That universal church is rather the Roman ideal of the church idealized and spiritualized. It is the church of all, who 'struggle and aspire.' It is the church of which Samuel Longfellow sings: 'Her priests are all God's faithful sons.' It is the church so infinitely wider than Roman Catholicism, that it includes it, though it be excluded by it. In that Catholic church there is room for the shrines of all denominations of Christendom and God-seeking heathendom. It is the church of today in the hearts of the few, but it will be the church of all some day. That universal church is built upon the high mountain of moral and spiritual life, and there is not one way, but many paths that lead to its height. From a hundred different religious camps are leading narrow and rugged pathways to the mount of God. And when the climber has reached the top he finds himself in the presence of a goodly company of free souls of many churches and religions, who have come up by other paths. But all alike have left behind them the camp fires in the valley and rejoice in higher view of life. These free souls constitute the "communion of saints." Thus the invisible catholic church has its membership in many churches. Her priests are all those who believe in the Christ of freedom, love and truth; her prophets and seers are all those who see that the Christ of truth and love may be one thing to John and another to Thomas, but nevertheless a Christ of truth and love to either.

"And such as live in that holy communion are not only priests and prophets, but workers in the kingdom of God. They will show and prove their faith not in words, but by their works. They are foremost in all that concerns the good in man, for they feel their kinship with the spirit of the universe which worketh for righteousness. They realize that to be worthy of the God life in us, we must attach our souls to the over-soul and act in harmony with the divine forces in the universe."

FUNERAL OF VICTIM OF HIGHWAYMEN

Body of William Messmer Brought to Duluth From Ortonville, Minn.

The funeral of William Messmer, believed to have been killed near Ortonville, Minn., by highwaymen last Thursday night, was held this afternoon from the home of his sister, Mrs. F. H. Frerker, 822 East Second street, the body having arrived here this morning. Messmer was a son of John G. Messmer of Hibbing, and was working as surveyor at Farmingdale, S. D., for the Milwaukee road.

He and a companion, Leslie Yarher, of Morris, Minn., had left Ortonville on Thursday evening to get a suitcase belonging to the latter from a construction camp not far distant. On Friday morning their horribly mutilated bodies were found on the tracks. In view of the fact that both bodies had been robbed, it is believed that they had been waylaid and murdered and their bodies placed on the tracks to give the impression that they had been killed by a train. No train passed that point for several hours after the time it would take the men to get to the construction camp, which they never reached.

Messmer was known to have cashed a check for $45 at Ortonville, and to have spent very little of it.

WOMAN DESERTS STEPMOTHER ROLE

John B. Dawson Granted Divorce From His Absent Wife.

Alice C. Dawson didn't like the role of step-mother and the responsibility of caring for the four children of a widower-husband, and after one year of it, deserted. This is the claim, at least, of John B. Dawson, a West Duluth man, who was granted a divorce from his wife in district court this morning. The decree was given by Judge Dancer.

The Dawsons were married in this city on July 15, 1907, and lived together until July 20, 1908, when Mrs. Dawson took her departure. He is 49 years old and she is 47. Both have been married before and have children of their own by the former union.

Dawson testified that he had written between sixty and seventy-five letters in an endeavor to locate the whereabouts of his wife. He said that he had only received one postal card from her that being a short time after he had been deserted by her.

Dawson resides at 619 North Fifty-third avenue west. He was represented in court by Harry W. Lanners.

Pastor Called Away.

Rev. H. A. Stoughton, pastor of the West Duluth Baptist church, was called out of town today owing to the serious illness of his youngest child at Windom, Minn. Mrs. Stoughton and children have been visiting friends at their former home and the baby was suddenly taken ill yesterday.

MEMORIAL DAY SERMON

Pastor Says Purpose of Civil War Justified Terrible Cost.

The Civil war was the theme of the sermon given last evening by Rev. H. A. Stoughton, pastor of the West Duluth church, Fifty-ninth and Grand avenues. He said that there were three thoughts to follow in speaking of the war, the cost of it, our gains, and what we should do today in the light of these facts.

In part he said:

"The Civil war cost the Union 3,000,000 soldiers, and $500,000,000. The money loss was one-fourth of the cost of all of the world's wars in the nineteenth century, and about a half million dollars every day. Added to that was the economic loss, and the prostration of the industries of the South, from which that section has hardly recovered. If all the dead had lived, their earnings would have amounted to about $20,000,000,000. The United States could have saved money on the proposition by buying every slave in the South at a price above par, and could have kept them in independent homes, and educated them.

"Then, too, the nation's best blood fought in these battles, and when these men, the finest in the land, were killed, it left only an inferior stock from which the race would have to be perpetuated. On this count, alone, it took France more than 100 years to recover from the wars of Napoleon, and the blow to the blood of our country is felt even today. Then, too, the war resulted in a moral and personal loss.

"The gain of the war almost warranted the loss, however, for there was one of the mightiest principles of God involved in the struggle, the principle of the brotherhood of man. War is sometimes justified, when the principle at stake is great enough. The people of Israel fought mighty battles and cruel wars, and they sought and found the aid of God in their struggles, but in all their victorious conflicts it was the victory of a noble purpose that counted.

"There were other great results. Labor, even to its lowest class, was enfranchised, and this result has had telling effects upon the nation. The Union was preserved, and today even the South rejoices in that fact. Beside this, there was developed a patriotic spirit, a potent factor in the lives of men.

"In the light of these facts, it is our duty to remember the old soldiers with reverence and respect. We should honor them all, the living and the dead, with a feeling of gratitude. It is especially our duty, as a token of our appreciation of their service to us, that we do all in our power to make war impossible.

"This should be done through education and arbitration. Students of government and economics should make a special study of arbitration. It is a method of God, because it will give the weak, as well as the strong a chance to secure justice. It will blot out from the world the horror of war, and will raise an everlasting monument of respect to the memory of the veterans of our Civil war."

YEOMEN TO HAVE WEST DULUTH LODGE.

A West Duluth lodge of the Brotherhood of American Yeomen will be instituted Wednesday evening at Gilley's hall, 322 North Central avenue. The new lodge will start with about fifty members.

The ceremonies of initiation and installation will commence at 8 o'clock. J. A. Bellmeur, district manager of the order and officers and members of Duluth homestead, No. 3131, will confer the degree work on the new members.

Following the initiation plans a social session will be held. Deputies who have had charge of organizing the new lodge have arranged to hold the charter list open until about July 1.

CHILD INJURED BY AUTOMOBILE.

Thomas, the 5-year-old son of Matt O'Brien, 332 South Fifty-eighth avenue west, was seriously cut about the head and received injuries about the shoulders and body by being struck by an automobile on Grand avenue just west of Central avenue last night. Witnesses to the accident claim that the driver of the machine was not at fault.

The boy with other small children was playing on the sidewalk near the Grand theater. Thomas ran into the street just as the auto was coming from the east and was struck a glancing blow by the machine. The automobile was brought to a stop and the boy immediately taken to the Duluth hospital where this morning it was believed he would fully recover.

The machine was being driven by its owner, Axel Anderson. Besides Mr. Anderson in the automobile was Mrs. Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Hogstad.

Big "Catch."

One of the biggest strings of trout brought from the creeks north of Duluth was caught yesterday by Dr. W. E. Judson. Dr. Judson spent the day casting for the fish and came home with twenty-four fine specimens. He claims to have fished in Rocky run, but expert anglers believe that he has found a new "hole" in some other creek.

Mrs. Poole Dies.

Judge Lanners of the West Duluth court is trying his first cases in the West Duluth Commercial club rooms this afternoon. The department of public safety completed the final arrangements for using the rooms for the West Duluth court Saturday.

The amount of business done by the West Duluth court made it necessary to find larger quarters than were offered by Judge Lanners' office. Four offenders appeared before him this afternoon. These were James Donahue, for vagrancy; Gust Olson, tabbed as a plain drunk; Charles Amundson, for assault, and Raymond Archambault for burglary. The latter is alleged to have broken into a saloon on Raleigh street on Friday night.

Roy Drake, Roy Murnian and Lawrence Carey were sentenced to twenty-five days by Judge Lanners Saturday afternoon. Sentence was suspended pending their good behavior for a year. LIVELY SESSION OF THE COMMISSION IN PROSPECT Proposed Saloon Ordinance Will Be Urged for Immediate Passage.

Delegations for and Against It—Kenny May Lose License.

City Will Not Accept "Built-Over" Police Patrol Auto.

The first pyrotechnics which have characterized a meeting of Duluth's new city commission are anticipated at the meeting being held this afternoon at the city hall when Commissioner Hicken's ordinance eliminating brewery control of saloons comes up for final passage.

The ordinance is drastic and under it no saloon keeper can obtain a license who is in any way connected with a brewery or receives financial aid from a brewery. It also puts the ban on free lunches, music and gambling devices of any kind on premises occupied by a saloon.

Delegations are expected to appear to urge its passage as well as to protest against it. According to report the ordinance has opposition among the members of the commission. Those who object to it state that the city should be given time to adjust itself to the financial loss which would be occasioned by its passage. They assert that the general fund would be depleted from $75,000 to $100,000 and that this would work a serious handicap, coming in one sweep. Those who favor it declare that the city does not need that kind of blood money and that the city would be infintely better off if brewery-owned or controlled saloons are put into the discard.

Will Urge Passage.

Commissioner Hicken said this morning that he will ask for the immediate passage of the ordinance, being opposed to any postponement or any amendment which would make it effective a year from the present date, or any other time.

Commissioner Hicken will also introduce a resolution calling for the revocation of the saloon license of Joseph Kenny at the Metropole hotel. He says that the many bad reports against the place fully justify such action, regardless of the outcome of the trial scheduled for police court this afternoon. Kenny was arrested about two weeks ago on a charge of keeping his saloon open on Sunday. A number of men who were shooting craps in the pool-room in the hotel building were arrested at the same time on charges of gambling and paid fines in police court.

Will Turn Down Auto.

The head of the division of public safety states that the Peerless combination auto patrol and emergency ambulance is not up to specifications. He points out that the contract called for a new car while that which was furnished has plainly been rebuilt. The price was $3,900. The commissioner stated that the car would probably be rejected and that no concession of price would be accepted. He was in consultation with several automobile dealers this morning and it is surmised that the purchase of another similar machine was under consideration. The machine was offered the city by the Duluth Automobile company.

A delegation of New Duluth citizens has announced its intention of appearing before the commission to protest against the granting of another saloon license in their suburb. The matter has been brought to a head by the application of C. N. Inforzato for a transfer of the saloon license of Charles Shubat at 713 West Superior street to himself at 1504 Commonwealth avenue. Commissioner Hicken has taken the question up with the other commissioners and in view of the fact that the blind-pigs have been out of business it has been agreed that a third saloon be allowed at New Duluth.

The coal question is still under consideration. The ordinance comes up for its third reading this afternoon but it is stated that it will be laid over for another week.

Several other ordinances come up for advancement or final passage and considerable quantity of routine legislation is scheduled for transaction.

J. RUFUS IN REAL LIFE

Wallingford's Counterpart Admits He Has "Worked" Many Cities.

J. Rufus Wallingford, the smoothest "con" game artist in fiction, has a counterpart in real life in the person of Walter H. Allen, a bright looking and well dressed young man, who pleaded guilty before Judge Dancer in district court this morning to the crime of grand larceny, second degree.

Allen did not have the variety of "bunco" deals ascribed to J. Rufus, but he had a "game" of his own which he has worked with some little success in a number of cities.

And not unlike the famous Wallingford, Allen takes advantage of his natural business ability and personality. He appears to be a brilliant young man, well schooled in salesmanship and one able to make a good living honestly, should he be so inclined.

Allen pleaded guilty this morning to the offense which is charged in an indictment returned by the May grand jury, which accuses him of having made a sight draft for $200 on the American Exchange National bank to the Texas company of Houston, Tex., and to have indorsed the name of A. N. O'Brien on the draft and secured the money.

According to his own admissions, this is not the first time he has worked this method of getting money. He confessed to the court he had used the same kind of a game at Houston, Tex., Aurora, Ill., Kansas City, Mo., Waterloo, Iowa, and at Lebanon, Mo. In each instance, he secured from $100 to $200.

County Attorney Warren E. Greene, in this connection, stated to the court this morning, that the authorities at Lebanon, Mo., and at Waterloo, Iowa, wanted Allen for his operations there.

His First Arrest.

Allen told the court that he had never been arrested before he was apprehended by the Duluth authorities on April 11 last, the same day that he walked into the bank and secured the $200 on the draft. Allen told the bank officials that he expected to open an office here as a representative of the Texas company of Houston, which is a subsidiary of the Standard Oil company. The bank wired the company and received a telegram that Allen was not known there. The matter was then turned over to the police.

When confronted with the telegram from the Houston firm, Allen declared that some mistake had been made and promptly handed back the $200. The police however held him on the larceny charge.

Allen is about 26 years old and according to the statement of A. N. O'Brien, his only close friend in this city, is of splendid parentage. He has a sister who is supervisor of music in the public schools of Shawnee, Okla. His people formerly resided at Elgin, Ill., but are now living in Oklahoma. The young man has had a high school education and stated that he had held several positions as salesman and department manager in a number of establishments.

Asked why he had preferred to lead a crooked life, he replied:

"My it please your honor, but it was simply an easy way of getting money. I have been doing it for about a year but have managed to escape arrest until the last offense. I am not offering this explanation as any excuse, I am just telling how I happened to be doing it."

Allen asked the court to defer sentence for one week, stating that he was attempting to get his former deals straightened out. He expressed a desire to "square up" in all of his cases.

Judge Dancer stated that this request would be complied with, but intimated that he could expect little from the court in the way of a parole. The county attorney urged the court not to parole the prisoner.

The court stated to Allen that the probabilities were that he would be sentenced to the St. Cloud reformatory and that this sentence would probably be better for him than if he were to be prosecuted by authorities in Illinois or in Missouri, where he is wanted.

SOUTH SHORE'S CASE.

Resistance of 2-Cent Law Comes Up in Detroit Tuesday.

Marquette, Mich., May 26.—The case of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railway, which is opposing the order of the state to grant a 2-cent passenger fare on its line in the Upper Peninsula, is scheduled to be taken up in the United States district court in Detroit Tuesday. The road is contesting the constitutionality of the Michigan 2-cent fare law, and pending a decision of the matter is charging the old rate of 3 cents a mile, but issuing a coupon calling for a rebate of 1 cent a mile to the holder if the court holds that the law is valid.

Speculators have bought thousands of the coupons, making a gambling chance that the law will be upheld.

CLEAR RIGHT-OF-WAY.

Work Has Started on M. & I. Brainerd Cutoff.

Brainerd, Minn., May 26.—Men are clearing the right-of-way for the cut off, 5.8 miles in length, the M. & I. railway will build from West Brainerd to Leaks. A. Guthrie & Co. of St. Paul have the contract for clearing, grubbing, grading and construction work. A camp will be established at the south end near the Northern Pacific railway hospital, and later when the crews increase, one at the north end near Leaks. C. W. Mowery of St. Paul is the assistant engineer of the M. & I. railway, who will have supervision of the work.

SCHEDULE OF NEW WINNIPEG TRAINS.

J. H. McKinnon, general agent for the Canadian Northern, this morning received a copy of the new schedule of the road after June 8, when the Duluth-Winnipeg service will start.

The trains will run into the Northwestern station, stopping also at the new West Duluth station on Central avenue. Only the day trains will make regular stops at West Duluth.

According to the new schedule the day train will leave here at 7:40 arriving at Winnipeg at 10:45 p. m. The night train will leave here at 8, arriving at Winnipeg at 9:35 a. m.

The night train will leave Winnipeg at 6 and will arrive here at 7:40 a. m., while the day train will leave at 8:20 and is scheduled to arrive here at 10:40 p. m.

LIGHT TRAFFIC ON NEW N. P. TRAIN.

Unless the business on the new train from Duluth to Staples increases within the next few months, the service will have to be discontinued, according to Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific road, who was in Duluth Saturday afternoon inspecting the local sheds and yards.

The business on the new train, which connects with the through coast train from the Twin Cities, has been poor, according to Mr. Elliott.

Mr. Elliott also inspected several proposed sites for coal sheds to be erected this year. The total improvements to be made in Duluth, Carlton and the vicinity will total $1,000,000, according to Mr. Elliott.

Mr. Elliott was accompanied by J. M. Hannaford, second vice president, and Thomas Cooper, land commissioner of the Northern Pacific. They were the guests of Supt. A. V. Brown and General Agent J. I. Thomas during their stay in the city. They left yesterday morning for Minneapolis.

Strike at Marquette.

Laborers alding in the building of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic roundhouse at Marquette quit work Saturday morning and demanded an increase over the present scale of $2.25 a day. Supt. Porter has refused to take the men back and is negotiating for strike breakers from Chicago to take their place.

On Trial for Robbery.

Joe Kuto, charged with robbery in the first degree, was brought to trial in Judge Dancer's court this morning. Kuto, it is claimed, helped Algert Garbich hold up and rob one Albert Gross of a pocketbook and $10 near the Lake avenue viaduct on the night of May 8.

Garbich, his alleged partner in crime, pleaded guilty to robbery in the third degree after he had been brought to trial last week. The men were jointly indicted but demanded separate trials. Kuto refused to change his plea, even if Garbich had done so.

BRAINERD SHUTS OUT CROSBY TEAM.

Brainerd, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Brainerd beat Crosby, 7 to 0, with Cook pitching winning ball. Taking advantage of a bunch of errors which Crosby made in the second inning, Brainerd hammered Nevers and ran bases wild, scoring four runs to which was added one in the third and two in the fourth. With the advent of Siebenthal on the mound in the fifth inning thhe harvest of runs ceased. Crosby never got within hailing distance of a score until the eighth inning when three men on bases, were unable to turn the trick.

ZBYSZKO NOT SERIOUSLY HURT.

Montreal, Can., May 26.—The injuries which Stanislaus Zbyszko suffered in a wrestling match Saturday night with Constant Le Marin are inconsequential and consist only of "a slight abrasion," instead of a serious fracture of the skull, according to a bulletin issued by Zbyszko's doctors today. No complications are expected, though the patient will not be able to wrestle again for eight or ten days.

Le Marin asserts that he may contest the decision given Zbyszko in as much as it was based on alleged foul tactics.

COACH IS PLEASED WITH YALE CREW.

New Haven, Conn., May 26.—"The Yale crew seems to be showing signs of pace," says A. G. Kirby, former Oxford oasman, now coach of the Yale eight, in a statement today. He says he found a crew which, while rowing a stroke unlike his idea of English style, with the men stiff in their movements and not sufficiently steady to make a smart drive at the beginning of the stroke, was "extremely adaptable" and the defects "are well on the way to being remedied."

McCARTY INQUEST IS POSTPONED.

Calgary, Alta., May 26.—Coroner Costello announced shortly before noon that he had postponed until tonight the inquest which was scheduled for this afternoon. The reason was not given for the change in time, but it is supposed that the physicians' announcement that McCarty's death resulted indirectly from a blow to the jaw has complicated matters, and made necessary the preparing of additional evidence for presentation to the coroner's jury.

Kentucky Handicap.

Louisville, Ky., May 26.—With a field of at least twelve starters, interest here was intense in the running today of the $15,000 Kentucky handicap, the richest classic of the American turf, which was to open the spring meet at Douglas Park. Indications were for a heavy track.

AFTER SCHOOL.

Some Things Awaiting Boys and Girls Need Attention.

"When Boys and Girls Come Home From School" is the title of an article by Elsa Denison in Harper's Bazar in which she says:

"Yes, we shall have Mary with us next winter, and in February William comes home from college. He expects to find business rather slow after all the athletics and festivities at the university. Mary is not going to do anything but keep up her music and be happy at home. It will seem good to have the young people back after these years without them.'"

"Something like this goes each year through the minds of the parents of the 600,000 boys and girls who are in our private high schools, colleges and professional schools. These are the children who are to have every advantage, whose parents somehow find the $60,000,000 which goes for tuition and board, not to mention the large amounts for traveling expenses and pocket money. What proportion of this vast sum 'comes hard' cannot of course be estimated. But you and I know of many instances where parents have deprived themselves in order that their children may have a little better start in life, more of a share of the world's knowledge, more social advantages than they themselves had.

"The spending of over $60,000,000 a year, which is the income on $3,000,000,000, deserves the attention of thoughtful people. Is the country receiving for this huge amount of money an added return which it would not get if these 600,000 boys and girls stayed at home and went to public schools? What is the net result of taking them away and spending all this money on them? You hear over and over again that the colleges and so-called finishing schools spoil our young people for the life in the smaller cities and rural communities to which they return. The problem of the girl who leaves an active, varied existence with lectures, athletics, plays, and scores of friends and comes home to do nothing, with a gap between her and the friends whom she has not seen for years—this problem is crucial. The distressing results in many lives make parents declare that it is too dangerous a risk, this over-education. For boys there is work."

BARBER & McPHERSON

GEN. JAMES H. BAKER, ONE OF MINNESOTA'S PIONEERS, DIES

Was One of the Most Brilliant Orators in the Northwest.

Helped to Name Fremont in First Republican National Convention.

Mankato, Minn., May 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gen. James H. Baker, statesman, soldier and one of the most brilliant orators in the Northwest, died here today, aged 84.

Gen. Baker was a product of that home of statesmen, Ohio, being a native of Monroe, Butler county. His father was for forty years a practicing physician, and possessed excellent literary attainments. Both of his grandfathers were Revolutionary soldiers. With such ancestry and environments it was not to be wondered at that the boy early developed the characteristics of leadership that later won him distinction. He was educated at Fireman academy, Middletown, Ohio, and the Ohio Wesleyan university, graduating with honor in the class of 1852. After spending a brief period teaching he purchased of Otway Curry, the poet, the Scioto Gazette of Chillicothe, Ohio, the oldest newspaper in the state. In return for the great service that he gave the Republican party, then organizing, he was elected secretary of state on its state ticket. Upon the expiration of his term of office, he removed to Minnesota in May, 1857, and soon settled upon a farm near Garden City, in Blue Earth county.

Taking an active part in Minnesota politics, Mr. Baker was elected secretary of state in 1859, and re-elected in 1861. Listening to his country's call in its hour of need, he responded by resigning his office and rushed to the front. He was commissioned colonel of the Twenty-Minnesota volunteers Nov. 17, 1862, and served with his regiment under Gen. Sibley in 1862-3, in suppressing the Sioux outbreak.

In October, 1863, his regiment went south, and he was assigned by Gen. Scofield to the command of the post of St. Louis. This command was enlarged subsequently to embrace seven counties, and finally he was created provost marshal general of the department of Missouri, a very important position, making him practically the military governor of the state. For efficiency in the discharge of his duties, he was made a brevet brigadier general, and was not mustered out until Oct. 31, 1865.

Federal and State Official.

After the war Gen. Baker returned to his farm in Blue Earth county, where, like Cincinnatus, he had laid aside the plow for the sword. But he was soon in public life agan, for in 1871 President Grant appointed him United States commissioner of pensions, which office he filled faithfully for four years. He was then made surveyor general of Minnesota, and after serving hist erm took up his home in Mankato. While surveyor general he did much by private letters and published articles to call attention for the first time to the great iron deposits of the state.

In 1881 he was elected railway commissioner, serving two terms, and upon the institution of the railway board, was made its president. In 1879, Gen. Baker purchased the Union and Record and merged the two into the Mankato Free Press, which he published for two years.

Gen. Baker was one of the most brilliant and forcible orators in the Northwest, and no man in the state has delivered more public addresses than he. He was for years a member of the State Historical society and published several valuable historical papers, among them being "History of Lake Superior," "The Sources of the Mississippi River," "Transportation in Minnesota," "History of the Minnesota Valley," etc.

With Allison in First Convention.

Asked a few days ago to give some reminiscences of the first national Republican convention, he replied in his own interesting style:

"In 1856, fresh from college and just entering editorial life as editor of the Scioto Gazette, and boiling over with enthusiasm for the new-born party—the Republican—I was duly elected a delegate to the first Republican national convention to be held at Philadelphia. In company with William B. Allison, then a young Ohio Republican, now senior senator from Iowa, and Judge Brinkerhoof, both of whom had also been elected delegates, we duly arrived in Philadelphia and found the city gay with banners and alive with enthusiastic Republicans, some out of the Whig party, and fully as many out of the Democratic party, all hostile to the extension of slavery. The convention was held in Congress hall. Henry S. Lane of Indiana, a very eloquent man, was made chairman.

"Allison and myself sat together and then began our political life. No one, in these days, can understand the intense feeling abroad in the land over the slavery question. The war itself was not more intense. There was Greeley, Hale, Giddings, and a long list of the early anti-slavery fathers in their early prime. The shouts fairly lifted the boughs of the trees in the yard of old Independence hall.

"Well, Fremont was nominated and the convention went wild. The pathfinder of the Rock mountains, explorer, conqueror of California and its governor, and then its first United States senator! When the shouting was over, Allison and myself concluded we must go up to New York and see the nominee.

Call Upon Fremont.

"With a dozen other delegates, we went to New York, and at No. 65 Twenty-third street we called upon Gen. Fremont. We were ushered into the reception room, where he was holding a levee amid an admiring crowd. His hair was parted in the middle, and he looked the explorer, but we found him bright and intelligent. We soon forsook him for a black-eyed, black-haired, good-looking woman in the corner, Mrs. Jessie Fremont. She was a darling, a splendid talker, gifted, as you might expect Thomas Benton's daughter to be; in fact, she won all hearts, and we youngsters thought she was the one that should have been nominated.

"I saw her years afterward, when my wife and I lived neighbors to her in Los Angeles, Cal. Her raven hair had become white as snow. But her eagle eye and stately style had not for saken her. She was a great and attractive woman.

"After the convention, Allison and I returned home, proud of our first political work. In a year or two he headed for Iowa, and I for Minnesota. To this day we have never forgotten the first political battle of our lives. We have kept up our intimacy and friendship.

Only Three or Four Left.

"Yes, I have attended nearly all of the national Republican conventions since that day. Perhaps no man living has been present at so many of our national Republican conventions. Eight years ago Chairman Hanna hunted up the old Fremont delegates living, and sent them complimentary tickets. There are but two or three of us left. If I am spared I expect to see Taft (whose father was my friend, and I know the judge himself very well), I expect to see him nominated and join in the shouting and in the election also.

"Yes, I am still at work. I have just finished my "Lives of the Governors of Minnesota," with contemporary political history. It will be, typographically, the finest book ever published in Minnesota. It is now running through the press and will soon be out. Governor Johnson's life is included. He has never seen, nor any of his cabinet, a single line of it. I have many inquiries after it, and there seems to be much curiosity about it. It is the only real life of him which has ever been written, and I will be complete up to the date of his second inauguration.

"Cou see, though entering on my 80th year, I can't think of being idle. I have served my country and my state in peace and in war, to the best of my ability. I am proud of my unsullied record. I have held many high offices, but all these things I hand over, without regret, to younger and better hands."

RETURNS AFTER LONG ABSENCE

Hibbing Pioneer Has Spent Seventeen Years in British Columbia.

John Dorsey, one of the early settlers of Hibbing, but for the last seventeen years a resident of British Columbia, is in Duluth today and is registered at the Spalding. Before returning to the West, Mr. Dorsey will visit Hibbing and see the marvels that have taken place since he left.

Mr. Dorsey arrived in Hibbing in 1892. He built the first hotel at the town and drove the golden spike of the D., M. & N. railroad at the Lake Superior mine in 1903. He was intimately connected with the early development of Hibbing, but left for Western Canada in 1906. He is now on his first trip to Minnesota in seventeen years.

Mr. Dorsey is now located in the Bulkie valley on the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific's coast line, 250 miles east of Prince Rupert.

"The tracks of the Grand Trunk Pacific's coast line are now laid to within 222 miles of Prince Rupert," he said today. "I expect that it will be laid to Burns lake by Sept. 1. The delay has been due to the steel bridges on concrete piers put in by the railroad with the grade. The completing link of the road, about 400 miles, is now under construction and I believe that in eighteen months that link will be completed.

"Northern British Colubia is a great country in itself, with agricultural and mineral resources that are almost beyond estimating. It has lakes and woods and grasses, and its mining districts are going to be the richest in Canada."

TWO INSPECTORS STILL ON JOB

The city still had two meat inspectors this morning. Inspector Schneider, the hold-over from the last administration, and Inspector Bernhart, the new appointee, were both on the job, as they have been since May 15.

Inspector Schneider still retained possession of his star, stamp and other equipment. The case was laid before Police Prosecutor Wharton this morning and it was stated that he would issue a warrant for Schneider's arrest on a charge of wrongfully withholding the property. He had not been arrested up to noon. It's still a merry, little tangle and may be taken up at the meeting of the civil service board which is scheduled for tonight at the city hall.

HOPE FOR 60,000 ACRES FOR STATE.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, May 26.—State Auditor S. G. Iverson and Assistant Attorney General C. D. Hilton are in Washington to get action by the general land office on pending swamp land and school land indemnity selections. One question they will take up is whether the state is entitled to about 60,000 acres of land allotted to Indians on the White Earth reservation.

KENNY AND BARNEY FINED BY COURT

Joseph Kenny, proprietor of the Metropole hotel, pleaded guilty to keeping his saloon open on Sunday when he was arraigned in municipal court this afternoon. He was fined $100. George Barney, who had previously pleaded guilty to having gambling devices at the same place, was also fined $100.

John Peterson was arrested today on a charge of having had his saloon open yesterday. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned in court and will be given a trial later.

Widow Sues for $10,000.

Damages in the sum of $10,000 are sought by Esther G. Benedict, widow, and administratrix of the estate of Fred C. Benedict, a hostler's helper, who was accidentally killed while in the employ of the Great Northern road at Allouez, Wis., on July 16, 1912. Under the Wisconsin laws under which the suit is brought, the maximum liability is $10,000 in stead of $7,500 as in Minnesota.

Benedict, it is claimed, was struck by a loaded ore train and had both legs cut off. He died a few moments later. At the time of the accident he was crossing the tracks from the round house to a hydrant for a drink of water.

ST. LOUIS FLY CAMPAIGN.

The War Against the Pests Is to Be Systematic.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch: The health department is planning a vigorous campaign to prevent the flies and mosquitoes from starting a rival organization to compete with the Million Population club.

Dr. G. A. Jordan, assistant health commissioner, will lead the fight in swatting the flies off the map. He also will pour oil on the waters which heretofore have been troubled with mosquitoes.

Perhaps for the first time in history the River Des Peres may rest easy in its little bed with no pesky mosquitoes to disturb it.

The campaign against the flies and mosquitoes, as planned by Dr. Jordan, will continue for six months and Jordan hopes to see the time when the musco domestica and the culex damnifern pestiferosa will be so rare that we will be offering fancy prices for specimens to put in the Forest Park zoo.

Dr. Jordan began the fight on flies and mosquitoes May 1. Any foolish little fly who thought she was to be queen of the May, mother, was sadly mistaken.

There is a fund of $7,500 available for the health department campaign. The city will be divided into three districts and twelve expert swatters and cricket oil spreaders will be sent out.

They will put kerosene in every creek, pond and sink hole in St. Louis. They will warn householders not to leave water standing in buckets and they will empty the water from tin cans on vacant lots.

Of the fund, Dr. Jordan will spend $2,100 for crude petroleum and the remainder for salaries.

While the oil is relied upon to exterminate the mosquitoes, it will be necessary for all citizens to co-operate with the health department in killing off the flies.

Dr. Jordan is having printed 5,000 placards which will be posted in show windows and public places in the residence districts. These will tell how the fly is the chief agent in causing typhoid fever and other dangerous diseases.

SHIPS JUST LIKE A VILLAGE.

Ernest Prexotto in Scribner's Magazine: Next morning (how strange at sea) I was awakened by the bleating of a lamb and by a lusty cockcrow. The royal mail steamers of the West Coast are a strange little world. Built for an ocean where storms are unknown, they combine certain comforts not to be found on much more pretentious boats.

Their salons and cabins are exceptionally large and open directly upon the promenade decks that stretch the entire length of the ship, there being, properly speaking, no steerage and no second class. The natives and others who cannot afford the first class ticket travel in the "cubierta," as it is called, a deck at the stern roofed with canvas but otherwise open, where in picturesque confusion, surrounded by bags and bundles, they loll in hammocks or lie wrapped in shawls.

Upon this deck, the hencoop faces—a big two-story affair, partly filled with ripening fruits, bananas, oranges and the like, and partly with chickens, ducks and other forlorn looking fowl, fattening for the table. Between decks stands your beef and mutton on the hoof, gazing mournfully up at you as you look down the hatchways.

Upon this homelike boat, quiet and contented, with no unseemly hurry, you meander down the coast at ten knots. The air is soft as a caress and for at least eight months of the year the sea as placid as a mountain lake, a glassy mirror reflecting an azure sky.

Kerosene stoves are much used in France because of the scarcity and high cost of coal and wood.

THE BEGINNING OF EUROPE'S CENTURIES-OLD WAR ON THE TURK

Kansas City Star: The fall of Adrianople the other day marked the overthrow of one of the last Moslem strongholds on the continent of Europe; and in view of the active part the Saracen has taken in the world's history, it is interesting to turn back the pages of history a few hundred years and glance at the first attack made by the Christian nations upon the followers of Mohammed. That attack came with the first crusade; not that the first crusade was by any means the first struggle between Christian and Moslem, but that it was practically the first time when Christianity was on the aggressive.

The first crusade was pre-eminently a religious movement, and the one man who played the biggest part in bringing it about was a Frenchman, a native of Amiens, known to history as Peter the Hermit. Peter had sought the cloister to escape his wife, with whom he was thoroughly unhappy, and after a somewhat varied religious life, he undertook a journey to Jerusalem. Journeys to Jerusalem in those days were as important a part of the Catholic religion as a trip to Mecca is to the devout Mohammedan. They were regarded as atonement for many sins.

Made Pilgrims Pay Toll.

Now, in 1072, when Peter the Hermit made his trip to Jerusalem, the whole country was, of course, in the hands of the Moslems, and the Moslems subjected the Christian pilgrims to all sorts of indignities, extortions and cruelties. Pilgrims were charged a high price for admission to the Holy City; and the Christian shrines were despoiled and desecrated. It was no unusual thing to have Saracen soldiers tramping into a Christian church in Jerusalem in the midst of a sermon, drag the priest by the beard from his devotions, and insult the worshippers. The shrines were desecrated, the holy sepulcher itself in disrepair. That was the condition of affairs when Peter the Hermit saw the sacred city, and at once it stirred his fury and made him determine at once to change affairs.

A little, thin, intense man was Peter the Hermit, with big, burning black eyes. And he possessed a powerful eloquence, and must indeed have had a strangely compelling personality. Before he left Jerusalem he went to the Christian patriarch of the place, the head of the religion, led a student riot when heads were broken in a row with the townspeople of Dublin, and altogether behaved very much as sophomores do in our American institutions of learning. Not that there was anything really bad about Goldsmith; only he loathed a good many of the subjects upon which the university laid special stress and found it much more pleasant to cultivate his athletic powers and his friends than he did to burn the midnight oil. He fled from college after a supper party, where the dean broke in and found him entertaining his friends, men and girls, in celebration of a small scholarship he had won, but was persuaded by his brother Henry to return to college, and after various vicissitudes, received a B. A. degree in 1749.

And now we behold Goldsmith, 21 years old, possessed of some knowledge of languages, a large ability for making friends, and some small skill in flute playing; truly a rather small collection of talents wherewith to make a living.

Set Out for America.

The account of his years in Ireland following graduation are indeed trifling enough, though rather winsome for their very foolery. For a while he wandered about visiting his relatives and college friends; then he sets off, riding one of his mother's saddle horses, and provided doubtless with his mother's funds—his father by this time was dead—to seek his fortune. He is going to America; his mind is now made up. But reaching Cork, he made too many friends and missed the boat, and in a few weeks came riding home upon an ancient, sway-backed nag which he has christened "Fiddleback." He is full of adventures; it has been a difficult and exciting journey home, seeing he had no money, and he is amazed and more than a little grieved that his mother does not seem happier to see him back.

In this and similar unpleasant times at home, he found a very kindly welcome waiting him in the home of his uncle, Thomas Contarine. It was a great pleasure to play the flute and sing with his pretty cousin, Jane Contarine, and Jane's father was always generous with his lovable, shiftless nephew. Indeed, after some discussion, his uncle furnished him with money to set off for London and study law; but reaching Dublin, Oliver decided to double his funds by playing cards, and Dublin gamblers stripped him of all he had. Finally, after more family councils, he is sent to Edinburgh to study medicine, which he actually did for some time. Then he set off for Europe, where, he had heard, the medical lectures were exceptionally fine.

An Excuse for Adventure.

One suspects that the medical lectures of Europe were indeed only a plausible blind to conceal from his family that the real object of the expedition was adventure; at any rate, with very little money he set off. And for a year he wandered about the Continent, supporting himself in all sorts of makeshift ways. In France he played with the Hungarians, through whose land they marched, and many of these tag-rag crusaders, the men whom other commanders had rejected and Peter had gathered in an army of his own, were slain before they ever reached Constantinople. Those who reached there were useless as a military force. Peter himself sinks into comparative obscurity when once the Christian forces entered Syria. He was no military leader, but he had done an unthinkably big work in stirring up Europe to go crusading to the Orient.

GOLDSMITH, THE TYPICAL POVERTY STRICKEN POET

Kansas City Star: Oliver Goldsmith, all-round author, wrote one of the best poems, perhaps the most charming novel and, with one exception, the most sparkling comedy of his time, and yet he lived and died in poverty. Among all the British authors we find no one who fulfills more satisfactorily the popular conception of "the poverty-stricken poet," and seldom may one run across a figure more picturesque.

Born in Ireland in 1728, Oliver Goldsmith grew up in a haphazard fashion; his father was a clergyman, and needless to add, a poor clergyman. But for all that he managed to give the boy a schooling, and even send him up to Trinity college, Dublin, where he attended classes as a "sizar," or poor student, sleeping in dormitory garrets and performing menial tasks for the richer students. Still, it was an education of considerable breadth, and it must have been a heavy disappointment to Oliver's father to see the boy apparently getting as little out of it as he did.

Not a Good Student.

For Oliver, never noted for industry, made no great progress in his studies, preferred learning new drinking songs to studying mathematics, succeeded in getting at loggerheads with his principal instructor, led a student riot when heads were broken in a row with the townspeople of Dublin, and altogether behaved very much as sophomores do in our American institutions of learning. Not that there was anything really bad about Goldsmith; only he loathed a good many of the subjects upon which the university laid special stress and found it much more pleasant to cultivate his athletic powers and his friends than he did to burn the midnight oil. He fled from college after a supper party, where the dean broke in and found him entertaining his friends, men and girls, in celebration of a small scholarship he had won, but was persuaded by his brother Henry to return to college, and after various vicissitudes, received a B. A. degree in 1749.

And now we behold Goldsmith, 21 years old, possessed of some knowledge of languages, a large ability for making friends, and some small skill in flute playing; truly a rather small collection of talents wherewith to make a living.

Set Out for America.

The account of his years in Ireland following graduation are indeed trifling enough, though rather winsome for their very foolery. For a while he wandered about visiting his relatives and college friends; then he sets off, riding one of his mother's saddle horses, and provided doubtless with his mother's funds—his father by this time was dead—to seek his fortune. He is going to America; his mind is now made up. But reaching Cork, he made too many friends and missed the boat, and in a few weeks came riding home upon an ancient, sway-backed nag which he has christened "Fiddleback." He is full of adventures; it has been a difficult and exciting journey home, seeing he had no money, and he is amazed and more than a little grieved that his mother does not seem happier to see him back.

In this and similar unpleasant times at home, he found a very kindly welcome waiting him in the home of his uncle, Thomas Contarine. It was a great pleasure to play the flute and sing with his pretty cousin, Jane Contarine, and Jane's father was always generous with his lovable, shiftless nephew. Indeed, after some discussion, his uncle furnished him with money to set off for London and study law; but reaching Dublin, Oliver decided to double his funds by playing cards, and Dublin gamblers stripped him of all he had. Finally, after more family councils, he is sent to Edinburgh to study medicine, which he actually did for some time. Then he set off for Europe, where, he had heard, the medical lectures were exceptionally fine.

An Excuse for Adventure.

One suspects that the medical lectures of Europe were indeed only a plausible blind to conceal from his family that the real object of the expedition was adventure; at any rate, with very little money he set off. And for a year he wandered about the Continent, supporting himself in all sorts of makeshift ways. In France he played the flute and peasants were glad to give him food and shelter in return for the entertainment. At any rate, he succeeded in supporting himself and seeing most of Europe, and when he returned, in 1756, to England, though he had only a few half pence in his pocket, his spirits were still high.

It is characteristic of Goldsmith's generous improvidence that at the very beginning of his trip, chancing to find some rare flowering bulbs in a market in Leyden, he spent all he had for them, sent them to his Uncle Constarline and set off blithely to see Europe "with only one clean shirt and no money."

But see Europe he did, and better than most folk who took the conventional "grand tour." Somehow or other he got acquainted with Voltaire. Wherever he went he made friends with interesting people, and though he made no money, he really gained material of inestimable value for one who was to become a writer of books.

Back in London he started practicing medicine among the poor; and it is most entertaining to read that Goldsmith, ever fond of finery, considered it a necessary part of a physician's equipment to have a velvet coat. He bought one second-hand, and, the coat developing a tear on the left breast, patched it with velvet of a different color and practiced holding his hat over the patch while calling on his patients.

Gave Away His Blankets.

Perhaps the most famous story of Goldsmith's whimsical generosity is the tale of the friend who knocked upon his door, and, getting no answer, entered to find the poet struggling to extricate himself from the ticking of his mattress, into which he had crawled.

"I gave the blankets to a woman who stopped me on the street last night to tell me how cold she was," Goldsmith explained.

It was not until he was past 30 that Goldsmith received real literary recognition; then the publication of his poem, "The Traveler," brought him lasting fame. After that he wrote much that has endured—"The Deserted Village," "The Vicar of Wakefield" and "She Stoops to Conquer" being perhaps his three most famous works.

Even then, however, Goldsmith was harassed by poverty, and was forced to do much literary hack work to provide himself with a scanty living. But he had been received by Dr. Johnson and the other great literary men of the time, and when he died a tablet was erected to his memory in Westminster Abbey, which should be some solace to a striver after laurels.

WALL STREET THIN SKINNED.

Denver Times: "The principal results of the governmental investigations into the affairs of the big financial interests of the country and of the governmental prosecutions as well are the moral effects they have produced. It is difficult to point out wherein these investigations and prosecutions have resulted in immediate benefit to the country aside from the moral effect that have created, but it is not to be denied that in this regard much good has been accomplished," said Henry Wollman, financial attorney of New York, at the Brown Palace hotel recently.

"Don't get the idea that Wall Street is not sensitive," Mr. Wollman said. "There is less of the 'public-be-damned' feeling there than in nearly any other place in the country.

"The big man of business is very human. Even when he has done wrong he dislikes to admit to himself that he stands in public disfavor. One of the chief results of recent investigations by the government lies in the fact that in this manner the capitalist learns what the public thinks of him and what the public wants him to do.

"So far as the corporation head not being human is concerned, it is my opinion that the men at the head of big business must necessarily have a broad understanding of human nature, else they could never have attained their present positions by conducting businesses which serve some demand of the public."

Correction of existing evils of combined capital according to Mr Wollman, will come in larger measure from the men who are the leaders of financial commercial institutions, once they realize the true attitude of the public, rather than through legislative enactments. This will be directly traceable to the "moral effects" created by the probe into financial combinations.

"The country in the last few years has gone legislative mad," he continued, "but existing evils are as much the public's fault as the fault of capital, because for twenty-five or thirty years capital has been allowed to run wild. Too much legislation in this respect is like too suddenly checking up a horse—you're likely to throw him off his feet—and capital, it must be remembered, is easily frightened."

The interlocking system of directors, which was publicly regarded as one of the principal evils exposed by the Pujo investigation into the money trust, in his opinion, will henceforth be eliminated from the banking system of the country.

"Whether or not the investigation proved the existence of a money trust is hard to say," concluded Mr. Wollman, who was one of the New York men called before the congressional committee, "but like the other investigations of the last few years the publicity which it gave to certain methods of business will undoubtedly be beneficial."

MARKET HAS AN ADVANCE

Recovers From Slump During Early Part of the Session.

Flax Has a Quiet Session and Closes at a Decline.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 26.—The market closed at an advance for wheat this afternoon after a sagging session. A heavy bulge in corn and advances in other course grains, together with Smiley's report that the Kansas crop will not exceed 87,000,000 bushels of wheat in place of the crop of 100,000,000 to 110,000,000 bushels heretofore reported, bolstered the market. Net gains: May wheat, ⅝c; July ⅝c; September, ¾@⅞c; May durum, ⅞c; July durum, ½c.

Cash wheat gained ¾c, barley closed 3c up to unchanged, oats advanced ½c and rye gained 1c.

Reports even from North Dakota came in where it has been generally supposed that ample moisture had been furnished. It is given out that the sub-soil there lacks from 2 to 5 inches of moisture, and complaints are being made by farmers of a need of rain. Others claim that there is enough frost in the ground to mature the crop with only a little rain aid somewhere about the middle of June.

But in general the feeling is bullish and in consequence the market is holding strong with a probability of further advance. Some claim that within the week there will be a net advance in spring wheat of 5 cents.

This morning July wheat opened unchanged, fell off ⅛@¼c and then strengthened until at noon it was at the opening figure. September is off ⅛@¼c, while May is ¼c up with no activity. May durum is ¼@⅝c over Saturday's close and July durum, which opened ½c off, is back to Saturday's close.

When the market opened this morning a decline started and made things look for a time as though a reactionary movement from the bulge of Saturday had set in. This was not sustained however. The lower figures prevailed until about noon, at which time a climb started and soon the options were getting back to former levels.

The advance of Saturday was caused largely by the covering of shorts, and the further strength today was effected by stronger cables from Europe and by reports of dry weather over Sunday in various parts of the grain-growing country.

Flax Declines Further.

Flax did not have a great deal of activity today, but what there was was of benefit to the bears. The market is narrow and the prices took a toboggan trip, but it is believed that there was some investment buying on the decline. July closed ⅝c under Saturday, September lost 1c and October's loss was ¼c.

B. W. Snow has wired from St. Louis to Bartlett-Frazier of Chicago:

"Drove today through St. Clair, Monroe, Randolph and Washington counties with 350,000 acres of wheat. Rain is needed but crops are not yet suffering. Wheat is dropping bloom. Harvest begins by June 20. With one more rain the district will average 20 to 25 bu to the acre. Plenty of fields promise 35 bu. Oats acreage small and much of the area worthless. Early seeding is heading at less than eight inches. Corn planting about finished and coming up with good stand. Lots of chinch bugs."

John Inglis reports from Enid, Okla.: "Find wheat impaired through northern Oklahoma. Chinch bugs numerous again but it is coming forward so rapidly that it will make a good crop. Rain is needed to fill up. Oats looking well but also need rain worse than wheat as it is feared chinch bugs will work into them soon."

Smiley's estimate of the Kansas crop is revolutionary. It has been predicted that the wheat crop would amount to all the way from 90,000,000 bushels to 110,000,000 bushels, the general average expected being about 100,000,000 bushels. Smiley says it will not go over 87,000,000 bushels, the most pessimistic prediction so far given.

Following are a number of reports to the Kansas City Star from points in Kansas, concerning crop conditions:

"Great Bend—Wheat has gone back 25 to 35 per cent the past two weeks. Light showers this week stopped backward movement. Some think rain will bring it out all right."

"Hutchinson — Wheat conditions good, but rain will be needed soon. Oats excellent."

"Aberdeen—Generous rains and improved wheat conditions. Little damage by earlier dry weather."

"Concordia—Wheat conditions improved; prospects are good."

"Newton—Fine rains this week; conditions best ever."

"Salina—No moisture past week. No material damage yet; few chinch bugs; need rain next week."

Visible supply: Wheat decrease, 2,719,000 bu; corn decrease, 1,888,000 bu; oats decrease, 763,000 bu.

Barley is very strong on the Duluth market today. Buyers advanced bids on the low grades 3c and it is now quoted 50c to 60c instead of 47c to 60c on Saturday. All grades are in good demand.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Is Bearish on Account of General Rains.

Chicago, May 26.—General rains today had a bearish effect on wheat. Besides there was a good increase in the amount on ocean passage and crop reports from India were decidedly favorable. Trading was active. The market opened ⅛c to ¼c to ⅝c off. July which at the outset was 90⅞c to 91¼c, a loss of ⅛@¼c to ½@⅝c, sagged to 90¾@90⅞c.

The fact that much of Kansas received only scattered showers and that North Dakota sent dry weather complaints led to a rally. The close was nervous, with July at 91⅝@91½c, the same as Saturday night.

Wet weather threatening to retard planting brought about a scramble to buy corn. July opened a shade lower to ¼@⅜c advance at 57⅝c to 58c and rose to 58⅛c.

A further upturn took place in consequence of rural offerings being meager. The close was steady, with July ⅝@¾c net higher at 58¾c.

Oats declined because of beneficial moisture. July which started a shade to ⅜@½c down at 37⅞c to 38¼c, descended to 37⅝c.

Lightness of hog receipts made provisions higher all around. First sales were 5c to 12½c up, with September prices as follows: Pork, $19.60; lard, $11.15; ribs, $11.20; to $11.22½.

Cash grain: Wheat—No. 2 red, $1.07¾@1.08½; No. 3 red, 96c@$1.02; No. 2 hard, 93¼@95c; No. 3 hard, 91@92½c; No. 1 northern, 93@95c; No. 2 northern, 92@93c; No. 3 northern, 90@92c; No. 2 spring, 91@92c; No. 3 spring, 88½@91c; No. 4 spring, 82@88c; velvet chaff, 90@95c; durum, 90@96c.

Cotton Market.

New York, May 26.—Cotton opened steady at a decline of 3 to 9 points and sold 8 to 11 points net lower right after the call, in response to disappointing cables, a favorable view of the weather map, and encouraging private crop accounts. Selling was active at the start. Offerings were well enough taken to give the market a fairly steady undertone at the decline, however, and subsequent fluctuations were more or less irregular. A Georgia authority reviewing the past week characterized conditions as favorable over 90 per cent of the belt, and a stand off as to the other ten.

Spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 12.00; middling gulf, 12.25. Sales, 400 bales.

Futures closed steady; bids: May, 11.54; June, 11.61; July, 11.62; August, 11.41; September, 11.15; October, 11.09; November, 11.08; December, 11.09; January, 11.04; March, 11.14.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfers, St. Paul, Minn., May 26.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Demand continues to center on extra heavy draft horses and horses suitable for city delivery, shipments being made to a number of points throughout the Northwest. DECLINES IN STOCKS

General Market Touches the Lowest Prices of the Season.

Leaders Are Under Pressure and the Close Is Heavy.

New York, May 26.—Absence of confirmatory developments in the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific situation and other conflicting conditions imparted a degree of heaviness to the early session of today's stock market. The Harriman stocks and a few other prominent issues made gains at the outset, but these were soon effaced by selling, which seemed to have its origin with the short interest.

Canadian Pacific yielded two points with one point losses in Union Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio and Rock Island preferred. St. Louis and San Francisco second preferred, which opened with a smart advance, soon fell back to a level approximating its recent low record. Brooklyn Transit steadied on its higher dividend rate. Bonds were steady.

Prices showed an irregular tendency at the opening of today's stock market, with material gains, however, in such active issues as the Harriman stocks, Lehigh Valley and American Can. St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred, one of last week's features, soon rose over a point. Some heaviness was shown by Reading, Rock Island, Canadian Pacific and Tennessee Copper.

Profit-taking in the Harriman stocks and selling at other points caused a short reaction. Canadian Pacific fell 2 points and Union Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio and the Rock Island shares a point or more. St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred declined 2¾ points.

Union Pacific received another setback at midday upon publication of April earnings, showing a very nominal gross increase and a fairly large loss in net. Everywhere the market continued dull and heavy.

The market was without noteworthy change in the later dealings, traders holding back from active participation pending the outcome of matters at Washington, where the supreme court was in session.

The market closed heavy. The dullness of the last hour was relieved by a sharp advance of seven points in Virginia-Carolina preferred, the balance of the list touching lowest prices of the season. Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific, Reading and St. Paul reflected further pressure.

STEEL PLANT LOTS.

INTERESTING STEEL PLANT FACTS, SOME OF WHICH ARE NOW HISTORY, EVERY PROSPECTIVE INVESTOR SHOULD READ.

THE MEN WHO BOUGHT THE LAND THAT IS NOW THE SITE OF THE UNITED STATES STEEL PLANT SOLD IT FOR A FORTUNE.

LATER, MEN WITH FORESIGHT BOUGHT LAND TO PLAT FOR TOWNSITES; THEY RESOLD AT A LARGE PROFIT.

SATURDAY'S HERALD OF MAY 17 TOLD OF A MAN WHO DISPOSED OF HIS HOLDINGS IN TOWNSITE PROPERTY FOR $350,000, THIS REPRESENTING ANOTHER LARGE PROFIT.

DAILY ONE HEARS OF THE SMALLER INVESTOR WHO TURNS HIS STEEL PLANT PROPERTY AT A PROFIT. INVESTORS BUY WITH A SMALL CASH PAYMENT DOWN, AND BEFORE THEY HAVE FAIRLY STARTED PAYING THE BALANCE, ON THE EASY PAYMENT PLAN, SOME ONE OFFERS THEM AN ATTRACTIVE PRICE. THEY IMMEDIATELY BUY ANOTHER LOT, AND SO IT GOES.

THE ORIGINAL PRICE AT WHICH THE STEEL PLANT PROPERTY WAS BOUGHT WAS SO LOW THAT IT CAN BE SOLD MANY TIMES, AND EACH TIME AT PROFIT, AND STILL REMAIN AT A FAIR PRICE.

USE YOUR OWN BEST JUDGMENT IN BUYING.
YOU CAN'T GO ASTRAY.

YOU SHOULD CONSIDER THE FOLLOWING FACTS WHEN INVESTING IN STEEL PLANT PROPERTY:

THE MODEL TOWN WHICH IS TO BE BUILT BY THE STEEL CORPORATION ON ITS PROPERTY AT A COST OF $1,300,000 ADJOINS THE TOWNSITE OF SMITHVILLE.

THE TOWNSITE OF SMITHVILLE IS LOCATED AT THE NORTHEASTERN BOUNDARY OF THE STEEL PLANT PROPERTY. ALL ROADS FROM DULUTH PROPER PASS THROUGH SMITHVILLE. THE STREET CAR LINE, SEWER, WATER AND GAS WILL HAVE TO PASS THROUGH SMITHVILLE BEFORE IT REACHES THE STEEL PLANT.

THE TOWNSITE OF SMITHVILLE IS LAID OUT ON NICE HIGH, LEVEL LAND, FREE FROM STONE. ALL LOTS WITHIN EASY WALKING DISTANCE OF THE PLANT. SMITHVILLE IS BEING BUILT UP VERY FAST BY INVESTORS. A FINNISH COLLEGE IS NOW LOCATED IN SMITHVILLE. THE PREVAILING NORTHEAST WINDS WILL CARRY THE SMOKE AND DUST FROM THE CEMENT PLANT AWAY FROM SMITHVILLE. IT IS THE LOGICAL PLACE FOR THE INVESTOR TO BUY, BECAUSE IT IS CONSIDERED THE BEST LOCATION FOR THE WORKING MAN TO LIVE. SINCE THE STEEL CORPORATION ANNOUNCED THE LOCATION OF THE MODEL CITY (ADJOINING SMITHVILLE), MEN WHO KNOW STATE THAT SMITHVILLE WILL BE THE METROPOLIS OF THE STEEL PLANT DIVISIONS.

WE WILL ARRANGE TO TAKE YOU TO THE PROPERTY BY AUTO OR TRAIN, OR IF YOU LIVE OUT OF TOWN AND ARE UNABLE TO VISIT THE STEEL PLANT, SEND US $25 AND WE WILL HOLD THE BEST LOT LEFT, SUBJECT TO YOUR APPROVAL. STATE WHETHER YOU WISH BUSINESS OR RESIDENCE LOT.

LOTS RANGE IN PRICE FROM $300 TO $1,000.

CENTRAL REAL ESTATE.

WHITNEY WALL COMPANY OFFERS.

HOMEWOOD ADDITION.

REMEMBER, IN MAKING A REAL ESTATE INVESTMENT, LOCATION IS THE FIRST QUESTION YOU SHOULD CONSIDER. YOU CAN BUY LOTS IN ANY OLD PLACE, BUT LOTS WITH LOCATION ARE THE LOTS THAT INCREASE IN VALUE.

If you will study the location of Homewood, you will find it is the hub where all roads leading north, east or west from the center of Duluth branch off, therefore Homewood holds a commanding location.

If you have not purchased a lot in Homewood Addition, you should do so at once. This location, which is situated on the Boulevard between Fifth avenue east and Tenth avenue east, is now called the "Addition Beautiful."

HOMEWOOD

Is ideally located; in fact, it is a most attractive proposition—attractive because it lies exceptionally well, is practically free from rock, is covered with a fine growth of trees, commanding the grandest view to be had in Duluth, and best of all, is centrally located, the distance from the retail district of Duluth being within twelve city blocks. Furthermore, it is located in that part of the city where the easiest grade for wagon roads and street railways is available, and which is now and always will be used to reach the country east, west and north of the city.

The city of Duluth has grown east and west on account of our street railway service running east and west, and the city is now the shape of a dumb-bell, large at both ends and narrow in the center. Last fall street cars were established in the Homewood district, and this district now is bound to grow; and it is not only within walking distance to the city, but has street car service also.

PRICES OF THESE LOTS

Range from $250 to $700 each. Terms for the present, $1 to $3 cash; $1 to $3 per week, without interest. The size of the lots is 30 by 120 feet to a 16-foot alley. Streets are partly graded, with sidewalks. Sewer and water are now within two blocks of this addition.

The adjoining property has doubled and trebled in value in the last few years, and this property is bound to increase in value, and we believe will sell from 50 to 100 per cent in advance within the next two or three years. Make comparison of the advantages and the price of Homewood property with other property located from four to six miles out, and you will find that Homewood property is being offered from 50 to 75 per cent cheaper, and then remember that Homewood is not a suburb.

If you do not live in Duluth, and wish to make an investment in this growing city, we will make a selection for you and will give you three months to examine the property, and if you are not satisfied with the selection we have made, we will either exchange it for any other lot of your own selection or will return your money without any expense whatever to you. We do not hesitate to make this offer, for we know that every one will be satisfied with the purchase of a Homewood lot, as these lots will rapidly advance.

THE PRICE AND TERMS AS QUOTED ABOVE ARE SUBJECT TO CHANGE WITHOUT NOTICE.

DO NOT DELAY.

THE BEST STATE IN THE NORTH—MINNESOTA.

THE BEST STATE IN THE SOUTH—

FLORIDA!

What magic in the name! The land of the fabled "Fountain of Youth," of waving palms, beautiful flowers, tropical fruits, bluest of skies, perpetual sunshine, and the grandest climate on the globe. For the man who wants a home, for the man who wants land, Palm Beach county, on the famous East coast, is the ideal spot. Every one knows of Palm Beach, the tropical paradise of America and the world's greatest winter resort. Nearly every one will soon know of the coming city being built by ambitious Northern men and women just south of Palm Beach and on the same silvery lake. Before his serious illness, Henry M. Flagler, the noted railroad builder, made frequent trips to Lake Worth, and was so greatly impressed with the development at that point that he took numerous parties down there to see what a wonderful little town had sprung up in so short a time. He said that in all his experience in the state of Florida he had never seen such growth as Lake Worth had made in a year.

A BUSINESS OR RESIDENCE LOT FREE.

For $250, payable $10 a month or more, we sell a tract of orange, grapefruit and vegetable land and give a lot in Lake Worth free. Over 6,000 investors from every state in the Union have purchased. In our new Addition No. 1, where we are making one of the grandest winter home sites in the South, we are selling lake front lots at prices of from $200 to $1,200 each, with all lots cleared, and improvements, such as water mains, electric lights, boulevards, parks and rocked avenues, being installed in the principal section.

What successful growers are making in Florida:

Celery, 800 crates at $1.25	$1,000
Cucumbers, 150 crates at $1.50	225
Lettuce, 600 baskets at $1.25	750
Tomatoes, 200 crates at $1.25	250
Peppers, 750 crates at $1	750
Strawberries, 4,000 quarts at 20 cents	800
Oranges, per acre	$300 to 500
Grapefruit, per acre	400 to 700
Bananas, per acre	150 to 400

Palm Beach county produces fruits and winter vegetables when the North is under a crust of snow and ice, and high prices are paid. That's what makes the Florida grower rich.

RAISE YOUR FAMILY WITHOUT A DOCTOR.

365 days of pure, fresh air will do it. Good health comes first, prosperity next. You can have both in Southern Florida.

Let us pay your traveling expenses to come down and look over this property. We can arrange a free trip for you. It will open the eyes of any energetic Northerner.

We have a booklet of interest to you, no matter what your vocation. "How Gray Made His Fortune" tells the story. A copy is yours for the asking.

FARM AND FRUIT LANDS.

WHY FORTY FAMILIES HAVE MOVED INTO THE PORT WING DISTRICT SINCE JAN. 1, 1913.

$1 PER ACRE DOWN—$1 PER ACRE PER MONTH.

Port Wing is the heart of the frost-proof fruit belt of the Bayfield peninsula. The government report shows that this district has 153 growing days between killing frosts, which is 56 more growing days than they have at Missoula, Mont., the heart of the Montana fruit belt district. Just think of that, and this only 35 miles from Duluth and Superior.

There are a number of people who would like to have farms near the Head of the Lakes, which is one of the best markets for fruit and produce in America, but they fear to buy in Northern Minnesota and part of Northern Wisconsin, owing to the fact that they are apt to have a killing frost in midsummer. This never occurs at Port Wing. Call at our office and get a copy of the government report showing these wonderful frost-proof conditions at Port Wing.

Fruit-growing and general farming is not an experiment at Port Wing. They are now raising as fine apples and small fruits as it is possible to raise, and the difference in freight alone between the Pacific slope valleys and the frost-proof lands near Port Wing makes a nice profit for any grower. This difference amounts to about 50 cents a box on apples.

There is only a limited amount of land on the Bayfield peninsula which lies in the frost-proof district, and for this reason prices are advancing and the land is being taken up very quickly by the actual settlers.

H. J. Fay, one of the Fay brothers of New Richmond, Wis., who are noted as among the most expert strawberry and small fruit growers in the country, has bought a farm at Port Wing. After carefully investigating the whole situation, he is now developing a farm and will make Port Wing his future home. He did not make this move until he had satisfied himself without a doubt that this district was superior for the raising of small fruits, marketing, etc., to any district in the United States. He will gladly answer any correspondence relative to the Port Wing district. Write him.

The soil is a mixed clay loam, free from stone, and the land is easily cleared. There is excellent trout fishing and the best of hunting in this district. We can sell 10 acres of the best land in this district at $1 per acre down and $1 per acre per month. This land is located close to the village of Port Wing, and every foot is level, smooth land.

We have but a few of these 10-acre pieces left, and it will be necessary for you to act quickly if you wish one of these pieces.

We have a highly improved 5-acre tract 1½ miles from the end of the Woodland car line, which can be bought very reasonably if taken at once. The owner is going to move to Port Wing. A spring creek runs through the corner of this land. There is a large barn and good house, and a chicken coop 100 feet long, all sealed. There is also an excellent well on this place.

We have another 5-acre tract 2 miles from the end of the Woodland car line, with a good 4-room house and a good chicken coop, which can be bought very reasonable. This place is but a couple of blocks from the new Arnold school.

ARE YOU INTERESTED IN CANADIAN LANDS?

If so, please bear in mind that Canada is 3,000 miles wide and in some respects much larger than the United States. It is of the utmost importance to you whether or not you buy land and settle in the right location. Among the half million people who are going to Canada in the year 1913, thousands will make the mistake of their lives in locating where conditions are unfavorable.

IT WILL COST YOU ABSOLUTELY NOTHING to inquire of the undersigned where good lands, markets, much more favorable and warmer climate than here, prices, and rainfall exist.

FOR SALE—REAL ESTATE

GET YOUR INFORMATION ABOUT DULUTH CITY REAL ESTATE FROM THE

L. A. LARSEN COMPANY,

213-214-215 PROVIDENCE BLDG.

BOTH 'PHONES:
Grand or Melrose 1920.

The most important thing to possess whether you buy or sell real estate is to have reliable information about the city and country where you are or expect to be interested.

A real estate man no longer must know only the price of the lot or house or other property he is selling, but must have a thorough knowledge of what constitutes a future city, its commerce, advantages and consequent growth; also what particular district of the city, suburb or locality will be most likely to reap the benefit from the above conditions by the largest percentage of increase in values. This information should be at the disposal of all investors and others. We invite correspondence and gladly will furnish any reasonable request for opinions as to the present and future values of Duluth city property as well as acres adjoining Duluth.

We have for years advocated the buying of east of Lester park and have sold several thousand acres close to the lake, to Duluth's leading citizens, names of whom will be cheerfully furnished upon application.

The most surprising thing about 90 per cent of all the land between Lakewood and Knife river is its freedom from stone; and in this section can be had tracts of land very heavily wooded with the most beautiful trees in this part of the state.

The contemplated boulevard system along the north shore of Lake Superior will surely make lands having lake view very valuable. Prices $25 per acre and up.

GET YOUR BUILDING LOTS FROM THE L. A. LARSEN COMPANY, because they have the very choicest, most centrally located, easily accessible, cheapest building lots for sale on easy terms or for cash. Apply for maps of lots in the following subdivisions:

PARKLAND DIVISION

bordering on Chester park, Fourteenth avenue east. Take East Fourth street or new Ninth street car.

LAKEVIEW DIVISION

on Seventh, Eighth, Tenth and Eleventh avenues east, between Tenth and Eleventh streets. A dozen lots, some 35 by 100, some 33 by 140 and others 50 by 140. Prices $300 to $650. Some on easy payments without interest. Never again will lots be sold on those terms at that price in a section already well under way.

CENTRALLY SITUATED LOTS

below the boulevard and directly above the Soo Union station on Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh streets, within walking distance or eight minutes ride to all depots, wholesale houses, banks and retail stores. These lots vary in size, some being 35 by 100 facing the avenue; others 50 by 140 and a few 33 by 140. This section will experience the most rapid growth of all in the city hereafter.

Busy people are beginning to realize that where you can get a large lot at an elevation so easily accessible and yet above the noise and smoke from the downtown section, there is where they want to live. It means more comfort day by day, more salary and the independence one has who is not dependent upon street car transportation.

SEIBOURN PARK.

In this section, which adjoins Hazelwood park, we have sold during the last few years hundreds of lots and the development of that location can be seen by anyone. Lot buyers here can well boast of the only fire-proof school building in the city and five-minute car service. Anyone purchasing will always have the satisfaction of higher values ahead.

This location is the midway of Greater Duluth on Thirty-seventh, Thirty-eighth and Thirty-ninth avenues west on Fourth, Fifth and Sixth streets. Building lots 37½ feet wide and 132 feet long can be had on very easy payments without interest, for $475 and up.

HAZELWOOD PARK.

This is the best known of all divisions in the western part of the city and adjoins Seibourn park on the west. The remarkable growth of Hazelwood park, the numerous dwellings costing from $3,000 to $5,000, speak more than words can tell for its desirability. Several million dollars will be spent the next few years on the river front not far from Hazelwood park, and anyone picking up the few scattered lots we have for sale will surely get nice returns on the investment.

DICKERMAN ADDITION.

We have eighteen lots left on Forty-second avenue on Seventh and Eighth streets, which will be sold for cash or on easy terms at from $300 to $400 each. This section has gas, water and sewer on Eighth street, plank sidewalk and is easily accessible to the West Third street car line and within walking distance of West Duluth. Anyone buying these beautiful level lots, a garden patch all ready made for you, will never regret it.

INVESTMENT PROPERTIES

giving returns of from 6 to 12 per cent interest, now for sale in all parts of the city. Space here will not permit us to mention specific properties.

FIRST MORTGAGE LOANS.

We make first mortgage loans on improved and unimproved Duluth city property at all times and occasionally we have clients who want acre loans and have in the past made a number such, interest from 7 to 9 per cent.

FIRE INSURANCE.

We write fire insurance in one of the strongest fire insurance companies now doing business. The great care which we exercise in writing up policies at the lowest possible rates justifies us in asking for your patronage in that line.

RENTAL DEPARTMENT.

In connection with our real estate business we also look after property for local and outside clients and should you have reason to be dissatisfied, kindly let us talk it over. More common sense, patience and tact is necessary in handling rentals than in any other branch of our business. Ask for a confidential report on your property.

THE SPLENDID PROSPECTS OF DULUTH, CITY OF INDUSTRY

Steel Making and Farm Development Will Build Up a Great City.

Natural Advantages of Location a Powerful Factor in Growth.

The Truth About Duluth and Northern Minnesota Is Good Enough.

BY STILLMAN H. BINGHAM, Editor.

"Now that prosperity has returned, that the steel plant is nearing completion and that agricultural development is proceeding faster than ever before in the territory tributary to Duluth, the time is ripe for a special number of The Herald, marking time in the city's growth."

Thus ran a letter sent by The Herald several months ago to several hundred leading citizens of Duluth. The letter continued: "This big number will be largely pictorial. Pictures always attract attention and induce the average person to read short descriptive stories that go with them. We will have panoramic photographs taken that will show Duluth to the best advantage. We will picture the steel plant extensively, as well as other industries; mining, agriculture, lumbering, docks, elevators, public parks and buildings, wholesale and retail districts, and fine homes in the residence section. It is our intention to make this number the best special issue, and consequently the best advertising, that Duluth has ever had."

How The Herald has carried out these promises it is for the reader to judge.

The keynote of the instructions to every writer for the "Duluth, the City of Industry" number was: "No hot air. The truth about Duluth and Northern Minnesota is good enough. Facts—just facts." And that is what this number consists of—facts, just facts.

The Minnesota Steel company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, is building at Duluth a steel plant that will cost when completed between $16,000,000 and $17,000,000, including the land and the railroads necessary to link the plant with the iron mines, the docks on Allouez bay and all railroads at the Head of the Lakes.

Twice as many families settled on farms in Northern Minnesota, which is all tributary to Duluth, in 1912 as in 1911. Reliable authorities say indications are that twice as many farmers will come to Northern Minnesota this year as came last year, which would mean the quadrupling of farm settlement in two years. Great railroads which advertised lands farther west and in Canada have come to realize that the great agricultural empire of Northern Minnesota has inducements to offer settlers which are not surpassed anywhere. During the last year or two the railroads have been advertising Northern Minnesota as the greatest dairy and general farming country in the Northwest, to the mutual advantage of this territory and the railroads, since farm settlement means increased traffic.

Best of all, their advertisements have been truthful advertisements. Northern Minnesota has millions of acres of lands for sale at low prices. Here the principal item in the cost of a farm is a man's own labor in clearing. The work of clearing Northern Minnesota cut-over lands is a man's size job, but it richly repays the settler, and is not as hard a task as the early settlers had in clearing timber lands in Southern Minnesota.

Good farm lands are to be had at from $5 to $20 an acre, depending upon their proximity to railroads and markets. The state, which has several millions of acres for sale, requires a payment of 15 per cent down and the balance any time in forty years, with interest at 4 per cent. Other holders of lands make terms which any thrifty man can meet.

It is confidently expected that the building of a great steel plant at Duluth will be followed by the establishment of other large industries in this city and the employment of additional thousands of well-paid workmen, of which Duluth has thousands already. Indeed, this is a practical certainty. The industrial growth of the city is keeping pace with the farm development for hundreds of miles on all sides and Duluth is justified in the belief that it is on the verge of a great and substantial growth.

Duluth is not in the midst of a boom. It has had for years a steady and solid growth which is now quickening and attracting the attention of conservative investors all over the country. Duluth business property is in big demand. On Superior street, the main business thoroughfare, no property is for sale between Eighth avenue east and Eighth avenue west. As much as $3,000 a front foot has been refused for a corner. Much Superior street business property is held by non-residents, who seem to be even more enthusiastic over the city's future than its own residents, which is certainly a good augury of growth.

Duluth's advantages at the Head of the Great Lakes are so well known as scarcely to require comment. From Duluth a network of great railroads spread out fan-like in all directions, particularly throughout the great Northwest, all of which is experiencing a marvelous development, as everybody knows. Duluth is the natural point of supply for this vast territory. During the past few years hundreds of miles of new railroads have been built to Duluth, and this railroad development is helping materially in the growth of the city.

Duluth is a delightful place in which to labor and to live. While the winters are cold, they are healthful. Duluth's summer climate is not surpassed anywhere. It is the coolest city in the United States in summer, and tourists from all parts come here to rest, to sleep under blankets in July and August and regain their spirits and vitality, which have been sapped by the heat of other cities.

No city in the country today is more progressive than Duluth. It has commission government under the best city charter in America. It possesses many features which charm the visitor and which are pictured and described in the succeeding pages of this newspaper.

What talks loudly for Duluth is the fact that today not a man is idle in this city or surrounding territory who wants to work for good wages.

Finally, and more significant and of vaster consequence than all the rest, for without it all the rest were useless, there is a public spirit and enterprise and aggressive quality of citizenship in the people of Duluth that are constructing a solid foundation, moral, physical and financial, for the city of Duluth that is to be.

The most recent exemplification of this spirit is the new city charter, already referred to, and the splendid city commission just elected to carry out its wise and business-like provisions. This provides a city government responsible and responsive to all, and abundantly fitted to co-operate with such agencies as the Commercial club in the building of the City That Is to Be. Back of this most recent development is the growth of the Commercial club's activities, with its traffic commission, its industrial bureau and its public affairs committee, all splendidly manned and financially equipped for the work of seeing that Duluth does its part and gets its share.

These tremendous natural advantages, and these splendid civic organizations, formed to make the most of what nature has done, assure that Duluth is not only a City of Destiny, but that it is determined to see that its destiny is realized.

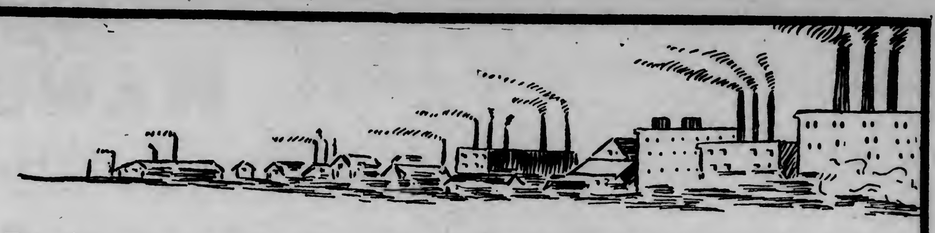
JUST THE TRUTH IS GOOD ENOUGH ABOUT GARY



Right alongside the steel plant on level land. All the newspapers speak of the steel plant as being at Gary. And so it is, but Gary itself is in the city of Duluth

The monster Minnesota Steel Plant is nearing completion. More than a thousand men are engaged in its construction and when it begins operations it will employ several thousands of well-paid men. The cost of this gigantic industrial plant, the site of which is more than 1,600 acres in extent, including the land and belt line and ore-carrying railroad, is $17,000,000. The buildings and machinery alone cost $10,000,000. The United States Steel Corporation has authorized an additional unit, or complete steel plant, to be built later. When unit No. 2 is built, it will bring the total cost of the Minnesota Steel Plant, at Gary, in the City of Duluth, up to the stupendous sum of $27,000,000.

Gary Building Up at a Rapid Rate

The new steel city of Gary has many residences, business houses and a bank. Gary has electric light and city water, telephone and other modern conveniences. The Duluth Street Railway company is extending its line to Gary and in a few weeks cars will be running from Gary to all parts of the City of Duluth.

Gary Is Linked to Steel Plant

Gary and the steel plant lie side by side. In the one, thousands of workmen will labor and in the other they will live. The steel plant and Gary are linked indissolubly. That's what the artist meant when he drew the chain across this page. He also sought to convey, which is a fact, that Gary is the first link in the chain of desirable properties anywhere near the steel plant.

Gary Lots Are Reasonable in Price

Business and residence lots have been rising slowly but steadily for more than a year, but are still very reasonable in price when their real value is considered. Within the next few months there will be a wonderful quickening in values in Gary along with the operation of one of the world's greatest steel plants, which is the biggest industrial enterprise in Minnesota, and for that matter, west of Chicago. Gary and the steel plant are just about midway between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans and in the center of the most marvelous industrial and agricultural growth in the United States.

Gary Lots a Safe Investment

The best lots for business and residence in Gary which are yet to be had are for sale by this company. They are the safest investment imaginable and possess wonderful speculative possibilities as well. Other industries will locate close to the Minnesota steel plant, jast as they followed the steel plant to Gary, Ind. Every additional industry will mean an increase in values in Gary, Minn. Do not delay. If you have money to invest, write to us at once and double your capital quickly.

Gary Residence Lots from $250 to $ 750
Gary Business Lots from $600 to $2500

If you invest your money in Gary it will grow faster than in any other part of the City of Duluth, destined to double its population during the next five years, and where many fortunes will be made in the tremendous real estate rise which is just beginning. Steel making caused Birmingham, Ala., to increase 255 per cent in population in ten years, according to the United States census of 1910. Birmingham led every city in the United States in growth. Duluth will duplicate Birmingham's phenomenal growth during the present census period.

Gary Beckons You to Fortune

Write today, sending ten per cent of the purchase price to our main office at Duluth as earnest money, and we will hold the best lot left at the price you want to pay, when your order is received. Reservations made in the order in which letters with remittances arrive. Easy payments for the remainder of the purchase price can be arranged. Buyers at a distance can come to Duluth at their convenience and thoroughly investigate their purchases, and if they are not satisfied, their earnest money will be refunded in full.

STEEL PLANT TWICE AS BIG AS PLANNED IN BEGINNING

Its Cost Complete Will Be Between $16,000,000 and $17,000,000.

Further Additions, Costing $760,000, Decided Upon Recently.

Great Industry Will Supply Fast Developing and Rich Northwest.

BY J. E. ROCKWELL,
City Editor.

Duluth is going to have the most modern and best planned steel plant in America.

When the plant of the United States Steel corporation on the St. Louis river, is completed, it will be possible to make steel as cheaply there as in any plant in America, and probably cheaper than it can be made in any other.

Out of the columns and columns of statistics that might be given in regard to the Minnesota steel plant these two facts stand out as of supreme importance. It doesn't signify much to the average citizen that the plant has one building that is 1,040 feet long; or that the foundations of another building contain 50,000 cubic yards of concrete. But it doesn't take a steel maker to realize the importance of the fact that the Duluth plant is the best planned plant in America and that steel can be made as cheaply here as any place.

Many other advantages which the Duluth plant will have over others might be enumerated. A few weeks ago Duluthians read with horror of the floods in Ohio and Indiana. It was briefly mentioned in the reports that some of the steel plants along the Ohio river and its branches had been flooded, and that they would be out of commission for several weeks. Such a condition could never arise in Duluth. The local plant is far above the high water level of the river, on a level, perfectly drained site.

Duluth has a climate that permits of twelve months of efficiency for labor. There are no long spells of oppressively hot weather in Duluth, when men fall fainting and exhausted from the heat, and when it is a physical impossibility to keep production any place near its normal. The days on which the heat will seriously interfere with the operation of the plant may be numbered on the fingers of one hand.

Duluth is the natural market for the richest and most rapidly developing territory on the world. All of the great Northwest is Duluth territory. From the Head of the Lakes to the Pacific coast will be the market for Duluth-made steel.

The Duluth plant will have a great advantage over every other plant in America because of its proximity to the ore deposits. No transhipping of ore will be necessary; no loading into boats and unloading again onto cars. The trains of ore can be run directly from the mines to the plant. The distance from the coal fields will not offset this advantage, because of the fact that Duluth is on the greatest inland waterway in the world.

Shipping facilities for the finished product could scarcely be improved upon. The new belt line railroad being constructed by the company will connect with every line of railroad entering Duluth and provide easy connections with any point in the West.

Nobody can estimate accurately the exact amount of money that will be spent for Duluth's steel plant. Originally, the Steel corporation promised to erect a plant to cost $6,000,000. When the plans were finally decided upon the cost was placed at $10,000,000. The last named amount, and more, will be necessary for the buildings and equipment alone.

When it is finally completed, including the cost of the land for the steel plant and terminal yards, belt line railroad, the steel bridge across the St. Louis river and the ore railroad connecting with the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway at Adolph, the Minnesota steel plant will have cost the Steel corporation between $16,000,000 and $17,000,000.

More than a million dollars was paid for the site of the plant. Two million dollars was sunk in the ground in the form of concrete foundations for the great buildings. Putting in these concrete foundations was a long and expensive job, but a necessary one. There is little showing on the surface for these two million dollars' worth of work, but it is there.

Between $3,500,000 and $4,000,000 have been spent on the buildings that are now to be seen, and as much more will have been paid out before they are completed. These figures alone represent an expenditure of $10,000,000 and do not include the $600,000 for the bridge across the St. Louis river, which is completed, nor the money it is costing to complete the belt line railroad and the ore road to Adolph.

Only about a month ago, the Steel corporation decided upon a material addition to the plant, which will largely increase its steel output. This addition consists of three more open hearth steel furnaces and another reheating furnace, which will cost $760,000. It was found that more coke and pig iron would be produced than could be utilized by the seven steel furnaces now almost finished and that ten steel furnaces would just about balance up the plant. This means an increased steel making capacity of almost one-half. It has been found necessary to add a storage yard for coal and limestone during the close of navigation. This yard will be 1,000 feet in length and 600 feet in width, with two large traveling bridges of 600 feet span.

On top of all these expenditures come the machinery and other equipment, bringing the total necessary expenditures for Minnesota's greatest industry to between $16,000,000 and $17,000,000. These figures are authoritative and not to be disputed.

One of the buildings—the merchant mill—will be the largest building in Minnesota. It is 1,040 feet long and 112 feet wide. The ordinary city block is 400 feet by 300 feet. This building, therefore, is nearly as long as three city blocks, and nearly half a block in width. It would stretch from Third avenue west to the middle of the block between Fifth and Sixth avenues west, and would reach back almost to the alley.

The state capitol would be dwarfed by comparison. The new capitol building is only 433 feet long over all, with an average width of 120 feet and an extreme width of 228 feet.

Five other buildings, the pit furnace, the blooming mill, the rail mill, the hot beds, and the bar and finishing buildings, form a continuous building 1,940 feet long. They are separate buildings, but are connected so that a person may walk that entire distance without being in the open air. Those buildings would reach almost from Lake avenue to Fifth avenue west. Then there are the shop buildings, including the machine shop, forge shop and plate and structural shop. There is the infirmary and the garage to give first aid to the injured. There are blast furnaces, and the small power house, and the concrete mixing plant, and a dozen smaller buildings.

buildings is the machine shop. This building will contain machinery worth more than $1,000,000, although it is comparatively one of the small buildings, being but 280 feet long by 140 feet in width. The shop will be unique. In the entire building there will be absolutely no belting or wiring exposed. Machine shops have been always associated in one's mind with a maze of whirring belts and scores of electric wires. But in this new shop, which will be the only one of its kind in the world, not a foot of belting or electric wiring will be exposed where any workman might come in contact with it. All the machines will be motor driven and the wires will be concealed in the floors. This illustrates the lengths to which the Steel corporation has gone in protecting the lives of the workmen at its new plant.

The pictures accompanying this article give only a faint idea of the immensity of the plant, which will consist of more than fifty buildings. For the information of the average reader who has not had occasion to study the process of making steel, it might be stated that the blast furnaces reduce the ore to pig iron. From the blast furnaces the pig iron is sent to the open hearth furnaces, where it is turned into huge steel ingots. The soaking pit building is for the purpose of heating these steel ingots, and they are then rolled into rails in the rail mill, or into all shapes and sizes of steel bars in the merchant mill, or into billets and blooms in the blooming mill. The two blast furnaces have a capacity of about 500 tons per day each, and the ten open hearth furnaces will turn out about 1,000 tons of steel ingots per day.

In addition to all the buildings which are visible, the plant has a sewer system that would more than equal the demands of any municipality in the state outside of Duluth and the Twin Cities. There is a main outlet sewer of concrete, 80 inches in diameter and 700 feet long. The tallest man in Duluth could walk through it wearing a high hat and never dent the hat. He could stroll nearly two blocks in this subway. In addition to the main sewer, there are branch sewers 2,400 feet in length and 48 inches in diameter, and smaller ones 2,400 feet in length and 24 inches in diameter. The sewer system complete includes more than a mile of concrete mains.

POWER HOUSE, SHOWING CONCRETE FOUNDATIONS FOR THE MACHINERY.

And this plant has its own pumping plant. Four centrifugal pumps are being installed, each with a capacity of 10,000,000 gallons every twenty-four hours. The pumps could fill the city's reservoirs in six hours' time. The intake pipe is thirteen feet in diameter, and a farmer could drive a load of hay into it for 300 feet or more without disturbing the load.

When will the plant be completed and turning out steel? Nobody can set the exact date as yet. There can be no doubt that the corporation is earnestly striving to complete the plant at the earliest date possible. The number of men now employed is good evidence of that. The stream of workmen pouring out of the plant every night at 6 o'clock now fills six coaches on the train that brings them to Duluth, and many more make their way to their homes or boarding houses in Gary and New Duluth.

But whenever it is completed and begins turning out steel, Duluthians may be assured of two things: the plant will be twice as big as the one originally promised them by the United States Steel corporation, and it will be the best equipped, most modern and best planned steel plant in America, turning out steel at the lowest cost.

DULUTH HAS CHEAP POWER

Rates as Low as Any City in the Country Except Niagara Falls.

Only 30,000 Horse Power Is Being Used of 80,000 Available.

The swiftly flowing St. Louis river has added to Duluth's other natural advantages as cheap water power or rather electric power derived from water power as any city in the country except Niagara Falls and one company in South and North Carolina.

The falls of the St. Louis river generate electric current used to run the street railways and to light the cities of Duluth and Superior, as well as supplying power to many manufacturing plants.

The Great Northern Power company has 45,000-horse power in machinery, which can be increased to a total of 80,000-horse power. Approximately 30,000-horse power is required to take care of present demands.

As to rates for power in Duluth and vicinity, an examination made about eighteen months ago showed that for the same classes of business the rates enjoyed here are as low as charged anywhere else in the United States, with the exception of Niagara Falls and one company in South Carolina and North Carolina.

Duluth has keen competition in lighting. The city, which operates its own water and light department, buys gas, a bi-product, at a low rate from the Zenith Furnace company, and sells it to all users at the very low rate of 75 cents per thousand cubic feet, which is probably the lowest rate charged in this country. The rate in New York city, with its 5,000,000 population, is 80 cents. The Duluth Edison Electric company gets its current from the Great Northern Power company and must keep its lighting prices low to compete with the city's cheap gas.

DULUTH, CITY OF INDUSTRY

Exceptionally Located for Manufacturing and Distribution.

Has Blast Furnaces, Iron Works, Woolen Mills and Other Factories.

Duluth had blast furnaces making pig iron years before the United States Steel corporation decided upon the construction of the gigantic Minnesota steel plant in this city. The Zenith Furnace company has operated blast furnaces successfully for many years and it is still turning out superior pig iron which is in large demand. Duluth also has several large iron works, including the Clyde, the National, the Imperial and the Marine. The city also has foundry, machine and boiler shops.

Other large industries antedating the steel plant are the Union Match factory, the Carbolite plant and great sawmills. Several of the big sawmills are still at work and employ several thousand men in Duluth and in the woods of the surrounding territory.

Wood-working is becoming considerable of an industry. Duluth is the center of a vast hardwood territory. It has one large furniture factory, and several smaller wood industries, and is an ideal location for wood-working factories of all kinds.

The Patrick-Duluth woolen mill has been such a success, making garments from the raw wool, that F. A. Patrick & Co. have just completed another large plant, modern in every way, and three stories in height.

Agricultural development now under way in the rich farming country which spreads out on all sides of Duluth will reduce the cost of living in this city, an added inducement to manufacturers to locate here. No other city in the country has such inducements as Duluth to offer for the manufacture of steel, wooden or steel and wooden cars, right at the point of production of the raw materials, and with all of the Northwest to serve. After a locomotive has been built in Philadelphia, for instance, it costs 2½ per cent of its building cost to get it to the railways of the Northwest, a neat margin of percentage on the profit side. The same is true of passenger and freight cars. Undoubtedly great car plants will come to Duluth, following the steel plant, just as they have done to Gary, Ind., along with many other important industries.

Duluth manufactured last year $22,000,000 worth of products, which total will be given a tremendous impetus when operation of the steel plant is begun. Other industries that are bound to follow in its wake will send Duluth's manufacturing output millions upon millions higher than it is today.

Many good manufacturing sites, suitable to industries of all kinds and sizes, are yet to be had in Duluth at reasonable prices, with dockage and connections by means of the belt line with all railroads. Duluth is awake to its great immediate future. Its Commercial club is a live body expending $50,000 a year to further the city's growth and progress. Manufacturers have nothing to fear from political cliques. Duluth went under commission government in the middle of April last, with the best city charter in the country, insuring manufacturers and other taxpayers a business-like administration of municipal affairs.

Manufacturers who are thinking of changing their base of operations and new industries looking for the best available location will not make a mistake in coming to Duluth. The Duluth Commercial club will place all its facilities at their command and help them in every way possible to get the sites desired at reasonable prices. The Commercial club has recently induced a number of important industries to come to Duluth. The club will gladly furnish any information desired about Duluth.

Minnesota Gets the Most Immigrants.

From the Western Agriculturist: Minnesota gained more immigrants than any other state; it is the only one in which an increase is shown, according to the statistics of the Great Northern Railway company. Its estimate is based upon the fact that 565 cars of immigrant movables were handled between Jan. 1 and May 7 for Minnesota, while only 302 carloads were handled for Alberta, British Columbia, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Ontario, and only 516 carloads were handled for Idaho, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Oregon, and Washington.

NINE GREAT RAILROADS

Duluth on 30,500 Miles of Lines Reaching Out in Every Direction.

Belt Line Will Connect All Railroads at the Head of the Lakes.

Duluth's strategic position at the western extremity of the greatest inland waterway in the world has had the inevitable effect of making this city one of the most important railroad centers of the United States, as well as a factor of overshadowing magnitude in water transportation. Duluth is the place where rails and water meet. The growth and development of the Northwest has made the rapid increase and improvement of the city's railroad facilities an imperative necessity.

If the total mileage of all the railroads touching Duluth were extended into one long railroad, that railroad would girdle the earth and then go one-fifth of the way round again. The nine railroad systems sharing in the stupendous traffic handled at Duluth aggregate 30,500 miles. These railroads are the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie; the Great Northern; the Northern Pacific; Canadian Northern; the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul; the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha; the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic; the Duluth & Iron Range; and the Duluth, Missabe & Northern.

Twenty years ago Duluth was not reached by the Soo, the Canadian Northern, the St. Paul nor the Omaha. The St. Paul & Duluth, the Eastern Railway of Minnesota and the Duluth & Winnipeg were all then operated as separate railroads. Since that time the St. Paul & Duluth has become a part of the Northern Pacific system and the Eastern Railway of Minnesota and the Duluth & Winnipeg have been assimilated by the Great Northern. The Soo has four lines running into Duluth. One of these extends from Duluth to Ladysmith, Wis.; another reaches from Duluth to Brooten, Stearns county; another is the Thief River Falls line, and the other is the line from Duluth to the Twin Cities, which was completed last year.

Of tremendous importance to Duluth is the announcement that the Soo will build to the Pacific coast and that it will get into Montana next year. It means that eventually Duluth will be the principal terminus of a coast road, and one of the livest and most enterprising roads in the world. The new territory tapped by the Soo will greatly increase the importance of Duluth as a jobbing center and some are predicting that as a wholesale headquarters this city will some day surpass the Twin Cities, notwithstanding the great start that they have.

The Soo is regarded as one of Duluth's best friends. Its latest act of friendship was its promulgation of a new schedule of tariffs, effective on May 15, next, making material reductions from Duluth to points on the Soo Line, north of the line of the Green Bay & Western railroad. This puts Duluth on a parity with the Twin Cities for traffic with territory served by the Soo Line in Wisconsin. It not only enables Duluth to compete with the Twin Cities, but as Milwaukee, Chicago, Green Bay and other cities do a tremendous amount of business in Wisconsin, it gives Duluth an opportunity of competing advantageously with those cities.

The Canadian Northern came into Duluth last year with an extension from Virginia. The Canadian Northern had built a line from Winnipeg to Fort Frances, and taken over the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg railway, extending from Fort Frances to Virginia. This was done about four years ago. These lines, in connection with the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, gave a through route from Duluth to Winnipeg.

A glance at the map, showing the railroads in Western Canada in 1891, and at a similar map, showing the roads in this same territory today, together with the proposed extensions, reveals a development of railroads through that country little short of marvelous. These Western Canadian railroads are reaching out to the Pacific coast and soon Canada will have three transcontinental lines, the Canadian Northern, the Canadian Pacific and the Grand Trunk. These great systems are closely connected with this city and the development of Western Canada means business and commercial growth to Duluth.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul has an operating arrangement over the Northern Pacific tracks. The St. Paul owned stock in the old St. Paul & Duluth, and as a result the Northern Pacific brings freight trains of the St. Paul road into Duluth. The St. Paul road can any time annul that contract and bring its own trains over the line. It is understood that the St. Paul road contemplates building a line of its own from Ortonville, Big Stone county, across the state into Duluth. The St. Paul, about four years ago, completed its line to Puget Sound on the Pacific coast.

The Great Northern, twenty years ago, had a line running from Duluth to Cass Lake. A few years later the Great Northern completed the line between Fosston and Cass Lake and its extension west from Havre to the Pacific coast, giving Duluth a direct line to the coast. Practically the entire gridiron of branches of the Great Northern in North Dakota has been built during the last two decades.

The Northern Pacific in this same period has also made a great many extensions in North Dakota. The line known as the Minnesota & International, subsidiary to the Northern Pacific, was built from Brainerd to International Falls, Minn., within that space of time. The Northern Pacific last month added another passenger train from Duluth connecting at Staples for the Pacific coast.

The Duluth & Iron Range has put in many spurs here and there through the iron country, has built lines from Allen Junction to Virginia and Eveleth, and has made several other extensions. The Duluth, Missabe & Northern has also shot out many spurs, tapping rich iron mining districts here and there.

What is to be known as the Belt line is now under construction by two corporations, owned and controlled by the United States Steel corporation. This line, when completed, will extend about twenty-three miles, connecting the steel plant with the Duluth, Missabe & Northern at Adolph and with the Omaha line at Itasca, Wis. The line will also run to Wisconsin Point, thus linking the steel plant with the lake and connecting all railroads at the Head of the Lakes. The main purpose of the Belt line is to handle ore shipped to the steel plant and products shipped from it, but other traffic will also be handled. The construction of the Belt line was begun three years ago. It will probably be completed and ready for service as far as Itasca by next August or September.

The enormous increase in traffic at Duluth during the past dozen years is told in the following table of figures:

	1900.	1912.
Coal receipts, tons	2,676,597	8,585,039

WHITE IRON LAKE'S FINE SHOWING

This Company Operating One Mine and Developing Another.

The White Iron Lake Iron company, operating the White Iron mine at Chisholm, will work to capacity all season. Its output has all been sold in advance. The White Iron mine is both open pit and underground. Both parts of the mine are working with a full force.

This company recently won a most important decision over the state of Minnesota. The state sued to establish its ownership to the ore under Longyear lake, adjoining Chisholm. The mine extends to the shore of the lake. The court decided that the White Iron Lake Iron company and other abutting owners own and have the right to mine the ore underlying the lake.

The White Iron Lake Iron company is also developing a very promising property in section 2, 62-12, on the Vermilion Iron range. This property was thoroughly diamond-drilled and a good body of high-grade ore shown up in the Soudan formation, less than two miles from the Savoy of the great Ely group of mines of the United States Steel corporation. Two shafts are being sunk.

Shaft No. 2 is sixty-seven feet in depth and has been in ore almost from the start. The vein is widening out as the shaft goes down. The company has had several good offers from mining companies who desire to take over this property, but prefers to proceed further with the development work before entertaining offers to lease.

Several expert geologists and mining engineers have examined the property and all have made favorable reports. There seems to be little doubt that time and money will develop a big mine for the company on its Vermilion property.

SPRING POULTRYGRAMS.

The following spring poultrygrams are taken from the current issue of Farm and Fireside:

"Stoneware drinking-vessels are the most sanitary and serviceable.

"For full egg-baskets try equal parts of wheat, oats and corn, scattered in litter.

"Save all the table-scraps, parings, etc.; boil, and thicken with wheat-bran, and feed warm at night.

"Ice-water is not conducive to egg-laying. Give the hens their water at about blood heat in cold weather.

"Hens prefer dark nests. It will take less time to darken the hen-house nests than to hunt for stolen nests.

"Three drops of carbolic acid to a gallon of water will sterilize the water and prevent throat troubles in poultry."

Ten Years of Electrical Progress in Duluth

For the past ten years the necessities of life have been steadily becoming more and more expensive; but the one necessity—the Electric Light—has been greatly reduced in cost. Its use has become more popular—more and more is it used with every passing year, and the result is, that the almost universal use of this, the best and most sanitary of all methods of lighting, has conferred a great benefit upon the people by doing away with the old, vitiating forms of lighting, which, because they consumed the oxygen of the air, and spread small particles of carbon all over the room in which they are burned, were great breeders of disease, particularly tuberculosis.

MINING

CONSOLIDATED VERMILION IS A GREAT IRON MINE

Ready to Ship From Shaft and Surface as Soon as Railroad Spur Is in.

North American Mine Ought to Be In the Ore Body in About Six Weeks.

BY GEORGE REID.

T. J. Walsh has confounded his critics and has won out on the Vermilion iron range. He has one mine, the Consolidated Vermilion, already developed, with two big stockpiles of iron ore ready to ship, and from all indications the North American mine will go into the shipping list before the season is over. The Consolidated Vermilion is really a wonderful property rivalling the famous Section 30 mine, also on the Vermilion, in its extent and ultimate production, and any of the great Ely group of mines. The North American undoubtedly will prove to be a big iron mine.

Mr. Walsh has been on the Vermilion range for more than thirty years. He went there over an Indian trail, as a boy, in the employ of George C. Stone, who found the Soudan mine, the first to be developed on the range. For twenty years Mr. Walsh contended in the courts for the right to his homestead at what is now Tower junction, three-quarters of a mile from the Soudan mine. The North American mine is on this homestead.

A few days ago I completed my fourth annual trip over the Vermilion range, paying special attention to the Walsh properties. Ore is being hoisted continuously from the Consolidated Vermilion mine. It has been hoisted continuously for the past five months. The mine has two large stockpiles of high grade ore and is ready to ship any time the Duluth & Iron Range railroad builds its spur to the mine. This spur has been surveyed and work will probably begin on it shortly.

The company has started a crew to work sinking a shaft on the east extension of Vermilion Consolidated for an important find of high grade ore which was made a year ago, the ledge coming to within a few inches of the surface. Considerable of this ore can be loaded from the surface directly into cars.

After the Consolidated Vermilion property had been thoroughly drilled, a shaft was sunk 340 feet in the south rock wall and a drift was run through greenstone 60 feet, when the ore body was encountered. About 400 feet of drifts are in ore, including upraises. The main drift is about 250 feet in length. Three upraises have been cut 40 feet above the drift and one subupraise 50 feet above. It is believed the ore body extends the length of eight forties, which would mean one of the largest mines ever found on the range.

That this is probable is proved by the Section 30 mine. After $500,000 had been expended on Section 30 and the property abandoned by several operating companies, George A. St. Clair, the wizard of the Minnesota iron ranges, took hold of it and developed what is one of the biggest underground mines in the world. Section 30 has been proved up at points a mile and a quarter apart, in length, and in width at points 600 feet apart. Everything indicates that Consolidated Vermilion will rival Section 30 in magnitude. These facts will give an idea of the immense value of the Consolidated Vermilion mine, which will be extremely profitable to stockholders and is likely to pay oven bigger dividends to their grandchildren.

A large hoisting plant, a duplicate of that at the North American mine, has been installed at the Consolidated Vermilion, along with a power plant, also a duplicate of the North American's. All necessary machinery has been installed and is in working order to hoist 800,000 to 1,000,000 tons a year. Enough mining timber to last for a year has been brought to the mine. Never before on the Vermilion range has so much ore been shown up with the same expenditure of money as on the Consolidated Vermilion property. Capt. Robert Powell has charge of the mine and everything else pertaining to the big property. More than fifty men are employed and work is being rushed as fast as is consistent with good business judgment.

The land holdings of the Consolidated Vermilion & Extension company consist of 400 acres in sections 4 and 5, 62-14. The company is a consolidation of the Vermilion Steel & Iron company and the Extension of Vermilion Steel & Iron company, and embraces all the properties of these two companies, which are situated about midway between Tower and Ely, near the east shore of Lake Vermilion.

The shaft of the North American mine is the only concrete shaft on the Vermilion range. The concrete extends to a depth of 94 feet. The shaft is 400 feet in depth. From the shaft a drift has been run eighty feet to the east, then about 200 feet to the south, making 280 feet of drifting in all. At least 150 feet more of drifting has yet to be done before the ore body is encountered. The work is progressing at the rate of about four feet a day and the drift ought to be in the ore body in about six weeks. Heavy pumps have been installed. All necessary equipment is in position, so that when the ore is reached there will be no delay in getting it to the surface. A railroad spur to the mine is in, which means there will be no delay in shipping when the ore body is penetrated.

The North American mine is about three-quarters of a mile from the Soudan mine, the oldest on the range. The land holdings of the North American Iron Mining company comprise 360 acres in sections 4 and 12, 61-15, and sections 22 and 27, 62-13. Drill work has shown up two large iron ore formations on this property, one to the north and the other to the south, both of which can be reached from the one shaft, which was located for that express purpose. The deepest drill work ever done on the range was done here. One hole was sunk to a depth of 1,335 feet.

The company expects to get out

This company is solely a holding company, owning over 95 per cent of the outstanding stock of the Greene Consolidated Copper Company, itself a holding company owning all the issued capital stock of The Cananea Consolidated Copper Company, S. A., a Mexican operating and title holding company owning mines, mining claims and works located at Cananea, Sonora, Mexico, and also the entire capital stock of the San Pedro Copper Company, S. A., a Mexican operating and title holding company owning mines, mining claims and property also situated at Sonora, Mex.

During 1912 the Greene Cananea Copper Company paid three dividends of 25 cents per share, a total of $1,819,877.

The physical condition of the mines is good and the outlook is for a satisfactory year ahead, with a considerable increase in the production of both copper and silver. Our plants have been modernized and the cost of production greatly reduced. Under the present management large additional mineralized areas have been secured and development work now being done is proving up splendid paying ore bodies. In view of these facts and of the prospect for a permanent reasonable price for copper, the company gives every promise of being a profitable investment for the stockholders.

enough ore to make a small shipment this year and with that object in view has worked continuously from Jan. 1, 1912, with three shifts of miners, day and night, with the exception of one shift on the Fourth of July and one shift on Christmas. The North American company is in receipt of many flattering compliments from mining men on its modern methods and machinery. The plant, shaft and other equipment is worth $100,000.

A large brick machine shop and flat building for officers and employes has been erected since my visit to the North American last September. The machine shop does the work for all three of the Walsh companies. An electric light plant has recently been installed to light the surface and the underground workings, and later on the company expects to run its underground motors by electric power. Mining timber has been shipped to the North American to last for a year. Capt. John Zobitz has general charge of the mine, which employs thirty-eight men.

The third of the Walsh companies is the Minnesota Steel & Iron, whose holdings consist of 200 acres in section 3, 61-15. The finest outcrops of iron ore on the Vermilion range are to be seen on this property. Extensive diamond drill work has proved the formation to continue to great depth and the length of three forties. The Minnesota Steel & Iron shaft is down about ninety feet, where a rich and promising ore formation has been encountered.

A vein 107 feet in width of volcanic ash has been shown up by diamond drills. The shaft is being sunk through this material. Various analyses of this ash have given good values in gold and a trifle of silver.

After tests have been made as to the proper methods to extract the value from this volcanic ash, the company expects to instal a small gold plant and make it pay for a large one. The company considers the volcanic ash as a side issue, however, and is devoting its attention to developing an iron mine on the Minnesota property. Nevertheless, could the gold values in this ash be saved, and there is no reason to think otherwise, the gold itself is a profitable proposition, as the material can be mined by steam shovel, after stripping only twenty-eight feet.

A small but substantial power plant has been installed on the Minnesota. An extension of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad from the North American mine to the Minnesota would be only a mile in length. Timber, for both shaft-sinking and drifts, to last a year, has been shipped to the Minnesota shaft. Capt. Louis Peterson has charge of the work and has eighteen men in his employ.

Neither of these three iron mining companies has any paid officers. T. J. Walsh has devoted all of his time for three years to developing these great iron properties without pay.

Mr. Walsh's struggles on the range as a poor boy, his fight with slender resources against large interests for his homestead, rich in iron, which lasted for a score of years; his indefatigable efforts to raise capital, in which he was successful, and the ability shown in the development of his properties, challenges fiction. It is common knowledge that in a few more years T. J. Walsh will take his place in Duluth's list of mining millionaires, as his holdings are heavy in all of his companies.

ONE CORPORATION WHICH IS NOT CALLED "SOULLESS"

United States Steel Corporation and Its Model Towns.

Best Schools in America and Comfortable Homes for Men.

Safety Devices to Protect Life and Limb—Industrial Magnitude.

BY J. E. ROCKWELL,
City Editor.

In the good old days—and not such very old days either—it was the case with corporations that dividends covered a multitude of sins. Perhaps it might be said that they covered all sins.

The officers were held to be answerable only to the directors and the stockholders, and as long as "results" were obtained in the shape of quarterly or semi-annual dividend checks, too close an inquiry was not made into the methods.

But a new social consciousness has arisen and it has extended to the corporations. Maybe it originated with the stockholders themselves, and maybe it originated with the officers, but whichever is the case the officers are no longer considered responsible only to the directors and held accountable only for dividends.

They are responsible to the men they employ to give them a comfortable, sanitary and healthful place to work, and to safeguard them by every possible means from injury or death from powerful and dangerous machinery. They are responsible to the children of these employes for an education. It is held to be the duty of the corporation to see that the children of its employes have an opportunity to acquire a sound and practical education, and acquire it amid surroundings that will not impair their physical efficiency.

They are responsible to the wives of their employes for comfortable, warm, sanitary homes. The wife of a corporation employe is entitled to a home where she can rear her children in decency and comfort.

The record of the United States Steel corporation in Northern Minnesota from the time it was organized shows that no corporation in America has been quicker to realize these new responsibilities. No other corporation in America has gone as far as the United States Steel corporation in its policy of "a fair deal for the men and a fair chance for their children."

The best examples of what the corporation has done on these lines are found in the newer districts on the Western Mesaba range. Seven years ago the United States Steel corporation went into the Canisteo district, in Itasca county, and began to develop it. The corporation had two alternatives. It could allow its employes to shift for themselves and solve their own housing problems, or it could establish model towns for them. It chose the latter, and three model towns were built in the Canisteo district. They are Coleraine, Taconite and Marble. Before one dollar was realized on the investment in the Canisteo district the corporation had expended $10,000,000 in developing it. Of this sum about $2,500,000 went into a great concentrating plant at Coleraine to wash the lean ores. The industrial development of this district was more expensive but not more important than the development of the model towns. The towns were laid out with ideal drainage. An opportunity was given the workmen to purchase their own homes on small monthly payments. The homes were modern, comfortable dwellings, well built, well drained, well lighted and well heated, in towns with all modern improvements.

The corporation solved the liquor question most effectually. Every lot sold in the townsites contained a clause that the property should never be used for the sale of liquor. This clause was waived in two cases in the town of Coleraine, in one case in Taconite and in one case in Marble. There are two saloons in Coleraine, one in Taconite, one in Marble. They are conducted in the most orderly manner it is possible to conduct a saloon. They open at 7 o'clock in the morning and close at 11 o'clock at night and they stay closed all day Sunday. There is no trouble about the "old" in any of these three towns. There is no constant dispute about whether or not the towns shall be "open" or "closed." The saloons obey the law without question and to the letter. The proprietors cannot afford to take chances. When a man has one of two licenses to sell liquor in a town of 2,000 inhabitants, most of whom are workingmen, he is not taking any chances of losing it by even a technical violation of the law. They don't need reformers to help enforce the law in Coleraine, Taconite and Marble.

The schools of the Mesaba and Vermilion range cities and towns arouse the wonder and amazement of every visitor. The simple statement that there are "none better" covers the ground thoroughly. There are none better. The son of the wealthy Boston citizen in the most exclusive Back Bay district of the Hub has no better school to attend than the son of the poorest miner on the Mesaba range. Probably the miner's son has a finer school and better equipment. That is how the corporation has realized its responsibilities of giving the families of its employes comfortable homes, the children school facilities and safeguarding the men from impure whisky and the unspeakable dives that infest so many boom mining towns.

Its work in safeguarding the men from dangerous machinery and from the accidents of mining is no less complete.

On March 23, 1908, Charles MacVeigh, general solicitor of the United States Steel corporation, called a meeting of the casualty managers of the subsidiary companies to consider the results of attempts that had already been made to prevent accidents, and to consider and formulate further plans for the safeguarding of employes. Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors, gave his hearty indorsement of the purposes of the meeting and the assurance that "we will not hesitate to make the necessary appropriations in money to carry into effect every suggestion that seems to us to be practical for the improvement of the conditions at our mills so far as the question of taking care of our employes is concerned." The result of this meeting was the appointment of a committee of safety which, since that time, has been actively engaged in furthering the cause of safety to employes.

As it stands today, the safety committee of the United States Steel corporation consists of seven members, with General Solicitor MacVeigh as chairman. It acts as a clearing house for all safety matters, appliances and devices. It appoints special inspection committees to visit the various plants and make reports and recommendations. It gives careful consideration to reports of serious accidents with a view of providing means to prevent their recurrence. It also assists in the voluntary accident relief plan. In addition to the general safety committee, each subsidiary company has such safety committees and safety regulations as are best adapted to secure the end that is desired. The Oliver Iron Mining company, which is the ore-producing subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, has been diligently working along lines suggested by the general safety committee.

In the neighborhood of $250,000 has been spent by the Oliver Iron Mining company upon safety appliances and devices. Everywhere in the machine shops, boiler and engine houses, upon locomotives and steam-shovels may be seen guards and shields to reduce to a minimum the danger of accident. The safety rules, printed in book form, cover all the operations of mining on surface and underground. Inspections are being made constantly to see that the rules are enforced and that the conditions for safety are maintained in the highest possible state of efficiency.

Following the general policy of safety for the employes, the company established a new department in March of 1912 known as the mine rescue department. A mine rescue engineer was placed in charge of the work which consists in organizing and training miners from each mine in the use and care of the oxygen breathing apparatus or what is more popularly known as the mine rescue helmet.

Since this department has been started, mine rescue stations have been provided, located at the following places: Hibbing, Eveleth and Ely in Minnesota, and Ishpeming, Iron Mountain, Iron River and Ironwood in Michigan. These stations are equipped with the Draeger oxygen breathing helmet, pulmotor and equipment and supplies necessary for the use and care of this apparatus.

A crew of men was selected from each mine and sent to the doctors for a physical examination upon the passing of which they were assigned to classes in instruction and training in the helmets. Regular monthly practice has since been instituted and a man placed in charge of each station and the crews in each mining district.

There has been trained since this department began nearly 200 men. The regular corps maintaining practice monthly throughout the company's mines consists of 155 men. These men are ready to respond at any time to a fire in the mines; their training enabling them to don the helmets and enter the smoke and gas filled mines and accomplish the rescue of their fellow workmen.

Every precaution has been taken to reduce the danger from fire to a minimum. Candles have given way to the safer and brighter light of the Carbide lamp. Fire extinguishers have been installed in the mines. Pipe lines have been extended and fire hose provided. Signs prohibiting smoking have been posted. Every mine has two or more exits from which the men could escape in case of danger.

So well trained are the mine rescue corps that all who have taken the examination from the bureau of mines' engineers in charge of Car No. 8 now in Michigan, have passed and received certificates from the United States government. It is intended that all the men engaged in this work shall qualify for these certificates.

In November of 1912, the instruction and practice in rendering first aid to the injured was begun. The assistance of Dr. Shields of the American Red Cross was secured in starting this work and a six weeks' campaign of lectures was given in the mining districts. Following this the training and instruction of the men was placed in the hands of the doctors throughout the ranges who have co-operated with the company and men in perfecting this most essential branch of the safety department. The first aid department throughout the mines, in the shops, on steam shovels and locomotives, and in fact wherever there is a possibility of some injured man needing the attention of the first aid corps.

Since this department was started there have been over 160 meetings held throughout the company's mines with a total attendance of over 5,000 men. At present, practice is being held regularly once a month and in many places more frequently.

So much for what might be called the human side of the company's work in Northern Minnesota. Industrially it is unquestionably the greatest single industry in Minnesota. People generally know that Minnesota leads the world in iron ore production, but they do not realize how this state overshadows all competitors. The dock records at Duluth, Two Harbors and Allouez bay show that Minnesota has shipped 311,134,235 gross tons of iron ore as compared with 240,215,230 tons from al lother Lake Superior ports.

Of the 311,134,235 gross tons, which represent Minnesota's iron ore shipments since the birth of the industry in this state, the Duluth, Missabe & Northern docks in Duluth have handled 123,626,959 tons. The Duluth & Iron Range docks at Two Harbors have handled 108,110,671 tons, and the Great Northern has handled 79,396,604 tons over its docks at Allouez Bay. And then there is the additional 452,541 tons shipped through the Soo dock at Superior for good measure.

The shipping of iron ore from the Lake Superior region began in the early 50's, from Michigan, and after giving it a 30-years start, Minnesota enters the shipping list, and in less than another thirty years has taken the commanding position described.

The Duluth & Iron Range docks shipped 62,103 tons the first year, 1884, and the first season that the shipments reached 1,000,000 or more was in 1893. Last season the Iron Range shipped 9,270,969 tons.

The Duluth, Missabe & Northern received its first ore in the fall of 1892, but it may be said that real shipping began in 1893, when the season record was 431,000 tons, and which was quadrupled the following season of 1894. Three different seasons the Missabe docks have handled more than 13,000,000 tons each season and in 1912 handled 10,496,577 tons.

The Great Northern's Allouez bay records show that about one good-sized cargo for those days was handled in 1892. It consisted of 4,245 tons from Mountain Iron mine. At that time the dock was known as the Duluth & Winnipeg. It was 1900 before the record showed movement of more than 1,000,000 tons in a season, but it jumped from 873,735 tons in 1899 to 1,522,898 tons in 1900, which was a heavy spurt. The Great Northern docks in 1912 shipped 13,935,602 tons and it is expected that they will this year handle 17,000,000 tons.

CUYUNA RANGE IS SURE TO SHIP 1,100,000 TONS

Great Record Will Be Made By New Iron Range in Its Third Year.

Pennington, First Open Pit, Will Enter List With 100,000 Tons.

Cuyuna-Duluth and Barrows Mines Will Also Ship This Season.

BY GEORGE REID.

Eight mines will ship at least 1,100,000 tons of iron ore this year from the Cuyuna range. Two other mines may enter the shipping list before the close of navigation. The mines which will ship, with their approximate tonnage, follow:

Kennedy	260,000 tons
Armour No. 1	220,000 tons
Armour No. 2	200,000 tons
Thompson	100,000 tons
Pennington	100,000 tons
Cuyuna-Mille Lacs	100,000 tons
Barrows	100,000 tons
Cuyuna-Duluth	50,000 tons
Total	1,130,000 tons

It is possible that the Adams mine may ship near the end of the season about 10,000 tons, and that the hydraulic stripping of the Pittsburg Steel Ore company may have an output not to exceed 25,000 tons, which would swell the grand total of shipments to 1,165,000 tons.

This is accurate information obtained at first hands. Some doubt has been expressed as to whether or not the Pennington mine, at Ironton, the first open pit on the range, would be in a position to ship this season. I wired to the owners of the mine, the Todd-Stambaugh company of Cleveland, and received the telegram which follows in reply:

"Think Pennington mine will ship 100,000 tons this season. (Signed)

"TODD-STAMBAUGH COMPANY."

The company has made all its plans to that end, and announced some time ago that it would ship 100,000 tons this year. Its stripping is such a gigantic job—the removal of an average of sixty feet of overburden from an area many acres in extent—that to laymen it looked doubtful if sufficient ore would be uncovered to enable the mine to ship this year. The statement of the company itself, however, ought to dispose of all doubts.

H. J. Kruse, superintendent of the Rogers-Brown Ore company, operating the Kennedy, Armour No. 1 and Armour No. 2 mines, told me he had instructions to ship 260,000 tons from the Kennedy, 220,000 from Armour No. 1 and 200,000 from Armour No. 2, a total of 680,000 tons, and could ship more than that amount if required to do so.

The Inland Steel company figures on shipping 100,000 tons from the Thompson mine. It has only about fifty men at work and is test-pitting with a view to stripping its property. However, it has quite a large stockpile and will have no difficulty in shipping its quota of 100,000 tons.

Officers of the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs Iron company, whose mine began shipping last October and has been shipping during the winter by rail, placed its output this year at 100,000 tons. An officer of the Cuyuna-Duluth Iron company told me the company would be shipping from the Ironton mine within a month from today, and that the output this season would be at least 50,000 tons.

The Virginia Mining company, a subsidiary of the M. A. Hanna Company of Cleveland, has planned to ship 100,000 tons from its mine at Barrows, five miles southwest of Brainerd, this season. Considerable water trouble has had to be overcome in the Barrows. A flume a quarter of a mile long has been constructed to carry away the water and heavy pumps have been installed. Both shafts of the Barrows have been unwatered, and the company will greatly increase its working force. Possibly 40,000 tons of ore is already on the stockpile at the Barrows.

All of the mines on the Cuyuna which will ship this season, except the Pennington, are underground mines, which can work all the year round, and the men in which are better paid than surface miners. The new range towns are having a splendid, solid growth. A year ago I wrote a review of the Cuyuna range. Since then wonderful progress is visible in the range towns, particularly in Cuyuna, Ironton and Barrows. These towns that are built today have nearly all and some of them all of the modern improvements, such as graded streets, paved sidewalks, water works, sewers, electric lights and telephones. They are as different as it is possible to be from the first tar paper shack towns which first sprung up on the Mesaba range.

Cuyuna is only three years old and Ironton is younger, while Barrows is an infant, yet they abound in comfortable homes and cottages and the newest of the three will soon install electric lights and other city improvements. Cuyuna has 500 men employed and this number will be added to right along as the big ore bodies surrounding the town are developed. Ironton has about 1,000 men at work now. Barrows has one great iron mine and will soon have several more, as big ore bodies, already proved up, adjoin the townsite.

Mines on the Cuyuna range are probably the best equipped in the entire Lake Superior iron region. Electricity lights the shafts and in a number of cases furnishes the power for the hoists. Shafts are of concrete, as a rule, to shut out surface water.

It is doubtful if ever before, except during the height of the discoveries being made on the Mesaba iron range, so much exploration work has been in progress at one time on an iron range as is now going on all over the Cuyuna range. In some sections a diamond drill is at work on every forty and some forties have several drills. In two days I rode nearly 100 miles over the range in an automobile with McKenzie, the photographer, and was amazed at the extent of the drilling operations.

It is not the purpose of this article to give a history of the Cuyuna range or even to tell about all of the explorations now in progress, for that would take columns upon columns, while the purpose of the Duluth, the City of Industry number is to picture Duluth and Northern Minnesota, and to describe the mining ranges and other important features briefly. Rather this is a short news story of accurate information as to shipments from the range this season and such other interesting information as I was able to acquire during my hurried trip over the range.

No other iron range in America has been developed so rapidly as the Cuyuna. Its first mine, the Kennedy, began shipping in 1911, in which year it sent 147,000 tons to the Soo ore docks. Last year the Kennedy was joined by the Armour No. 1 and Armour No. 2 late in the season, the shipments amounting to 318,000 tons. To recapitulate, the range has grown in two years from one mine with shipments of 147,000 tons to eight mines, and possibly ten, shipping 1,130,000 to 1,165,000 tons. Next year will show a further tremendous increase in shipments.

For the information of thousands of people all over the United States who will get this issue of The Herald and who know little or nothing about the Cuyuna iron range, it may be stated that the range is practically in the center of Minnesota and is all tributary to Duluth, with which it is connected by two railroads, the Soo and the Northern Pacific. The range, therefore, has two great railroad systems competing for its tonnage, both of which have immense ore docks at the Head of the Lakes. The heart of the range is only a little more than 100 miles from Duluth.

Capital $1,000,000. Par Value of Shares $1.00

A limited amount of treasury stock in this company is being offered for subscription for development work. We have six drill holes on one property in iron ore, averaging more than 50 per cent, on the Cuyuna iron range, and expect to develop a large stripping iron mine.

The Soo Line extension from Ironton to Little Rabbit Lake runs through our property and will be in operation before we have completed our development work and are ready to ship.

This property is surrounded on three sides by large developed ore bodies. This company has another property on the same formation as the mangniferous finds of the Duluth-Brainerd Iron Company and the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs Iron Company, which it will drill this summer with the expectation of finding the same lens as runs through these two great properties.

This company has still another very promising forty which it will drill this summer, in section 9, 47-28.

We have other valuable holdings in Crow Wing and Aitkin counties, on the Cuyuna iron range, and have leased the holdings of the Almar Iron Mining Company in St. Louis county, on the Vermilion Iron range. The Almar Company has spent $50,000 without condemning its property. We will drill this property this summer.

Duluth people have been slow to realize the money that is being made on the Cuyuna iron range. Most of the shares in splendid properties like the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs and the Cuyuna-Duluth iron companies are held away from this city. You have a chance now to invest your money in a company whose directors are well-known business men, nearly all of them of Duluth.

You can visit the Cuyuna iron range and return the same day, and learn for yourself all the facts about the big property we are developing and the location of our other holdings. You will then know just how and where your money is being invested and what the prospects are for large profits.

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR THE SMALL INVESTOR

A chance to buy Minnesota iron mining shares at less than par on a monthly payment plan.

THE MUTUAL IRON MINING COMPANY is offering 50,000 shares of its treasury stock, par value $1,

AT 50c PER SHARE

This is the last stock that will be sold by the company at less than par.
The Mutual Iron Mining Company controls two rich properties, and also several additional prospects to be worked later on.

TWO WINNERS:

CUYUNA RANGE—Forty acres, known as the SE¼ of the NW¼, Section 33, 47-29, lying immediately to the south and adjoining the Iron Mountain mine. There are drill holes in Manganese ore on three sides of this property practically proving its richness. We are at present engaged in drilling to determine the location and extent of the ore bodies.*

VERMILION RANGE—160 acres, lots 3 and 4, in Section 13, and lots 2, 3 and 4, in Section 14, 62-14, known as the McComber mine, in the heart of the Soudan formation, mid way between Tower and Ely. We have 1,500 tons of hematite ore on the surface on one part of this property assaying over 67 per cent in iron and we have taken several tons equally as rich from test pits on another part where we are now working. All mining engineers who have looked this property over, and we have had the best in this part of the country, are unanimous in declaring it to be the biggest and best that they have ever examined.*

Remember, this stock which you can buy today at 50 cents per share will share in the profits from both these properties and any others which we may develop later.

This is a "Mutual" company with no watered stock. Each of the original promoters is paying for his stock on the monthly payment plan and is pledged to continue payments as long as needed; but by selling this 50,000 shares we will be able to increase our crews on both ranges and will get into the "shipping class" so much the sooner and get quicker returns on our investment.

Applications for stock will be listed in the order in which they are received and all moneys reaching us after the 50,000 shares are taken will be returned to the senders.

Note our low capitalization—350,000 shares.

For any additional information desired please write, 'phone or call at our office.

Yours for Mutual success.

CUYUNA A COMING CITY

OF THE CUYUNA IRON RANGE

Cuyuna is in a class by itself. It is not one of several towns close together, but is the center of large deposits of iron ore several miles away from any other town, which assures its rapid growth and increasing prosperity. These vast bodies of iron ore will in time make Cuyuna one of the biggest and best business towns on the range. Cuyuna does not have to claim mines located at other towns. It has the great Kennedy mine, the heaviest shipper on the range. The Kennedy will ship at least 260,000 tons this year and may ship more. It is keeping 250 men busy the year around.

Right alongside of Cuyuna, on the east, the Cuyuna-Duluth Iron Company has developed a large body of high-grade ore on the Federal property and will soon begin the work of shaft sinking, employing quite a number of men. This company has also proved up a big body of ore just west of the Cuyuna city limits. The E. J. Longyear Company has proved up a large body of ore just south of Cuyuna. In another year, Cuyuna will have several mines in addition to the Kennedy, all of them underground, employing well-paid labor and working the year around. Cuyuna is the center of exploratory operations on the range and many men drilling at good wages make their homes in Cuyuna. In and near Cuyuna more than 500 men are employed today and the number is increasing all the time.

The estimated population of Cuyuna is 1,200, although the town is not three years old and has not been pushed until lately. There are no fictitious values on business or residence property. Cuyuna has had a natural, healthy growth, which has not been artificially stimulated. Cuyuna has all city improvements. It has its own water supply from large springs of pure water which is piped to all parts of the town. It is putting in a complete sewer system. Cuyuna is on an elevated level, and has perfect natural drainage. It has the telephone, electric light, graded streets and concrete sidewalks. Cuyuna has a fine school building and a good hospital. It has three hotels, in addition to boarding and rooming houses; two livery stables, general stores, a hardware store, a drug store and other mercantile establishments; a bank, in its own brick building, and one of the best newspapers on the range, The Cuyuna Range Miner.

Cuyuna is a city of homes. Many of the miners own their homes and others are building. Cuyuna is on the Soo Line and the Northern Pacific railroad will be extended to Cuyuna within a year. It is less than four miles away now. Purchasers of lots in Cuyuna do not have to pay profits to speculators. The owners of the townsite own all of the lots available for building and are disposing of them at reasonable prices on easy terms, to people who want to build. Prices are low, which gives purchasers the benefit of advancing values certain to accompany the further development of the rich iron district of which Cuyuna is the center. Purchasers now will be in the position of early investors in Hibbing, Virginia and Chisholm, who doubled their money many times over.

CHOICE RESIDENCE LOTS, $200 to $400. CHOICE BUSINESS LOTS, $300 to $600.

$25 CASH AND $10 A MONTH.

Investors who cannot come to Cuyuna can rely upon getting the best lots left for the money when their orders are received. We guarantee every statement made in this advertisement. We financed the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs Iron Company, now shipping, and the Cuyuna-Duluth Iron Company, which will begin shipping in about a month. We have too much at stake to make a single misleading statement to investors.

IRONTON

WHERE THE MINES ARE.

Ironton has doubled in population in a year and is the fastest growing town on the Cuyuna iron range.

Ironton has five great mines, the Pennington, now being stripped; Armour mine No. 1, Armour mine No. 2 and Thompson mine, now shipping. Ironton mine of the Cuyuna-Duluth company, which will ship this year. Sixth mine, the Meacham, is close by. Other great properties surrounding Ironton are being developed. The townsite of Ironton is underlaid with high-grade ore.

Ironton today has at least 1,000 men at work as follows: Pennington mine, 250 to 300; Armour No. 1, 225 to 250; Armour No. 2, 225 to 250; Ironton mine, 100 men; Thompson mine, 50 men, and perhaps 200 are employed at drilling and other work who live or board in Ironton.

Ironton has passenger and freight service over the Northern Pacific railroad. Work is about to be begun on a three-story brick hotel, which will be the best on the range. This hotel will have 35 guest rooms, 16 with private bath, and will be modern in every way. Ironton has graded streets, cement sidewalks, electric lights, telephone and good schools. Engineers are at work on sewers and a water supply.

Ironton has two banks, three general stores and many other business houses. Property values are increasing at a rapid rate.

scarcely been scratched, extends from Rice river, in Aitkin county, to Randall, in Morrison county. It covers an area from east to west of about 50 miles and from north to south of about 14 miles. All of the developed mines are in Crow Wing county, to which all property descriptions relate in my detailed reports on properties which follow, unless otherwise specified.

CUYUNA-MILLE LACS A LARGE IRON MINE

Rich in Manganese, Its Product Is in Big Demand at a High Price.

The Cuyuna-Mille Lacs Iron company is developing a large iron mine in the south half of the southwest quarter of section 3, 46-29. Expert mining engineers place the tonnage at 7,000,000 to 10,000,000, with a possibility of doubling that amount. Holes have been put down as deep as 445 feet that are bottomed in ore. Of eleven drill holes, all except one are bottomed in ore.

The Cuyuna-Mille Lacs has broken all records from the time of organization to the shipment of ore. The company was organized in the fall of 1910. It began exploratory work in January, 1911, and shipped its first ore Oct. 20, 1912. This ore averaged 30.40 per cent manganese and 31.50 per cent iron. The ore shipped since has been running about the same. This ore commands a large premium over the market, owing to its heavy manganese contents. It will always be in big demand, because of the high percentage of manganese, irrespective of the condition of the ore market.

The only mine on the Cuyuna range which shipped last winter was the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs. The high price paid for its product justified it in shipping as far as Chicago by rail. The entire output of the mine for this year, approximately 100,000 tons, has been contracted for. Part of its output will go to the Illinois Steel company, South Chicago, and the rest to the five plants of the Lake Superior Iron & Chemical company, in Michigan; to the Bethlehem Steel company, in Bethlehem, Pa., and to a steel company in New Jersey.

The three compartment shaft of the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs mine is down 230 feet. The first level was opened up at 125 feet and the second level at 226 feet. Ore was encountered in the shaft at a depth of fifty-one feet. The Cuyuna-Mille Lacs has a complete equipment for mining on a large scale, with a capacity of 2,000 tons per day. The Mille Lacs is one of the companies financed by the Locker-Donahue crowd of Duluth, who have also made a big success of the Cuyuna-Duluth.

From the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs mine has come the first spiegel ever made from American ores. Heretofore all manganese has been imported. So far as known, the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs is one of the largest, if not the largest, manganiferous properties in this country. Usually, manganese is found in pockets, but drilling and exploration work in the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs mine have proved that this property contains well-defined lenses of manganiferous ore which can be readily mined without hand-picking and at the same time secure a uniform grade, which is essential in order to command the highest price for the ore.

CUYUNA-DULUTH THREE TIME WINNER

Ready to Ship From One Big Mine and Has Two Others Proved Up.

The Ironton mine of the Cuyuna-Duluth Iron company, in the town of Ironton, which is underlaid with high-grade ore, is almost ready to ship and will begin sending ore to market within a month. The Ironton mine directly adjoins Armour No. 2, which will ship 200,000 tons this season. The two shafts are scarcely a quarter of a mile apart.

The Ironton mine has as good an equipment as any mine on the range. Its hoist is superior to any yet put in on the Cuyuna. It is the latest in hoists and was built in Duluth. The capacity of the machinery at the Ironton mine is 2,000 tons daily. The company expects to ship at least 50,000 tons before the close of navigation this year. The ore in the Ironton mine is an exceptionally high-grade Bessemer and near Bessemer, and will command a premium. This ore has a ready market and can be sold as fast as mined.

The Cuyuna-Duluth Iron company was organized in the fall of 1911. In a year and a half from the time of organization it has secured the fees to more than 600 acres of valuable iron lands and has obtained options and leases on 600 additional acres. The company has proved up three large ore bodies, one in section 30, 47-28, just west of Cuyuna; another in the Federal property, just east of Cuyuna, on which a shaft will be sunk at an early date, and the Ironton mine.

On Nov. 28 the company began to sink its large three compartment shaft in Ironton. The shaft today is down 230 feet. The first level was opened up at 200 feet and drifts were run to the ore. In sinking this shaft the Cuyuna-Duluth company has broken all records in time on the Cuyuna range for a shaft of this size. Shipments from this shaft will begin within a month, making less than seven months since work on the shaft was started.

The Cuyuna-Duluth Iron company is another of the successful ventures of the Locker-Donahue interests of Duluth. Something like 1,800 stockholders are interested in this company. About 250 of these are in Duluth and the others are scattered all over the United States.

MUTUAL COMPANY IN A FINE LOCATION

Drilling on Property Adjoining Rich Manganese Deposits.

The Mutual Iron Mining company is drilling on the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter, section 33, 47-29, a property which from its location and drill work on adjoining properties is expected to contain rich manganese deposits. The company is composed of enterprising business men of Duluth and the range towns and was incorporated a few months ago for 350,000 shares. Osterberg and Johnson are doing the drill work, which is being pushed forward as rapidly as possible.

ELECTRICITY FOR THE RANGE

The Stoner dam, a massive concrete structure, pictured above, was recently completed across Crow Wing river by the Cuyuna Range Power company, which has just closed a contract to light the city of Brainerd, the metropolis of the Cuyuna iron range. This dam will soon be furnishing power to Brainerd and the entire range. The dam is of concrete, reinforced with steel. It is about 450 feet in length, and in the main part about 25 feet above the present water level in height. The power house is of concrete, 55 feet square and 40 feet in height. The power comes from two large turbines, eight feet in diameter, with a shaft running from each and connected with a 10-foot dynamo. The dynamos have 2,300 voltage each, but when connected with the transformers, of which there are six, a total of 23,000 volts can be produced. A telephone line connects the power plant with Brainerd and other range points. The Cuyuna Range Power company, of which M. D. Stoner is the president and general manager, T. H. Croswell vice president, and A. W. Miller secretary and treasurer, now lights Brainerd, Deerwood, Ironton, Cuyuna and Crosby, and supplies power to various mines. It will soon light Barrows.

CUYUNA-SULTANA IN BIG ORE BODY

Six Holes Are in High Grade Ore—Large Open Pit Mine in Sight.

What will be a large open pit mine is being developed in the east half of the northwest quarter and the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 17, 46-29, by the Cuyuna-Sultana Iron Company of Duluth, which has six holes in ore averaging better than 50 per cent. The seventh hole is being drilled.

The ore body carries only fifty to seventy feet of over-burden, which means that the cheapest way to mine the property will be to strip it. This will be done after the exploration work with diamond drills has been completed. The ore body has been proved up at the west end of the property to within 200 feet of the open mine being stripped by the Pittsburg Steel Ore company, using the hydraulic method of stripping. This is the first time

More building is going on in Barrows than in most towns five times as big. Streets are being graded, cement sidewalks laid and other improvements are being made. In a splendid farming country where the cost of living is reduced.

Barrows is located on the Northern Pacific railroad, five miles southwest of Brainerd, Crow Wing county, almost in the geographical center of Minnesota, 132 miles from Duluth and about the same distance from Minneapolis and St. Paul. It adjoins the great Barrows mine of the M. A. Hanna Company, having two shafts, which will ship 100,000 tons this season and employ hundreds of men. On all sides of Barrows are proven ore bodies which will be opened up and give the town several additional mines. All about Barrows is a fine developed farming country, with some of the best farms in Central Minnesota. Barrows has graded streets, cement sidewalks, a fine brick bank building, schoolhouse, town hall, hotel, stores and boarding houses, and electric lights are being installed.

this method has been applied to the stripping of an iron mine.

The Soo line extension from Ironton to Little Rabbit lake to secure the tonnage of the Pittsburg Steel Ore company, which is a subsidiary of the Pittsburg Steel company; the Cuyuna Sultana company and other great iron properties, runs through the center of the Cuyuna-Sultana property, where the contractors are now grading. A picture of a steam shovel and dummy train at work on this extension, which appears on another page, was taken on the Cuyuna-Sultana property. Here there is ample room for great dumps for the earth which will be taken from the surface when stripping operations are begun. Before the mine is stripped the railroad will be in operation. There is enough mining timber on the Cuyuna-Sultana property to last for some time to come.

Another holding of this company is the new quarter of section 6, 46-29. This property is on the same formation as the manganiferous finds of the Brainerd-Duluth Iron company and the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs Iron company. It will be thoroughly drilled this summer with the expectation of picking up the same lens of ore as runs through the two great properties named. Another holding which the company will drill this summer is forty acres in section 16, 46-28.

Other holdings of the company on the Cuyuna iron range are 160 acres in section 14, 133-29, Crow Wing county and 120 acres in section 35, 48-26, Aitkin county, and the east half of the northeast quarter and the east half of the west half of the northeast quarter of section 15, 62-14, and the south half of the northeast quarter of section 32, 63-14, on the Vermilion iron range in St. Louis county. These holdings are on a lease from the Almar Iron Mining company, which spent $50,000 on this property without condemning it. The shaft on this property is only about two miles from the Consolidated Vermilion iron mine, a new property developed in a new district on the Vermilion, midway between the Steel corporation's mines at Tower and Ely.

The Cuyuna-Sultana Iron company was organized in January of the present year. It has a capitalization of $1,000,000, shares having a par value of $1. L. L. Culbertson, a well-known business man of Duluth, the head of the Culbertson Brothers company, the largest wholesale fruit dealers in the city, is president. The vice president is George Waters, of the Waters-Clark Lumber company. The treasurer is W. H. Locker of the Locker-Donahue company, and the secretary is E. J. W. Donahue of the same company. In addition to these men the directors are E. Y. Sarles, formerly governor of North Dakota, and now president of the First National bank of Hillsboro, N. D.; E. A. Lamb, of Ironton, one of the owners of Ironton and the iron ore body that underlies that town; J. E. Bowers, a wealthy retired physician of Duluth; Dr. W. A. McClaran, a well-known physician of Duluth; E. J. Bunker of the Bunker Lumber company of Duluth, and W. H. Denny who is also a director of the Cuyuna-Mille Lacs and the Cuyuna-Duluth Iron companies.

I have gone into considerable detail about this company for the reason that it is marketing treasury stock to develop its holdings. Most of the shares are being disposed of outside of Duluth.

BRAINERD-DULUTH MAKES A STRIKE

Proves Up a Large Body of Manganiferous Ore in Section 32, 47-29.

A fine body of manganiferous ore has been proved up in section 32, 47-29 by the Brainerd-Duluth Iron company, which has an option for lease on 160 acres. Several drill holes which have been put down have proved up a large body of ore, although only a small part of the property has been drilled.

Three drills are at work on this property and just as soon as the extent of the ore body has been determined the work of sinking a shaft will be commenced and pushed as fast as possible, in order to make a shipping mine of the property in 1914.

The Brainerd-Duluth Iron company was organized only a few months ago, or to be more exact, in January last. This company is backed by Duluth people principally. The treasury stock offered for sale has been oversubscribed.

The officers of the company are: E. J. W. Donahue, president; E. C. Rane, Brainerd, vice president; C. H. Hector, of Merritt & Hector, printers, Duluth, treasurer, and W. H. Locker, secretary.

Judging by the results already achieved, this company promises to be one of the most successful companies operating on the Cuyuna iron range. Practically all of its shares are held in Duluth and Brainerd.

MESSABA-CUYUNA HAS GREAT ORE BODY

Thirty-One Drill Holes Show Up 4,000,000 Tons in Section 23, 47-29.

The Messaba-Cuyuna Iron Land company has proved up a great ore body in sections 23, 47-29, where it has drilled thirty-one holes and shown up an ore body estimated by experts to contain approximately 4,000,000 tons.

A picture on this page shows drills on holes 29, 30 and 31. Holes 31 and 32 are now being drilled, which will finish the explorations on this property. One drill has been moved to the eighty adjoining on the south, in section 26, where three holes are already in ore and where the company is proving up another ore body.

The Messaba-Cuyuna Iron company is a Duluth enterprise whose shares are now selling at double their par value, or $2 per share. It is headed by Ernest Le Due, an iron mining man of wide experience, which he has brought to bear for the company in the exceptionally successful results in its explorations upon the Cuyuna iron range. Joseph Oreckovsky is vice president of the company and Dr. D. D. Murray is secretary and treasurer.

In addition to the two properties described, the company has additional extensive holdings on the Cuyuna and Mesaba iron ranges.

USING LIME TO THAW THE GROUND.

Popular Mechanics: Unslaked lime has been used successfully for thawing frozen earth in West Liberty, Iowa. Sewer trenches were being dug during the winter months. The ground froze to a depth of four feet and resisted all efforts of the trenching machine to break it. Finally quicklime was broken up into small pieces, spread the width of the trench to be opened, and covered with straw, hay or manure. Water was then poured upon it, the covering retained the heat, and this, with the hot water, penetrated the frozen ground sufficiently to enable the trenching machine to make headway.

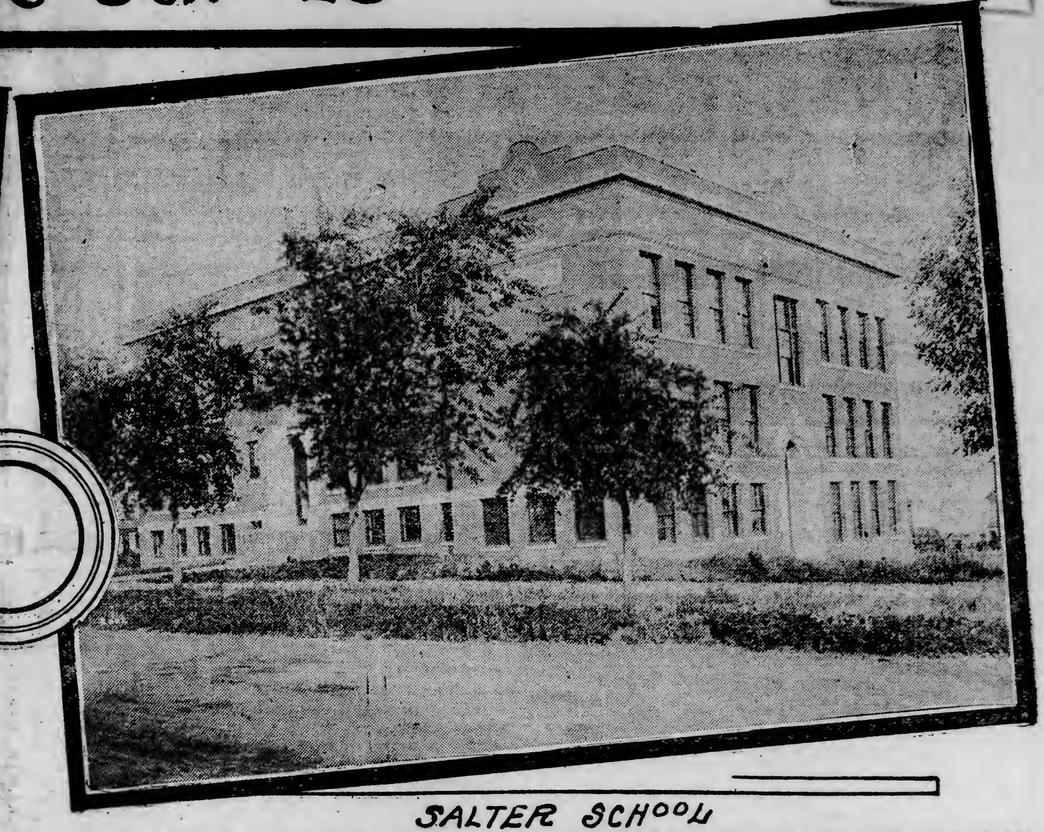
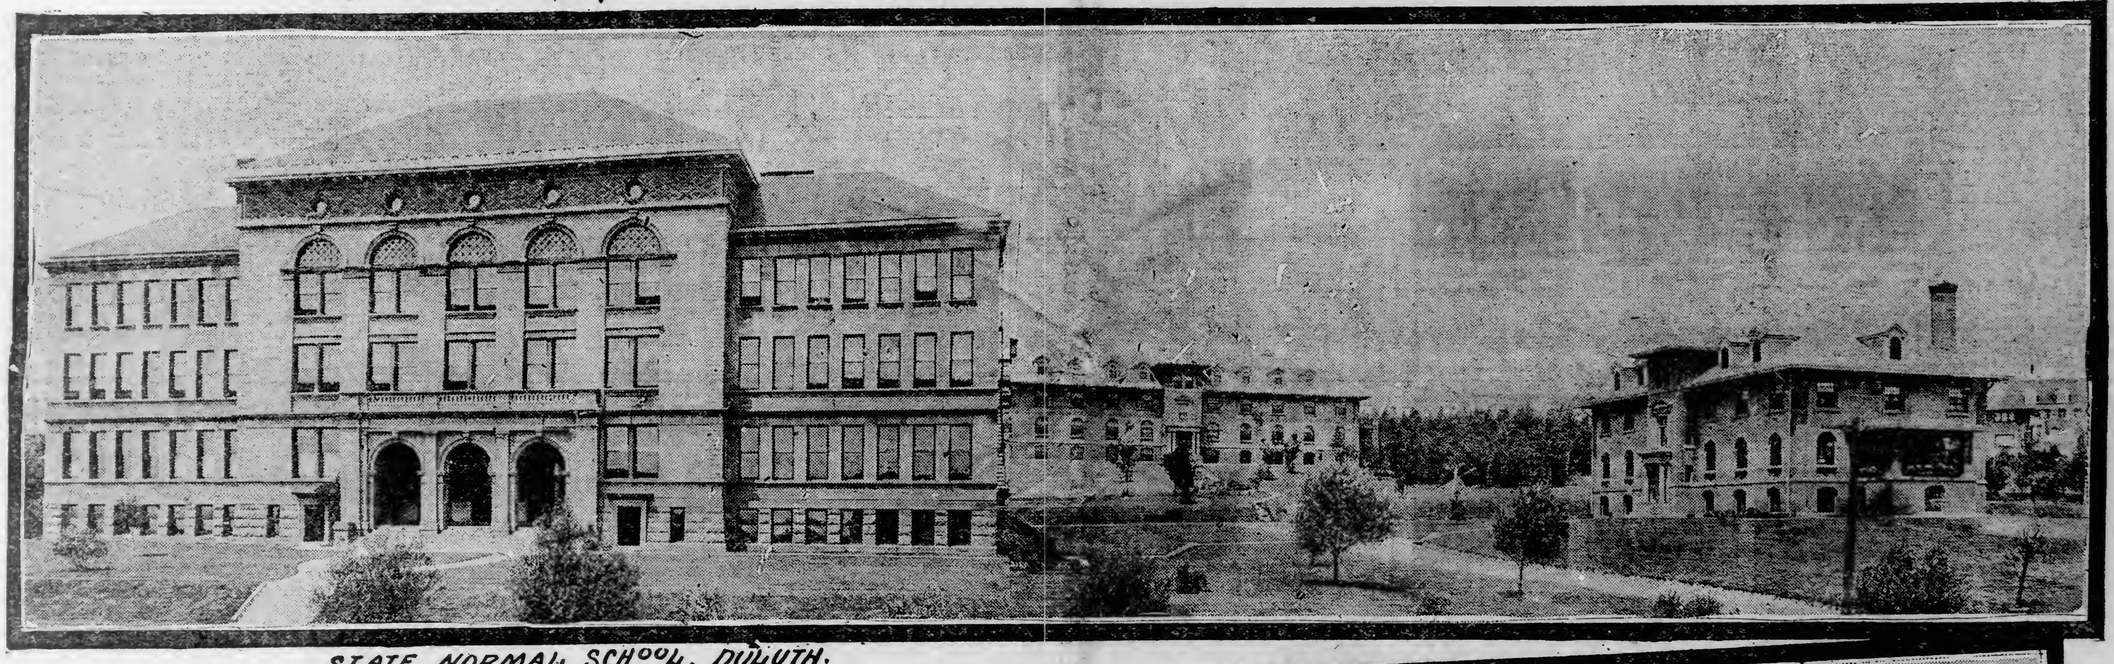
DULUTH THE CITY OF INDUSTRY
FIVE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING

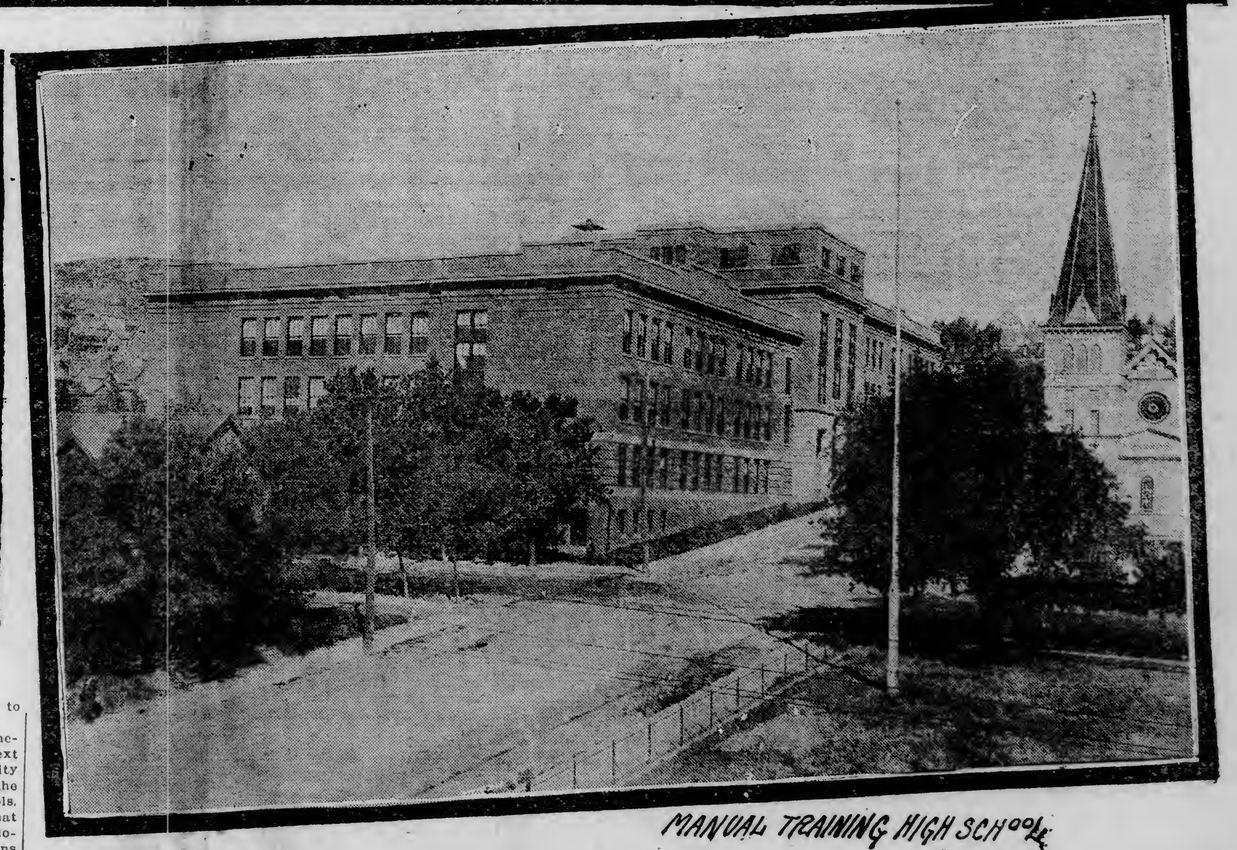


SALTER SCHOOL



STATE NORMAL SCHOOL, DULUTH.

WASHBURN SCHOOL



MANUAL TRAINING HIGH SCHOOL

Duluth's public school system is recognized throughout the state, and even the United States, as one of the most modern, progressive and thoroughly efficient of today. While in many respects the same as that of St. Paul and Minneapolis, there are several salient characteristics of the system of this city that are peculiar to Duluth and as such are worthy of comment.

For instance Duluth has the best equipped manual training school in the state. For years this branch of education has been made a special feature of the public school system of Duluth. Beginning with the seventh and eighth grades the study of manual training is carried up through the high school course. The manual training school curriculum embraces forge work, moulding, machine work, wood turning, all the various details of mechanical work, print work and mechanical drawing. The mechanical drawing rooms are the finest to be found in any of the state schools, while cooking rooms, sewing rooms and free hand drawing rooms are also to be found in the school.

Specialists are employed in this work, both in the grades and in the manual training school. Domestic science for the girls comes under this head, and in this regard it might be stated that Duluth was one of the first cities of Minnesota to take steps to perfect this system through the grades and in the high school. Domestic science begins with the sixth grade and extends throughout the high school course.

Another feature of the public school system of Duluth is the specialization in physical culture. The Duluth public school system was the first in this state to take up and make a thoroughly scientific study of the needs of pupils in this regard. The teaching of physical culture was initiated twenty years ago, and with the improvements that have been devised from time to time, remains today as a model to other cities.

Duluth was the first city of Minnesota to give its students free text books, and it was also the first city to take up manual training in the kindergartens of the public schools. Another feature of the system is that in connection with the teaching of domestic science there are four kitchens in the public schools. Here, in the lower grades the pupils are given thorough instruction in cooking and its various branches.

Besides these features of the school system of Duluth it should be mentioned that this city has one of the most through courses in music to be found in any of the public school systems of the country. Together with drawing, music is one of the studies that special care has been taken to make particularly inviting and instructive.

Duluth was one of the first of the cities to recognize the needs of the teachers and pupils in regard to rest. Most of the schools in the city have rest rooms for the teachers and students. In addition to this the schools have one of the most thorough medical inspections of any of the schools not only of this state, but also of the country. There are three physicians and three trained nurses co-operating in this work, the nurses also acting as the truant officers of the schools.

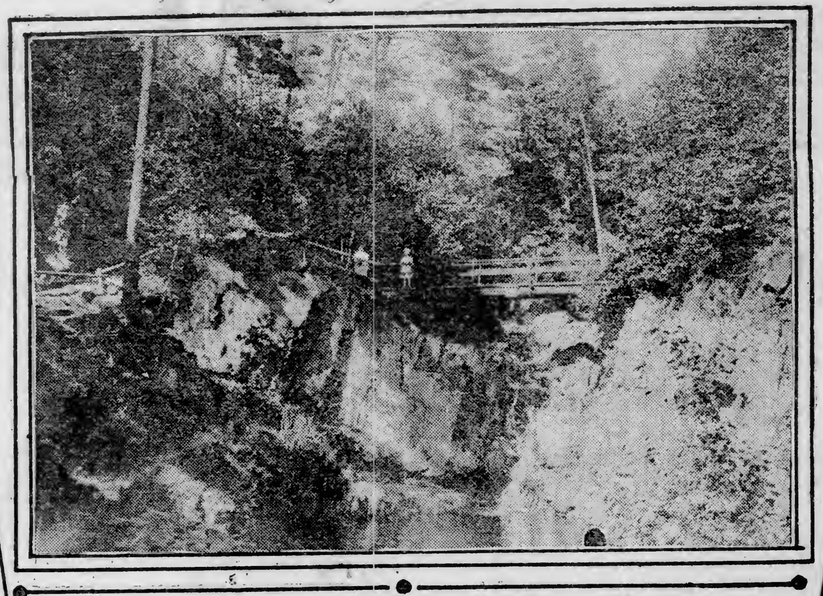
One of the finest high school buildings in the United States is the boast of the people of Duluth. When it was constructed in 1891 it was recognized as the finest public school building in the country. Since then several of the large cities of the country have built high school buildings surpassing the one here, but it ranks today as one of the most magnificent, one of the most beautifully designed and one of the finest constructed school buildings in the United States. The building and real estate are valued at more than $500,000. There is a fine museum in the high school building, and Duluth can boast of having one of the few high school buildings thus equipped. In the museum are to be found rare animals, fish and mineral specimens.

There are thirty-seven schools in Duluth, employing 420 teachers. The physical valuation of the schools and real estate of the school board is placed at $2,827,940. There are under course of construction at the present time an addition to the Lakeside school, the new E. R. Cobb school and the new R. S. Munger school, and also the new manual training high school of West Duluth. Many of the school buildings are fireproof, all of the buildings that have been constructed during the past few years being of non-destructible material.

In closing it should be stated, especially so since this city has adopted the commission form of government, that in many of the public schools of Duluth the buildings are governed by the joint responsibility of the pupils, under the commission form. This is for the purpose of teaching the youth responsibility. Some of the schools are also operated under the old city form of government, the pupils sharing the greater part of the cares of government.

Commerce in most of its branches is taught in the public schools of Duluth, instruction in the use of the dictaphone for office use even being given in the high school course of commercial study.

SCENES IN DULUTH'S BEAUTIFUL PARKS



"Duluth," runs a familiar gibe, "is twenty-six miles long, half a mile wide and a mile high."

Duluth people consider that an exaggeration, though they admit the site is hilly. They seem to think the hills are a clever device of the Creator to furnish a foundation for their parks.

Before one has been two hours in Duluth, he will likely have seen the city from the rocky eminence directly back of the center, reached by incline railway, or he will have driven over the famous boulevard that follows an ancient beach line on the shoulder of the hill three hundred feet above the lake. He will have been delighted, almost oppressed, by the vastness of the view that sweeps the city, the distant hills, the islands of the far horizon and the illimitable lake.

But it will be long before he learns all the intimacy of the parks and knows why the thoroughbred citizen of Duluth is so devoted to the hills that frame them.

Seven streams that rise back of the city find their way through breaches of the rocky barrier of the hill, through bowl shaped valleys, through deep ravines, in cliff walled channels, over craggy ledges; in falls and pools and rapids; by quiet reaches and sudden rushes, to the lake. Five of these water courses have been set apart for parks, where paths wander among the white stems of the birches, or the pillars of the pine, where rustic bridges leap the miniature gorges, where— but what's the use. Genuine, certificated poets have been trying for thousands of years to put in words the charm of trees and rocks and water, of sunset glow, of one star hanging in the evening sky, and they have not done it. It can't be done unless it's set to music.

This is the peculiar charm of the Duluth parks—that the timid birches and the pines that stand aloof, here nestle in a nook of civilized surrounding, as the wild creatures of the wood play about the door of a hermit's hut. Or like a shy child in its father's arms, the brooks and trees that are wont to hide from men here seem secure in the strength of the hills. And so one steps from the street car that goes clanging past into a bit of God's outdoors.

The people have possession of the parks. One sees the picnic party, the coffee pot boiling over three sticks, the table spread on grassy places. One sees children wading in the pools, young folks walking in ways of romance, elders enjoying twilight ease, family parties free of the city's confines.

Duluth's hillside may seem steep. But there is that within its slopes that lifts the city outside itself. Just as the drive along the brow of the hill that links one of these parks with another lifts the sojourner out of the world of plain things. Or as the city at first view from the lake seems to be climbing its slopes from the common lot of cities higher and higher to a new estate.

CLOQUET HAS WATER POWER

White Pine City Progressive and Has Much to Offer Manufacturers.

Hardwoods Make It Ideal Location for Woodworking Factories.

Cloquet is an incorporated city of 8,000 people, situated about twenty-five miles west of Duluth by rail on the St. Louis river. It is chiefly known as a large lumber manufacturing point and enjoys the distinction of making more white pine lumber than any other city in the world. Aside from its large lumbering interests, it has a large paper and pulp mill and an extensive box factory. Cloquet is essentially a city of homes. It has an excellent sewer and water system. Its five schools rank among the best of the state. It has numerous churches of various denominations and an excellent public library. The different lines of mercantile business are all well represented by excellent stores and shops.

Cloquet presents to the prospective manufacturer one of the most attractive fields in the whole country. It is but twelve miles from the mammoth steel plant now nearing completion near Duluth, has excellent shipping facilities on three lines of railroad, has available factory sites and, best of all, there is within the city limits enormous undeveloped water power in the St. Louis river. The manufacturing corporations now here are working in harmony with the other business interests of the city to secure additional factories. Courteous consideration is assured anyone looking for a new location along manufacturing lines.

Owing to the practically inexhaustible supply of pine lumber and the adjacent forests of birch, tamarack, balsam and other hardwoods, which are not now being used, Cloquet is an ideal location for woodworking establishments, and the proximity of the steel plant adds to this attraction for such plants as turn out a product composed both of wood and steel.

As a farming community, Cloquet has not loomed very large until the past five years, but agricultural development is now increasing by leaps and bounds. A fine market is offered here for all farm produce at top notch prices and the ever-increasing demand makes successful farming an assured endeavor. There is now in operation here a successful co-operative creamery. Milk, eggs, potatoes, etc., all command top prices. Farming lands are still comparatively cheap, but are increasing in value, and in a few years will rank in worth with the older settled portions of the state.

There is nothing of the "mushroom" or "boom" nature in Cloquet. It has had and is still experiencing a steady and substantial growth, and is so advantageously located that it will always endure as a permanent industrial and farming center. It is being built to endure. Its streets are wide and well constructed. Cement sidewalks reach every part of the town. The city's beautiful park is well cared for and each year sees a betterment in the class of homes and buildings erected.

Among its many other advantages, Cloquet boasts of one of the most efficient and active commercial clubs in the state of Minnesota. Its business and professional men are banded together in this organization and their harmonious work is pushing the city to the front rank of enterprising towns of this section. Prospective manufacturers, merchants or farmers would do well to write the secretary of this organization and get the full facts of the advantages offered by Cloquet, "Home of White Pine."

GRAND COUNTRY FOR MEN OF VERY MODERATE MEANS

Crop Failures Unknown and Most of the Cost of a Farm Is the Labor of Clearing.

Timber Enough on Every Forty Acres for Farm Buildings and Fuel to Last a Lifetime.

Plenty of Work for Settlers All the Year Around—Game and Fish Found Everywhere.

BY GEORGE REID.

These headlines relate to the cut-over lands of Northern Minnesota. The prairie lands of Northwestern Minnesota are ably described in the article by H. J. Maxfield, state immigration commissioner. What the writer will deal with is the cut-over lands, with which he is better acquainted, and which he is convinced, after traveling over them for four years and talking with hundreds of farmers who are winning their way to wealth, are the cheapest and best lands for the man of small means anywhere in the United States.

Crop failure, in the sense known in a wheat country, is unknown in Northern Minnesota. An unusually hot, dry summer may reduce the hay crop to much below the normal, but dry summers are extremely rare, and while they reduce the hay crop when they do come, they balance things up by increasing the yield of potatoes, so that what a farmer loses in hay he gains in potatoes. No other part of the Union produces such splendid vegetables as Northern Minnesota. Root crops grow profusely and to enormous size. This section is very appropriately called "the land of the big red clover." Timothy flourishes equally well. As a dairy country it is unrivalled. Duluth has the biggest firm of buttermakers in the Northwest, which paid farmers in the surrounding territory last year more than $1,500,000 for cream, milk, eggs and poultry. This concern has buyers for miles around. It pays the farmers cash each day for their products. This is a tremendous help to struggling settlers, who find a few cows a source of sure revenue and good profits.

To enumerate what is grown in Northern Minnesota would be to make a list of practically all farm products that can be grown or raised successfully almost anywhere in the temperate zone. You will find the various crops described in the many little stories of the farmers themselves running all through this newspaper. These short stories will tell you what is raised, how much to the acre, and so on. You will learn that many of these pioneers went on the soil with practically nothing, and still have been successful.

The man with a thousand dollars or even less, and with some knowledge of farming, will not make a mistake in locating in Northern Minnesota, close to high-priced markets, where he can make a good living on forty acres of land by the time he has half of it cleared. He will find enough timber on his land for all necessary farm buildings and for fuel to last longer than he will live. In some cases he will be able to get enough timber from his land to pay him good wages while he has been engaged in the labor of clearing.

In winter, he can get out timber, if not for himself, then for logging companies, who could hardly get half the labor in the woods they required during the winter just past, although they paid the highest wages in the history of logging. In the late winter and spring his clearing will keep him busy until it comes time to put in his crops. Deer still abound in Northern Minnesota and moose are not hard to find. Fish are in every lake and stream. Minnesota has 10,000 lakes, most of them in the northern part of the state. Game furnishes an agreeable change in the farmer's bill of fare.

Among the uninformed a delusion exists that the winters are extremely cold in Northern Minnesota. The climate is very uniform. Farmers who came here from Iowa and Illinois, and even from farther south, say that the climate is preferable to that which they left. The heavy timber and the great lakes exert an ameliorating effect and no extremes in temperature are noticeable. It is uniformly cold in winter, but there are not the rapid changes in temperature found in sections much farther south. In winter there are many days of sunshine and the dry atmosphere is bracing and healthy, if it is cold. In summer the days are quite warm, but at night it is always cool. Physicians pronounce the climate ideal. Northern Minnesota lakes are gaining a national reputation as health resorts. Climatic diseases such as hay fever and malaria are unknown. Hay fever sufferers from all over the country come to Duluth in the late summer for relief.

Dense forests covered this section. In some parts it was nearly all hardwood timber—oak, maple, ash, basswood and birch. Much of it was also covered with pine, but most of the pine has been cut, hence the name of "cut-over lands." Most of the hardwood remains. Here is an immense territory, Northern Minnesota being as large as several ordinary states, with a wide assortment of soils, most of it splendidly adapted to agriculture. Most of this soil is the result of glacial action, fine in texture and ranging from a sandy clay loam to very heavy clay. The average annual rainfall is about 30 inches. Agriculturi experts agree that it is the largest available section of good, cheap farm land left.

Most of the land open to settlement is in the Northeastern portion of the state, tributary to Duluth, with its high-priced markets, and the Minnesota iron ranges, all of which are in Northern Minnesota. Most of the food to feed the thousands of men working in the mines and their families is brought in from the outside, while good farm lands and the mines lie almost side by side. Farm lands are to be had at all prices. Cut-over lands which will make fine farms can be had all the way from $5 to $20 an acre, depending upon their proximity to railroads and markets.

The settler must do considerable work before his cut-over land can be farmed. It is seldom, however, that a land buyer who visits this section and learns the conditions from the farmers themselves fails to purchase land. Today, Northern Minnesota is one of a very few sections of the country which offers an opportunity to a poor man—that is, with a few hundred dollars. Here, with a minimum expenditure for land, he can quadruple its value by clearing it with his own labor. In a few years this cleared land will be worth from $50 to $100 an acre and give better returns in dollars per acre than the $150 and $200 lands in states such as Iowa and Illinois. This land makes a powerful appeal to those men who must buy cheap land and create wealth in farms by their own efforts. Their future is assured, for all that is needed is their intelligent labor to transform what not many years ago was a wilderness into one of the most prosperous farming sections to be found anywhere.

As it is, clearing the land is much easier work than the settlers of timber lands in Ohio and Indiana encountered. The best way is to clear up only enough the first year for a garden and a cash crop of potatoes. The rest of the time will be required in the erection of a home and farm buildings. A settler should have enough surplus, beyond his payment down for the land, if possible, to carry him over his first season. Once established, he should remove as much brush as possible, allowing the sun to reach the soil and permitting the grass to come up, red clover and timothy usually appearing as soon as the land is cleared of the brush. Small stumps can be removed with a stump puller, but large stumps can be more economically handled with dynamite.

The loggers took only the prime timber. Usually enough logs are left to make it worth while taking them to the nearest sawmill, where the farmer can have them sawed at a cost of $8 a thousand feet. Land covered with some standing timber or good windfalls yields large quantities of cordwood. This is not particularly profitable but furnishes the farmer wages while he is clearing his land.

One important fact the writer would impress upon intending settlers is that a timbered country is almost always a good farming country, the growth of the timber showing that the soil and climate conditions are favorable to plant growth. Here the fuel question is solved for the farmer, and also the timber and fence post questions. These are tremendous advantages over a prairie section. It is seldom that timber countries suffer drought or extremes of climate.

The great abundance of wild grasses and grains were found growing in profusion. All kinds of small fruits — strawberries, raspberries, blackberries, cranberries, gooseberies and currants—grow wild and in the greatest abundance. Especial attention is being paid in Northern Minnesota to the growing of small grains, root crops and hay. These crops thrive amazingly. The production of clover seed is very profitable, a yield of seven and eight bushels to the acre being not unusual. Northern Minnesota is creating a country-wide market for its seed potatoes and last winter much seed corn was shipped from this section to Iowa.

It is impossible in the limits of an ordinary newspaper article to tell all about agriculture in Northern Minnesota. It would take a big book to do that. Readers desiring more detailed information can obtain it free in the literature of the Northern Minnesota Development association, the state immigration department, the Duluth Commercial club, any of the railroads whose advertisements appear in this paper, or from any of the land dealers whose announcements appear in these pages.

Much of Northern Minnesota is virgin country, which beckons settlers to a land of prosperity. It needs but their labor to blossom and produce big crops close to good markets. The state commissioner of immigration and others who keep close tally upon settlement will tell you that more than twice as many settlers came into Northern Minnesota during 1912 as in any preceding year, and that this year twice as many settlers as came last year will find homes in "The land of the big red clover."

Duluth is vitally interested in the settlement of this great farming and dairy country tributary to the Head of the Great Lakes. The mammoth Minnesota steel plant and other industries will cause Duluth to double in population during the next few years. Much of the city's food is now brought from a distance. Last summer, for the first time, nearby farmers produced enough green stuff to supply the city, and Duluth-grown lettuce and celery was shipped by the carload to Chicago and other cities.

From now on Northern Minnesota will be settled up fast. Wise farmers in the southern part of the state are selling their developed farms at good prices to farmers from Iowa and other central western states and moving to Northern Minnesota, where land is cheap and just as productive, if not more so, than the fine farm lands of Southern Minnesota. Many Illinois and Iowa farmers are moving in also. This state is famous everywhere as the bread and butter state. Northern Minnesota, the finest dairy country in the world, according to agricultural experts, will add to that fame. Seek where you will, no other section offers you the same opportunities as Northern Minnesota.

Not a man is idle who wants to work, either in Duluth or the country for hundreds of miles around. The dire poverty of large cities is unknown here. Minnesota's public schools are the best of any state. Minnesota has a school fund of $23,000,000. This is a good place to educate your children, and a delightful country in which to labor and live and prosper.

EXHIBITION CAR PROVING A SUCCESS

Sent By Minnesota Into Iowa, Illinois and Missouri; Getting Settlers.

BY FRANK M. EDDY.

Nothing is of so little value to a state or a community as arable land that remains in the raw state uncultivated and unoccupied. Minnesota has a large amount of land within its boundaries, most of it in Northeastern Minnesota, and one of the most important of the legislative duties was, and still is, to devise methods whereby desirable settlers may be secured for these unoccupied lands. With this end in view, the legislature, some years ago, created the Minnesota state board of immigration and George Welch of Morton, Renville county, was chosen as the first commissioner of immigration.

One of the methods of advertising the productions and resources of the state was, to equip and mantle a car with specimens of Minnesota's agricultural, mineral and timber resources, and with capable and competent men, who were familiar with every part of the state in charge, send it through the states of Iowa, Illinois and Northern Missouri, stopping usually one day in each town en route, exhibiting the products of the state, distributing literature and explaining and proclaiming the advantages the state had to offer to homeseekers and investors.

The Great Northern Railway company heartily co-operated in the project, furnishing a car, providing advertising matter, an advance agent and instructing train operators and station agents to afford every facility and do all in their power to make the undertaking a success.

The first trip was made during the winter of 1911, through Iowa and Illinois, the car being in charge of S. F. Fullerton and Mr. Pickett. The second trip was made through Southern Iowa and Northern Missouri, in the winter of 1912, Harold Knutson, C. S. Benson and Frank M. Eddy handling the car. This year the car left the union depot at St. Paul on the morning of Jan. 14, under the same management as the previous year, arriving at Sterling, Ill., on the morning of Jan. 15, where the first stop for exhibition purposes was made, and closing the trip at Bristol, Ill., March 15, giving exhibitions in each town, stopping one day at a place with the exception of Galesburg and Kewanee, where the car remained two days at each of these points.

Naturally very much more interest was manifested in some places than in others, but on the whole the attendance was good. The names of those who expressed an inclination to settle or invest in Minnesota, were registered, averaging about 150 per day and from 150 to 500 adult persons passed through the car each day, that were not registered and from 4 to 5 p. m., the car was thronged with eager-eyed, inquisitive school children.

This year for the first time, stereopticon views were provided and an illustrated lecture was given each evening where proper hall facilities could be secured. H. J. Maxfield, the commissioner, delivered the first four and after his return to St. Paul, Mr. Knutson and Mr. Eddy alternated in delivering them. These were always attended by crowded houses and in the opinion of those managing the car, were of as much value as the car exhibits in advertising the resources of the state.

The car followed much the same route as the one managed by Mr. Fullerton, two years ago, and careful inquiry disclosed that in each locality where the car stopped, from one to ten settlers have located in Minnesota as a direct or indirect result of such a visit.

WHAT ONE MAN DID IN ONE SUMMER.

I moved to Nevis on May 13, 1911, and bought eighty acres of wild land close to town for $1,300 cash, and between myself and my boy we cleared and broke thirty acres and had it all into crop by June 19, and I must say that the average land around here is not hard to clear. I also built my own house and barn and bought the lumber in Nevis at from $12 to $16 per thousand, so it will only cost about half as much to build here as it does on the prairie. I now have as nice a home as one could wish for and will be glad to have anyone interested in buying land call on me at any time and see what I have done in one summer

Northern Minnesota, the Land of Sure and Bountiful Crops, Beckons to Settlers.

Natural Dairy Country—General Farming Pays—Live Stock and Poultry Are Profitable.

BY H. J. MAXFIELD,
State Commissioner of Immigration.

During the past decade much has been said about Minnesota. Thousands of pages of literature have been printed about the resources and opportunities of this great north country; but even with this "The half has not been told." It would require volumes to tell in detail the wonderful resources and opportunities Northern Minnesota has to offer. It would require pages of this newspaper to tell how the fertile prairies of Northwestern Minnesota have been transformed from unkept plains and the hunting grounds of the Redmen, to cozy homes and seas of waving grain; of how the mighty forests of Crow Wing, Morrison and Mille Lacs were changed from a wilderness to fertile fields; how the fire swept region in Pine and Kanabec counties was made to bloom and give forth; how the great cities and thriving villages of Northern Minnesota were built, and of the persistent prospecting, drilling and blasting, which at last unlocked the iron ranges and their hidden wealth of ore.

In order to study Northern Minnesota intelligently, it is necessary that we should divide the timber and prairie regions, viz: Northwestern Minnesota and Northeastern Minnesota. The prairie territory, which is Northwestern Minnesota, is not as large as the timber section; and embraces that portion of Western Beltrami county, which joins Marshall and Pennington, and the counties of Roseau, Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake, Mahnomen and Norman. These counties form the northern section of the world's famed Red river valley. Perhaps no group of counties in the state is more favorably endowed with good soil, and a wide versatility of resources.

The flat valley of the Red river is probably the most perfect wheat farming region in the world. During the glacial period, most of this valley was a lake, upon the bottom of which sediment was deposited to furnish the level surface of these present wonderful grain fields. The soil is a heavy black loam, measuring in depth from six inches to six feet. The sub-soil is clay, shot with limestone. Recent experiments made by residents of this territory disclose the fact that in one bushel of this clay sub-soil, a full quart of limestone, varying in size from that of a pea to a bird's egg, was found. This proves that there is sufficient lime in that soil to last for years to come.

In short it is generally conceded that the soil of Northwestern Minnesota can continue to produce wheat, without crop rotation, longer than any other section in the Northwest. The surface is very level, and while the altitude is high and there are sufficient rivers to furnish adequate drainage, so flat is the surface and so heavy is the top soil, that in many places artificial drainage is necessary; so that many miles of state, judicial and county ditches have been constructed. These ditches have reclaimed thousands of acres of the most fertile land found in the Red river valley.

While nearly all of these counties are prairie, there are tracts, both large and small, in practically every county, where timber is found. In the eastern portions, scattering tracts of poplar, oak, basswood, etc., are found, and considerable brush land is in evidence. For many, many years, wheat, oats and flax, were the only crops raised here, and are today the principal products. In recent years, the farmers have been turning their attention to stock raising and dairying. Clover and timothy grow abundantly in all parts of this region, and many creameries have been built here during the past three years. It is indeed surprising to see how much diversified farming is carried on in this section, as compared with a few years ago. This section is much further advanced than the counties to the east, but this is accounted for because of the prairie lands. It is the history of all new countries, that the prairie regions are always first developed.

Some of the largest and finest farms in this state are found in Northwestern Minnesota, and the inhabitants are very thrifty and of an intelligent type. Many thriving cities and villages are located in this territory, and good schools, and churches of all denominations are found everywhere. Good roads, rural free deliveries and rural telephones reach practically every town, so that one finds it a very desirable place to live. There is always sufficient rainfall in Northwestern Minnesota to insure good growth of its crops. The rainfall for this section, taken for a period of ten years, was approximately twenty-three inches annually. The temperature for this section of the state is always conducive to the production of good crops, particularly small grain, timothy, clover, wild grasses and vegetables. The mean annual temperature for a period of ten years was 36.8 degrees. The weather records from this territory given below were taken from the United States weather bureau at Hallock, a point in Kittson county near the Canadian line, and as this is the most northerly located bureau in the state, these figures are not as favorable to this region as could be quoted in some of the counties of this district, 100 miles to the south. It is interesting to note from the records of the United States weather bureau at Albert Lea, Freeborn county, the extreme Southern Minnesota, which, is in the heart of Minnesota's corn belt, the mean annual temperature for a period of years is 45.9 degrees, a difference of a trifle less than 10 degrees warmer than at Hallock, Minn. The following table is prepared to show the relative temperature between the United States weather office at Hallock, and the United States weather office at Albert Lea:

	Hallock.		Albert Lea.
	High. Temp. Reached.	1st Killing Frost.	High. Temp. Reached.	1st Killing Frost.
1900	102	Sept. 17	96	Oct. 7
1901	93	18	94	...
1902	90	12	90	Sept. 11
1903	92	15	88	Oct. 4
1905	91	12	98	11
1906	93	27	95	9
1907	91	21	92	Sept. 25
1909	93	24	98	Oct. 13

These figures, coming as they do from the most reliable sources, show that there is not such a wide difference between the temperatures of Southern and Northern Minnesota. This seems to prove quite conclusively that climatic conditions in Northwestern Minnesota are most favorable to the successful growing of all kinds of crops with the possible exception of corn.

Wild land can be bought in the above section at from $10 to $35 per acre; and improved farms at from $25 to $75 per acre.

Northeastern Minnesota is a much larger territory than the region just described, embracing all the counties east of this group and extending down as far south as Pine county. All of this group of counties are in what is known as the timber belt, and while lumbering is still carried on extensively in some of the counties, the lumberman has reaped his harvest. Northeastern Minnesota has furnished some of the finest lumber ever drawn from the forests of the country. There are yet some vast tracts of pine in the extreme northern counties, but these are all owned by lumber companies and are not yet ready for the settler; but in a few more years these, too, will yield to the woodman's axe.

The character of the land in this region varies widely. There are three distinct classes of soil in Northeastern Minnesota; that which is found where hardwood and white pine timber grows; the kind where jackpine is found; and the swamp soil. Perhaps the soil of the hardwood and white pine districts is more desirable for general farming purposes, being a dark, sandy clay loam, with a clay subsoil. Usually the top soil in this region is mixed with a leaf mold, which makes it very rich. The top soil is from three to six inches in depth, and the slight mixture of sand makes it warm and very quick. Where jackpine is found the top soil is a sandy loam, and is the lightest soil to be found in Northeastern Minnesota. Yet this jackpine soil will produce splendid crops of timothy, clover and vegetables.

Stock raising is profitable on these lands. With proper crop rotation and a reasonable amount of fertilizing these lands will give back to the tiller bountiful yields of all kinds of vegetables, such as potatoes, rutabagas, onions, carrots, beets, etc. The swamp soils, which in most cases require drainage, are, when reclaimed, the most fertile to be found anywhere and produce crops of every character without fertilizer. Variations and mixtures of these soils are found in every county.

It might surprise some when I tell them that corn is successfully grown here. For two successive years at the Minnesota state fair, 1911 and 1912, Pine county took first prize for corn, grown in the central section; and for two successive years at the Minnesota state fair, 1911 and 1912, Roseau county, whose northern boundary line is Canada, took first prize for the best county exhibit in the Northern section. While corn in the extreme northern counties is not a staple crop, some of the finest fodder corn the writer has ever seen was raised there. Fodder corn frequently reaches a height of ten feet, and yields from 10 to 15 tons per acre. Filling a silo is a matter of little difficulty to the farmers of Northeastern Minnesota.

Wheat, oats, rye and barley are not grown extensively there, not because they do not do well, by any means, but because of the limited amount of land under cultivation, and because farmers in that territory find it more profitable raising vegetables, and dairying. Wheat averages from 15 to 30 bushels per acre; oats frequently yield 40 bushels per acre and have been known to go as high as 100 bushels, so it will be seen that this country with proper crop rotation, ranks among the best in grain growing.

In raising timothy, clover and alfalfa, Northeastern Minnesota leads them all. It seems that the quality of the soil, coupled with climatic conditions, makes this region particularly adapted to the growing of tame and wild grasses. Along the old wood roads and deserted lumber camps, where during the lumbering days, timothy and clover seed became scattered, rank growths of clover and timothy are found, in many cases reaching to the waist and higher.

Alfalfa has been sown in all these counties with splendid results. There are many fields of alfalfa there that have stood for five years and are in apparent good condition. A few years ago, it was freely predicted that when the sawmills left Northeastern Minnesota, desertion and desolation would be the result. On the contrary that portion of the state has experienced a decided improvement, and amazing progress has been made toward development. While the development of these vast acres cannot go forward as rapidly as the prairie section of Northern Minnesota, ten years more will work wonders.

As I have stated before, this is a natural dairy country. Northeastern Minnesota grass lands will pasture one cow to every acre. Many natural pastures can be made in this cut-over region. Kentucky blue grass, wild peavine and vetch grow in profusion, and cattle grow slick and fat upon the nutritious products. Beef, pork and mutton are not yet produced there sufficient to supply the local demand, but it is only a question of time when the packing houses will look to Northeastern Minnesota to supply a goodly share of these products to stock the local and foreign markets.

Poultry is raised quite extensively here, and on almost every farm large flocks of ducks, geese, chickens and turkeys are found. Northeastern Minnesota farmers find poultry raising very profitable, as the markets afforded by the many cities and mining centers are the best.

You might ask about the rainfall. If you will look up the United States weather bureau's report from Duluth, you will find that during a period of ten years, the annual precipitation for that section of the state was 27.49 inches. You might question me as to the temperature of Northeastern Minnesota; but if you will look up the government weather reports, you will find that the mean annual temperature taken at the United States weather station at Duluth, for a period of ten years was 38.2, and for Albert Lea in Freeborn county, Southern Minnesota, on the Iowa line, the mean annual temperature was 45.9 degrees, a difference of 7.7 degrees. The following is a comparative table showing the temperature and frost dates at the United States weather bureau in Duluth and Albert Lea:

	Duluth.		Albert Lea.
	High. Temp. Reached.	1st Killing Frost.	High. Temp. Reached.	1st Killing Frost.

If you should ask me the question: "What show has a man with small means to locate there," I would answer: "The best in the world." That is a broad statement, but nevertheless it is true. You have three chances: You can take a free homestead, you can buy state school land at from $5 to $15 per acre, on forty years time, or you can buy land from private parties at equally low prices and on liberal terms. The forests will furnish you the material for building, fencing and fuel, to say nothing of the logs, cordwood, bolts, poles, posts and ties for commercial purposes. There is work the year round in factories, forests and mines. The whole country abounds with all kinds of wild game. The lakes and rivers teem with fish. The climate is delightful.

Taking Northern Minnesota as a whole, I regard it as one of the surest and safest propositions for men in all walks of life. There is hope, energy, enterprise and industry wherever you look. From the busy mills, factories and mines in the cities, far across the state to the settler's cabin in the woods, and the pioneer's shack in the prairie, you will find this same spirit, for there are not many discouraged or discontented people in this great North country. True, there is much to be done here. We need more railroads, highways, bridges, schools and churches, but many are already here and more are bound to follow. What we need most is more settlers. We need men who are not afraid to match their brawn and muscle against the hardships of a pioneer country, as our fathers did in Southern Minnesota fifty years ago. There is a chance here for you and me, a chance for men who want a home and have the nerve and courage to cope with frontier conditions.

SEED CORN FOR IOWA FROM AITKIN COUNTY

The accompanying picture is that of a load of seed corn brought to the Aitkin station, Aitkin county, by Charles Hendricks and son, of Aitkin township. It was shipped to O. J. Hager, Waukon, Iowa, for which he paid $300. Mr. Hendricks has grown seed corn for several years, and has found it such a profitable part of his crop that other farmers in Aitkin county are beginning to follow his example.

FARM EXPERTS AGREE AS TO OPPORTUNITIES

Three Agricultural Authorities Give Their Views on Northern Minnesota.

No Other Section of the Country Where Farmers Are as Certain of Success.

BY W. A. HENRY,
Former Dean of the University of Wisconsin's Agricultural College.

I have long been familiar with the timbered region running through Northern Wisconsin and Northern Minnesota. Over much of this vast district there is a great deal of excellent farming land still more or less unoccupied. Farmers, in their eagerness to secure prairie land, have passed way beyond good land, now more or less covered with trees and stumps. Some of those who are still eager for prairie lands would far better take the kind of wooded lands that both Wisconsin and Minnesota have yet to offer, for many are pushing into districts where the rainfall is too uncertain to warrant the kind of agriculture that must be adopted by landholders of limited means. In the wooded districts all of the crops never fail, and one is always certain of enough for himself and his cattle.

The timber land districts of Minnesota and Wisconsin are especially suited to the growth of red and alsike clovers, peas, barley, rye, potatoes and root crops generally. Timothy and red top and blue grass flourish, making a dense sod. Because of its pure waters and splendid summer climate, and the wealth of grasses and clovers, the region is particularly suited to dairying and sheep husbandry, two of the most stable agricultural industries, which pay the faithful farmer from the very start.

I know of no region still awaiting settlement in this country which will compare with the northern part of these two states for safety and assurance of advancement in price of lands while one is making a good living and something more. To be sure, there is plenty of hard work connected with it, but there are ample compensations.

BY HENRY WALLACE,
Editor Wallace's Farmer and President National Conservation Congress.

The cut-over sections of Northern Minnesota have certain advantages that commend them to the energetic and industrious farmer of moderate means.

First. There is no question as to permanent and reliable rainfall. The growth of timber there proves that beyond all question. There is no necessity for cultivating two years in order to conserve sufficient moisture to grow one crop, as in the semi-arid sections from the Canadian border to the gulf.

Second. The clay loam and loamy clay lands that grow white pine and hard woods grow clover in a way unsurpassed and unequalled anywhere in the United States outside of similar sections in Wisconsin and Michigan. This means permanence of soil fertility under any decent kind of farming.

Third. Established and permanent facilities through the Great Lakes and eventually through the Mississippi, to say nothing of the great cities on the lakes and the river.

Fourth. Special adaptation to dairying and the growth of sugar beets and roots of all kinds, as well as spring grains; all of which means eventually the densest rural population, equalled only by the irrigated sections of the West.

It is not a country for the speculator in lands; hence lands have not been unduly boomed. It is rather a country for the homemaker, an eighty-acre rather than a quarter or half section proposition.

In selecting avoid sandy land, although more sand is permissible and desirable than in lands farther south. Avoid an excessive amount of marsh land, especially those containing sphagnum moss with sandy bottoms. Don't undertake to clear the entire farm at once. Clear your hardwood lands first. Cut your brush lands; sow clover, and begin dairying. Make pasture out of lands thickly covered with pine stumps.

I know of no section in the United States where the energetic, industrious farmer, who will select wisely and adapt himself to the country can make a more assured success than in the cut-over lands of Northern Minnesota.

BY THOMAS W. SHAW,
Northwestern Agricultural Expert.

Homeseekers should consider well the claims of Northern Minnesota before going further. It offers splendid opportunities in many of the lines of agriculture.

The climate of Northern Minnesota usually furnishes plenty of rain for growth in summer and snow in winter to protect crops that live through that season. It is one of the most healthful climates in the world. Malarial diseases cannot live there, cyclones are unknown. The forest growth protects from strong winds. The springs come late but the autumns are open, being near Lake Superior.

Nearly all the soil is good. Much of it is super-excellent. It consists of clay loam that grows a mixture of hard woods, mixed loam that grows hardwood and pine, swamp land that grows tamarack and grass and sandy land that grows jack and Norway pine. The first class of soils is most excellent for nearly all the lines of production; the second is very similar, but not so enduring; the third is most excellent for producing tame hay and many other crops, and the fourth, though less fertile, may be made to grow well such crops as clover, alfalfa, corn, potatoes and certain grains.

This region is unrivaled for the production of clover and clover seed, and indeed of many kinds of grasses. These may be sown at almost any season of the year, as soon as the trees, brush and logs are removed from the land. The clovers will grow for many years in succession. All kinds of cereals grow well, but especially the grains to be used in feeding live stock, as oats, barley, rye, speltz and peas. All kinds of field roots grow excellently, and potatoes, celery and garden vegetables are of superb quality.

There is not a better region for dairying in the United States, all things considered. This is owing to the abundance of the hay, fodder, fodder corn, coarse grains and field roots that may be produced, to the abundance of the pastures and water, to the excellent character of the latter, and to the suitability of the climate. This region will grow pork as good as that of Denmark and much more cheaply. It is also a good country for sheep and beef cattle.

FROM SECTION FOREMAN TO PROSPEROUS FARMER

Nelll Mullins promoted himself from working on the section to owning a farm near Grand Rapids, Itasca county. He had saved his earnings on the railroad in summer, in the woods in winter, till he was in a position to make a good start. He began with fifty-seven acres partly cleared and a team. He has increased his land holdings in ten years to more than 200 acres. He has put up a comfortable home, a big red barn and other buildings worth $5,000. He has been elected to the county board and served in other positions of trust.

For the last eight years he has raised from five to fifteen acres of potatoes which seldom run less than 300 bushels to the acre. He has sold them all the way up to $1 a bushel and for the eight years his average price is close to 70 cents a bushel.

He practices a system of rotation, with clover, oats and potatoes for the main crops and other roots and vegetables for diversity. He invested his labor plus his savings and made himself a highly profitable farm.

LAUDS ITASCA COUNTY LAND

Farmer Asserts It Is Preferable to Illinois as a Farming District.

H. F. Perry, one of the settlers who has just arrived from Moline, Ill., to start farming in the Splithand Lake country, asserts that Itasca county and Northern Minnesota generally is preferable to Illinois as a farming district, everything considered, and predicts a great influx of farmers here within the next year or two. He bases his preference for the Itasca country on the fact that the land is just as productive, and that it costs nearly $11,000 less to begin here than in the older state, the acreage necessary for a start being placed at 160 acres.

"The cost of a 160-acre farm around Moline," said Mr. Perry, "is $100 an acre, or $16,000. Before stock and buildings are put upon the land the farmer must figure upon an expenditure of fully $20,000. This excludes all but the wealthy from occupying any other position than that of renter.

"I have bought a quarter section here, fully as good land as any in Illinois for $8 an acre, entailing an expenditure of $1,280. The land can be cleared for $25 an acre, or $4,000, or a total cost of $5,280 here against $16,000 in Illinois. The productiveness of both farms being the same and the prices here better, the same returns may be reaped for one-third the investment.

"The younger generation of Illinois and Iowa farmers are getting their eyes open to the difference. That is why they are flocking to the northern country. They also realize that the clearing process does not involve the expenditure of cash and that it can be carried on by their own labor."

THE USEFUL COW BREAKS RECORD HERE.

Above all this is the dairyman's country. Grass comes in everywhere, timothy and clover. Three to five tons to the acre are the usual harvest in two cuttings. Fodder corn grows ten or twelve feet high and yields ten to fifteen tons to the acre of succulent and nutritious feed. In silos it insures a supply of the best fodder on earth. Corn may be ripened also, but it is hardly necessary when the stalks are so rich in food values. Rutabagas, mangels and other roots, return a thousand bushels to the acre and upward, balancing up the ration with the hay and the corn.

The climate is invigorating for cattle as well as for people and the cows give a steadier flow of milk where they are not vexed by the changes that afflict many sections. Furthermore there are six full months of green pasture for the cattle. The grass springs up as soon as the snow is gone. It keeps green through midsummer and remains good pasturage till the snow covers it in December or the last of November.

Bumper Potato Crop.

S. W. Hurlbut, Akeley: "I raised 360 bushels of white victor potatoes on an acre of ground; winter wheat went 28 bushels to the acre and winter rye 25 bushels; my No. 13 and No. 8 corn was extra good."

STOCK FARMING PAYS LARGE, SURE PROFITS.

Chas. E. Bradt, Woodside Stock farm: "As a dairy section and as one offering the greatest measure of success in diversified farming, I consider Hubbard county unsurpassed. Most gratifying results in the growing of clover and the grasses, in fact of all forage crops. The rapid strides we are making in corn raising, the entire absence of hog cholera and all epidemics among stock of all kinds, also abundance of good healthy water, have led to this conclusion: Live stock can be produced more cheaply here than on the $150 and $200 an acre land of the older states. We have an unlimited market for all our surplus. Our silos can be constructed of home grown and home manufactured material at a minimum cost and filled with luxuriant fodder from our corn and clover fields which are not an investment of $100 to $200 per acre. Rye, potatoes and all root crops do as well."

FINE GUERNSEYS FOR LOCAL FARMS

Northern Minnesota Fast Becoming a Great Dairy Country.

That Northern Minnesota is becoming one of the leading dairy regions of the United States is indicated by the importation by the Jean Duluth farm, near Duluth, of some fifteen of the finest Guernsey cattle that could be found on the other side of the water, and also the bringing here of some thirty-five of the finest specimens of this breed that could be picked up among the best Eastern breeders.

George Grout, formerly with the Minnesota college of agriculture, but now with the Jean Duluth farm, has returned from the East, where he went to purchase the finest Guernsey cattle that could be found, and this regardless of the money that the purchase would entail.

These cattle are of the May Rose and Sequel Echo stock, and Mr. Grout says that without a doubt they are the finest cattle that have ever been brought to the northern portion of the state.

Of the some fifty head of stock that will be brought here, something like thirty head are for George C. Stone's farm, near this city. While the cattle purchased for Mr. Stone are not among the lot imported from abroad, they are absolutely the best Guernseys that could be picked up in the East, according to Mr. Grout, and are among the very best cattle in America.

FABULOUS VALUE OF MINNESOTA FARMS

In Thirty Years It Has Increased More Than a Billion Dollars.

Minnesota farmers have increased their wealth during the last thirty years by $1,237,692,873, according to figures compiled by H. J. Maxfield, state immigration commissioner.

The total value of farm lands with improvements, machinery, livestock, etc., was placed at $1,476,411,737 in the latest reports, while in 1880 the total value was $238,718,864. This makes an average annual increase of $41,256,429.

The largest portion of these values is in land, the figures being $1,262,441,426 now, as against $193,724,260 in 1880, a gain of $1,068,717,166, and an annual increase of $30,657,238. Livestock values in 1880 were $31,904,821, as against present values of $161,641,146, a gain of $129,736,325.

The growth in number of farms and acres under cultivation during the same period has been nearly as great. Farms have increased from 92,386, with 7,246,693 acres cultivated, to 156,137, with 19,643,538 acres improved. This is a yearly gain of 2,125 farms, and 413,828 acres.

"Remarkable as has been the growth of Minnesota wealth," said Commissioner Maxfield, "I believe the state will progress farther during the next ten years than during the last thirty. There is a universal land hunger, and this 'back to the farm' movement has a grip upon us all.

"It is true that the free homestead lands, the irrigated fruit lands of the west and the Canadian grain lands are keen competitors of Minnesota, but the prudent purchaser will not forget that Minnesota farmers do not have to dry farm, do not have to irrigate and do not suffer from early and disastrous frosts. Considering their fertility, Minnesota lands are the cheapest and best.

Fabulous Potato Crops, Running as High as 600 Bushels to the Acre. Big Root Crops of All Kinds. Clover and Timothy Great Producers. Finest Vegetables Grown. Where the Small Farmer Is Succeeding and Has High-priced Markets.

The tremendous success of the Meadowlands colony, in St. Louis county, is being repeated at Cook, in the same county, and will also be duplicated in the Kelsey district of St. Louis county. At Meadowlands, 40 miles from Duluth, on the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway, and only 35 to 40 miles from the principal mining towns on the Mesaba iron range, remarkable results have been obtained in raising vegetables, berries and poultry, which sell at high prices in Duluth and the range cities and towns. Here the Duluth & Iron Range railroad established an experimental farm, which has been of great help to the settlers. Here are Holstein cattle, Yorkshire hogs and White Leghorn and Rhode Island Red chickens. Farmers are advised in the breeding of horses, cattle, hogs and poultry and the growing and marketing of grains, grasses and root crops best suited to Northern Minnesota climate and soil. Demonstrations of all kinds of farm machinery are given, enabling the farmer to get the best results from his farm without the expense of experimenting. Treatment of soils is also being studied, including crop rotation. All of the lands in the Meadowlands colony have been sold. They are highly productive and it is possible for a family to make a good living raising vegetables, berries and poultry on ten acres of land.

Other Colonies Like Meadowlands

The success of the Meadowlands colony is being repeated in the Cook district, in St. Louis county, which is on the main line of the Canadian Northern railway, about 25 miles from the Mesaba iron range, with its splendid markets. The soil of the Cook district is a sandy loam and a clay loam, each underlaid by beds of clay which hold the moisture in the soil. The soil is friable and kind to tillage and being well adapted to the growing of clover its fertility is assured. The land is slightly rolling, affording good natural drainage. It abounds in many streams and natural springs. For climate, St. Louis county is noted. In winter the air is clear and dry. The mud, and chilly atmosphere so prevalent and disagreeable in warmer climates is absent. In summer the weather is ideal. It is warm enough in the daytime, but always cool at night. There is no malaria and the death rate is very low. Doctors declare Northern Minnesota's climate ideal.

The Cook district, in addition to the markets of the range towns, is convenient to Duluth and Superior, having a population of more than 150,000. Much of the food of these cities is still brought from remote points. Tame hay here yields two to four tons an acre. Red and alsike are the clovers seeded, the larger clovers becoming too rank in growth. Timothy yields as well as clover. One cow can be pastured on a little less than one acre. The grazing season is often longer than in Illinois and Iowa. This is an ideal dairy country. The creamery at Duluth, the largest in the Northwest, paid neighboring farmers $1,500,000 last year for milk, cream, eggs and poultry. The common yield of potates is 200 to 300 bushels. E. C. Chapman of St. Louis county has raised more than 600 bushels to the acre. Northern Minnesota seed potatoes are being shipped everywhere at high prices. Small grain and berries are successfully gown. Fodder corn is a great crop, often gowing to a height of ten and twelve feet. Every stream teems with fish. Deer are plentiful. Many moose are shot. Quail, pheasants and prairie chickens are plentiful. In season wild water fowl swarm on every lake.

Everything that has been said about the Cook district applies to the Kelsey district, in St. Louis county. Each may be said to be a duplicate of the Meadowlands colony, which is pictured on this page. Meadowlands farms have quadrupled in value in a few years and the same rapid rise in values will occur in the Cook and Kelsey districts, where good land is still to be had at $12 to $15 an Acre

Terms are such as to place this land within reach of the poor man—$2 per acre down and the balance in nine annual installments with interest at 6 per cent. Buy some of this land, grow crops, be independent and get rich. Haven't you worked long enough for the other fellow? Get land in the Cook district and let the other fellow work for you. James J. Hill said: "There is but one crop of land. There will never be another." Get your share of that crop now. It will never be cheaper.

You Will Like the Cook and Kelsey Districts, Because:

The land lies near large and unsatisfied markets. The fertility of the soil renews itself in clover forever. The country is well wooded and watered. The grass and crops have more hours of sunshine than 300 miles south. There are no cyclones or blizzards. There is no fuel problem, every forty having enough timber to last a lifetime. There are no drouths nor crop failures. The best dairy section in the great butter-making state of Minnesota must be the most prosperous, and because

HOME COUNTY AND FARMING

Praise for St. Louis County Lands By Five Farmers From Illinois.

Farmers Prosperous and Close to Fine Markets With Good Prices.

Following are five letters from farmers near Canton, Ill., who have bought farm lands in the Floodwood district of St. Louis county, in which Duluth is situated. Some of these men sought far and near before deciding to come to Northern Minnesota.

"After visiting some of the southwestern and northwestern states with a view of making an investment in land, I was told of the rich cut-over timber land of St. Louis county, Minnesota. I visited this section last fall and found a very rich loam soil with clay subsoil, which was producing from 300 to 700 bushels of fine potatoes and the finest clover, bluegrass and timothy that I had ever seen.

"It is the land of the big red clover. All kinds of root crops do splendidly in that soil. The farmers are all prosperous and happy. Good markets are close, prices are good and taxes are very low. Just the place for the farmer of limited means or the man with money who wishes to make an investment.

"I see no reason why this land should not steadily advance in value on account of the nearness to such splendid markets at the Head of the Lakes and on account of the rapid development that is going on in that part of the state at the present time.

"No one can make a mistake in buying this land now. All good land is advancing. This has been true in all other parts of the country and I look for history to repeat itself.

"J. B. ROMINE,
"Canton, Ill."

"You have asked me what I think of Northern Minnesota land. You know I bought 120 acres from you last fall and paid cash for it. I looked over the country and I think no one can make a mistake by buying your land at the present low prices. The cities at the Head of the Lakes are growing fast and the country is being settled up rapidly.

"An acre of land in Northern Minnesota will produce more of everything than our land in Illinois, except corn, and yet the Minnesota farmers raise enough corn for their stock. I think your lands a good investment.

"CHARLES HORNEY,
"Canton, Ill."

"We all like the climate of Northern Minnesota fine and the winters are not as severe and disagreeable as we had in Illinois. The land cannot be beat for raising hay of all kinds and all kinds of root crops and vegetables.

"There is lots of work at good wages the year round. People are just beginning to get wise about the good land they have here and are buying it up fast. Anybody that wants land cannot make a mistake by buying now for it is sure to advance in price quickly.

"There is a good market for everything from a strawberry to a steer. Anybody that has a little ahead for about a year and not afraid to work can surely make it alright in Northern Minnesota.

"ROSS GOODWIN,
"Clark,
"St. Louis County,
"Minn."

"I bought a piece of your Northern Minnesota land last fall because I had heard such good reports of that country. I have enough timber on my place to pay for it, and I am expecting to get a good part of my land cleared up.

"I feel that every one should own a piece of good land somewhere. Land here in Illinois is too high-priced for the average man.

"Reports show that great crops are raised on Northern Minnesota land, and I expect to go up there this summer.

"LOUIS A. ROLLIN,
"Canton, Ill."

"I looked over your land last fall and bought 80 acres of you. This land is in the Floodwood district, St. Louis county. I saw some great crops of potatoes, cabbage, clover and other vegetables. I believe this land is worth the money you ask and is a good investment for anybody. The country is rapidly settling up and there is no reason why Northern Minnesota land should not double in value very soon.

Farmer Living Near Brainerd Shows What Good Feeding Will Do.

Walter Lang, who has a farm of 120 acres in the vicinity of Brainerd, Crow Wing county, believes in testing his herd of cows, keeping track of the milk and butter fat obtained. A cow named Freia, in the past year gave 5,934 pounds of milk which yielded 266.55 pounds of butter fat. Ruddie, another cow, gave 5,889 pounds of milk which yielded 257.89 pounds of butter fat, her record for 1912. Beauty gave 1,909 pounds of milk during the year which brought 192.37 pounds of butter fat. Pearl in a year gave 4,170 pounds of milk and produced 172.14 pounds of butter fat. Rosie yielded in 1912, 4,605 pounds of milk which gave 205.52 pounds of butter fat. Rosie is a half-blood Ayreshire, the second calf of Freia. The figures show what ordinary cows will produce when given good feed. They also indicate the trend of the times to doing farming on a business basis and keeping books on each cow. Mr. Lang will gradually replace his herd with blooded stock.

No Drouth or Crop Failures Along the Soo Line

In Northern Minnesota or Upper Wisconsin

Compare the Government Reports of this Region With Other Territories and Note the Abundant Rainfall and Steady Seasons.

The prominent part the Soo Line has played in the development of Northern Minnesota and Upper Wisconsin, and its faith in Duluth and Superior as a great railway center and market for the Northwest, is readily seen when it is called to your attention that the Soo Line has built in the last few years several hundred miles of the most modern railway directly tributary to the Head of the Lakes.

ALONG SOO LINE BETWEEN TWIN CITIES AND TWIN PORTS.

By the most direct connections with Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis and St. Paul, the wheat fields of North Dakota, the new Cuyuna Iron Range and Winnipeg and the great Northwest, the Soo Line has given Duluth and Superior greater transportation facilities, in more directions, and over a larger territory than any other railroad.

Its great faith in the future of the Twin Ports, Northern Minnesota and Upper Wisconsin has been evidenced by the enormous sums invested to secure ample terminal facilities in Duluth and Superior.

The great rush of immigration for years has been west and the mass of people seeking new homes have hurried by this resourceful and productive region. This has been due to the fact that this territory was covered with great pine and hardwood forests, but now the lumber industry is almost a thing of the past and settlers are now turning toward this fertile district, which is especially adapted to diversified farming. With the modern methods of clearing lands by means of various designs of stump pullers and the auxiliary use of dynamite, the cost of preparing the land for agricultural purposes has been so materially reduced as to make the "cut-over" land especially attractive to the homeseeker.

The following are some of the results accomplished by the building of the Soo Line through Northern Minnesota and Upper Wisconsin.

With the opening up of the Cuyuna Iron Range by the Soo Line a new territory was developed which bids fair to outstep the older iron range districts, and the reaction which necessarily follows the development of any industry in a given locality results in the increase of the number of farms adjacent in order that the workers may be provided with foodstuffs.

With the building of the Soo Line from Brooten to Duluth and Superior, a hitherto unserved district was supplied with transportation facilities and the beautiful Mille Lacs Lake with its shores covered with wonderful hardwood forests was brought into rail communication with the Twin Ports.

The construction of the Soo Line from Moose

DAIRYING IS THE SECRET OF SUCCESS FOR THE FARMERS OF THIS COUNTRY.

Lake, Minnesota, to Plummer, Minnesota, gave to the long suffering inhabitants of portions of Carlton, Aitkin and Cass counties, hitherto living in a remote territory, the necessary market for their products. It also opened up large portions of Beltrami, Clearwater, Polk and Red Lake counties, giving these localities adequate opportunities for development.

With the construction of the Frederic extension from Frederic, Wis., to Duluth and Superior, the eastern portion of Pine county, Minnesota, and portions of Polk, Burnett and Douglas counties, Wisconsin, were opened up for the settler, adding a new territory rich in soil and timber products.

POULTRY-RAISING IS A NEVER FAILING SOURCE OF REVENUE.

The construction of the line from Duluth and

CLOVER, UPPER WISCONSIN, GROWN WHERE ONCE STOOD A FOREST.

Superior toward Chicago placed several hundred thousand acres of Upper Wisconsin on a direct line between two of the greatest markets in the United States.

The Soo Line from Ashland to Chicago serves another portion of Upper Wisconsin which is also placed in direct communication with the Twin Cities and the east by the Main Line of the Soo.

The lumber companies have finished removing hardwood forests in this locality and it's just being opened up for settlement. The richness of the soil is evidenced by the hardwood timber which grew upon it and the abundant rainfall as shown by the government reports assures a successful crop every year and plenty of hay, clover and other grasses for the dairy business, which is the backbone of the farm. Do you know that Wisconsin has the prize for alfalfa?

The Soo Line has established at the proper locations townsites in these new districts for the purpose of assuring the settlers of a market for their products, and as the surrounding country develops, numerous opportunities open up for the establishment of the different kinds of business necessary.

Railroads are built for two purposes primarily. The one purpose being to provide adequate facilities for traffic already in existence and the other to develop the country through which it is built and create a traffic which grows as the communities develop.

The Soo Line, by choice, assigns itself to the latter class and in the organization of its Immigration, Land and Industrial and Townsite Departments is ably equipped to assist in the future growth of the highly productive regions of Upper Wisconsin and Northern Minnesota.

STRAWBERRIES RAISED ON CUT-OVER LAND IN NORTHERN MINNESOTA—THEIR FLAVOR IS UNEXCELLED.

AGRICULTURE

CLIMATE IS VERY HEALTHY

Half of All Europe Is Farther North Than Northern Minnesota.

Farming 700 Miles North of the International Boundary Line.

From the fact that Minnesota lies in the northern tier of states it is often erroneously believed by people living farther south within the United States that our climate is forbidding, and surprise is expressed when informed that Minnesota is an important fruit producing state. The hardier varieties of apples and crab apples are grown, while plums, cherries and all the small fruits thrive splendidly. Strawberries, blackberries and raspberries grow wild and are particularly well flavored. Over twenty varieties of the leading American roses are cultivated and you will find as beautiful gardens and yards here as in Central Illinois and Iowa.

When thinking of Minnesota as being in the North, remember that it is only so as compared with your own location in the United States and that fully one-half of the entire continent of Europe, holding a population of nearly 200,000,000 people, lies farther north, while the fast settling Canadian provinces are still north of us and successful farming operations are being carried on more than 700 miles above the international boundary line.

Do not mistake our climate. It is pleasant and conducive to the best development of both plant and animal life. The winters are cold but the temperature is even and the air dry and bracing, and there is nothing finer than a Northern Minnesota autumn. The sudden changes experienced in some states, with the attendant impassable roads, influenzas and general discomfort is escaped in Northern Minnesota.

CAME FROM INDIANA AND HAS PROSPERED.

I came to this country from Indiana in 1904, being forced to leave that state on account of the poor soil. At first I settled ten miles east of Thief River Falls, but later I moved up here where my wife and children had claims. I consider that I struck a good mine by coming here. One forty of my land here is worth as much as four in Indiana. We have clay for bottom here and quick-sand in Indiana. If land is worth $25 per acre in Indiana then this land is worth $75. We can raise wheat and flax and can clear from $10 to $25 per acre. Down in Indiana I could only make a living. I certainly would advise others to come here and secure land now.

I came here with $2,500. Today I have a half-section ten miles east of Thief River Falls, free from all debts, worth $12,800. My wife and children hold 800 acres, and I have twenty-six head of cattle, two oxen and four horses. We enjoy ourselves hunting in the fall and as we live on the banks of the river, fishing is good at almost any time.

The best of all here is the healthful climate. We are very seldom sick. My teeth chattered with the ague down in old Indiana. I work all winter with only a jacket on. There are no flies like down south, and another thing a person is not taxed to death like in the South.

In conclusion I will tell you what I have learned from my experience. If I did not have a dollar tomorrow and you would offer me 160 acres in Indiana free to farm, I would not accept it. I could fill a book with all the advantages we have here.

CLEARING LAND NEAR BAUDETTE, CLOSE TO THE CANADIAN LINE.

STARTED IN DEBT AND HAS PROSPERED.

Somebody asked me how do you like farming in St. Louis county. Well, I like it pretty well. I came here six years ago from Eveleth and I didn't have any more money than probably $5. I was in debt a little besides. Now I got five cows and three horses and some chickens. I had one acre in rye last summer and I got twenty-five bushels of rye cut off it and one acre and a half in potatoes and got 350 bushels out of it and lots of other little stuff and got thirty acres cleared and it grows good hay. Part of it is in clover and clover will grow fine in this country.

I wish every man who has a big family like I have would start farming in this district.

MATT HAUTALA,

ONE YEAR'S CROP PAID FOR THE LAND.

M. S. Leavitt, Park Rapids: "Since 1902 I have put in as many as forty acres of potatoes and never less than twenty-five. There has been no year so far but that the potato crop has paid me better than any other produce. The potatoes have yielded from 100 to 285 bushels per acre with me for the last ten years. In 1908, I bought a tract of land in the city limits containing seven and a half acres for which I paid $50 an acre. I planted this ground to potatoes. It yielded 275 bushels to the acre, which I sold on an average of 30 cents a bushel that fall at the home market, bringing $618. The land paid for itself with the one potato crop and left a snug balance of $240. In my opinion, the soil and season of this vicinity are well adapted to potato raising."

DULUTH COWS HOLD THE BUTTER RECORDS.

Skylight Fern, a Guernsey cow at the Jean Duluth farm, Duluth, has broken all records for Guernseys in Minnesota.

In the year completed recently Skylight Fern produced 595 pounds of butter fat, which is equivalent to 695 pounds of butter. The record is the official Minnesota Granger record and is another triumph for St. Louis county in dairying.

Dally, another cow in the Jean Duluth herd, has the highest record for Minnesota for three consecutive years. Dally has produced an average of 419 pounds of butter fat for the last three years.

SIXTY BUSHELS OF CORN TO THE ACRE.

A two-acre field of Minnesota No. 13 yellow dent corn at the North Central Trial Breeding station, on the Arrowood farm, south of Nevis, made a great showing last year according to Supt. Arrowood. This field yielded 122 baskets per acre which means about sixty-one bushels of shelled corn per acre. This corn was raised on timothy sod and was planted May 23. It was cut Sept. 13. Mr. Arrowood is strong in his praise of this corn and says that after it is acclimated thoroughly a field on clover sod during a favorable corn year (which this was not) would yield close to ninety bushels to the acre.

3,000,000 Acres of Tillable Land On Easy Terms

These lands are especially well adapted to diversified farming and dairying, consisting of prairie land, cut over timber land, natural meadow and timber. They are situated in country already settled, in close proximity to schools, churches, and railroads. Minnesota has unquestionably the best public school system in the country, commencing with the thousands of common schools, and including the "semi-graded" and "graded" schools, high and normal schools, and culminating in the splendid State University with an enrollment of over 5,000 students. Minnesota has a permanent school fund exceeding $23,000,000, which is increasing at the rate of $1,000,000 annually—the largest of any state in the Union. Good roads are the rule, rather than the exception. A large part of the state lands are found in the neighborhood of beautiful inland lakes, abounding in fish of all kinds. Large and small game in abundance. The soil is fertile, and all crops that can be profitably raised in other parts of the state will thrive here. No "final fee" or "final proof" necessary.

THE AVERAGE PRICE OF STATE LAND SOLD IN 1912 WAS $7.00 PER ACRE

Cultivated farms in the older settlements, including stock and farm implements, if desired, may be bought on reasonable terms. Everywhere there is a scarcity of labor, and good laborers command big wages. OPPORTUNITIES TO SECURE WORK ARE UNEXCELLED. There is a great demand for skilled as well as unskilled labor on farms and in factories.

OPENINGS FOR INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY AND COMMERICIAL PURSUITS

Owing to the rapidity with which the state is growing and being built up in every line, there are offered in all parts of Minnesota exceptionally advantageous opportunities for manufacturing and mercantile institutions. New towns are continually springing up in those sections which are now being thrown open to settlement, they increase rapidly in population, and in addition to the advantages offered merchants and manufacturers for building up a profitable business, they also afford EXCELLENT LOCATIONS FOR DOCTORS, LAWYERS AND OTHER PROFESSIONAL MEN. There is abundance of water power, and fuel for steam purposes can be obtained at a reasonable price. Unsurpassed transportation facilities, both by rail and water, bring this territory into direct communication with the great markets of the Northwest.

IF YOU WISH TO ENGAGE IN MANUFACTURING COME TO MINNESOTA

The richest iron mines in the world are found in Minnesota, in close proximity to the agricultural lands herein advertised for sale. This is also a timbered section, with a wealth of valuable hard and soft timber, for which there is constant demand at good prices. TAXES ARE LOW IN ALL SECTIONS OF MINNESOTA.

STORIES OF FARM SUCCESS

Began With $35, Now Has $17,000—Clears $1,000 an Acre on Celery.

Thirty Bushels of Wheat and Sixty Bushels of Corn to the Acre.

John E. Pearson, Gonvick, Clearwater county, started out in 1896 with $35. He is now worth $17,000, having made it all on the 240 acres of land which he now owns.

Martin Hinzelman, Itasca P. O., Clearwater county, has raised clover for five years. He has never threshed less than five and one-half bushels of seed to the acre.

Max Hofman, Pine City, Pine county, says: "I have been here seven years; have never had a crop failure. I raise about thirty bushels of wheat to the acre, sixty bushels of corn and 200 to 300 bushels of potatoes. I believe a man can do better here with cattle than in any other state in the union."

Arthur Prenevost, Terrebonne, Red Lake county, cut two crops of alfalfa in 1912. The first cutting made two tons and the second two and one-half tons per acre.

G. G. Hartley, Duluth, makes $1,000 to $1,500 per acre, net, each year, on head lettuce, celery and other garden truck.

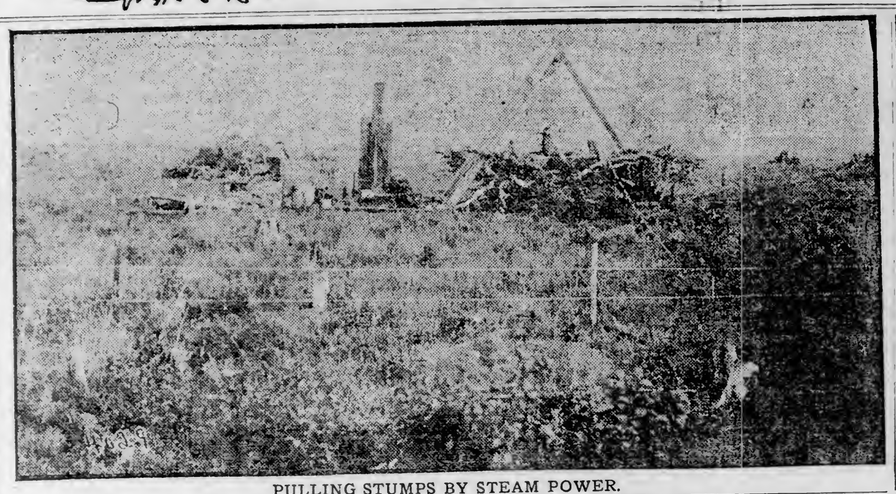
John Tomalla, Hillman township, Morrison county, hulled seventy-six bushels of clover seed from eleven acres. The average yield of clover seed for that county in 1912 was about five bushels per acre. Morrison county produced 15,000 bushels of clover seed last year.

Ed. C. Peterson, Eagle Lake, Minn., fed his corn to his hogs in 1912 and when he marketed forty-five of the porkers he received $850 for them. He figures that the corn netted him $1 per bushel.

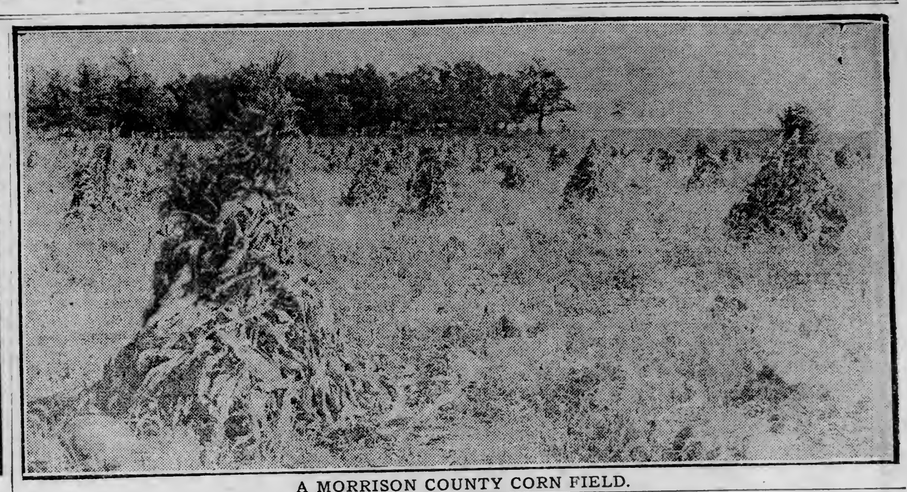
Ed Fisher, Wadena, sold $405 worth of clover seed from six acres in 1912.

Paul Alsaker, Benson, raised 170 bushels of navy beans on four and one-half acres in 1912.

A. A. Adams, Elk River, says: "I have lived here four years; find it a prosperous, hustling place, healthful, fine water, well adapted to small grain, corn, potatoes, dairying; good place for red, white and alsike clover and alfalfa."



PULLING STUMPS BY STEAM POWER.



A MORRISON COUNTY CORN FIELD.

FARMER GETS $4.28 A BUSHEL FOR CORN.

Marshall, Minn.—Benjamin Hill says he received $4.28 a bushel for his corn. Five weeks ago he purchased twenty-three steers and drove them to his farm. Their total weight was 19,750 pounds. At 6 cents a pound they were worth $1,185. After thirty-two days' feeding their weight was 22,310 pounds and they are worth $2,007.90. Mr. Hill fed six bushels of corn each day for the thirty-two days and in that way the corn brought him $4.28 a bushel. Each year he and his neighbors are raising and feeding more stock, finding it to pay better than raising small grain.

NORTHERN MINNESOTA BEST FOR FARMERS.

I have lived in Blackduck, Beltrami county, eleven years and each year have raised a crop, not having a failure during that time. Our cattle get their living in the pastures here from April 25 to Nov. 1. And any party wishing to go into the dairy business can find no better country for it than what we have here. I consider this an ideal country to live in, and when land can be bought from $3 to $15 an acre, I know of no other place that offers the advantages that Northern Minnesota does to any one who wishes to make a home in the country.

I am opening up a farm and our potatoes go from 390 to 500 bushels to the acre, carrots from 1,000 to 1,400, mangels 300 to 500 and most all tame grasses, such as clover, timothy, speltz, etc., grow in abundance, while oats, wheat, barley, flax and rye give big yields and corn does well.

SHEEP RAISING PAYS AND HELPS TO CLEAR.

In all essentials of sheep farming, this region very closely resembles the Canadian Province of Ontario, which is universally considered the best mutton producing district on our continent and is known to be as healthy as any in the world. The effect of a cold climate on the fleece is to increase its density and to render the fibre of the wool finer. But a more important feature is the influence of the colder weather on the health of the sheep, as here they are less subject to contagious and parasitic diseases than in warmer climates, as the origin of nearly all such diseases of sheep is traceable to dampness and warmth of the climatic conditions.

The food product of this region is equally favorable for sheep raising. It is conservatively estimated that from eight to ten sheep can be pastured or winter fed from the products of one acre. The value of sheep in clearing land is well known.

ALONG THE LINES OF THE MINNESOTA & INTERNATIONAL

—AND—

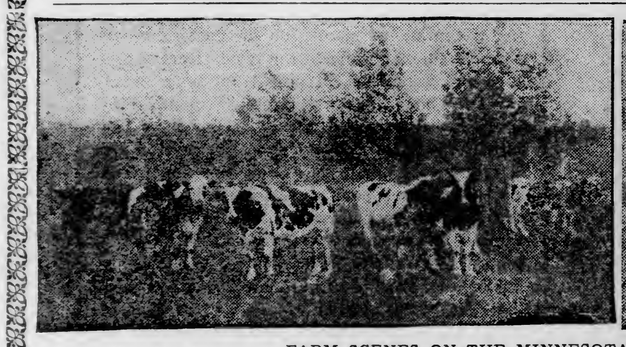
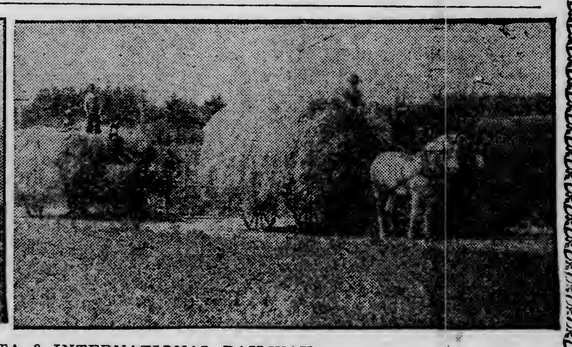
is a virgin land of marvelous productivity and possibilities. It contains the largest body of Homestead Lands remaining in the United States within the humid belt. Here Nature has outdone itself in the creation of a black muck soil three to five feet deep underlaid with sand and gravel strata resting on clay sub-soil. The land is varied in character; some of it is wooded, some needs draining, some of it is drained naturally.

It is rich with the vegetable accumulations of centuries. Agricultural experts pronounce it the Ideal Dairy Region. Timothy grows so readily and luxuriantly that it may be seeded on wild, unplowed sod land and it reseeds itself indefinitely. It produces one and a half to two tons of hay an acre year after year, and Northern Minnesota timothy seed has an especially high reputation. Oats and other grains, and root crops, do well here.

Some of the homestead lands can be bought under the "Eddy Free Homestead Bill," and others will cost but $1.25 per acre. Other lands can be rented or purchased on very easy terms and long time.





FARM SCENES ON THE MINNESOTA & INTERNATIONAL RAILWAY.

Good land can be found near the towns of Pequot, Pine River, Backus, Walker, Guthrie, Bemidji, Blackduck, Kelliher, Northome, Big Falls, Littlefork and International Falls, all growing places. These towns with Duluth, Superior, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Chicago provide the finest of markets for all produce raised.

The Northern Pacific and Minnesota & International Railway companies have just published a well illustrated booklet on this particular region. It gives a large amount of up-to-date and valuable information, and can be had for the asking. A particularly valuable feature of it is the experiences recounted of those who have already taken up farms and homesteads and are prosperous.

For a free copy of this booklet, and of that entitled "Minnesota Lakes," describing the beautiful outing territory served by these lines, send your address to W. H. Gemmell, General Manager, Brainerd, Minnesota.

SECOND PORT IN AMERICA

Duluth Is the Natural Point of Supply for the Great Northwest.

Handled $321,000,000 of Commodities in 1912—Tremendous Gains.

With the exception of New York, Duluth leads every other port in America in the volume of business handled. Its position at the Head of the Great Lakes makes it the natural point of supply for the great Northwest, just as it is the nearest point to the grain producing region from which shipments can be made by water, and the world's greatest iron mines.

Most of the coal used in the Northwest comes to Duluth to be loaded into cars for shipment to all points. For that reason Duluth has the largest coal docks in the world. Duluth and its sub-port, Two Harbors, also have the largest iron ore docks in the world.

The rapid growth of the Port of Duluth is best told in figures. During 1912, there were 11,846 arrivals and departures from the Duluth-Superior harbor, with a total tonnage, both in and out, of 41,474,776 tons. Twelve years ago the arrivals and departures were 11,334, with a tonnage of 14,387,058, only a trifle more than one-third what it is now. The value of the commodities handled last year was $320,921,392, as compared with $135,109,196 in 1900, an increase of nearly 250 per cent in the last twelve years.

Now there are 412 boats, with a net total tonnage of 712,031, against 302 boats in 1900 with a total net tonnage of 234,474. The carrying capacity of the boats has almost trebled. Coal receipts increased during the twelve years from 2,676,597 to 8,585,039 tons. In other words, the receipts of coal trebled.

The elevator capacity of the harbor is 32,000,000 bushels. New elevators which will be completed by the time wheat is harvested next fall will increase the elevator capacity 10,000,000 bushels.

During the past twelve years the iron ore shipments, including those from Two Harbors, increased from 9,645,355 to 33,877,184 tons, or more than 250 per cent, giving employment to thousands more of well-paid men in the mines, all of which are tributary to Duluth.

MULES POPULAR IN ILLINOIS.

In Farm and Fireside, a contributor points out the fact that mules are extensively used on farms, and particularly in Illinois. He goes on to say: "Much of the soil-turning in Illinois is being done by mules. One of the best drilled plowing teams in Northern Illinois is made up of two mares and two mules, the mares being the mothers of the mules."

The French grape crop is light and the champagne output will be smaller.

GREAT TRADE AT WHOLESALE

Duluth's Forty-Seven Jobbers Do an Annual Business of $112,000,000.

Of the Goods Handled $22,000,000 Are Manufactured in Duluth.

Duluth's first wholesale house, established thirty-one years ago, dealt in groceries, which it sold to retailers in this city and neighboring towns. From this beginning Duluth has grown to forty-seven jobbing houses, which did a business in 1912 of $112,000,000, in eighty-three different classes of merchandise.

By no means all of the goods sold at wholesale at Duluth are shipped into the city. The annual sales of such goods to retailers amount to about $74,000,000, and the rest of the trade, aggregating $22,000,000, is in goods manufactured in Duluth.

Duluth owes its greatness as a wholesale center to three things. In the first place it lies at the western end of the most westerly and vastest of the five Great Lakes of North America. It is the place where rails and water meet. In the next place it has a magnificent natural harbor, made available for commercial use by the simple device of cutting a canal, that changed a long peninsula to an island, but in no way impaired its value as a protection for the anchored vessels from the storms that sweep the main part of the lake.

Thirdly, the men who have come to unite their fortunes with those of "The Zenith City of the Unsalted Seas" have been men of tremendous energy and invincible perseverance. Such were the men to whom the great task of building up a mighty commercial center amid a rugged landscape and surroundings and influences that made wrestling with difficulties to achieve tremendous possibilities an exquisite pleasure would naturally appeal. Duluth naturally drew such men. They have made Duluth what it is and are constantly forcing it on to higher and better achievements.

The aggressive enterprise of these commercial leaders, together with the city's natural advantages, have made tributary to Duluth a tremendous Western country reaching from the Soo to the Pacific ocean and extending as far to the Southwest as San Diego, Cal. This vast stretch of territory includes eight states and parts of seven more. Yet there is very little of it now that is not visited by traveling salesmen from the Duluth wholesale houses. Moreover, salesmen of these Duluth establishments have been visiting Alaska, and working up trade connections in that wonderful and fast developing country.

When iron ore was discovered north of Duluth in the early eighties, a new field of great importance was opened up for the Duluth wholesalers. Many new and progressive cities and towns sprung up near this city and their people are excellent customers. A wide market was created for Duluth's wholesale houses. The development of the mining industry in the northern part of this state has been recognized as a most important factor in the upbuilding of Duluth as a wholesale center.

Another northern Minnesota industry that has been a great help to the wholesaler has been logging. The logging companies, by reason of the necessity of getting large supplies for their camps, have been valuable customers to the Duluth jobbers.

One of the greatest difficulties with which Duluth wholesalers have had to deal has been the system of discriminatory railroad and steamer rates, favoring the Twin Cities at the expense of Duluth and often actually transferring the advantages belonging to Duluth as the Head of the Lakes to St. Paul and Minneapolis. There was a time, not a quarter of a century ago, when goods were shipped from the East via Duluth to the Twin Cities at a smaller charge for transportation than was made for goods that were consigned to Duluth. Thus a lower rate was charged for the longer haul.

It was frequently the case that it cost no more to ship goods to the Twin Cities via Duluth and thence back to Duluth than it did to ship them directly to Duluth. Duluth business men have long been fighting against such discrimination as this. They considered it a great victory when they obtained for Duluth the same rate from the East as was given St. Paul for shipments via Duluth.

The fight over such injustices is by no means over. Yet the transportation companies are treating Duluth more fairly now than they ever did before, and the city is coming into its own, and achieving the commercial greatness that is its lawful heritage by reason of its location.

Duluth lies 250 miles farther west than Chicago, yet Duluth's position at the Head of the Lakes has enabled it to obtain practically the same transportation rates to and from the Atlantic seaboard, lake and rail, as Chicago has.

A remarkable feature of the city's wholesale trade lies in the fact that its wholesale houses are almost without exception located on the bay front. Thus boats can readily be unloaded into these warehouses, without the expense of hauling over the streets, and the shipments from these wholesale houses by rail can likewise be made by loading the merchandise directly upon the cars from the warehouses, with scarcely any use of drays or teams for that process. A great saving is effected by having the rails and water meet.

GRAIN MARKET

FOUR BUSHELS EVERY SECOND

That Is the Volume of Grain Handled By Duluth's Board of Trade.

This Stupendous Stream Totalled 124,000,000 Bushels Last Year.

BY GEORGE B. CALDWELL,
Market Editor.

Every a stream of grain flowing through Duluth from the West at the rate of four bushels a second, a stream moving ceaselessly, day and night, summer and winter, gathering its volume from the vast American Northwest and Canadian West, attaining its full size at Duluth and thence moving on to the East to feed millions on both sides of the Atlantic.

This stream of four bushels a second must aggregate 240 bushels a minute, 14,400 bushels an hour, 345,600 bushels in a day and night, more than 10,000,000 bushels in a month and over 124,000,000 bushels in a year.

Such would be a vivid picture of a movement that actually does take place. Yet little notice of that mighty process is taken from day to day by the general public. The huge quantities of grain that are handled at the American Head of the Lakes are passed along with such ease and facility by the improved methods, that little noise is made in the operation and scarcely any attention is attracted on the part of the great number of people under whose very eyes the operation is going on, but who give little thought to it, because it does not directly interest them.

During the year 1912 the total amount of grain received at Duluth reached the astounding total of 125,557,643 bushels. Never before did such a stupendous quantity of food for the world pass through this market. It was largely but not entirely American grain. Of the entire amount handled 102,927,497 bushels were raised on the American side of the international line and 22,630,146 bushels on the Canadian side. Every previous year was cast far into the shade. Heretofore the banner year was 1907, when 88,409,000 bushels of grain were handled at the American Head of the Lakes.

The Duluth grain market is the third in the United States in the volume of grain handled. In the volume of wheat handled it is easily the second, Minneapolis not being very far in the lead of it. Chicago in the popular mind is supposed to be the leading wheat market of the country. In actual quantity of wheat handled, however, Chicago is not in the same class with Duluth. In 1912 Duluth received 88,777,990 bushels of wheat, while Chicago received only 35,914,900 bushels.

It is true, however, that Chicago is the greatest speculative and hedging market in wheat in the United States, and in volume of trade of that kind it truly leads all the other wheat markets of the country.

In the three months of September, October and November, 1912, the Duluth Board of Trade members bought and sold more than 80,000,000 bushels of grain. During that period of time the board held seventy-five sessions. Thus an average of more than 1,000,000 bushels of grain a day was marketed for the country shippers between the hours of 9:30 a. m. and 1:15 p. m.

The 1,000,000 bushels handled at each of these sessions aggregated in value at least $750,000 and thus a total of about $60,000,000 worth of grain was traded on this exchange in those three months. This tremendous volume of grain was sold for the country shippers without the loss of a single cent. Each day's receipts were unloaded into the elevators and mills and the money collected and forwarded to the shippers.

When there are any losses, they are almost invariably on the side of the commission man. He is more than a commission man. A commission man is one to whom a commodity is consigned for sale and who, after making the sale, deducts his charges and remits the balance. In the grain business the commission man finances the movement of the crop. He advances to the country shipper the money necessary to purchase the grain from the farmer, taking his chances on the title to the grain resting with the shipper and on the shipper using the money advanced to him for the purpose for which it was intended.

The losses that the commission men in the grain business suffer now are small compared with what they once were. They are more discriminating in loaning their money than they were years gone by. A few years ago the losses sometimes aggregated large amounts.

In handling $60,000,000 worth of grain in the three fall months of last year, the Board of Trade members really did $120,000,000 worth of business, for the grain not only had to be purchased to be brought to the market, but it had to be sold to some milling or elevator company. Aside from this there is the hedging trade which still further increases the total.

There is yet another way in which the commission man serves the country shipper. The commission man takes care of the shipper's interest in the matter of obtaining the best possible grade on the grain, before it is sold for him. For all of this service the broker receives nothing more than his commission. This is 1 cent a bushel on wheat, barley and rye, ½ cent a bushel on oats and 1 per cent of the value on flax.

Obviously it is essential for the proper performance of such functions that the members of the Board of Trade be men of a high standard of financial integrity. This is accomplished by the close scrutiny with which the Board surrounds the admission to membership, and to the exacting character of the board's rules and its discipline. Every member recognizes the right of the board to investigate every transaction that is made on the floor of the exchange and to hold those who make it to strict accountability for it.

The rules of the Board, by which every member agrees to abide, are made not only for the protection of members trading among themselves, but also for the protection of every outsider who trades with any member. The outsider has just as much right to appeal to the protection of the board as any member.

There is probably no other line of business of such volume as this, wherein the proper conduct of the transactions depends so completely on the honor and integrity of the traders. Transactions involving thousands of dollars in value are made simply with a nod of the head, or at most with a pencil notation on a card. These are not contracts within the meaning of the statute relating to contracts. Probably very few of these transactions could be enforced in a court of law. Yet a repudiated transaction on a grain exchange is a thing unheard of.

To do such business, as is done on the Board of Trade, in a manner that would bring the agreements within the statute covering contracts would be cumbersome and unpractical. It would require one of three things: (1) The signing by the parties of a note or memorandum of agreement; (2) The delivery of part of the goods at the time; or (3) The payment of part of the purchase price. If one of these methods had to be followed, the simplest probably would be for the grain trader to fill his pockets with pennies and hand out or receive a copper every time he made a transaction. The absurdity of transacting business is this manner is obvious.

The agreements made on the floor of the Board of Trade, however, while not enforceable in a court of law, are made absolutely binding by the rules of the body itself. The repudiation of a transaction would surely mean expulsion from the Board. Thus, as a practical matter, these transactions hold the parties as firmly as if the whole power of the law of the land stood ready to back them up.

It is well that the enormous amounts of grain traded on the Board can be transferred in this easy and informal manner. It makes the marketing of the crops a much simpler matter than it would be if the transactions had to be made under the cumbersome forms that would be necessary to make them enforceable under the law.

SCENIC HIGHWAY TO PORT ARTHUR.

The county commissioners of Lake county have decided to build the last connecting link in the Duluth-Port Arthur road, having authorized the expenditure of $8,000 for that purpose. The strip yet to be finished is less than ten miles in length and when this is completed it will be possible to drive an automobile from Duluth through to Port Arthur, nearly the entire route being along the lake front.

Cook county last year voted $60,000 bonds with which to build the continuation of the road across that county and to the Canadian border, where the balance of the work will be carried out by the Ontario government.

When the road is completed it will be one of the finest scenic highways in the United States and travel over that thoroughfare is expected to be exceedingly heavy.

MINNESOTA A GREAT DAIRY STATE.

Minnesota is pre-eminently a dairy state. It is no more than twelve years since the first co-operative creamery was organized in the state; today they are numbered by hundreds. Minnesota has 820 creameries and sixty-seven cheese factories, paying every year more than $25,000,000 for butter fat, the last report showing an increase of 33 1-3 per cent within two years. Last year Minnesota won the banner at the National Creamery Buttermakers' association for the highest average scores, open to all states, with a score of 96.53. This is the eighth banner won by Minnesota out of ten that have been offered by the association.

POTATOES, 400 BU. TO THE ACRE.

J. D. Moore, has been a resident of the Floodwood district of St. Louis county for the past seventeen years and has a fine large clearing. He has been putting in crops for the last sixteen years, regularly and during that time he has experienced only one setback, which was caused by heavy rains four years ago slightly damaging his potatoes.

Mr. Moore averages from 300 to 400 bushels of potatoes to the acre, and has taken as high as 550 bushels off of one acre. Hay will cut from 2 to 4 tons to the acre, oats 65 bushels to the acre and he has raised cabbages weighing as high as 30 lbs. to the head.

He raises a fine lot of carrots, beets, rutabagas, celery, asparagus, cauliflowers, peas, beans, etc., and it would be hard to figure out which vegetable had the advantage in growing and producing in this soil.

In adition to this, Mr. Moore has not forgotten the comforts of life, for he has as fine a house as a person would want in any city; having all modern conveniences, hot and cold water, bath, etc., and in case of fire has a water power which will throw a powerful stream onto any of his buildings.

BY HOKE SMITH.

NO OTHER country has such a remarkable chain of national parks as the United States. Each of these playgrounds which Uncle Sam dedicated to the people is entirely dissimilar from the other and, in some respects, Glacier Park, the newest of the government's nature preserves, is the most distinctive of the collection. So magnetically so, in fact, that in the third year of its existence (it was created by act of congress in 1910), 7,000 tourists registered at its two gateways — Glacier Park Station, Mont., on the eastern side of the Continental Divide, and Belton, Mont., which is on the Pacific slope of the Rockies. The backbone of the mighty range extends from the Canadian boundary thirty miles through the middle of the park, the area of which is somewhat larger than the state of Rhode Island.

This year the Interior Department at Washington probably will have to write down in its records the highest tourist travel-mark ever set by any of the nation's parks.

The explanation of this rush, of "See America First" sightseers to the marvel-land in Northwestern Montana is the same as applies to the public-press beauty contest which turns all eyes upon the prettiest girl in town.

Glacier Park is a surpassing scenic-beauty of such distinct type that it is in a class all by itself in this country, it being appropriately characterized as the Switzerland of America. Consequently those that see it are enraptured by its inspiring landscape charms and they all go back home carrying with them an adoration for the land of mountain grandeur. If they'd live a thousand years the picture would still be photographed in memory.

This soul-seizing scenic-enthusiasm which returning tourists cannot shake off has worked as magically for Glacier Park as tale ever told by explorers fresh from their discovery of a new land of surprises. Thus, the tourist who has beheld this top-of-the-continent beauty spot has and will continue to be the greatest contributing factor in popularizing Glacier National Park.

Its colossal beauty is irresistible.

The immensity of the snow-capped mountain peaks, in their gorgeous color setting of bright green-trimmed timber shaded here and there by turquoise and emerald hued lakes which mirror fantastic clouds moving through a clear blue sky form pictures gripping enough to arrest even the attention of an avowed atheist and make him at least ask himself down in the bottom of his soul:

"Did all this just happen or is it the master work of a 'Supreme Creator.'"

But, what's the use of mortal trying, with a word-writing pencil, to reproduce from another human mind one of the masterpieces of Nature, when even the genius with the brush and oil paints stands helpless before his easel and gazes in bewilderment upon this challenging landscape.

The man of words is somewhat bolder. Habit, or perhaps the greater naturalness of written or spoken expression leads him to daub at the job anyway (even just as this effort at description), for it is a striking fact that every writer who has viewed the captivating splendors from the roof of the Rockies has soared to the "azure heavens" in his or her inspirational spasm of word-painting effort. An excursion of "spring poets" to this land of awe "sure would" flood every newspaper office in the country with rolls of sentimental manuscript long enough to girdle the globe.

For it is a soul-stirring view from up there in the Triple Divide country, whence the waters flow to the Pacific ocean, Hudson bay and the gulf of Mexico.

Enough of this feeble effort to present the picture in words.

The eye itself is the only true photographer. The camera does pretty well, but color plates are needed to reproduce Nature's gorgeous garb if you are going to show the picture to one who has not already photographed the same scene with his own vision.

In providing for the accommodation of the tourist in the park, Nature has not been marred by the unsightly buildings of man. Instead, log chalet villages have been built a convenient distance apart for the traveler. These are after the Swiss style of architecture and they lend a picturesqueness to the wild surroundings. The unique timber lodges are situated on the shores of the larger lakes of which there are 250 in the park. These placid bodies of land-locked water are fed by sixty living glaciers, the largest of which is Blackfeet glacier, five miles in breadth.

Five means of travel may be resorted to in touring the park—automobile and horse stage, by which the main points of interest connected by highways are to be reached, launches which ply the big lakes in their canyon-like basins between mountains towering 5,000 feet above the waters' edges and those who desire to penetrate the mountain recesses and across the Continental Divide can follow the winding trails on horseback or afoot.

The Indian life is another distinctive feature which is attractive to the American tourist in these latter days of the rapid passing of the red man.

The trails over which tourists now travel are the same hunting trails the Indians have followed up the mountain sides for thousands of years in their chase of big game.

A noteworthy sequence to the artistic development of this old hunting ground is that it established a friendliness between the Indian and the pale-face tourists that is almost unbelievable. The Piegan or Blackfoot Indians were naturally a savage tribe in the early days of frontier life. Those who are left of their enemies, the Crows, can best testify to this. But time has worked a change of heart and now the Piegans go forth over their former hunting trails and greet the summer tourist with friendly handshakes and dignified salutations. Some of the Indians even have become licensed guides and escort parties through the preserve, delighting in their endless tales of legends about the region which they hold so dear in memory. There probably is more Indian legend there than in any other area of 1,400 square miles upon the face of the earth.

The older Piegan braves relate some wonderful stories of buffalo hunters of the Indian race. They lived close to the Rockies because it was there that big herds sought shelter and feed during the winter months. The old Indians to this day point out passes in the mountains which formed natural runways through which their hunting parties drove their prey by the hundreds until the frenzied animals would crowd themselves over the cliffs to slaughter. Then the Indians reaped their harvest of winter meat, skins for clothing and with which to make their tepees.

Hence the reason for the famous buffalo or grass dance which still is religiously indulged in by the Blackfoot tribe. The Indians, who were so dependent upon the buffalo for food, raiment and shelter, held the grass dance as an appeal to the Great Spirit, thinking he would be pleased and send plenty of rain to make the grass grow luxuriously so the buffalo would come into "their country" to browse and thus afford the redman opportunity to get what he needed to eat and wear.

The reservation of these Indians adjoins the Glacier Park on the east, but the Indians spend much of their time roaming through "their paradise" that they may gratify their desire to meet with the tourists and have the white people enjoy their grotesque dances and weird ceremonies in the tepee camps which they set up for that diversion.

Three Bears, one of the old tribal chiefs, may not look it, but he is one of the most friendly of the band. And, strange to relate, he used to be the most savage. Forty years ago, when he rode his famous pinto pony at the head of his tribe of warriors and went forth over the foothills down near the Missouri to fight the Crows, there was not an Indian in the West that did not either admire or fear this same Three Bears. He still carries at his belt the scalps of Crow Indians, and he is proud of them and the desperate encounters he had. But time has softened Three Bears. He has philosophy in his make-up and he has bowed very gracefully to the inevitable.

Two Guns White Calf, another of the distinguished members of the Piegans, has a stately bearing that the artist goes into ecstacy over. It was White Calf's father who ceded this million acres of pleasure ground to Uncle Sam as a national park. Then there are Gambler, Lazy Boy, Medicine Owl and Long-Time-Sleep, all of them have become the steadfast friends of the "See America First" tourist, more especially since their eye-opening trip into the precincts of civilization a year ago to attend the New York Land Show. These Indians had never dreamed there were so many white people in the country. The surging throngs on Broadway made the redmen dizzy, but they enjoyed the busy street scenes immensely.

Now they are back on the reservation on the border of the Switzerland of America, waiting for next summer to come, for they fully expect that all the people they met on their journey and invited to visit them will surely come to their mountain-land retreat and "make good medicine" with them.

No other national park in Uncle Sam's domain offers such opportunity of obtaining an intimate knowledge of the Indian and his home life. The highest honor the Piegans have to bestow upon the white people is their ceremony of adopting into their tribe those they take a liking to.

This same region of the Rockies also is much esteemed as fisherman's paradise. Inside the park proper is to be found some of the best trout fishing in the world. Expert dry fly exponents say so at least. The United States government has very wisely put a check upon the fisherman in these virgin waters, limiting the catch of each to twenty-five fish per day.

Most striking of all things about this wonderland upon the Roof of the Continent is that it seems to be one of the earth's notice-sources of longevity for man and wild beast alike. Many of the Piegans are very old men. Up there Wily Wimpuss, an Indian who enjoys the distinction of being one of the oldest living humans, was born. There, three years ago, White Calf and party of Indian hunters slew two of the oldest grizzlies ever taken in the Rocky Mountains, the skins of these animals being larger than any from the biggest buffalo this aged Indian has any recollection of, and he, still living, now is 131 years of age according to the best computation that can be made.

The most recent evidence that the Fountain of Youth flows from the Roof of the Continent comes in the presentation of the outside world by a big game hunting party, of horns of one of the oldest elk of which there is any history. These horns have a spread of nearly five feet. An Indian, who gives his age as 94, says that when he was a boy there was a gigantic elk the braves of his tribe used to seek, but which always eluded them until finally this mammoth animal came to be regarded reverently as a favorite of the Great Spirit sent forth to taunt the redmen. Maybe the two were the same, who can tell?

Scientists whose attention has been seriously drawn to the Fountain of Youth tales emanating from the Roof of the Continent are inclined to think there is more in the idea than mere Indian superstition. They declare it must be the aerated glacier water flowing from the heaven peaks that invigorates and prolongs the lives of man and beast. The reason they ascribe it to the water is because of the rejuvenating effect it has upon land which has been put under irrigation with it.

CIVIC SIDE OF DULUTH

More Lines of Civic and Social Endeavor Than Any City of Its Size.

Homecrofting and Playgrounds—Public Welfare a Special Study.

During the last ten years Duluth has undergone a remarkable civic awakening and is today the center of more lines of civic and social endeavor than any city of its size in the country. During this period these movements have been growing steadily and surely. They have been given hearty financial as well as moral support, for Duluth is a very wealthy city, having more millionaires than many cities twice as large.

The Duluth Commercial club has done good work in securing equitable rates from the railroads. It organized a traffic commission which went after the railroads and told them what the city wanted. The railroads came to time. When they did not the commission appealed to the interstate commerce commission. The greatest victory of the traffic commission was the grain rate case, decided in June of last year. Duluth was given rates that were only fair, but which had been withheld for years. The lake and rail case, yet to be decided, may have similar results.

Industrial problems were attacked by the Commercial club. It secured the best man it could find, Dr. B. M. Rastall, who planned the municipal reorganization of Milwaukee and headed the Wisconsin board of public affairs. Dr. Rastall has already brought new industries to Duluth, although he has not yet finished his first year of service, and others are on the'r way here. The Commercial club is spending $50,000 a year for the benefit of Duluth.

It has been only a few years since the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. were struggling along with little money. Then live citizens took hold and raised $150,000, with which a splendid home for the Y. M. C. A. was erected. Next Duluth furnished a $100,000 home for the Y. W. C. A. The old Bethel home, a frame building, had done good work but was sinking into oblivion when generous Duluth people furnished a building costing $50,000. The Bethel is doing better work than ever before.

The public health is safeguarded through the city's health department and outside organizations as thoroughly as anywhere in America, which is seen in Duluth's exceptionally low death rate. Duluth has a milk inspector, a meat inspector and a bakery inspector. The tuberculosis test is given to cows supplying the city's milk.

Two visiting nurses take care of tuberculosis patients. An assistant health commissioner looks out for contagious diseases. The board of education has three physicians and three visiting nurses. Duluth has its Associated Charities, with a paid secretary. The city also has the Duluth Humane society, doing good work.

Duluth has a board of public welfare, which is working in conjunction with St. Louis county for a work farm to which petty offenders will be sent instead of being confined in the county jail. This board has established a municipal lodging house for women, in charge of an experienced social worker. George H. Maxwell, two years ago, came to Duluth with his homecrofting movement and received a hearty welcome. Today several gardens are growing in this city where only one grew before. The head office of the American Homecrofting society is located in Duluth. The homecroft movement teaches the making of home gardens to reduce the cost of living.

Besides its beautiful parks, Duluth has playgrounds and civic centers scattered over the city and is planning to engage an eminent social worker to take charge of them. Manual training and domestic science are taught in the public schools. A movement is on foot to have home garden instruction made a part of the regular school work. The city regulates dance halls and has adopted a housing ordinance which safeguards the health and comfort of the people.

Duluth is awake and forging ahead fast along all lines of civic betterment. As it moves forward, Duluth is attracting attention throughout the country by its organized efforts to better the lot of the average citizen.

HOW DULUTH IS GROWING

Commercial Club Figures Ought to Make Every Citizen Proud.

Population Has Almost Doubled in Twelve Years; Very Low Death Rate.

Duluth's population in twelve years has increased from 52,490 to 85,000, estimated. The increase from 1900 to 1910 was 43.10 per cent. This is according to a comparative table of figures prepared by Roy B. Lewis, assistant secretary of the Commercial club. The death rate for the two-year period was below 11 per cent.

The table in question is being printed in pamphlet form and will be distributed broadcast throughout the country.

There are 15,113 pupils enrolled in the various public and private schools, while the value of school property has increased from $1,790,400 to $2,668,440. There are 38 school buildings. There are now 80,782 volumes in the public library as against 31,548 in 1900. The total circulation last year was 201,063 as compared with 89,981 volumes twelve years ago.

The valuation of the water and light plant is $4,088,092 as against $2,164,142, while the gross earnings were $562,400 as compared with $134,968. The number of cubic feet of gas consumed in 1912 was 325,416,140 as against 32,973,800 in 1900. The total gallons of water pumped at the stations was 2,791,709,445 as against 1,551,542,965.

There were 55.95 miles of paved streets in 1912 as compared with 28.4 in 1900. There were 114 miles of sewers as against 63.48. The park acreage has increased from 128 to 252 acres. There are now 16 acres of playgrounds and 12 miles of boulevard.

No space was devoted to playgrounds and there was no boulevard drive twelve years ago. The assessed valuation of city property is $49,184,429 as against $24,970,309 in 1900. The tax levy has jumped accordingly, however. It is now $816,355 as compared with $449,465. The city tax rate, however, has decreased during the 12-year period from 18 mills to 16.61. The total tax rate for all purposes is 35.3 mills as compared with 29.9 in 1900. It was 30.3 in 1910.

BANKS SHOW GREAT GAINS

Clearings Increase Nearly 25 Per Cent Over Previous Year.

Deposits Rise From Seven to Twenty-Nine Millions in Twelve Years.

Duluth has nine banks with a combined capital and surplus of $5,501,570. The increase of deposits during the past twelve years has been notable. In 1900 the deposits were $6,987,000, and today they are $29,234,000.

The American Exchange National, First National, City National, Northern National, St. Louis County, Duluth State, Central State, Western State and Citizens' are the nine banks of the city.

Being one of the great centers for the moving of grain, an important railroad center, with large and increasing pay rolls of a small army of railroad employes, a great mining center, and also the center for a vast logging industry, Duluth is one of the most important banking centers of the Northwest.

As indicative of the growing banking busines of this city, which is a clear and unmistakable index of the corresponding growth of business of varied descriptions, it is only necessary to examine and compare the bank clearings of a year ago, ending April, 1912, with the period ending April 1 last.

The clearings for the former period amounted to $185,209,312.88 as against $243,862,717.37 for the year ending April 1, 1913, a gain of $58,653,404.49 or nearly 25 per cent in one year. This healthy growth in the bank clearings of Duluth is equaled by the increase of business.

Following is a comparative statement of the bank clearings for the last two years:

St. Louis county is one of the largest and richest in the United States. It covers an area of 4,231,520 acres of land and water and its last assessed valuation of real estate and personal property was $311,583,370.

St. Louis county's million dollar courthouse is known as one of the imposing and prepossessing public buildings throughout the Northwest. The big granite structure has been the home of the St. Louis county offices and courts since Nov. 1, 1909.

The building is unique in many respects. It is the only public building of its size or cost ever conceived, planned and furnished in the remarkably short period of sixteen and one-half months. At the same time the cost was kept entirely within the $1,000,000 appropriation.

The courthouse commission to whom no little credit is due for the record time in which the building was erected, consisted of William C. Agnew, president; John Miller, P. J. Ryan, Neil McLaris and John Sundeen. Mr. Miller and Mr. Sundeen are dead.

HEADS CHILDREN'S COURT.

Judge Ensign's Long and Useful Career on the Bench.

The judiciary of Minnesota is honored by including among its members such men as Judge J. D. Ensign, who has graced the bench of the Eleventh district court for the last twenty-four years. His experience on the bench and at the bar long since led him to realize the need of a juvenile court in St. Louis county and it was largely through his influence that such a tribunal was established in May, 1905. Thereupon, he was appointed the first judge of this court and has since presided over the same, a circumstance which has unquestionably been a reformatory influence with many youthful offenders.

Judge Ensign was one of the earliest representatives of the bench and bar in Duluth, having commenced the practice of law here in February, 1870. During most of the intervening years, he has filled one or more positions of public trust. He was president of the village council for a time and, after the incorporation of the city, he filled several terms as mayor. For seven years he was a member of the school board.

of justice in many cases of prime importance. His reputation as a profound jurist is equalled by but few of his contemporaries in this state.

Previous to his elevation to the bench, Judge Cant practiced law in Duluth for eleven years, locating here soon after leaving the law school of the University of Michigan. In 1895-96 he served as city attorney and, in the former year, he was a member of the Minnesota house of representatives.

RANGE'S POPULAR JUDGE.

Appointed By Governor Johnson, Then Chosen By the People.

Judge Martin Hughes of Hibbing is the range judge of the St. Louis county district court and one of the most popular jurists on the bench.

He was born in Sheboygan county, Wisconsin, on March 18, 1867, and resided in that county until coming to Minnesota on Dec. 5, 1901. Ever since that time he has made his home at Hibbing.

He was appointed fourth judge of the district court by Governor Johnson on March 28, 1909, having the indorsement of the bar association of this district. He was elected to continue in office on Nov. 8, 1910.

Judge Dancer Had Long Practiced Law in Duluth.

In the spring of 1911, when the Minnesota legislature passed an act increasing the number of judges for the Eleventh judicial district from four to five, Herbert A. Dancer was unanimously endorsed by the bar association of the district for appointment as the fifth judge of the district and was appointed by the governor to fill that position until the next judicial election in 1912, at which time he was elected as his own successor.

Previous to his appointment to the bench, Judge Dancer had practiced law in Duluth for fourteen years and he was one of the best known and highest esteemed members of the legal fraternity. For the greater part of this period he was a member of the law firm of Baldwin, Baldwin & Dancer and his course as barrister and jurist has justified the confidence reposed in him.

ing the law departments of Columbian university and the University of California. He came to Duluth in the spring of 1893 and was admitted to the bar of Minnesota the same year. He was city attorney of Duluth 1904-1908 and 1910-1912, and was appointed in March of this year to succeed Judge Dibell as judge of the district court of the Eleventh judicial district.

He has been a resident of the county for thirty years and has been in the office of county auditor for twenty years. His faithful attention to duty has earned for him the title of being the best county auditor in the state.

AN EFFICIENT OFFICER.

As Sheriff John R. Meining Has Made Good.

There is probably no man in St. Louis county, who is better known than Sheriff John R. Meining, who is now serving a second term in that position. He gives exclusive attention to his official duties and has proven himself to be a faithful and efficient officer.

Mr. Meining has lived in Duluth for forty years, having settled here when the lake steamers provided the only means of transportation to and from this city. His first business venture was in the hardware line and he subsequently became traveling representa-

BUSINESS MAN REGISTER.

Charles Calligan Had a Good Training for the Office He Holds.

In November, 1912, Charles Calligan was elected to the office of register of deeds of St. Louis county. He has long been a citizen of Hibbing where his connection with official and business affairs secured for him a wide acquaintance and a familiarity with the interests of the public which are useful to him in the discharge of his present duties. He was formely in the employ of the Oliver Iron Mining company and later conducted a fire insurance agency at Hibbing, also dealing more or less in real estate. In the last named capacity, he acted as agent for several of the townsites contiguous to

For six years Mr. Calligan served as town clerk of the town of Stuntz and he also acted for some time as secretary of the Business Men's Credit Association of Hibbing.

Alex Fraser Has Lived in Duluth for Thirty-Two Years.

Few men in Duluth are as widely known as Alex. Fraser who is serving a second term as a member of the board of county commissioners. He was first elected to this position in 1908 and has been distinguished for the active interest he has displayed in road building and other improvements carried on in the county. He is familiar with most of the rural districts of the county and has participated in the organization of several townships. His disinterested efforts to promote the public welfare have met with general approval.

Mr. Fraser has lived in Duluth since 1881 and has witnessed the development of the city from a town of 4,500 people. Much of the intervening time he has spent in cruising and estimating timber. He has also traveled to some extent in different parts of the United States, Canada and Mexico, and has acquired a fund of general information which is useful alike to himself and his constituents.

Surveyor Dyer Seeks to Promote the Building of Roads.

A. E. Dyer is serving a second term as county surveyor, having been first elected to that position in the fall of 1910. He has long followed the profession of surveyor or civil engineer and is familiar with the geography and topography of the county and, in every way well qualified to discharge the duties of his office.

Mr. Dyer has been a resident of St. Louis county since 1891. Previous to 1904, his home was in Duluth. Since then it has been in Hibbing. Mr. Dyer is interested in the improvement of farm lands near that village and in common with other citizens of the county, seeks to promote the building of roads and the general development of the county's resources.

OWNS CUYUNA IRON LANDS.

Shop Foreman of Brainerd Placed His Savings to Good Advantage.

Erick Kronberg of Brainerd owns more than 3,000 acres of mineral lands on the Cuyuna iron range, and is vice president of the Northwestern Iron & Land company and a director of the Imperial Development company.

For twenty-three years Mr. Kronberg has been employed in the Northern Pacific railway shops at Brainerd. He is foreman of the air-brake department. Mr. Kronberg was one of the first men to realize the great possibilities of the Cuyuna iron range. Soon after its discovery he put the savings of years into promising iron lands, which have greatly enhanced in value and have made him wealthy.

Walter J. Smith Led State Ticket By Thousands of Votes.

Walter J. Smith, state treasurer of Minnesota, is from St. Louis county and a resident of Eveleth, a thriving city on the Mesaba Iron range. When elected state treasurer in 1910 Mr. Smith was mayor of Eveleth and its most popular citizen. He is so still and will always be "Walter" to everybody who knows him, unless he is elected governor, which is quite likely.

county, from Bellevue, Ohio, in 1893, as assistant cashier of the First National bank, now the First State bank. He was treasurer of Tower in 1894. In 1900 he went to Eveleth to be cashier of the First National bank. For three years he filled this responsible place and then he organized the Miners' National bank, of which he was chosen president, which office he still retains.

In 1910 Mr. Smith was nominated for state treasurer on the Republican ticket and was elected. He was renominated last fall and elected by an overwhelming majority, leading Governor Eberhart and all other candidates on the Republican ticket by many thousands of votes.

The state treasurer possesses a popularity not exceeded by any man in Minnesota and his friends expect he will be the next governor of the state, although Mr. Smith has not yet even intimated that he will be a candidate.

Mr. McKeon enjoyed liberal educational advantages, pursuing courses at Notre Dame university, Notre Dame, Ind., and at the University of Michigan, in each of which institutions he also took a prominent part in athletics. Later he was graduated from the Harvard law school and admitted to practice in Boston. He came to Duluth in 1891 and has been practicing in this city ever since.

for the metropolis of the Cuyuna iron range in the way of publicity, seeking to get the Soo line into Brainerd and working in other ways for the advancement of the foremost city in Central Minnesota.

George H. Gardner was born in Brainerd. His father was one of the first engineers to be employed by the Northern Pacific railroad. After his graduation from the law department of the University of Minnesota he practiced law in Brainerd from 1905 to 1909, leaving his practice for three years to be court reporter for Judge B. F. Wright, of the Fifteenth judicial district. In 1912 Mr. Gardner resumed practice in Brainerd. He has large holdings of mineral and farm lands in Crow Wing county and also owns property in Brainerd. Mr. Gardner is secretary of the Northwestern Iron & Land company, which will soon put several drills to work on its properties.

DULUTH A BIG BUTTER MARKET

Handled 4,000,000 Pounds Last Year and Paid Farmers $1,200,000.

While much is said from time to time about Duluth as a great shipping point for grain and iron ore, comparatively few people know of the vast importance of the Zenith City as a butter market. Duluth is the home of the house that handles more butter than any other business concern in the Northwest. This is the Bridgeman-Russell company. This company is unequalled in the scope of its butter business by any other establishment in Minnesota, Wisconsin, North Dakota or South Dakota.

The Bridgeman-Russell company manufactured last year more than 4,000,000 pounds of creamery butter. The butter was not all made in Duluth, but more than half of it was, and it was all handled at Duluth. More than 100 car loads of this butter was shipped from Duluth, some going to Canada, and the rest to various destinations in this country, mostly to Atlantic coast points, where a considerable amount was taken by exporters.

The company has nine points, at which its creamery butter is manufactured, all in this state. The creameries are located at Duluth, Crookston, Wahkon, Gilman, Brunswick, Pierz, Foley, Princeton and Pine City. Another creamery is being instituted by the company at Hancock, Mich., to supply butter to the Copper country.

For the production of the 4,000,000 pounds of creamery butter that the company made and disposed of last year, it was necessary to obtain 1,600,000 gallons of cream. The house has skimming plants for the production of cream at Pine City, East Rock, Danewood, Bodum, Harris and Sunrise, all in Minnesota. Much of the cream, however, is bought in that form from the farmers, who do their own skimming.

The Bridgeman-Russell company has set other companies the example of paying cash for cream. Some years ago farmers who were not located within driving distance of any creamery were obliged to make their cream into butter on their own farms. If they wished to realize upon it, and to sell it as they could. Now, any farmer can ship his cream directly to any of the butter manufacturing plants that this company has established and a check will be mailed to him as soon as the cream is received. Thus every farmer who ships his cream to any of these plants may obtain cash for it. There is no limit on the amount that he can ship. The butter-makers will take it all. His cream is thus as good as the ready money to him. Estimating 30 cents per pound of butter fat as the average price paid the farmer for his milk or cream in a year—and that is a decidedly low estimate—this company pays out to the farmers for cream for the manufacture of butter, a total of $1,200,000 annually.

The country about Duluth is admirably adapted to the production of milk. The rich soil, excellent grasses, pure water and cool climate are all favorable to the production of strong, healthy, vigorous cattle. Cattle thrive much better in such a climate as that of Minnesota than in one that is warmer. Only a small portion of this region is developed as a dairy country. Most of the cream used to manufacture the vast amount of butter that the company handles comes from seventy-five miles or more away from Duluth.

BIG GAS CHANDELIER.

Popular Mechanics: A gas chandelier used in illuminating the interior of an immense auditorium in Atlanta, Ga., is claimed to be one of the largest ever made for gas lighting. The fixture is 10 feet high, has a diameter of 13 feet, weighs 1,000 pounds, and uses 15 lamps that produce 10,680 cp. from a gas consumption of 275 cubic feet per hour.

TYPICAL HOMES IN DULUTH.

GAS MEANS CLEANLINESS AND ECONOMY

GREAT INCREASE IN THE USE OF GAS IN DULUTH.

The sales of gas in the city of Duluth have increased from 72,000,000 to 333,000,000 cubic feet per annum, or 360 per cent, in the last ten years. In 1903 there were in use 507 gas ranges, about 100 water heaters and 2,418 gas meters. Today there are in use 5,579 gas ranges, 2,655 water heaters and 8,698 gas meters.

What has wrought this great increase? It has been broadly advertised that A GAS RANGE IS A COAL RANGE WITH A COLLEGE EDUCATION. Every housekeeper who has ever used a gas range will always want to use one. The greatest feature of a gas range is its uniform heat the instant you desire to cook. You have no long wait for your coal range to become hot enough to bake when you use gas. TURN ON THE GAS AND A MATCH WILL DO THE REST, without the annoyance of coal dust and ashes. GAS IS CLEAN AND ECONOMICAL as well.

The leading hotels in Duluth use gas in their kitchens. The Spalding, the New St. Louis Hotel, the Hotel McKay, the Boston Lunch and Miller's Cafeteria are the largest users of gas in their line.

EVERY OWNER OF A GAS RANGE SHOULD BE THE OWNER OF A GAS WATER HEATER, which is an absolute necessity in Duluth owing to the coldness of the water of Lake Superior, from which Duluth derives its water supply. The most economical way to heat water is with gas, using a heater such as the Duluth 22 water heater, which is made in Duluth.

ANOTHER IMPORTANT DEVELOPMENT IS THE DULUTH 88 HOUSE HEATER, also made in this city. This house heater can be attached to any hot water or steam furnace and will heat an ordinary six or eight-room house during the spring, summer and fall months at a very nominal cost. During the last two weeks of April a six-room flat was heated for two weeks, with an average outside temperature of 44 degrees, at a cost of 20 cents per day. An eight-room house was heated during the same period for an average of 22 cents per day.

GAS LIGHTING HAS BEEN DEVELOPED TO SUCH A WONDERFUL DEGREE that it is conceded by scientists to be the softest and best light for the eyes. It has been proven that with the Welsbach mantle there is less strain on the eyes than with any other light. In Duluth a great many gas arc lamps are on rental, doing service in 75 different kinds of businesses. The fact that 4,000 reflex lights have been installed in residences in Duluth the past two seasons shows that the merits of gas lighting are very generally appreciated in Duluth.

With the co-operation of the Water and Light Department, the Zenith Furnace Company on January 1 established a free residence inspection service. Its inspectors call at every residence periodically and adjust all gas appliances free of charge. They also carry with them a supply of standard mantles and glassware, so that should any lamp be out of order they can fix it at once, the only charge being the regular price charged in the stores.

Gas Ranges are on sale by FRENCH & BASSETT CO., R. R. FORWARD & CO., QUAYLE-LARSEN CO., F. S. KELLY CO., ANDERSON FURNITURE CO., GLASS BLOCK STORE and other dealers.

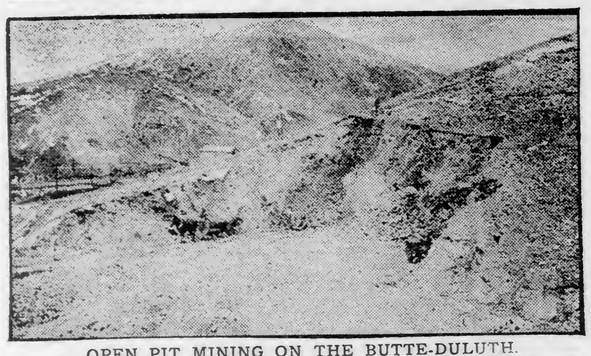
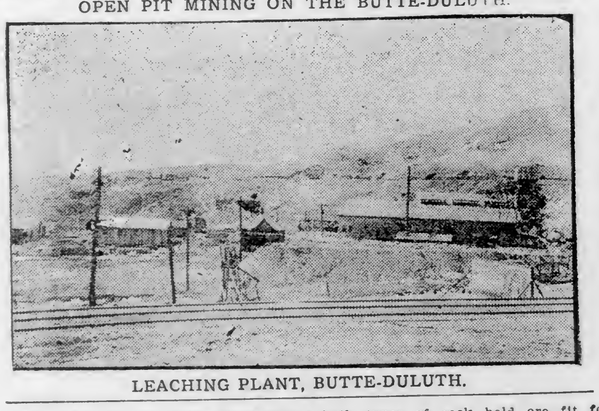
BUTTE & DULUTH OUTPUT GAINS



OPEN PIT MINING ON THE BUTTE-DULUTH.



LEACHING PLANT, BUTTE-DULUTH.

CAPTAIN A. B. WOLVIN CONFIDENT OF PROFITABLE RESULTS FROM NEW PROCESS

In an interview May 10, at Butte, Captain Wolvin had this to say of Butte & Duluth:

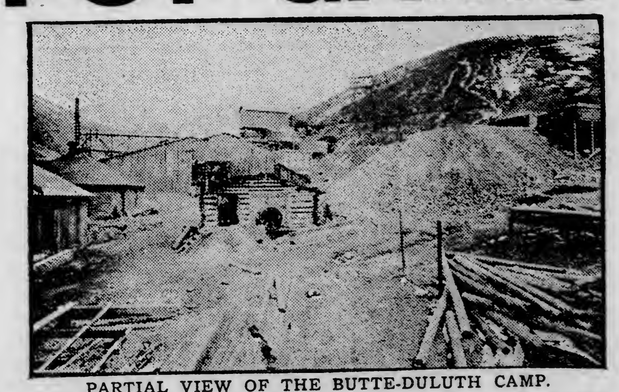
"The report upon the property and operations of the Butte & Duluth Mining company as made by Walter Harvey Weed, under date of April 16, is considered conservative but fair. The ground is now opened up so that any one visiting the property can readily form an opinion as to the ore in sight; also the possibilities of future development of large tonnage.

"While it is true that the mill was put in operation during February, the usual difficulties incident to starting a new plant had to be overcome, and with the result the continuous operation did not begin until April 10, and the operating figures fully verify the prediction contained in this report. Since that date the mill has been in practically steady daily operation on an average of 80 tons per day, at a total cost of $2.35 per ton of ore for mining and milling.

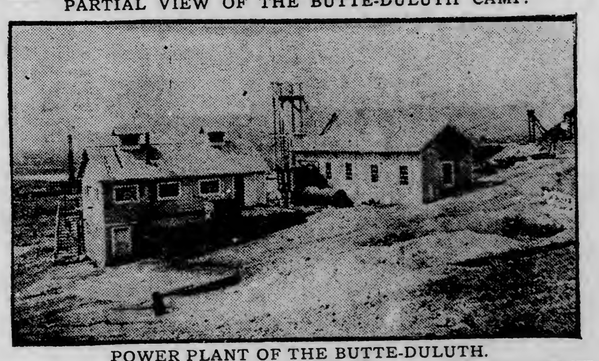
"The work of increasing the capacity of the plant is now going on and by May 15 next it is expected it will be operating upon a basis of fully 200 tons per day, and based upon present operating costs, it is clearly evident that the plant will at that rate produce finished copper at less than 7 cents per pound.

"The installation of a plant of 1,000 tons per day capacity of ore permits the introduction of mechanical appliances for its operation and the management is confident that upon that basis of operation, copper will be produced at the rate of $1.50 per ton of ore, or 5 cents per pound of finished copper.

"The average assay of a car of finished product we are now shipping is 99.784 per cent copper."



PARTIAL VIEW OF THE BUTTE-DULUTH CAMP.



POWER PLANT OF THE BUTTE-DULUTH.

WALTER HARVEY WEED, THE NOTED MINING ENGINEER, REPORTS ON THE BUTTE & DULUTH MINING COMPANY AS FOLLOWS:

This property comprising the group of claims commonly known as the Montgomery or Brundy group, with an area of practically sixty-seven acres, is situated in the southeasterly section of the Butte camp immediately to the south and east of the Pittsmont mine of the East Butte Copper company.

The principal area of the property lies in two hills immediately to the north and south of Horse Canyon and is readily accessible by the street railway line to Columbia Gardens which runs through this canyon.

GEOLOGIC FEATURES.

The tract is underlain by granite which in the flat ground is deeply covered by sandy wash but on the hillsides comes to the surface of the ground. It is peculiar mineralization of this granite with the oxidized ores of copper which gives the property its greatest immediate value, since the green and copper coated rock is peculiarly amenable to leaching by sulphuric acid without the great loss of acid which occurs when most copper ores are treated by this process.

The granite of the claims holds intrusive masses and segregations of aplite which grades into quartz, and both types of rock hold ore fit for leaching. In the aplite the values lie mainly in seams, while in the Butte granite in this ground the entire mass of the rock is impregnated with copper minerals.

These rocks are cut by silver and copper-bearing veins and also by a great zone of fissuring known as the Bullwhacker fault. This fault is traceable, and is ore-bearing, for a distance of over 3,000 feet; from Park Canyon to and including the Montgomery claim of this company. It has a workable width as shown by mining operations on the Birtha and Bullwhacker mines of 60 to 100 feet. On the Montgomery claim it is mineralized for a width of 176 feet.

The veins of the Pittsmont mine are also known to extend eastward nearly to the boundaries of the tract and workable veins have been developed in the underground workings of the Altona and Montgomery shafts of this property.

VALUE OF PROPERTY.

The value of the property is due to: First, the large tonnage of workable oxidized ore in the south ore body, on the Macarona and Altona claims. Second, to the ore along the Bullwhacker fault; and third, to the veins known, and to be developed by underground mining in the claims. This last item is one that cannot be estimated quantitatively though its value might easily equal, if it does not surpass, that of the surface ore zone.

The first item is the one of most importance at the present time on account of the amount available and of the successful treatment of this ore in the leaching plant. As the value of this ore depends not only on its assay value and tonnage but also on the cost of extraction I have investigated the manner and cost of treatment as well as the amount of ore available for leaching.

COST OF TREATMENT.

The company books, all bills and payrolls, assay records and smelter returns have been freely placed at my disposal. I am confident that the figures given are correct and reliable; from them I find that the total cost of operating, including mining, crushing, milling, labor, repairs, supplies, acid, power and overhead costs amount to $221 per day or $2.21 per ton of ore mined and milled and put into finished copper product ready for the market, on a basis of 100 tons per day. The work now being done will undoubtedly be bettered as experience is gained, but from the actual costs at the present time on a 100-ton a day basis treating a 2 per cent ore, the plant will pay all operating costs. Handling 200 tons a day of the same grade of ore it will produce copper at a cost of 7 cents a pound.

The assay records show that the ore treated since the plant has been installed averages 2.10 per cent copper. The tails ran quite high during the first month of operation and the extraction was 70 per cent. For the month of April the tails contain about four-tenths of one per cent, giving an extraction of 80 per cent, or a recovery of thirty-two pounds of copper from each ton of ore treated.

TONNAGE.

The South Orebody on the Altona and Macarona claims, has been well exposed by open quarry work, pits and trenches. It is penetrated by the Altona shaft and its downward extension shown by two tunnels driven into the hillside at the north, and by workings along the south side line. The surface has been staked off in forty-foot squares and the elevations determined.

While these facts are not sufficient for an accurate calculation of the ore in the hill the data serves for a fairly reliable estimate. The evidence shows that one may assume an average thickness of fifty-foot ore as a safe basis for calculation, and the tonnage figured with this as a factor corresponds well with that made by figuring each forty-foot block separately and taking the total. The calculated amount of ore above the tunnel level is a trifle over 1,000,000 tons with a further tonnage possible, as the ore is known to go deeper in at least some places. This estimate does not, of course, take into account the tonnage of leachable ore along the Bullwhacker fault on the north side of Horse canyon.

COPPER CONTENT OF THE ORE.

The copper content of the ore has been estimated from the heads sampled as the ore comes from the crusher; from the assays of samples cut at five-foot intervals by the engineers of the mine in the tunnels, and similar samples from the faces of the open cuts and pits. The mill samples represent thirty-ton lots; the others cannot be figured out on a foot-per cent basis but can only be averaged. The result is exactly the same as the average of the Mill feed, namely 2.10 per cent. The lower grade of some parts of the ore body in depth will be counterbalanced by the high grade as shown by the samples of the tunnels.

THE MONTGOMERY ORE BODY.

The Montgomery claim contains a large amount of ore suitable for the leaching plant, but the development work on the claim, though extensive, does not afford adequate data for an exact determination of ore reserve or even for a reliable estimate.

CONCLUSIONS.

From the evidence submitted herein, I consider the value of the South Orebody alone as now being worked is sufficient to warrant the bond issue of $500,000.

This excludes the value of the ore in the Montgomery claim and does not take into the account the additional values of oxidized ores, suitable for leaching which will undoubtedly be found in both the hills of the property; the prospective value of the east and west veins of the property must also be considered as an asset of large amount.

WALTER HARVEY WEED.

Butte, Mont., April 16, 1913.

GOOD CITY GOVERNMENT

Duluth Ruled By a Commission of Five Men Subject to Recall.

Public Ownership Made Easy and Franchises Strictly Controlled.

Duluth entered the list of "commission plan" cities the middle of last month. More properly speaking, it entered the list on Jan. 2, but as the election for the offices of mayor and commissioners was not held until April 1, and those elected did not take hold until April 14, the latter date is the actual one, the old council holding on until that time.

Previous to the date mentioned Duluth has been under the old council system like most cities. A mayor, a treasurer, a city comptroller and sixteen councilmen were elected, each holding office for two years. Then there were innumerable departments to fill. Only the treasurer and the comptroller gave their entire time to the places to which they were elected, the others appearing when necessary.

Under the commission form this is all changed. The mayor and four commissioners are each paid $4,000 a year and must devote their entire time to the service of the city. There is no council other than that formed by the five members of the commission. There are five city departments over each of which one commissioner has sway and is responsible for. Of course, this division of work does not preclude the right of the other members of the commission to interfere and even take peremptory measures if the work of the commissioner in charge of a department does not suit the rest. The departments are divided as follows:

Division of public affairs, division of finance, division of public works, division of public safety and division of public utilities.

It is claimed that the commission system eliminates party politics, bosses and machines and the recent election seemed to bear out that contention. Nominations for office are made by citizen petitioners and not in caucus; preferential voting elects the officials, each elector being given an opportunity to vote for first, second and third choices for each office; ward lines are established; the terms of office are for four years each, except at the beginning, when two of the commissioners are elected for only two years.

It is believed that under the present form of government the men that make the laws will be directly reponsible for their enforcement.

The features of the old charter believed to be the best have been retained, such as limiting the city debt to 5 per cent of its assessed valuation, limiting the annual tax rate to 13 mills on the dollar, prohibiting the incurring of an obligation or contract unless there is money in sight to pay the bill, keeping the city on a cash basis, retaining the civil service provisions, forbidding city officials to be interested directly or indirectly with city contracts, limiting all public service franchises to twenty-five years and making them subject to referendum, and retaining the initiative, referendum and recall.

Under the new charter the city can make its own improvements if it is thought best instead of having to call for bids, and a public improvement may be made at the expense of property owners without a petition, stoppable only by 25 per cent of the property owners owning 25 per cent of the property affected protesting within sixty days. The budget system is simplified, municipal ownership is made easy, franchises are more strictly controlled and the payment of special assessments for public improvements is made mandatory on railroads.

THE FARMER'S CALL ISSUES A WARINNG.

The Farmers' Call, Quincy, Ill.: Land buyers from the United States that are now placing their money in Western Canada, for example, would much better invest on this side of the line, say in Minnesota or Wisconsin. It is to be regretted that the very extensive advertising of certain lands has led to a boom that must prove a disappointment and loss to many, while such lands as those that are to be found in Minnesota have been comparatively neglected. The wise man buys lands not where the extensive and shrewd advertising of railroads and land agents have produced a boom and inflated prices, but where moderate prices for fertile lands are combined with a steady growth and development.

HE CUTS FOUR TONS OF HAY TO THE ACRE.

I settled on my land in section 29-57-18, town of Clinton, eighteen years ago and I have lived here ever since. I have about sixty acres of cleared and cultivated land, cleared of stumps, of which the most is red Minnesota clover and some timothy.

I keep a stock of cattle and some sheep and they all do well. I have raised all kinds of vegetables and root crops, such as potatoes, turnips, carrots, etc., and they did exceptionally well. I cut two crops of hay every year, about four tons to the acre and then have good fall pasture after the second crop is taken off.

BY ROBERT BRUCE LIGGETT,
Sporting Editor.

One might call Duluth the ideal home for both summer and winter sports through adaptation and adoption. We are bountifully supplied with all kinds of adaptation; the grandest winters in this section of the universe give free rein to hockey, skiing and curling, three of the cardinal pastimes of the white mantled months, while the invigorating air of our unsurpassable summers and long and glorious falls provide full opportunity for baseball, boating, golf and football. As to adoption, the people of this city are a peculiarly sport-loving sect, and they have adopted with vigor and rare enthusiasm all of those sports, making the year-round calendar.

One is puzzled in setting down the sport most popular among the people of Duluth. We have what has been christened as the finest curling club in the world. Then leaping blithely from this pastime of grim winter to a sport of be-muslined and zephry summer, it might be also stated that the Zenith City proudly impresses her visitors with the fact that there is to be found one of the largest fresh water boat clubs in the country.

Our curling club has a membership of some 1,000 lovers of the grand old Scotch game. The home represents an outlay of about $125,000 and is ideally fitted both for the comfort of the members and for the latest improved methods of curling under the most advantageous conditions. For years Duluth has been the scene of the Northwestern international bonspiels and it may be regarded as the great home of curling on this side of the international boundary line.

Rowing has long been recognized as one of the leading athletic sports of Duluth. The Duluth Boat club, organized years ago, has supported along with St. Paul, Minneapolis, Winnipeg, Port Arthur and Kenora, the rowing game in this section of the country—not only this, but there is no city in the United States the size of Duluth that boasts so many devotees of rowing and canoeing in the general sense, as a membership of some 1,400 on the books of the Duluth Boat club, well attests.

Looking back over the gentle roll of the years, it is apparent to the observer that Duluth has been looked upon as the home of the ski sport in the Northwest. On the famous old Chester Park hill, which has combined the ingenuity of man with the work of nature to construct one of the longest ski jumps in the country, some of the greatest riders of the world have competed for glory and prizes.

Tourists have traveled for many hundred of miles to look with awe and wonder upon one of these great ski contests. One sees a typical scene in the throbbing and vigorous life of the strident West at one of these distinctly unique events.

Here mingles the latter day Viking, the blonde haired race of those countries of the North, with the men of the country he has come to look upon as his home. At the great National tournaments long black, tortuous lines of humanity, almost cosmopolitan in its many sided individualism, form at the precipitous take off, where daring riders leap forth, dizzily silhouetted against the clear blue of the horizon.

Duluth has been the scene of several of the annual regattas of the Northwestern International Rowing association. It has, as told above, been in the past looked upon as the home of skiing. For many years the annual Northwestern Bonspiel has been held here, so the reader can catch clearly the standing of this city in the world of sports.

In addition to this the Zenith City has been the scene of some of the greatest wrestling contests in the world. Two legitimate world's champion contests were wrestled out here, bringing from the remote section of the state, tucked up under the lee of the boundary line, hordes of fans, for be it said that we have real and enthusiastic sportsmen in this part of the country; men with red blood, patrons of athletic pastimes who travel miles to witness a contest of strength, agility and science.

One might permit enthusiasm to gain the mastery of the pen, thus wandering on indefinitely in this prolific field. But space is limited, and one can only hint at the standing Duluth has as one of the great sport centers of the Northwest.

We have told briefly of skiing, curling, boating, etc. It might be added that the Zenith City has a prosperous and progressive golf club, and that Duluth has been privileged to hold one of the state tournaments. Each year a team is sent to the state tourney and in the future it is the ambition of the Northland club to be a successful bidder for the Western Golf tournament.

Baseball we have; better baseball we are going to realize, unless all signs go amiss. Duluth is now leagued with St. Paul, Minneapolis, Winnipeg, Superior, Grand Forks, Winona and Virginia. Some day our dreams lead us into the elysian fields of the American association, but that is, as old Kipling so often has said—"another story."

While we have failed to add this in its logical position, considering sports purely as to their seasons, it would be manifestly unfair not to include in the symposium of this article some reference to hockey. Truly this is one of the members of the winter sports family, and surely it has come into its happy own in Duluth during the past year.

The American amateur championship contest was played off at the new curling club home during the past winter, Duluth and Houghton competing for the title. During the initial season of big hockey sport the pastime became a rage with the good citizens of this old town.

Duluth, in moments of fervid eloquence called the Zenith City of the Unsalted Seas, is a happy, willing patron of all sports that appeal to the sense of fairness and to the intelligent sense of interest. Duluth is recognized as one of the great homes of both winter and summer sports; a city where athletic activity of varied lines receives substantial support.

But this article, devoted to the noble subject of sports, would be most incomplete were it to end without speaking of the great water carnivals that have been features of the summers of several seasons past.

It was the idea of the officials and members of the Duluth Boat club to give a pageant; something faintly suggestive of the dancing lights, the softly dying shadows, the color and grandeur of that nightly spectacle of Venice. And they builded better than they knew. From a sudden inspiration the carnival has grown to be one of the annual fetes of Duluth and has come to be looked upon as another of those pastimes typical of the pleasures of our citizens.

And so as the great ski meets typify the winter pleasures of the people of a northern city, so, too, does this romantic fete, this pageant of canoes, decorated boats, brilliant light effects, fit in and become a part of the summer sports of Duluth.

One can look forward to the time that this annual water carnival, embracing not only the parade of floats and dancing canoes, but races and aquatic contests of varied description, is to become to Duluth what the Mardi Gras has become to New Orleans, or what the rose carnival has come to mean to Portland, Or.

Plans are already being directed to the end that the carnival of the boat club shall assume a broader and more ambitious scale. In the not distant future it is believed that the city will actively co-operate with the officials and members of the Duluth Boat club, and working in complete harmony and thorough understanding with the railroads and steampship lines, will make the Duluth water carnival an event that will bring annually thousands of visitors to this city.

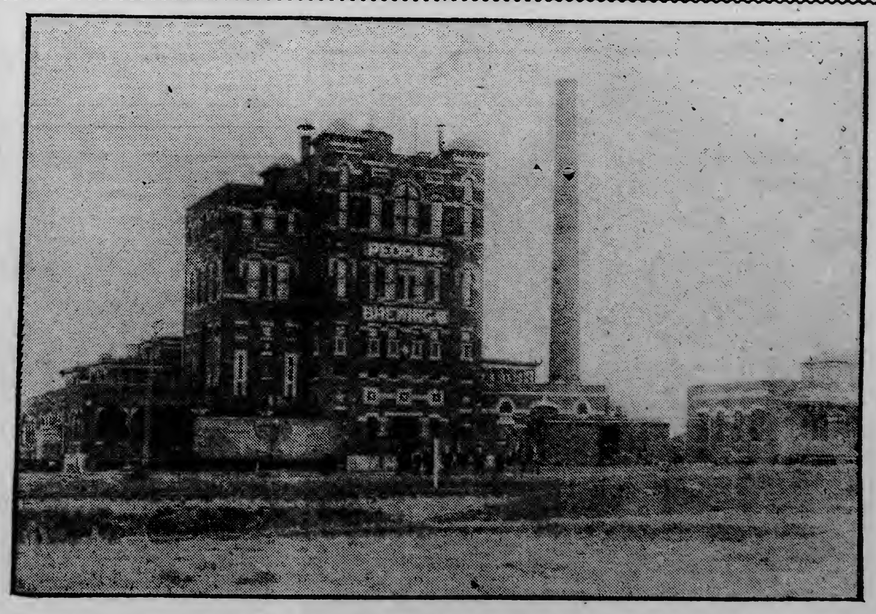
PEOPLE'S BREWING COMPANY



Since its inception, less than five years ago, the People's Brewing Company of Duluth has had a rapid growth and now ships its product in large quantities to all parts of Northern Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin. Duluth is famous for its beer—and the People's is one of its best brews. From the beginning it has been the policy of the People's Brewing company that its business should be founded on merit and its fast increasing business shows that this progressive policy pays. The company paid its fourth annual dividend last month.

This large and growing brewery was built by capital from Duluth and the iron ranges, tributary to this city. In the construction of the buildings every sanitary appliance in the brewing of pure beer was installed and the People's is a model brewery as a result.

Only the best grains and hops go into People's beer, which has much to do with its popularity. The brew master and his principal assistants came from Germany, where brewing has been reduced to an art. People's beer has the most careful attention of trained brewers from the mixing of the materials, during the process of brewing and aging, and until it is bottled and labeled. The demand for it comes from an ever widening territory.

Frank Sandstedt was the first president of the People's Brewing company and his administration was so satisfactory that the stockholders have re-elected him every year since. C. M. Forest is vice president, Theodore Frerker, secretary, and M. Gleason, treasurer. These gentlemen and Messrs. Charles Peterson, Frank Horgan, M. J. Doyle, Henry Tomfohr, and A. Hendricks, constitute the board of directors.

COOLEST CITY IN SUMMER

Duluth's Many Advantages for the Holding of Conventions.

Two Fine Convention Halls, One Seating 6,000, the Other 2,500.

BY ROBERT BRUCE LIGGETT.

In many respects Duluth is the ideal summer convention city of the United States. There are facts to back this assertion, many of them the most important of which is the weather. You naturally desire to be cool at a public gathering and of all the cities of this country Duluth offers by far the greatest inducements in this regard.

Taking the average mean temperature for June, July and August for the last forty years it will be found that the grand average of 66 deg. represents the hottest weather for the hottest month of the year—July—at the lake cooled Zenith City.

During the forty years in question the mean average for June has been 58 deg. and that of August 64 deg. These official figures will clearly show that while other cities of the country are sweltering in the torrid heat of the summer months, Duluth is enjoying about the most delightful weather that can possibly be imagined.

Here is another pertinent recommendation for Duluth as the premier summer convention city—it has the greatest possible hours of sunshine. Comparing Duluth with nineteen other cities over the length and breadth of the country, it will be found, through the United States weather bureau, that while the mean highest temperature reached in many of these cities in July runs well over the 80 deg. mark, the mean highest mark for one single day here is 75 deg.

But there are other qualifications that this young and growing city can offer in addition to its ideal summer weather. One might enumerate briefly that it is at the head of fresh water navigation, and that it offers to sightseers a view from the deck of an observation steamer of the greatest ore docks in the world, the largest coal docks in the world and also the greatest fresh water fleet of lake vessels in the world, as well as a beautiful city on a hillside.

The greatest iron ore mines in the universe lie some 100 miles northwest of Duluth. It is a trip of only a few hours to these wonderful mines, and here the visitor to Duluth will be shown the mining of ore out of the bowels of the earth or the iron being taken from the comparative surface of the earth by means of steam shovels.

Surrounded by beauty's most gorgeous attire, possessing points of historic interest that set it apart from any city of the Northwest, Duluth appeals to convention goers as a city ideally fitted by nature to be their summer host. Woods, water and the azure beauty of the Northern skies combine to bid the visitor welcome.

With the construction of the new home of the Duluth Curling club, Duluth has an auditorium most perfectly suited to the needs of large conventions. This hall will seat comfortably 6,000 people, and, situated on a spot of ground rising abruptly from the shore of Lake Superior, the vast auditorium is cooled by the gentle breezes of the largest body of fresh water in the world.

In addition to the Curling club there is the Duluth Auditorium, also a new building, a spacious hall, with fine acoustic properties, near all hotels and depots, seating some 2,500 people. Besides these two large buildings, there are theaters and other halls.

There is no city of its size in the country that is qualified to furnish the convention visitor with more comfortable hotel accommodations than Duluth. It has five fine and thoroughly modern hotels. The Spalding is one of the best hotels in the West, noted for its service, for its incomparable fish dinners and its commanding view of Lake Superior and the greatest inland harbor in the world.

The New St. Louis hotel, "in the heart of Duluth," as it advertises truthfully, is popular with all classes and has been greatly improved during the last year under its new management. Like the Spalding, it affords a superb view of the lake. The Woodland cafe of the New St. Louis is beautiful and commands the admiration of the guests. The St. Louis is noted for its food and service.

The Hotel McKay is an institution in Duluth. W. A. McKay has made it famous for its excellent meals and service, its home-like atmosphere and pleasant surroundings. The McKay faces Duluth's civic center and has a fine outlook upon the courthouse and postoffice lawns.

The Hotel Holland is a splendid new structure, ten stories tall and fireproof throughout. It is beautifully furnished and has many rooms with private baths. Rooms on two sides look out on Lake Superior. Its cuisine and service are in keeping with the general high character of the Holland.

There are many other hotels at moderate prices.

Convention visitors to the Zenith City will find easy means of becoming acquainted with the points of interest in and about Duluth. An information bureau has been installed for the very purpose of answering all questions of the visitor and giving him literature descriptive of Duluth and surrounding points of interest. Conveyances of all descriptions, from the proverbial seagoing hack, to the large carry-all and tally-ho and big automobiles line the streets during the summer months, and carry on a thriving business in showing the visitor the points of special interest.

With its ideal summer weather—weather that seldom knows the torture of a 90-in-the-shade day; with its literally thousand points of scenic and romantic interest, Duluth is without a rival as the ideal convention city. Duluth is the coolest city in the United States in summer.

This balanced herd is maintained to properly equalize the milk under certified milk requirements.

All Trianon Milk Is in Bottles Bearing This Registered Trade-Mark (T)

Read What Two Members of the State Dairy Department Say About the Trianon Dairy and the Purity of Its Milk:

Dr. E. L. Cheney says:

"As a member of the state milk inspection department I can state that the Trianon dairy is the most fully equipped and in this regard the best dairy in the city of Duluth, if not in this part of the country. The milk tests have shown a low bacterial count and the sanitary precautions are the most thorough and painstaking. In respect to this model dairy Mr. Sebenius is deserving of credit, as he has set an example for other dairies of Duluth to follow. The hard task is to keep the milk pure during the summer months, and the tests show that during all of last summer the bacterial count of the milk of the Trianon dairy was very low, which attests the care exercised in the handling of it."

Dr. Olin W. Rowe, also a member of the state milk inspection department, says:

"I am familiar with the work of the Trianon dairy and do not hesitate to pronounce it one of the very best in this city and also one of the best in the Northwest. In material equipment it is a model, while every sanitary precaution is exercised in the labor of preparing the milk for delivery to the public. Repeated tests have shown the bacterial count of the milk to be very low, thus proving the good quality of it and, more important still, its thoroughly healthy state. Low bacterial count is the surest indication of healthy milk, and by this medium of infallible test the milk of the Trianon dairy has stood consistently high."

Nearly All of the 130 Women Have Left the City.

Most of Houses Have Been Stripped of Their Furnishings.

No Chance of Reopening Under the New State Law.

Duluth's historic red light district, notorious along St. Croix avenue for decades, is in the last throes of its death struggle.

The women who were there until the last week or two to the number of 130 have nearly all gone, scattered in all directions. Some have stopped as near as Superior. Others have sought the ranges and other nearby towns. Some have gone to Chicago, Milwaukee and other Eastern cities.

The women who kept the larger establishments have stripped their properties, even down to pulling off the window shades, leaving only a few empty bottles, a stray cigarette butt or two and a few beer caps as mementoes of their occupancy. They have either stored or shipped their furniture, draperies and furnishings and sought other municipalities, either to re-establish themselves in the nefarious traffic or to seek locations where they think they can thrive.

Last week the police reports showed that scarcely fifty inmates remained in the houses still in operation below the deadline. Most of these were bunched in half a dozen places, such as were commonly frequented by the lumberjacks and laborers who came into Duluth to spend their "stakes" in a wild round of dissipation and debauch.

The red light district hated to give up the ghost. The houses where the beer used to flow and the music tinkle along with the twinkle of the scarlet lights, until Old Sol poked his nose over the eastern horizon of Lake Su-

Delegates are here from the Twin Cities, Shakopee, Belle Plaine, Jordan, Le Sueur, St. Peter and other points along the line. Senator H. N. Benson of St. Peter is president of the association, and John H. Hohmann of Mankato is secretary.

The meeting today is also in the nature of a celebration of the establishment of the road, for which the Federal government contributed $25,000.

TRAINS GOING FULL TILT MEET HEAD ON

Engineers Are Killed But Passengers in Steel Cars Escape Death.

Brant, Mo., May 27.—Two engineers were killed and several other persons, including a number of passengers, were injured in a head-on collision between passenger trains No. 11, westbound, and No. 12, eastbound, on the Missouri Pacific railway, near here, early today. The dead:

ALBERT FORD, engineer, Sedalia, Mo.

ELIJAH McLAUGHLIN, engineer, Sedalia, Mo.

No. 11 and No. 12 were twin trains, the two fast mails between St. Louis and Kansas City. At 11:30 last night No. 11 left St. Louis and No. 12 left Kansas City.

The trains were to have passed on a siding at McGirk, Mo., the first station east of Brant. No. 11 failed to wait at McGirk. Going at a high rate of speed the two locomotives crashed into each other. Both were demolished and the engineers crushed and scalded.

The trains, alike in makeup, consisted of three steel mail cars, a chair car, a dining car and four sleeping cars.

DEADLOCK HOLDS IN PEACE TREATY PLANS

European Powers Seek to Get Action By the Balkan States.

London, May 27.—A plan is under discussion here for solving the deadlock in regard to the signature of the peace treaty between Turkey and the Balkan states.

The European powers recommend that those states which are ready, sign Sir Edward Grey's draft treaty without waiting for their allies. It is pointed out that Bulgaria could thus conclude terms with Turkey, and the powers could then devote their attention to inducing the recalcitrant states to sign.

Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign minister, received the peace delegates separately today and urged them to sign the draft treaty, but the Greek delegates replied that they must refer the question to their government.

SAYS FRIEDMANN SERUM IS VERY DANGEROUS

DR. WM. JOHNSTON BEATTIE.

New York, May 27.—Dr. William Johnston Beattie, an American physician who spent several months studying in the laboratory of Dr. Max Piorkowski of Berlin, who, he claims, is the real discoverer of the "turtle serum" now being exploited by Dr. Friedmann, declares that instead of being harmless the "turtle serum" is extremely dangerous when used in the treatment of advanced cases of tuberculosis. Dr. Beattie says that if Dr. Friedmann keeps up his indiscriminate treatments, he will have a lot of funerals on his hands. Dr. Beattie believes that the "turtle serum" is a wonderful discovery and that it will cure the disease if taken in the elementary stages. The doctor is from New Hampshire.

No confirmation was obtainable of the report received from London that Emperor William is to visit Portsmouth in August, escorted by a squadron of German warships.

CITY BONDS MUST BE SOLD

Improvements Costing $90,000 Are Outlined for Water and Light System.

Work Held Up Pending Placing of $100,000 Bond Issue.

Over $90,000 of improvements and a number of extensions for the water and light department are in abeyance pending the disposal of $100,000 of water and light bonds, part of the issue of $300,000 authorized at a municipal election two years ago.

Commissioner Leonidas Merritt, head of the division of public utilities, has tentatively outlined improvements costing $91,500 for 1913. He hopes to make at least part of them this year, but the carrying out of the complete program may be impossible.

The estimates which have been made for the contemplated improvements are:

Woodland pumping station, $4,500.

Woodland pump and accessories, $7,000.

Woodland pipe line, $11,000.

Moving middle system tanks to Woodland, plus concrete foundations, $2,500.

Middle system concrete reservoir, $40,000.

Lakewood pump, $20,000.

West Duluth office building, $6,000.

Commissioner Merritt and Manager Hatch visited the properties of the water and light department yesterday. They examined the machinery, pumps and buildings and as thoroughly reviewed the situation as was possible in the limited time.

The plans of Commissioner Merritt for establishing branch offices in various parts of the city are now in course of preparation and he hopes to have them ready for trial some time next month. The city will be divided into several districts, in each of which different times will be specified for the payments of water and gas bills. At present all bills, to obtain the benefit of the discount, must be paid at the central office on or before the twelfth of each month. This causes confusion and congestion, which will be eliminated under the system which is proposed by Commissioner Merritt.

MAY NOT FAVOR ANY COMPENSATION LAW

Railroad Trainmen Continue Discussion of the Plan.

San Francisco, Cal., May 27.—Discussion upon the question of a proposed Federal workmen's compensation act was resumed at this morning's session of the convention of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. Arguments have been upon whether the organization shall favor a compulsory or an optional law. A third course, according to President W. G. Lee, is that the convention may decide not to indorse any form of compensation laws.

The proposed compensation law would not only fix amounts of benefits definitely, but relieve the prospective beneficiary from the necessity of proving the responsibility for the accident of the defendant employer, as required by the existing Federal liability law.

Dragged by Runaway.

Williston, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—With one foot caught in the spokes of his buggy to which was attached a runaway horse, Andrew Hanson was dragged nearly a half mile before the foot was twisted off and he was released.

VETOES BILL ON SUFFRAGE

Governor McGovern Objects to Another Vote on It This Year.

Says It Would Bring the Referendum Into Disrepute.

Madison, Wis., May 27.—Governor McGovern today vetoed the bill ordering a referendum in 1914 on the question of extending the ballot to Wisconsin women. The governor objects to the bill on the ground that, suffrage having been defeated by a majority of 92,000 in Wisconsin last November, another referendum on the subject so soon would be unwise and would result only in a more emphatic rejection. He also argued that affirmative action on suffrage, if a mistake, can never be corrected, while unfavorable action may be corrected at any time.

"Wisconsin stands for popular rule," says the message. "But if the referendum is a good thing, manifestly the results of a popular vote should be properly respected. Such respect will not be shown if almost as soon as the outcome of last year's vote upon this subject has been announced, exactly the same proposal be immediately resubmitted without a single new fact or argument to support it.

"Such action by the legislature can have but one tendency—that of speedily bringing the principle of the referendum into disrepute. I do not consider that enactment of this bill, providing as it does for a vote next year, is consistent with the deliberate judgment of the people of this state so recently and so fully registered."

The veto was a surprise, and an attempt will be made to put the bill through over the head of the governor.

SUPREME COURT WILL CLEAR ITS CALENDAR

Plans to Decide 115 Cases Before the Summer Recess.

Washington, May 27.—Determined to decide all the cases under consideration by it before adjournment for the long summer recess, the supreme court of the United States will further prolong the present term by the unprecedented act of fixing a date as late as Saturday, June 14, as a tentative final decision day. It will meet on June 9 to hand down decisions, and if the "state of the business" demands will hold another decision day after June 14.

There still are before the court some 115 cases. The cases undecided include the state rate, the inter-mountain rate, the Porter Charlton, the "turpentine trust," the newspaper publicity law and the Nashville grain cases.

Bemidji arrangements are in the hands of George Noll, Harry Mayer, John Hillaby and J. H. Koors.

ROOSEVELT SWEARS HE NEVER WAS UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF LIQUOR--TELLS LIFE STORY

LOBBYISTS ARE SHAKEN

Wilson's Attack Has Thrown Confusion Into Their Camp.

Wool and Sugar Interests Are Spending Thousands Every Day.

Washington, May 27.—The small army of "tariff lobbyists," which has been occupying Washington since the Underwood bill passed the house, was in a state of confusion today because of President Wilson's sudden and vigorous attack on the "numerous, industrious and insidious lobby."

Many who assumed that the president's statement referred to them—although he called none by name and designated none personally even by inference—began issuing statements and preparing interviews to justify their position.

Men prominent for many years in official life, including former United States senators now identified with either sugar or wool interests in the organized effort against the Underwood bill, were disconcerted after reading the president's declaration and speculating on its probable effect.

Simmons Backs Wilson.

Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, reiterated today his statement that the lobbyists were not getting very far, adding that never in his legislative experience had he seen so determined and so extensive a lobby. The expenses of the wool and sugar lobbies in Washington alone, to say nothing of the expense of literature circulation and advertising, amounts to thousands of dollars a day.

More than a hundred representatives of varied industries were clamoring early today at the doors of the senate finance sub-committee rooms to be heard before the hearings close at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Senator Kenyon of Iowa, Republican, was an early caller at the White House today to commend President Wilson for his stand against lobbyists.

BRITISH LIBEL SUIT BEGINS

Cecil Chesterton Accused of Libeling Marconi Manager.

New Chapter Added to Scandal Over Wireless Contract.

London, May 27.—The central criminal court was packed with distinguished persons of the political and literary world today for the opening of the trial for criminal libel of Cecil Chesterson, a brother of G. K. Chesterton, the author, and one of London's picturesque personalities.

The prosecution arose out of articles written by the accused, who is editor of The Eye Witness, in which he charged Godfrey Isaacs, managing director of the Marconi company, with corruption in connection with the British government's wireless contract.

The whole Marconi affair, which is now one of the foremost issues in British politics, is likely to be reviewed in the course of the trial.

Accounting Demanded.

Another sensation of the chapter connected with the wireless contract between the Marconi company and the British government was opened today. Godfrey Locker-Lampson, Unionist member of parliament for Salisbury, and Peter Wright, both shareholders in the English Marconi company, Harry Isaacs and the directors and brokers of the company, demanding an accounting of the 500,000 shares of the American Marconi company which Godfrey Isaacs had placed in England, and part of which Sir Rufus Isaacs, the attorney general, and David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, acquired before the public was let into the deal.

Followed Titanic Disaster.

The flotation of the shares was made just after the Titanic disaster last year and resulted in one of the greatest gambles that has ever occurred in the history of the London stock exchange.

It is understood that the plaintiffs argue that the shares really belonged to the English Marconi company.

TESTIFIES IN $10,000 LIBEL CASE HEARING

Says He Can Tell Every Drink He Had in Last Fifteen Years.

Drinks Wine, No Whisky, Little Brandy and No Cocktails.

Declares He Had Nothing Until Bedtime on Visit to Duluth.

Marquette, Mich., May 27.—Theodore Roosevelt, former president of the United States, swore on the witness stand this morning in his $10,000 libel suit against George Newett, publisher of the Ishpeming Iron Ore, that he never had been under the influence of intoxicating liquors; that he drinks no whisky, little brandy, and never a highball or cocktail; that his chosen drink, when he takes anything, is light wine, with champagne possibly once a month; and that even this drinking is done only at the direction of a physician, or at meals, or when at the home of a friend, or when entertaining, or when at a dinner or banquet, and upon retiring for the night.

It was a sleepy-looking jury which, having spent half the night in being selected, filed into court today. The lawyers looked sleepy and so did the reporters and many of the spectators, although it had been expected that Col. Roosevelt would testify.

Despite their late vigil the jurymen, all hard-working men accustomed to early hours, were stirring with the daylight in the jury room, where they spent the night and where they must remain isolated until a verdict has been reached, Deputy Sheriff James Jamerson and Under Sheriff Bennett, whose duty it is to care for the twelve men, were routed out to hasten breakfast to their charges.

Crowds gathered early at the courthouse to be well up in the line when, after those who were particularly entitled to attend had entered, the doors were opened to the public until all seats were filled.

Members of the Jury.

The jury, completed at 11 o'clock last night, consists of:

Joseph Robear, teamster, Ishpeming, aged 25.

Thomas Pryor, locomotive fireman, Marquette; aged 27.

Thomas Howard, farmer, Chocolay township; aged 49.

Robert Bruce, lumberman, Powell township; aged 56.

William H. Matthews, miner, Ishpeming.

William Fassbender, teamster, Marquette; aged 28.

John Frederickson, miner, Negaunee; aged 31.

William Garrow, miner, Ely township; aged 26.

Andrew P. Johnson, miner, Humboldt township; aged 60; native of Denmark.

John A. Johnson, farmer, Skandia township, aged 36; married.

Gus Pellen, blacksmith, Wells township; married.

William Sharp, teamster, Negaunee; aged 33; married; native of England.

Drinks Wine With Meals.

On the witness stand the former president entered a denial to the charge of drunkenness. He admitted using light wines with his meals, but said he never touched strong liquors except on advice of his physician or after great exposure. He said he does not smoke, nor touch beer.

His testimony, in substance, as elicited by his attorneys, was as follows:

"I was born in New York, Oct. 27, 1858. Graduated from Harvard, 1880. In fall of 1881, I was elected to the New York legislature, where I served three terms. In 1886 I ran for mayor of New York and was beaten. In 1889 I was appointed civil service commissioner and served six years. In 1895 I was appointed president of the police board of New York and served two years.

"In 1897 I was appointed assistant secretary of the navy and served one year. In May, 1898, I resigned to take the lieutenant colonelcy of the First United States Volunteer cavalry, commonly called the 'Rough Riders,' and served during the Spanish war.

At Santiago.

"I was in the fighting around Santiago, where my regiment lost over one-third of the officers and one-fifth of the men of the regiment, killed and wounded. I was promoted to colonel of the regiment and made acting brigadier general, returning to Montauk Point. The army was there disbanded in September.

"I was at once nominated governor of New York and was elected. I served as governor until the end of my term, but before it ended, in the spring of 1900, I was nominated for vice president on the ticket with President McKinley, and was elected. I served as vice president from March 4, 1901, until Sept. 14, 1901, when President McKinley died from the effects of the bullet wound of the assassin Czolgosz.

"I served as president for the unexpired term of three years and a half, and was nominated and elected as president in the fall of 1904. A little over a fortnight after leaving the presidency on March 4, 1909, I went to Africa as head of the Smithsonian expedition. I came out at Khartoum on March 15, 1910, and after a short trip through Europe returned to the United States toward the end of June, 1910. Since then I have lived continuously at Oyster Bay and have been connected with The Outlook.

"From 1883 to 1896 I spent considerable time on my cattle ranch on the Little Missouri, in the present state of North Dakota.

Proposed Ordinance Will Require Proper Equipment in New Buildings.

An ordinance requiring the installation of furnace equipment in new buildings that will obviate the smoke nuisance as far as they are concerned will be drafted by the city attorney and submitted to the city commission after its approval by Commissioner Hicken, Dr. Webster, members of the Commercial club smoke prevention committee and stationary engineers.

Commissioner Hicken and Dr. Webster met today with the Commercial club committee and F. C. Rudd, engineer at the Spalding, and George Parker, engineer at the Marshall-Wells Hardware company, representing the stationary engineers.

The decision to have the ordinance drafted came along after a long discussion of the smoke nuisance. At the time the ordinance is submitted, the Commercial club committee will also have figures to show the financial loss to Duluth merchants through the soot thrown into the air by smoking chimneys.

It is likely also that a survey will be made of Duluth and the chimneys which are the worst offenders will be noted. Expert advice will then be obtained on the remedies needed and the owners of the buildings will be urged to adopt the remedies.

DEFENSE WINS POINT IN DYNAMITE CASE

The Telephone Switchboard Record Is Ruled Out as Evidence.

Boston, Mass., May 27.—The defense won a sharply contested point in the dynamite conspiracy trial today, Judge Crosby ruling that the record of telephone calls made by the operator at the American Woolen company's private switchboard was not competent as evidence that some individual in the company's office held a telephone conversation with some other person on a specified date.

WASHINGTON HITS WAR SCARE STORY

Issues Statement Denying Report Sent to Japanese Press.

Washington, May 27.—The following statement was issued today by the state department:

"The state department has authorized the American embassy at Tokio to deny a San Francisco telegram which appeared in Japanese papers to the effect that preparations were being made for war. The report was to the effect that troops of artillery were being sent to Hawaii and that the Philippine garrison was to be increased.

"A few artillerymen have been sent to Hawaii in pursuance of plans adopted before this administration began, but no increase is contemplated in the Philippine garrison. The changes that have taken place are only the customary exchange of regiments.

"The department regrets that any newspaper or newspaper representative should send so misleading a telegram from the United States."

IVERSON EXPECTS STATE TO GET LAND

Auditor Has Conference With Land Office Officials.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, May 27.—State Auditor Samuel G. Iverson expects to secure patents for several thousand acres of land claimed by the state of Minnesota under the school land grants, as a result of a conference he and Assistant Attorney General C. L. Hilton began with officials of the general land office today.

Mr. Iverson submitted to the land office a statement showing that an aggregate of over 51,000 acres of swamp land in the White Earth, Cass Lake, Leech Lake and Winnibigoshish reservations have been selected by the state, upon which the department has not acted. He also has detailed descriptions of small tracts due the state under the school land law, aggregating about 30,000 acres, which have been eliminated from previous lists. He hopes to clear up differences over these lands and pave the way for making indemnity selections for such tracts as have passed to other parties.

The total of the swamp land grant, as shown by the state auditor, is over 5,800,000 acres, of which the state has received patents for about 4,700,000 acres. Much of the remaining land has been patented to homesteaders and to stone and timber entry men, and these lands are lost to the state, as there is no law authorizing indemnity selections.

LA POINTE INDIANS ARE IN WASHINGTON

Want Their Affairs Considered Separately From Other Bands.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, May 27.—A delegation of La Pointe Indians, headed by Frank Piquette, is in Washington to inform the Indian bureau that the Indians of that band have not joined in the action of the council that was held recently at Cass Lake in reference to the employment of one or two attorneys to represent all the Minnesota Indians before the department. The La Pointe Indians want to have their own affairs considered separately and without reference to the other bands.

The delegation is also urging the passage of a bill providing for the creation of an official roll such as is proposed for the White Earth Indians. The delegation is also asking for an adjustment of the allotments on their reservation.

Some members of the band have 40 acres and others 80 acres, and the Indian office will be asked to give each Indian 80 acres.

BUYS OLDEST MEMBERSHIP

Finley Barrell Obtains Col. C. H. Graves' Board of Trade Seat.

Chicago Trader Is Optimistic Over Crop Prospects for This Year.

Finley Barrell, one of the big grain traders of Chicago and a leading member of the Chicago board of trade, is here today on business, chiefly that of appearing before the membership committee of the Duluth board of trade as an applicant for membership.

Mr. Barrell has purchased the oldest outstanding membership of the Duluth board, obtaining it from Col. C. H. Graves, United States minister to Sweden, to whom it was issued on May 12, 1881, and signed by A. J. Sawyer as president. It is No. 5, and was issued to Col. Graves as one of the incorporators of the Duluth board. Mr. Barrell held a membership on the Duluth board for some time up to two years ago, when he let it go. He said today that he has never ceased to regret that he dropped his membership, and will be glad to get back.

"It is a curious and noteworthy fact," said Mr. Barrell today, "that there is such a vast difference in the prices of memberships on the Chicago and Duluth boards, the price in Duluth being approximately $2,000 higher than that for a seat on the Chicago board. In Chicago the price of a membership of $2,050, while in Duluth a membership costs $4,000. There are 200 memberships in Duluth and 1,800 in Chicago, but the price in Duluth shows that this board is in a very prosperous condition."

Expects Large Crop.

Concerning the wheat crop situation, Mr. Barrell is optimistic. He expects a large crop and does not look for a bull market. Said he today:

"There has been much reported about bad conditions in Kansas and about the damage to winter wheat in that section. I think that there would have to be tremendous damage to make a bull market that is genuine. In the early stages of the development of the winter wheat crop in Kansas it was admitted that the prospects were at the best for the greatest winter wheat crop the state had ever known. Some estimated it as high as 130,000,000 bushels. Unquestionably there has been deterioration in some parts of Kansas, particularly southwest of Hutchinson, which is the southwestern center of the state, and is a somewhat arid region anyway. But in the eastern part of the state the finest of conditions prevail.

"Personally I believe that Kansas will have a winter wheat yield of about 100,000,000 bushels; but supposing the yield were no more than that of last year, which was about 88,000,000 bushels, there would still be far from a bull situation, for the reason that last year the winter wheat crops in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois were a failure, while this year the reports indicate an immense crop in these states. There will be plenty of winter wheat and the bulls, in my estimation, will stand a very poor chance of scoring.

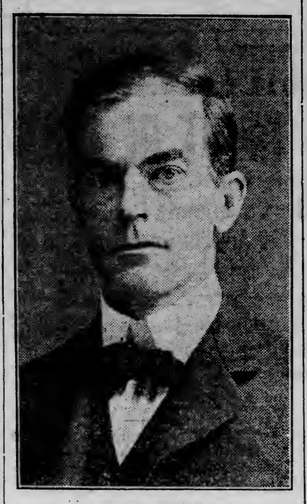
"If a winter wheat market develops at all, I believe it will come in spring wheat, and the indications now are against that. George Le Count, our expert at Bradley, S. D., reports the best conditions there in twenty-five years, and similar reports are coming in from other spring wheat territory. It is claimed that the crop is backward in Northwestern Canada, but warm weather will bring that out all right. Mr. Le Count will soon go on a tour of the spring wheat country and his estimate can usually be relied on."

Slowing Down in Business.

Asked about business conditions in general, Mr. Barrell said that there is a precautionary slowing down in business, which is only natural, he added, for business men wish to be in a position to readjust their affairs in case the tariff bill now pending becomes a law. Money in Chicago, he said, is at 5½ per cent when it should be at 5 per cent.

"Middle West and Western bankers," said Mr. Barrell, "are urging farmers to move their old grain as soon as they get their spring work done in order that way may be made for the new crop, and also that the matter of furnishing money for the new crop farmers as a rule are adopting this course. I do not think that there will be much difficulty in getting the money to move the new crop when the time comes, for the money is available."

FOR POSTMASTER AT WINONA, MINN.



H. L. BUCK.

Washington, May 27.—President Wilson sent to the senate today the nomination of H. L. Buck to be postmaster at Winona, Minn.

President Wilson today also sent to the senate the following nominations:

First assistant secretary of the interior—Andrieus A. Jones of Las Vegas, N. M.

Commissioner of the general land office—Clay Tallman of Nevada.

Assistant commissioner of the general land office—Charles M. Bruce of Arizona.

PLAN TO COMPILE ALL AMERICAN LAW

Dean Kirchwey of Columbia in Charge of Preliminary Details

New York Sun: The organization of a national body comprising the leaders of the American bar, whose purpose is to compile and publish a set of books to be known as the "American Corpus Juris," containing "a complete and comprehensive statement in adequate perspective of the entire body of American law," is to be announced shortly by Dean George W. Kirchwey of the Columbia Law school.

The new organization is to be known as the American Academy of Jurisprudence, and the preliminary details are in the hands of Dean Kirchwey, Lucio Hugh Alexander of the Philadelphia bar and Dr. James De Witt Andrews, author of "Andrews's American Law." Dean Kirchwey said yesterday that he is now at work on the public announcement concerning the new organization and what it purposes to do. Although the leading lawyers of the country have already subscribed to the movement, Dean Kirchwey will not announce their names until he makes public his statement.

Endowment Fund.

These facts were learned when inquiry was made as to the success of a plan announced over two years ago by Dean Kirchwey, Mr. Alexander and Dr. Andrews, by which they suggested that an endowment fund of $1,000,000 be raised to finance the work of publishing twenty volumes containing the whole body of American law in scientific form. At that time Mr. Alexander wrote a memorandum in which the views of himself and his colleagues were expressed and in which he stated the need of a publication of the body of American law in concrete form, which should be removed from the sphere of commercialism by the proposed endowment fund. Mr. Alexander said he believed that $600.000 would be sufficient to pay for the publication and thought that in two years the work would pay for itself.

The current issue of the American Law Review contains an editorial attack on the proposed publication of the "American Corpus Juris." In the memorandum by Mr. Alexander he said that the work which he and his colleagues are suggesting was started over a century ago by Justice Wilson of the United States supreme court, who was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence and a member of the constitutional convention, "who undertook the task as a purely individual enterprise, but did not live to complete it." He said that Justice Wilson was the only one who had attempted such an undertaking. The American Law Review said:

"This statement is rather startling in view of the fact that, as every lawyer and judge in the land knows, two different private corporations have at an expense of several millions of dollars, each produced an encyclopaedia of law which also 'covers the entire body of American law' and 'under a logical system of classification,' not as digests or encyclopaedic digests, but stating what the law is as it has been decided and citing all of the cases. It is not our purpose to advertise these works, and if the promoters of the 'Corpus Juris' can improve upon them the profession will wish them godspeed, but it would seem that they should not entirely ignore the existence of these works and ask a million-dollar foundation for the ostensible purpose of entering a virgin field in the interest of the legal profession and producing 'that for which the call has gone out now at intervals for more than a century, but which has never been answered.' The 'memorandum' throughout seems to be written with the purpose of conveying the impression that the 'Corpus Juris' is to be a work of an entirely new and distinctive character for which there exists an imperative demand, whereas a careful study of the plan reveals nothing of value which is new or original, but merely a purpose to do over in a less complete and comprehensive manner something which has already been done."

Plan Was Approved.

Reference to Mr. Alexander's memorandum shows that the plan was approved by the late James C. Carter, who said: "A statement of the whole body of American law in scientific language and in a concise and systematic form, at once full, precise and correct, would be of priceless value. It would exhibit the body of the law so as to enable a view to be had of the whole and of the relation of the several parts and tend to establish and make familiar a uniform nomenclature."

Mr. Alexander also referred to a speech by Frederick W. Lehman, late solicitor general of the United States, when he was president of the American Bar association, in which he said: "If an American wishes to know the law of his country he must turn to several hundred volumes of statutes, several thousand volumes of reports of adjudicated cases and almost as many more volumes of text books commenting and expanding upon the statutes and the cases."

When the attack of the American Law Review was drawn to the attention of Dean Kirchwey he said that it was part of a program adopted by commercial law publishers to prevent if possible the success of the plan.

PUPILS ARE TEACHERS.

In an English School One Recites and Others Criticise.

London Mail: The novel method of education practiced at a school in a Southern Coast town, where the "children lead and the teacher is in the background," has been investigated by a corresopndent, who describes the method as she witnessed it.

In one lesson—a "talking" lesson—she says, a little girl was called forward to tell the story of a topical event—the death of Capt. Scott. At the close the other children in the class assumed the role of critics, rising one by one and assailing their "victim" as follows:

First Critic—Ivy, will you get out of the bad habit of swaying when you talk? Thank you, Elsie, I will.

Second Critic—What other explorers went to the Arctic regions, Ivy?—Cook.

Third Critic—Ivy, you said a hard "g" in frigid.—Did I? I am so sorry, Alice.

Twenty-four girls criticised in this way, the teacher not saying a word.

Then followed a "dramatic domestic science" lesson, to teach the children what to do in case of a burn on the arm. A "victim" had a calico sleeve with a hole burnt in it pinned over her dress sleeve. What happened was as follows:

Victim (rushing to door)—Oh! I've burnt my arm. I will run outside, for the air will make it cool.

First Rescuer—No! don't go outside. (She wraps a coat around her.)

Second Rescuer—I will take off the coat and attend to the wound. (She cuts away the calico sleeve.)

Third Rescuer—Let us put on some carron oil. (On a large bandage a spot of oil is put, and the arm is wrapped up.)

Fourth Rescuer (in haste)—I will put this pad of cotton wool over the bandage to prevent the wound getting knocked. (Huge lump put on, also another bandage.)

Criticism followed. Among the points made by the critics were:

"Mollie, you were very clumsy when you bandaged the arm."

"Jane, if you had been more careful you would not have stuck the pin into the invalid's arm."

"It was careless of you, Mary, to tie the knot on the wound."

"This is the first school in London or the provinces," says the correspondent, "where I have met with this refreshing freedom, continued with perfect discipline."

HE'D BE THERE.

Cassell's Saturday Journal: Once there was a well-to-do Irishman who found himself about to pass away. He sent for his old friend O'Connor to come and make his will. Everything was in readiness, and the dying man said:

"Put down £50 for masses for the repose of my soul." The man scratched away, and then O'Connor said:

"What next, Mr. Maloney?"

"Put down £250 to the Cork Orphan asylum."

"What next, Mr. Maloney?"

"Put down £1,000 for me brother Pat; he don't deserve it, but I can't carry it with me."

Finally the dying man said faintly:

"I think that is all I have to will."

O'Connor looked at the little old bankbook, and said:

"No, Mr. Maloney, there's tin pounds yet."

"O'Connor, put down that tin pounds to spend with the bhoys at my funeral."

"Mr. Maloney, shall I put it down to spend going to the funeral or coming back?"

The dying man lay very quiet for a few moments, and with an effort replied:

"O'Connor, put that tin pounds down to spend goin' to the funeral, for thin I'll be wid ye."

BRAINS WILL BE NEEDED

Brawn No Longer Chief Requirement of a Policeman.

Civil Service Board Will Not Play Passive Role.

Brains as well as brawn will hereafter be a requisite of the men who obtain positions on the police force and the fire department.

At its meeting in the city hall last night the new civil service board decided to raise both the mental and physical standards.

Under the old regime the two tests were combined. The applicant could obtain a possible 70 points on the physical examination and 30 points on the written test. Under the new rule he will be obliged to get 75 per cent or better on the physical test and also on the written test.

The merits of the employes under civil service will be determined by careful investigation. All of them will be classified and adjusted and it is probable that some regulations of salaries will take place. Persons doing about the same kind and amount of work will not get pay checks as far out of proportion as are some of them now.

The new employes will be checked up, particularly during their period of probation. The board will not depend entirely upon the statements of heads of departments but will do some personal work of its own. For the civil service board is to be a real board and not merely a form, which was too much the situation in former years.

The merits of the claims of the two meat inspectors who have been working up to yesterday were touched on briefly. Inspector Schneider yesterday turned over his star and equipment to Leo Bernhart, the appointee of Dr. Webster, and started on another job. Taking his action as an indication that he will not press his claims, the board only touched upon it to the extent of referring the question of the salaries of the two men to the city attorney. It was stated, however, that if Bernhart is to continue as meat inspector he will be obliged to pass the competitive civil service examination, taking his chances with any others who may desire to make a try for the position. The same will hold true of all other new appointees working for the city who come within the scope of the civil service chapter.

The competitive examinations for firemen and policemen will be held in the near future, the date to be decided at the next meeting of the commission. The eligible lists of both departments have been exhausted but a large number of applications for them are now on file with Ruben Johnson, secretary of the civil service board.

NEW PATROL IS TURNED BACK

City Officials Refuse to Accept Machine From Automobile Company.

The Peerless automobile patrol and emergency ambulance which was delivered to the city last week by J. G. Moran of the Duluth Automobile company, through which firm the purchase was made, is no longer quartered on the Michigan street floor of the police station.

The city officials have refused to accept the machine. They state that the machine delivered to them by the Duluth Automobile company is not up to specifications. They point out that it is clearly a rebuilt car, while the contract plainly called for a new machine.

"A child could see that some of the parts are old," said an official today. "If any one had the impression that such a raw deal could be slipped over on the city, that person has another think coming. I do not know whether it was intentional or not, but on the face of it, the transaction doesn't look good. What I do know is that the machine is not what was ordered by the city through the Duluth Automobile company. Many of the parts are second-hand and it has plainly been rebuilt. The city will not take it and it has been turned back to the Duluth Automobile company."

THREE DAYS MORE FOR TAX PAYERS

First Half of Real Estate Taxes Must Be Paid Saturday.

Owing to the fact that Friday, Memorial day, will be observed as a holiday at the courthouse, only three days are left in which the first half of the 1912 real estate taxes may be paid without penalty.

The last day allowed by law is Saturday, May 31. After that date a 10 per cent penalty will be attached.

Money is fairly pouring into the office of County Treasurer Vivian. During the past week there has been a steady stream of taxpayers leading into the treasurer's office and the office force, with its addition of clerks for the rush season, is almost swamped with work.

A number of large checks are coming in from some of the larger corporations and taxpayers, but these do not require the immediate attention which must be given to the taxpayer who waits in line at the counter in the treasurer's office.

Superior

Will Refund Money.

At the meeting of the city commissioners this morning the city treasurer was authorized to pay back certain money collected from taxpayers in the East end which was levied against them for the improvements made to Becker and Nettleton avenues last last year. The district court recently filed a decision against the city in a suit brought by property owners who objected to paying for improvements which were not made adjacent to their property. The city is said to have tried to establish a precedent by assessing property for several blocks around in order to reduce the cost to all, it being claimed that the assessments against only the abutting property would make it too high for these people to stand the entire cost.

PARK MAY NOT BE USED FOR ARMORY

City's Title Conditional on Use of Land for Park.

The new state armory which will be constructed in Duluth this year cannot be located on the site of Lake Shore park near the curling rink, in the opinion of Mayor Prince. He states that the city holds title to it only so long as it is devoted to park uses, which he believes would make it impossible to construct the armory there.

MARINE NEWS

CONDITIONS ARE AGAIN NORMAL

Boats Getting Better Dispatch in Ore and Coal Trade.

Conditions at local ore docks are again at normal and the shipments are reported to be increasing at a rapid rate.

All the available boats are being chartered by local ore shippers and large fleets are arriving daily for ore cargoes. Since yesterday noon fifteen boats arrived in the Duluth and Superior harbors, while forty-one boats have arrived since Saturday noon. During that time forty-three boats left with ore loads for Eastern ports.

The local docks are receiving much better dispatch from the railroads and the movement from the mines is rapidly improving. The boats are getting away without any delays, several having been able the past two days to load and depart the same day they arrived.

The coal movement is exceptionally heavy at present. Eastern railroads are also improving their service to the docks on Lake Erie points and the boats are able to get better dispatch than they did early in the season.

The grain movement is very light, both here and at the Canadian Head of the Lakes. Although more grain is leaving the Canadian ports than local ports, the movement has been reduced considerably the past two weeks. The market in the East is quiet, while the foreign trade seems to be at a standstill at present. Conditions are expected to improve within the next three weeks or a month.

ORGANIZE TO STOP DETRIMENTAL LEGISLATION

Cleveland, Ohio, May 27.—Cleveland vessel owners met Saturday in the offices of Attorneys Goulder, Day, White & Garry to prepare a campaign to try to prevent what they believe would be detrimental legislation being passed by congress during the special session now in progress. A committee was organized to go to Washington upon a moment's notice if such a course should be deemed advisable.

With the closing of the last session of the old congress the Wilson seaman's bill was killed by President Taft's refusal to sign it before the congress adjourned. Soon after the extra session, called by President Wilson, began deliberations two bills patterned after the Wilson bill were introduced in the senate and a bill closely following the Wilson bill was introduced in congress.

Some of the provisions in these bills lake owners contend are neither necessary nor desirable on the Great Lakes. Some other provisions are considered of debatable merit so far as lake practices are concerned.

BROWER REPAIRED AND TAKES CARGO.

The steamer A. G. Brower, which came here May 16 for repairs at the Superior shipyards, left yesterday with a cargo of ore. The Brower lost her rudder near Round Island about two weeks and she was towed to Duluth by the steamers C. M. Warner and W. W. Brown. The Warner left last week. The Brower is owned by the Great Lakes Steamship company.

Draft at the Soo.

The recommended draft of the Canadian lock is nineteen feet, six inches.

Lull in Grain Trade.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 27.—The effect of the slump of the grain trade is apparent in the elevator receipts at Buffalo during the week ending Saturday. Only 3,971,496 bushels of grain were unloaded here the last of the week compared with 7,661,992 bushels during the preceding week. With the exception of the week ended April 25, when 1,549,382 bushels were elevated, this week was the dullest of the season atBuffalo. Until there is greater demand for grain in the foreign markets, little improvement in the situation is looked for.

ALONG THE LAKES

The name of the steamer D. M. Whitney has been changed to Edwin L. Booth. Mr. Booth is president of the Empire Coal company, with offices in Montreal.

The Wolverine Drydock Company of Port Huron has an order from the Pringles of St. Clair, to repair the barges, John J. Barium, Golden Age and Iron Cliff.

Acting on the recommendation of the department of health that modern and rapid methods be employed to dry the 600,000 bushels of grain in the burned Erie elevator, the company is bringing the grain dryer Helena from Chicago. She arrived at Buffalo yesterday and will at once take on a cargo of the wet grain. The grain that the Helena cannot take care of will be destroyed.

Next Friday will see the opening of the excursion season in Detroit. There will be excursions on Memorial day to all of the resorts up and down the river.

Lake Changes.

Lake Superior — Superior entry—About June 1, 1913, an intermittent white light of about 4,500 candle power every 10 seconds will be established 70 feet above the water on a cylindrical concrete tower surmounting a concrete dwelling and fog-signal building erected on the eastern end of the south breakwater, Superior entry, Lake Superior.

The fog-signal will be a first-class siren sounding one blast every 15 seconds. When the above light and fog-signal are established the present Superior pierhead range lights and steam fog-signal will be discontinued.

Lake Superior — Wisconsin — About June 5, 1913, the characteristic of Outer Island light, Apostle islands, Lake Superior, will be changed to flashing white every 45 seconds. At the same time the luminous power will be increased from 18,000 to about 410,000 candles by changing the illuminant from oil to incandescent oil vapor.

Lake Erie—Pelee passage—The Canadian government has given notice that southeast shoal lightship, Pelee passage, Lake Erie, has been replaced on her station for the season, and that the characteristic of the lights exhibited has been changed from fixed white to intermittent white every 6 seconds. The mainmast together with the red ball carried at the masthead have been removed.

Lake Erie—Buffalo harbor—Information has been received from the officer in charge of the branch hydrographic office at Buffalo that the wreck of the barge Unadilla lies sunk in 19 feet of water, one-fourth mile from the Buffalo live-saving station, Buffalo harbor, Lake Erie.

NEW SCHEDULE OF BOOTH LINE

Easton Will Make Two Trips to South Shore Each Week.

Beginning next Monday the steamers Easton and America of the Booth line will begin a new summer schedule, which will continue throughout the summer.

Charles W. Turner of St. Paul, district manager of the line, is in the city today and announced the new schedule for the summer. The Easton will this year make two trips to the north shore and two to the south shore each week. The America will make two trips to the north shore each week, thus making a total of four trips to the north shore every week.

The two trips to the south shore are part of the new schedule and will give the towns on that side of the lake a much better service in the future. In the past the small steamer Barker visited those ports, but the boat has been taken out of the service altogether, according to Mr. Turner.

Mr. Turner stated this morning that he is very much pleased with the conditions at present and everything points to a record marine season for Duluth. He will be in the city today and tomorrow, returning to St. Paul tomorrow evening.

The Easton will leave the local dock for the north shore at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon.

The steamer America is expected to return at 3 o'clock this afternoon from Port Arthur and is scheduled to make a return trip tomorrow, leaving Duluth at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Lumber Receipts.

North Tonawanda, N. Y., May 27.—Lumber receipts so far this season have been fairly brisk, but a noteworthy fact about the cargoes arriving is that they are smaller than usual, some of the vessels carrying much less than their capacity. Shippers attribute this to the fact that the consignees have only small blocks of stock ready for shipment at this time.

TORMEY ELIGIBLE TO RUN FOR WISCONSIN.

Madison, Wis., May 27.—University of Wisconsin track stock went up today when it was learned that Albert R. Tormey again is eligible for intercollegiate competition. On Saturday he wrote off a "con" exam, and drew an "ex." Tormey will compete in the Minnesota and Western conference meets, running in the 100 and 220-yard dashes. Growing Children Need Good Bowels

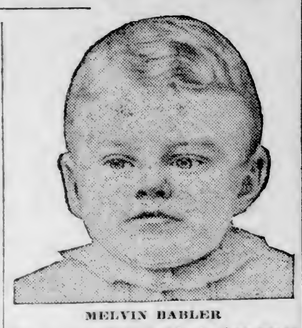
Give a Mild Laxative Occasionally to Insure Regular Bowel Action.

As a child grows older it requires more and more personal attention from the mother, and as the functions of the bowels are of the utmost importance to health great attention should be paid to them.

Diet is of great importance, and the mother should watch the effect of certain foods. A food will constipate one and not another, and so we have a healthy food like eggs causing billousness to thousands, and a wholesome fruit like bananas constipating many. It is also to be considered that the child is growing, and great changes are taking place in the young man or young woman. The system has not yet settled itself to its later routine.

A very valuable remedy at this stage, and one which every growing boy and girl should be given often or occasionally according to the individual circumstances, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This is a laxative and tonic combined, so mild that it is given to little babies, and yet equally effective in the most robust constitution. At the first sign of a tendency to constipation give a small dose of Syrup Pepsin at night on retiring, and prompt action will follow in the morning. It not only acts on the stomach and bowels but its tonic properties build up and strengthen the system generally. Mrs. Harry Babler, Van Dyne, Wis., writes that her little son, Melvin Babler, was constipated most of the time until she gave him Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.



MELVIN BABLER

Since using this remedy he has never been constipated.

The use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will teach you to avoid cathartics, salts and pills as they are too harsh for the majority and their effect is only temporary. Syrup Pepsin brings permanent results, and it can be conveniently obtained of any nearby druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

NO EFFORT TO GET SCOTT'S BODY.

London, May 27.—No effort is to be made to disturb the body of Capt. R F. Scott nor those of the heroes who died with him while returning from the expedition to the South Pole. Lord Curzon made this announcement at the annual meeting of the Royal Geographical society, when the society's medals were presented to the widows of Capt. Scott and Dr. Edward A. Wilson and the surviving members of the expedition.

The relatives of the dead had expressed the unanimous desire that the recovery of the bodies never should be attempted.

Health and Beauty Aids

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

Bessie: I have constantly advised against the use of hair-bleaches and dyes.

Clara: I think you are foolish to worry about a few pounds of extra flesh, but if you fear that your waist line will disappear entirely, go to your druggist and get 4 ounces of parnotis, take it home and dissolve it in 1½ pints of hot water. Take a tablespoonful 3 times a day, before meals. Parnotis makes superfluous fat disappear.

Christina: If your hair is falling out and your scalp scaly with dandruff, apply this home-made quinine hair-tonic once or twice a week and watch your hair grow in long and abundant. Dissolve in ½ pint of alcohol 1 ounce of quinzoin and add ½ pint of cold water. Rub well until absorbed by the scalp and hair.

Miss Wood: Plenty of good lather is an essential to the success of any shampoo. Some soaps that lather well make the hair brittle and hard. It is better to use plain canthrox for shampooing purposes. Simply dissolve a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cupful of hot water and stir well until it is all dissolved; then take your shampoo by pouring the mixture on the hair and rubbing in well. It will cleanse the scalp thoroughly, make the head feel good and keep your hair soft and fluffy.

Margie: Indeed, I am always glad to repeat a recipe. The wrinkle-remover formula which your friend says she read in these columns and found absolute in its action is easily and cheaply made at home by mixing one ounce of almozoin with one-half pint cold water and adding two teaspoonfuls glycerine. Stir and let stand for one day. To remove or prevent wrinkles apply this vegetable cream-jelly thickly and leave over night, then wash off and with more of the cream massage thoroughly. I have never found anything to equal almozoin jelly-cream to remove wrinkles and keep them away. It contains no oil or fatty substances which might promote the growth of hair. You will also notice by its use not only your wrinkles disappearing but the large pores of the entire face getting much smaller and the skin very soft and velvety.

Mrs. L. E.: No doubt glasses spoil your looks. Probably you would have no need to wear glasses if you would use a good eye-tonic. Get an ounce of crystos from your druggist and dissolve it in a pint of water. Drop one or two drops in each eye once or twice a day. This is wonderfully strengthening to the eyes and will not smart or burn, but makes dull-looking eyes bright and clear. It is just fine for dull, tired, inflamed or weak eyes and for granulated eyelids.

Dora H.: Buy a small, original package of pyroxin and with forefinger put some on eyebrows occasionally. This makes them grow thick and silky. Stubby, straight eyelashes will come in long and curly if pyroxin be applied at lash-roots with thumb and forefinger. Use care so as not to get any where no hair is wanted.

Youngwife: Don't be discouraged. A delatone paste will dissolve those hairs and leave the skin smooth and clear. Just get a small, original package of delatone from your druggist and make sufficient paste with the powder and water to cover the hairs. Apply and after 2 or 3 minutes remove and wash the skin. This is an unfailing remedy.

Florence E.: To prepare a complexion-beautifier that will make the skin soft, white and smooth, put 2 teaspoonfuls of glycerine and 4 ounces of spurmax in ½ pint of hot water or witch hazel and let stand until cold. Apply to the hands, forearms and face with the palm of the hand and continue rubbing the skin where applied until dry. Unlike powder, when on it seems part of the skin and does not rub off. Several of my friends have told me that this spurmax wash is particularly effective for sallow, dark and oily skins. It is much less expensive than ready-manufactured face-washes.

Naomi: Don't worry about your condition. Nearly every person needs a blood-tonic and liver-invigorator in the spring. Prompt treatment will enable you to rid yourself of those yellow blotches and pimples. Get from your druggist 1 ounce of kardene and ½ pint of alcohol. To these add ½ teacupful of sugar and put into 1½ pints of boiling water. This makes an excellent system-tonic that purifies the blood and arouses the liver to healthy action. Take 1 tablespoonful 5 minutes before each meal and before retiring.

ASK BANKERS FOR POINTERS

Senate Committee Will Send Out List of Questions.

"What Ails Our Currency System?" Is One of Them.

Washington, May 27.—The senate banking and currency committee has begun its investigation of what is the matter with the national currency system and how its defects can be remedied. A list of questions to be sent to bankers and financial experts has been approved and prepared for immediate distribution. There are thirty-two questions in the list—enough, the committee believed after careful consideration, to delve thoroughly into the subject of currency reform.

With these questions to the financial experts will go a letter suggesting that attention be given such as seem worth while.

"These questions," the letter says, "are not to be understood as intimating what point of view would be taken by the committee, nor even by the member who has proposed any particular question."

Some of the Questions.

The questions include:

"What are the essential defects of our banking and currency system? Enumerate its advantages and disadvantages, and what purposes are to be attained by an improved system."

"Should national banks continue to have a bond-secured currency, and should present reserve requirements for such banks be changed?"

"Should elastic currency be authorized, and if so, should it be limited and to what amount; should it be notes of individual banks, a central reserve association, a number of regional associations, or the treasury?"

"If such notes are from the treasury, should they be on a pledge of security, and on what kind; and should they be first lien of the government on the concern to which issued?"

"Should all currency have a gold basis, and how should it be issued, and what per cent of reserve should be required?"

"What device should be used to retire such currency when the demand subsides?"

New Bill By Nelson.

Senator Nelson, Republican, member of the senate committee on banking and currency, has introduced a bill proposing a system of "asset-secured currency" for national banks under which the banks of the country could, if necessary, issue currency to the total amount of $295,000,000. The bill would give banks authority to issue the notes to an amount not greater than the differences between their present bond-secured currency and their total paid-in capital. The new notes would constitute a "first and preferred lien" upon all of the assets of the bank by which they were issued.

BLANCHE BATES IN STRONG PLAY

When A. E. W. Mason penned "The Witness for the Defense," he wrote a strong play and one which has given a superb actress a role in keeping with her abilities. Miss Blanche Bates, who appeared in this play at the Lyceum last night, not only charmed her audience—which was a large one, by the way—but held it so thoroughly that there were numerous times during the presentation when the proverbial pin-drop would have sounded like the crack of doom.

The story of the play is unusual. The first scene is laid in a tent in India, the home of the district commissioner, a secret drinker, and the type of brute that takes out his rage over the loss of self-respect by beating and nagging his young wife. She finally shoots him when patience has ceased to be a virtue, and is tried for her life. The last visitor to the tent, a former fiance of Mrs. Ballentyne, the woman, and still secretly in love with her, knows that there has been murder committed, but at the trial is "the witness for the defense" and tells a story of conditions as he left the tent, which without his lying about it, presents conditions which make it appear that Ballentyne was shot by one of the thugs of India. The sin, if there were any of the witness for the defense, was one of omission rather than of commission.

The succeeding scenes are laid in Sussex, Eng. Mrs. Ballentyne is received into the family of an eccentric old gentlemen whose chief hobby is reforming criminals, and who, to prove his consistency, received the unfortunate woman when others refuse to meet her. The only son of this family, a young captain in the army, falls in love with Mrs. Ballentyne and weds her secretly. Threske, the witness for the defense, being called on the scene, insists upon her telling the young captain the truth. That is the big scene in the play.

Miss Bates presented some emotional acting that was wonderful. Her style was naturally intense and free from the gesticulation and hysteria that emotioanl actresses too often rave through for an unpleasant quarter of an hour. In the confession scene, she pictured the broken, distrait woman, baring her heart to the man she loves, hope mingled with despair of his remaining the adorer, but determined that the misery shall end there and then, with suicide as the alternative. Delightful and able as her acting was all through, the confession scene, the one with Threske just prior thereto, in which he insists upon a confession, and the one in the first act where the miserable wife breaks down at the dinner table when her drunken husband abuses and goads her before their guest, are the great scenes of the play and had a wonderful effect upon the audience.

Miss Bates had excellent support. Frank Kemble-Cooper, as the witness for the defense, played, exceedingly well, a strong and exacting part. H. E. Herbert, whose sole appearance was as the husband, Ballentyne, in the first act, gave a piece of acting, disagreeable as the role was, that was remarkable. He portrayed accurately and without exaggeration, the man of good breeding and high family connections, who has "gone to the dogs," when self-respect has left him and his thoughts of the past are only agonies that urge him on to greater excesses.

A very fine piece of character acting was that of Ernest Stallard, as Harold Hazelwood, the man whose hobby was reform. It was the only thing that approached comedy in the play, and yet it was only a consistent portrayal of a well-meaning old gentleman of means, who rides a hobby until it runs away with him. Frank Elliott, who acted the part of Richard Hazelwood, the lover, was excellent, and so were the rest of the cast.

At the Empress.

Madge Hughes, who is one of the sprightliest and jolliest singing comediennes in vaudeville and now playing at the Empress theater, is somewhat out of the ordinary as a vaudeville entertainer. She is a veritable bookworm and is an ardent student of ancient mythology. Her home is in Somerville, Mass., where her mother owns a large farm. Madge, besides being a studious reader, is also a good horsewoman, and was the winner of a valuable hurdle jumping prize at a horse show in St. Joseph, Mo., a year ago.

She is going home this summer, where she will put in a few months with her favorite saddle horse, Princess.

Seats are now selling for the performance on Decoration day. All three performances on this holiday will be reserved. A splendid bill of vaudeville has been secured and will open Thursday, May 29. One of the greatest and best posing acts in vaudeville on this program is Jesse L. Lasky's visions d'art, as presented by the perfect woman, Mlle. Fleurette. Another clever and sure-to-please act is Leavitt and Dunsmore in their protean comedy, "The Woman Next Door." Particola and Myers will give all the latest of popular dances and songs and a new line of jokes. Their presentation of the Tango and the Texas Tommy has been the comment of the many houses this whirlwind pair have played. Last, but not least, is the big time act of Mott and Maxfield, "The Traveling Salesman and the Manicurist.", Fun and music are their output.

GOVERNOR, ARMED, GUARDS CONVICTS.

Phoenix, Ariz., May 27.—Armed with rifle and revolver as regulations require, Governor George W. P. Hunt mounted guard on the penitentiary walls at Florence for two hours while the convicts and their regular guards enjoyed a concert by vaudeville performers in the prison mess hall.

It was hot on the wall, and the scales at the capitol showed that the governor had lost two pounds in weight.

COURT REFUSES TO OUST MAYOR.

Boise, Idaho, May 27.—The Idaho district court has decided in favor of Mayor Arthur Hedges in the case brought against him by J. I. Miles, in which it was asked that Hedges be ousted from office because of his alleged failure to enforce certain laws. The court held that while evidence showed the existence of disorderly houses and the illegal sale of liquor in Boise, it had not been proven the mayor had any knowledge of such conditions. It was held also that responsibility for the enforcement of the law lies with the police department.

ALFRED MOE TO TALK TO ADVERTISING MEN.

Alfred Moe, of J. J. Moe & Sons' company, will deliver an address this evening at the regular meeting of the Duluth Advertising club, which will be held at the Commercial club rooms. Mr. Moe will talk on "Objectionable Advertising." R. T. Close of Marshall-Wells Hardware company, will operate the stereopticon illustrating the lecture with many examples. The lecture is said to be of exceptional interest to advertising men.

C. C. JONES IS STILL ALIVE

Former Duluthian Reappears in Boston to Claim Estate.

Was Thought to Be Dead By Old Friends in Duluth.

After having been thought dead by his friends for many years, Charles C. Jones, a former Duluthian, has appeared in Boston and laid claim to his share of an estate left by his mother, Manuella Jones, more than thirty years ago.

Mr. Jones is the father of Dr. G. Herbert Jones of this city and of Carl Jones of Williston, N. D. While the fact that he is living may be a surprise to many of his former friends, it was not to his sons, who had known it for two or three years.

Mr. Jones was a resident of Duluth in the late 60's and early 70's, and was engaged in the banking business. He married Miss Katherine Selby, a member of one of the most prominent of the early families in Duluth. A few years after his marriage, he deserted his young wife. She obtained a divorce from him on the ground of desertion, and retained possession of the two children. Both of the boys were very young when their father left, and neither of them has any recollection of him whatever.

After leaving Duluth Mr. Jones went to Australia, and it was reported many years later that he had died there. For some length of time it was believed that he was dead, and he was declared legally dead by a Massachusetts court after he had been missing the required number of years. This was for the purpose of closing up an estate.

Two or three years ago the two sons learned that their father was still living. In the meantime, however, their mother had remarried, after securing a legal separation, and no effort was made to get into communication with him.

Dr. Jones stated this morning that he knew of the estate to which his father is laying claim, but that it was in such a tangled shape and there were so many heirs to it that he and his brother had made no effort in recent years to get what share of it was legally theirs. The property is part of the estate left by their grandfather, and the fact that the grandfather had married a second time greatly complicated matters from a legal standpoint.

ROOSEVELT SWEARS HE NEVER WAS UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF LIQUOR

highball in my life. With the exceptions hereinafter noted, I never drank whisky or brandy except under the advice of a physician.

"I don't care for the taste of either. I don't smoke, and I don't drink beer, because I dislike smoking and dislike the taste of beer. I never have drunk whisky or brandy except when the doctor prescribed it, or possibly on some occasion after great exposure when I was chilled through. It has been certainly fifteen or twenty years since I have drunk it because of being chilled through.

"I never have drunk beer, nor do I drink red wine. The only wines that I have drunk have been white wines, Madeira, champagne, or very occasionally, a glass of sherry. At home I often, at dinner, will drink a wineglass or two wine glasses of Madeira.

Sometimes Champagne.

"In summer, instead of the Madeira, I will often drink a tall glass of white wine and Poland water, or Poly water. At public dinners I sometimes drink a glass of champagne, or perhaps two. I think that on the average this means that I will drink champagne about once a month.

"The only exceptions to what I have stated about drinking whisky and brandy are as follows:

"Mint juleps I very rarely drink. In the White House we have a mint bed and I should think that on the average I drank half a dozen mint juleps a year. Since I left the White House four years ago, to the best of my memory, I have drunk mint juleps twice—on one occasion at the Country club at St. Louis, where I drank part of a glass of mint julep, and on another occasion at a big luncheon given me at Little Rock, Ark., where they passed around the table a loving cup with the mint julep in it, and I drank when the cup was passed to me.

"The only other occasions on which I have drunk whisky have been when it has been prescribed by the doctor. During the last fourteen years I do not believe I have drunk whisky straight or with water more than half a dozen times.

On the African Trip.

"On the African trip the expedition took along a case of champagne, a case of whisky and one bottle of brandy. The bottle of brandy was taken for me because I do not drink whisky.

"Some of the other members of the party drank whisky. The champagne was used medicinally for three members of the party who were down with fever and dysentery, and for two or three travelers, hunters and missionaries we met who were sick.

"I never touched either the whisky or the champagne. Out of the brandy bottle I drank exactly seven ounces, this being given me by Dr. Mearns on two occasions when I had fever.

"The last time I told him I disliked it so that I did not think it did me any good, and unless he objected I would take tea. Accordingly I took tea, and turned the bottle and the rest of the brandy over to R. J. Cuninghame, who was managing the expedition.

Seven Ounces of Brandy.

"Eight months later, when we reached Khartoum, he asked me what he should do with it, saying that from curiosity he had measured it, and that I had drunk just seven ounces in eleven months.

"As for brandy, I never drink it any more than I do whisky when I am alone or at home, or on a hunting trip, or in a friend's house. But on very hard campaign trips, on the advice of Surgeon Gen. Rixey, and recently of Dr. Holbrook Curtis, who attended to my throat in connection with the campaign trips, I have frequently, just before going to bed at night, drunk either one or two goblets of milk, with a teaspoonful of brandy to the goblet. If there is more than the teaspoonful, I dislike the taste and I don't drink it.

"I frequently drink milk at some meal during the day, usually at luncheon. The brandy which was used in Africa was never in my own possession, and I only took it when given to me by the doctor. I do not even carry a flask of brandy or whisky with me.

Not in Saloon in Twenty Years.

"I used to carry it on my hunting trips, but found that I used it so rarely that it was a nuisance, and that it might get broken, and it has been some twenty years since I carried one. On my ranch we never had whisky. I never made a practice of drinking at a bar, and I don't believe that I have ever drunk at a bar for twenty odd years. I don't believe I have been inside a saloon during that time. I don't drink between meals, or except as I have described.

"On campaign trips I drink nothing until, as I have said, when I go to bed I take a goblet, or perhaps two goblets, of milk, with a teaspoonful of brandy to the goblet, finding it relieves my throat and makes me sleep well. On almost every campaign trip there will be some occasion on which I stop at a friend's house, when I will drink a glass of wine.

In Ohio Campaign.

For example, in the Ohio campaign last year, during the nine days I touched nothing whatever on seven of the days, excepting at night, as I have mentioned before, going to bed, not drinking a drop of any kind until I was undressed and went to bed. The other two days were the occasions when I spoke at Toledo, and the occasion when I spoke at Cleveland.

"At Toledo, after the speech, Mr. Garfield, Mr. Post and I went to the house of Mr. and Mrs. Sheppey, where we met Mayor and Mrs. Bland Whitlock and we went into the dining room to take a little supper.

"There was some champagne, and I first took a glass of champagne, and I then found that there was a pitcher of milk and doughnuts, and I took the milk and doughnuts instead. On the afternoon of the day I went to Cleveland, I stopped at Fayetta, at the house of Hanna. There I had a pot of tea, and at dinner I believe, but am not certain, that I took a glass of champagne.

"After I have returned to the car in the evening, having made various evening speeches, I am often thirsty and taken a bottle of Apollinaris water, or Poland water, with a glass of cracked ice, but I drink no liquor of any kind, and never have drank any liquor of any kind in the car excepting as above described.

Drank Nothing in Duluth.

"For instance, take the day I spoke at Duluth last year. In the morning I reached Superior and spoke there. We went over to Duluth and took lunch, there being no liquor at lunch.

"I then dictated the two speeches I intended to make at Oshkosh and Chicago, then went for an automobile ride, and afterwards took dinner. No liquor was served at dinner, and I did not drink a drop of wine or liquor of any kind during the day. I stopped and spoke a few sentences to a dinner of doctors, at their earnest and repeated request. I then made two speeches in the evening. I went back to the car and got a bottle of apollinaris water and a glass with ice in it, but without liquor of any kind, and drank the apollinaris water.

Brandy at Night.

"When I went to bed I took two spoonfuls of brandy in milk, and that was the only drop of liquor I touched that day in Duluth. I was in Duluth only that day.

"While at the White House I never touched brandy or whisky, excepting the mint juleps I have mentioned, and possibly on two or three occasions when Dr. Rixey prescribed a drink of whisky—once, if I remember aright, for an acute attack of indigestion, and once when he and I had made a 100-mile ride together and came in through a snow storm. He gave me some whisky, and I disliked it so that after taking a sip I would not take any more, and got a cup of tea instead.

"Outside of these prescriptions of Dr. Rixey, we usually had at lunch some white wine if there were guests. Unless there were guests I drank nothing at lunch, and of course I drank nothing if there were guests. If we dined alone I drank nothing. If we had guests, we usually had white wine, but sometimes Madeira, and at formal dinners we had champagne, of which I drank a glass or two.

At Cabinet Dinners.

"While at Washington almost all the entertainments were at the White House itself, but each member of the cabinet gave dinners, and I drank a glass or two precisely as at the White House.

"I also, on perhaps a half dozen occasions, went out, for instance, to the Gridiron club dinner, or to the reception on Speaker Cannon's seventieth birthday, or to a dinner of the New York delegation in congress.

"On these occasions I drank precisely as in the White House. On the occasion of Mr. Cannon's evening reception I went in company with Mr. Loeb and with James Sloane, a secret service man. The occasion was not in the afternoon, it was in the evening. We left the White House shortly after 9 and returned a little after 11. Mr. Loeb coming back with me and Sloane seeing me to the carriage when I left.

Always Took Loeb Along.

"On such occasions Mr. Loeb frequently stayed and we did some work in the study after our return to the White House. On all public occasions Mr. Loeb went with me, and also two secret service men. On the Cannon occasion I remember that one of these men was Mr. Sloane. It was the duty of the secret service men to go with me and to see me safely back to the White House, and on this occasion, as Sloane was in Cannon's district and had a number of friends there, he did not come back with me. We said good bye at the carriage and he returned to the gathering.

"Mr. Loeb, however, returned to the White House. I was with Mr. Newberry, Mr. Cortelyou and others while there. Neither on this occasion nor on any other occasion did I take a glass of whisky or brandy, or any liquor in any form. On this occasion I took a sandwich and a glass of champagne, which I drank standing up, proposing the health of the speaker on his seventieth birthday.

Never Took Whisky.

"No man who knew me ever asked me to take any whisky, because they knew that under no circumstances would I take it, and no man on this occasion proposed to me to take whisky. Neither while in the White House nor at any other time have I ever drunk or taken any kind of liquor between meals except as described, and in the White House I not only did not drink whisky or brandy, but I did not know where any whisky or brandy was.

"Unless I shaved myself, I was always shaved by Delaney in the room between my room and Mr. Loeb's, immediately before luncheon, and never on any occasion during the time that I was in the White House did I touch a drop of anything during the day prior to being shaved.

White House Routine.

"The routine at the White House was as follows: We had breakfast at 8 or 8:30 o'clock, Mrs. Roosevelt, the children and myself. After breakfast, if the weather was good, Mrs. Roosevelt and I walked around the White House grounds for twenty minutes or half an hour. I then came over to the White House office, and as soon as I reached there Mr. Loeb came in with the mail and papers to sign.

"After about half an hour of this, the senators and congressmen would begin to arrive. If it was an ordinary day, they would generally continue to arrive until 12 or 1, but if it was a cabinet day, they would stop at 11 o'clock.

"At 11 o'clock, when I went to get shaved, I would usually get Mr. Loeb in and dictate to him, or he would take up with me the mail that had accumulated during the morning and would receive directions about the various things that had arisen during the morning.

Talked During Toilet.

"I would also frequently see some member of the cabinet or some man I knew intimately during that time, or some newspaper man would be allowed to come in to ask questions, Mr. Loeb generally sitting by and waiting until the answer had been given and then resuming the work. Often Mr. Loeb would follow me out to the washroom and continue talking with me and getting directions and laying matters before me while I washed my hands. I would then go to lunch.

"Immediately after lunch I would return to the office. I might then again work with Mr. Loeb for an hour, or some member of the cabinet or other person with whom I had to talk over details of official business.

"I never in my life, while in the White House or anywhere else, have ever left a room for the purpose of getting a drink between meals, and it would have been a physical impossibility for me to have left the room for any such purpose at any period of my work in the White House.

Last February.

"On the 17th and 18th of February last I was staying in New York with Mrs. Roosevelt and my daughter at the Marquis hotel, 12 East Thirty-first street. To the best of my knowledge and belief there is no bar in the hotel. Mrs. Roosevelt and my daughter and I had breakfast served in our apartment at about 9.

"Immediately afterwards on both days I walked down Madison avenue to Twenty-third street, across to Fourth avenue and into the Outlook office, doing work and seeing various people until about 5:30 the first day, and until 5 the next day, going out for a few minutes for lunch.

"When I left the office on Monday I walked up Fourth avenue to Thirty-first street and across to the Marquis hotel, where I had tea with Mrs. Roosevelt. On Tuesday I left at 5 o'clock and took the 5:30 train from the Pennsylvania depot for Oyster Bay.

"On neither day did I touch a drop of anything at any time. When in town I usually, but not always, had lunch with some members of the Outlook staff, and during the three years during which I have on an average of once or twice lunched with anyone, I do not recall an instance where I ever drank anything except either milk, tea or coffee. On these two days I never went up Fifth avenue, nor above Thirty-second street.

Not in the Waldorf.

"I have not been in the Waldorf unless at a public dinner for certainly three years, and I was not in the Waldorf on either of those two days. On neither of these two days did I go into or come out of any building in Forty-second street, and on neither of those two days did I go above Thirty-first or Thirty-second streets on Fifth avenue. Between 4 and 6 o'clock the avenue is densely crowded.

"For the last fifteen years I can give you in detail just about what I have drunk. I have given it substantially here. Neither during those fifteen years or since I have been of age have I ever, under any circumstances, been in even the smallest degree under the influence of liquor.

"I do not remember within the last dozen years drinking even a part of a glass of beer except once. That was at the Deutscher club. Whenever I go to Milwaukee I try to go to the Deutscher club for a call.

"At their request, I think in 1903, I drank a mouthful of beer. They offered me beer and I asked if they could not get me some white wine, saying I never drank beer. They asked me if I would not take a mouthful anyway, because they said it was the beer that made Milwaukee famous. So I took a mouthful and then took white wine. They all sang songs, but there was only one song in which I could join.

"While I was governor, and always, my habits in using wine and champagne have been precisely as stated."

DULUTH'S NOTORIOUS RED LIGHT DISTRICT IS PASSING INTO OBLIVION perior, didn't take kindly to the new order of things.

The owners of the property, were solely aggrieved. They could scarcely console themselves to the inevitable, to see the golden stream of their rentals shut off. For in no other way could they hope to realize an income such as they obtained from their holdings when they were devoted to immoral uses.

The women themselves did not like to adjust themselves to the new order of things. They were settled and were averse to moving, particularly those who had paid extortionate prices for the leases which they held. In addition to paying rents of $250 to $400 a month, some of the landladies had paid out from $7,000 to $10,000 merely for the privilege of obtaining the lease under which the premises were rented. Most of the inmates had little at stake, although many of them would have preferred to remain where they were. Looking upon themselves as outcasts of society they told the officers that it didn't make much difference to them, whether they continued in their life in Duluth or some other town.

New Law Closes District.

Although Commissioner Hicken, head of the division of public safety, had planned to close the district, the burden was taken from his shoulders by the passage of the injunction by the legislature at its last session. Under it no such places could continue to live. Any citizen could start the proceedings which would put them out of business. The owner of the property is penalized and held responsible, and under the new law the red light district of St. Croix avenue can never again be devoted to the uses which have made it notorious throughout this part of the country.

The injunction law becomes operative June 1, or next Sunday. The majority of the inmates are planning for the exodus Friday and Saturday. When Sunday rolls around not a dozen of the women will remain within the confines of the district. A few may stay to look after what property they have there, but the probability is that they will vanish within a very short time, either voluntarily or otherwise.

STUDENT ADMITS THEFT OF $300.

St. Louis, Mo., May 27.—William Schulz, the former divinity student at Concordia seminary, St. Louis, who was arrested in Denver recently for the embezzlement of $300 from the funds of the college publication of which he was manager, pleaded guilty in the circuit court here and was sentenced to five years' imprisonment. The sentence was stayed and Schulz was paroled to the custody of his father, Charles Schulz of Cleveland, who has agreed to make good the amount stolen. Schulz embezzled the $300 to pay the expense of his honeymoon when he recently married Miss Thelma Gillion, an actress.

NEW LAWS EACH MONTH

Periodical Addition of Regulations Provided for By Recent Session.

Important Measures Become Effective June 1 and July 1.

At the first of nearly every month from now on until the beginning of next year, one or more laws passed at the last session of the legislature will become effective. Only a few become effective June 1, but July 1 was a popular date with legislatures setting the effective time ahead of passage, and several important laws become effective Aug. 1.

June 1 the new red light abatement law, which is intended effectively to suppress vice in the cities will go into effect. After that date also local option will be extended to cities of the fourth class, shipments of cream may not be made over sixty-five miles except in refrigerator cars, and the new designation of court terms in the Eleventh district will become effective. The principal change made by the law fixing court terms is the abolition of separate terms at Hibbing and the adjournment of Virginia terms to that town.

Before the last Monday in June the new board of examiners in the department of labor and industry must hold competitive examinations for positions in the department, as well as all present positions except that of the commissioner will be vacated Aug. 1 and appointments must be made from the list of eligibles determined by examination.

Several laws are set to become effective July 1, among them the following:

Use of common drinking cups in public places prohibited; five-sixth jury law; new seed law; chattel mortgages to be filed with the register of deeds instead of with city and village clerks, except in cities of the first class; mileage books made interchangeable among members of the same family; law requiring duck and canvas tents and awnings to be stamped with the weight of material in ounces per yard; new law on negotiable instruments; law requiring notice of claim for injuries or damages to be filed with city or village clerks within thirty days after the claim accrues; new law defining grounds on which appeals may be made to the supreme court.

Aug. 1, the law reorganizing the department of labor goes into effect, and other laws becoming effective at the same time are: law requiring physicians to report occupational diseases to the commissioner of labor, repealing all standing appropriations, regulating the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine; establishing an employment agency for the blind, creating a department of public examiner.

The workingmen's compensation act will become effective Oct. 1.

MARQUETTE IS ALL WORKED UP

Visitor Says the Michigan Town Is Excited Over Roosevelt-Newett Trial.

George Harding of Marquette, registered at the Spalding, says the town is all agog over the trial of Theodore Roosevelt.

"Not for a number of years have Marquette and the country immediately surrounding it been so worked up over anything as over the libel suit that the former president of the United States has brought against the Ishpeming editor. When I left there last Sunday almost every one in the town was planning to be present when the case was called. The interest in the case is so great that the is about all that is heard on the streets of the town.

"Roosevelt has his friends there, and so has Mr. Newett, and the two factions have been fighting out the merits of the case before it has been called for trial.

"Hotel people of Marquette are putting extra cots in the halls and lobbies of their houses with the expectations of having people in the city for miles around. Many of the citizens of the little towns for several miles around, people who have never seen the former president, are planning to take this opportunity to see 'Teddy.'"

OLD-TIME BAND MASTER HERE

Ernest Meier Revisits Duluth After Absence of Fifteen Years.

Ernest Meier, Duluths old-time bandmaster, is back in the city for a short visit.

Mr. Meier left Duluth about fifteen years ago for Seattle and this is his first visit to his old home, where he lived from 1886 to 1898.

Two years after Mr. Meier came to Duluth he took charge of the city band, which he later organized into one of the strongest musical organizations in the Northwest. The band won a number of prizes at state gatherings and at one time accompanied a local trade excursion to Winnipeg. In the party were members of the board of trade, the city council and a number of business men.

The old Duluth city band was first organized by T. P. Brooke, now director of the famous Chicago Marine band, in 1884. Tow years later Edward Walker took charge and in 1888 Mr. Meier became the director. He had charge of the organization up to his departure for Seattle in 1898.

Upon Mr. Meier's departure the band was taken over by Jens Flaaten and the organization has since become the Third Regiment band.

Mr. Meier is just returning from Toronto, where he attended the eighteenth annual convention of the American Federation of Musicians as a delegate from the Seattle local, No. 76. He is accompanied by Mrs. Meier and during their stay in the city are the guests of Charles L. Rakowsky of Fond du Lac. They will remain in Duluth until next Tuesday.

SOO LINE MAY CHANGE ROUTE

Indications That Trains Will Soon Be Operated Through West Duluth.

One Track on Grassy Point Bridge May Be Used By Road.

Business men and residents of West Duluth are much interested in work being done along the bay front by the Soo railroad. The roadbed is being ballasted and placed in shape to take care of heavy traffic and people of this end of the city believe that it is being done for the purpose of running trains via West Duluth instead of over the interstate bridge as at present.

While officials of the road will give out no statements as yet, it is rumored that the passenger trains will be operated through this end of the city before another year has passed. The trains will cross the network of railroads in Superior to the Grassy Point bridge connecting with its own line on the Minnesota side of the Northern Pacific railroad bridge.

This bridge has recently been rebuilt and arranged so that it can accommodate a double track. One of these tracks will be laid for accommodation of the Soo trains in order that no switching will have to be done.

The business men are of the opinion that the railroad will construct its passenger and freight station near the foot of Ramsey street. This is said to be the most logical location for the station, being convenient to a good thoroughfare as well as the closest point to the principal business section of West Duluth.

DIVORCE ON COUNTERCLAIM

John W. Lundgren Given Decree, But Wife Shares in Property.

Woman Charges Desertion, and Husband Makes Allegations of Cruelty.

In the contested divorce action tried recently before Judge Dancer, in which Ella H. Lundgren, aged 63, sued her husband, John W. Lundgren, thirteen years her junior, for divorce on the grounds of desertion, the court today entered findings in favor of the husband on his counterclaim of cruelty.

Mrs. Lundgren resides at 28 South Forty-Sixth avenue west and Lundgren, who is an expert machinist employed at the Clyde Iron works, is rooming at 28 North Twenty-fourth avenue west. Mrs. Lundgren alleged that her husband left her on June 1, 1911, and asked for the divorce on that ground.

In his answer, Lundgren claimed that she had been cruel to him, in that she had falsely accused him of immoral practices and otherwise slandered him in the presence of neighbors. Because she refused to go with him to Elkhart, Ind., where he had employment, he claims that he felt obliged to leave her, and did so.

The court makes provision for Mrs. Lundgren in the matter of alimony and division of the property. Lundgren is ordered to convey her an undivided half interest in a lot at Oneota, to pay her attorney $75 as fees, and to pay a monthly alimony of $27.50 until a further order of the court is made.

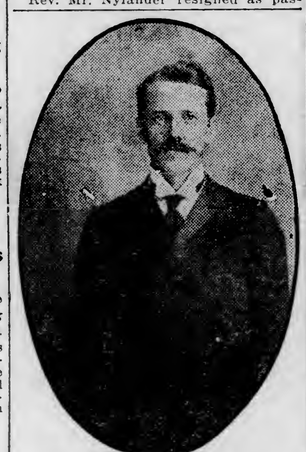
For the present Mrs. Lundgren will retain possession of the home at 25 South Forty-sixth avenue west, although the title to the property will remain in his name. The court orders her to pay half of the taxes.

REV. NYLANDER GOES TO SEATTLE

Former Pastor of Duluth Church Accepts Permanent Charge.

Rev. Gideon Nylander, who until fourteen months ago was pastor for several years of the Third Swedish Baptist church, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Ramsey street, will leave with his family on Monday for Seattle, Wash., where he has accepted a call to the First Swedish Baptist church.

Rev. Mr. Nylander resigned as pastor of the local church over a year ago on account of ill health. Since then he has filled vacant pulpits in different parts of the West in the hope of finding a place which would be more agreeable. He spent considerable time in Western Canada last fall and winter.



REV. GIDEON NYLANDER.

CALL EXTENDED TO REV. PAUL NWEEYA

Temporary Pastor of Plymouth Church Is Asked to Remain.

Rev. Paul Nweeya, who graduated this spring from a theological seminary in Chicago, and who has filled the pulpit of the Plymouth Congregational church of West Duluth and the Fond du Lac Congregational church for the past two Sundays has been extended an official call to remain in charge of the two churches. At a meeting of the congregation of the former church held last night the pastor was invited to become its pastor.

Rev. Mr. Nweeya is a native of Assyria. He came to this country seven years ago and since that time has worked his way through school and college.

Rev. Mr. Nweeya is a firm believer in social center work. If his plans are carried out the Plymouth church will be remodeled, a full basement put under it and rooms arranged where meetings of the nature of social center can be held. It will be planned to fit up the basement for a gymnasium which will be open every day to boys of the Sunday school.

BOAT CLUB MAY INSTALL LIGHTS

Members Say Government Does Not Properly Mark Channel.

At the meeting of the Western Boat club at Victor's hall tomorrow evening the members will discuss installing at the club's expense channel lights between the boat club and Fond du Lac. The lights will be placed so that the members will be able to navigate on the darkest nights.

Members of the club are taking this action because, they say, the government is not providing the proper lights for the channel. They say that except at the bend in the river the lights are so placed that it is impossible to see them at times.

The club proposes to place its lights from the boathouse to the channel and from there through the short cut south of Zenith Island and around Devils Elbow.

"It will be necessary for us to do this if we wish to stay out at all after dark," said Frank H. Wade, president of the club this morning. "The way it is at present few of the members know where the government channel is when leaving in the evening to go up stream or when to leave the channel when coming down. The lights are too far apart for any use as far as we are concerned, at times it being almost impossible to see them. I do not believe that it will cost a great deal to install our own lights over the short cut and it will be a great convenience to the members."

CHURCH SOCIETIES WILL BE ENTERTAINED.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the West Duluth Swedish Mission church will be entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Elnolander, 6407 Lexington street. The young people's society will be entertained by Mrs. Elnolander Thursday evening.

RELEASED ON TECHNICALITY, BUT IMMEDIATELY REARRESTED

Because the four young men who maintain the bachelor quarters at Fifteenth avenue east and Seventh street, which was burglarized about a month ago, each gave different street addresses for their residence when called as witnesses by the state yesterday afternoon in the prosecution of Stans Nowak, alleged burglar, the indictment which set forth a particular address was found to be faulty on a technicality and the case against the prisoner was dismissed.

Nowak, the young man on trial, however, gained nothing through the mistake of the state's witnesses. If he expected to walk from the room a free man, he was doomed for disappointment. During the progress of the trial, Mason M. Forbes, assistant county attorney, recognized the discrepancy and in anticipation of a motion to dismiss by Walter Gonska, attorney for the defendant, sent one of the young men out to swear out a new warrant for Nowak's arrest. After the motion had been disposed of by the court, an officer appeared with a warrant for the young man's arrest.

Nowak is now up against a stiffer proposition. It is understood that four charges of grand larceny, second degree, will be preferred against him and that he may also be held on the burglary charge. At the present time, he is being held for an examination on a charge of grand larceny, second degree preferred by one of the young men.

Nowak, the authorities claim, broke a window and forced an entrance into a bachelor's club on East Seventh street and stole a number of articles, including two revolvers, punching bag, baseball and glove, stick pin, cuff buttons, suit case and a number of articles of wearing apparel. He was arrested while attempting to sell the stolen loot at Superior.

The young men who appeared as witnesses for the state against Nowak were C. F. Bolton, Walter Nesgoda, J. F. Gauthier and Fred Johnson. On the stand yesterday, one of them gave the address of the house as 1526 East Seventh street, another as 1516½ East Seventh street, and another stated that the house didn't have any number but he thought it ought to be 1521 East Seventh street.

Nowak, the young man charged with the burglary, has been in trouble before. A number of years ago he was sent to the Red Wing training school. When arrested, he was on parole from that institution. He is 20 years old.

KEOKUK CURRENT KILLS BUILDER.

Keokuk, Oowa, May 27.—H. T. Herrick, superintendent of the Iowa division of the waterpower construction works, was instantly killed by a live wire last evening, only a day before the current from the big powerhouse, of whose building he had charge, was to be turned on for the city of Keokuk. A pole full of wires from the steam plant of the Keokuk Electric company fell out over the launch Sunshine, belonging to the waterpower company, moored at the foot of Ninth street. Herrick tried to push them off the boat and got 1,100 volts.

Herrick was married about a year ago to Miss Nellie Wray, a granddaughter of Judge H. H. Trimble. He was a graduate of Purdue university at Lafayette, Ind.

BALDWIN'S HEIRS GET PROPERTY.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 27.—The suit of Mrs. Ella Dalton Plummer to recover title to property at Arcadia valued at $2,600,000, a part of the estate of the late E. J. (Lucky) Baldwin, was decided yesterday in favor of the famous turfman's heirs by Judge Charles Welborn of the superior court. Mrs. Plummer's suit was based on her explanation that her father, Henry Dalton, in 1873 transferred the land in question to Louis Wolfskill to secure a loan of $10,000. Dalton gave Wolfskill a deed to the land and in return Wolfskill gave him a written defeasance, making him, it was contended by Mrs. Plummer, a mortgagee in possession of the land.

Wolfskill in 1875 transferred the land to Baldwin, who, according to Mrs. Plummer's contention, succeeded to Wolfskill's interests only.

The defense contended that Dalton gave Wolfskill a clear title to the land, and that the title in fee simply was transferred to Baldwin. The court upheld that view. The case has been in courts many years.

The aeroplane was in easy flight over the outskirts of the town when suddenly the carburetor took fire.

Ten new members were added yesterday afternoon, making an enrollment of forty-eight, six of whom are between 16 and 25 years old.

Greenfield of Lakeside. Rev. H. B. Sutherland of the Lakeside Presbyterian church will read the service at 5:30 o'clock in the presence of only relatives and a few intimate friends.

Her sister, Miss Eleanor Aske, will be the maid of honor and will wear a gown of pale blue silk with a chiffon over drape, and will carry pink Killarney roses. Mr. Greenfield will be attended by his brother, Walter Greenfield.

The ceremony will be performed under a canopy of smilax and ferns dotted with white rose buds built in the parlor and the wedding party will enter to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march played by Miss Marion Aske at the piano and Miss Emily Smith, violinist. Mr. Aske will give his daughter in marriage. After the ceremony Miss Rowna Hanson and Miss Marion Aske will play the Mendelssohn wedding march.

The decorations in the back parlor are in green and pink, pink roses being used, and in the dining room bride's roses have been effectively arranged for table decorations.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper will be served to the wedding guests, and this evening a large reception will be held from 8 to 10 o'clock. Mrs. J. H. Norton will assist Mrs. Aske about the parlors, and in the dining room Misses Rowna Hanson, Miss Esther Wood and Miss Marion Aske will assist.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Carelessness With Medicines Brings Deplorable Results.

The whole country had read within the past week or so of the deplorable case of the Macon, Ga., man who took a fatal poison by mistake, thinking he was taking a harmless antidote for headache.

Tragedies like this are not uncommon. In fact, one can scarcely pick up a paper without reading that someone has been the victim of such an accident. In the Georgia case the medicine had been placed accidentally in reverse receptacles, and the poor wife, in addition to her grief, blamed herself for the awful error.

Why people will persist in having poisons about the house is more than I can understand. If there are circumstances which make it necessary, certainly too much care cannot be exercised in the matter. Surely any vial or box containing poisonous liquid or tablets should not be placed at random in the medicine chest with other remedies that may come into daily use. Nothing is easier, especially in case of haste or excitement, than to pick up the wrong vial or box and, without noting the contents carefully, give the fatal dose, only to learn of the terrible mistake afterwards, when it may be too late.

I know of a young mother who learned a lesson in the matter only recently. Her baby boy had just recovered from an illness, and was still taking a tonic to build up his little body. This tonic was taken from the medcine chest and placed in the kitchen cupboard, where it would be more accessible when needed. Another bottle stood close by it, however, and one evening she got the wrong bottle—they looked very much alike, of course—and gave the baby a dose from it.

Immediately she discovered her mistake, and was nearly frantic. The other medicine was some she had been taking, but the doctor had prescribed only a few drops for her, and that diluted, but she had given the baby a full teaspoonful, not diluted at all. The doctor was summoned, and relieved the mother's mind by assuring her it could do no harm, after an emetic was given. But this mother and the whole family had a terrible half hour. As she reflected, it would have been the same had the bottle contained poison.

All medicine should be plainly labeled, with the purpose for which they were given written plainly thereon. Only those which are likely to be needed should be kept at all, and poisons should be thrown away or kept where there is no danger of their being administered by mistake.

FLORIST AWARDED $1,500 DAMAGES

Heat in Greenhouses Went Down and Landlords Must Pay.

Louis Viviase, florist at 302-306 East Superior street, will recover $1,500 damages from his landlords, John A. Stephenson and the Gregory company, against whom he brought suit in district court on the claim that his plants and flowers were damaged by freezing during December, because of the failure of the defendants to keep the greenhouse heated according to the provisions of his lease.

A jury in district court before Judge Ensign awarded Viviase this amount this morning after having been out for about one hour. The verdict was returned about 11:30 o'clock. The trial of the case occupied five days.

The plaintiff also claimed that the defendants leased an adjoining building to a man who dealt in gasoline engines, in spite of his objections at the time. Viviase claimed that the gasoline fumes also had a detrimental effect on his plants and flowers. He sued for $5,000 damages.

THE CONGDON BOULEVARD.

The city's part of the work of making the Congdon Lake Shore boulevard was begun yesterday afternoon when the city took formal steps to acquire by condemnation the balance of the right of way between this city and Two Harbors. Much of it has already been arranged for by private purchase, most of the owners of the land affected having met the proposal half way with a cordial desire to do their share toward making it a success.

The announcement of this splendid driveway was made through The Herald several weeks ago, but at that time the plans were so far from complete that The Herald was not at liberty to give the name of the citizen whose generous public spirit is making it possible.

The man who is to give Duluth a driveway which unquestionably will become the most famous roadway in the country is Chester A. Congdon, as many have guessed without difficulty. Always one of the most public spirited of citizens, with a keen interest in the welfare of the community and its people, he has taken an active part in many matters of public concern, and in his first term in the legislature, having this project in mind, he put through a law which made it possible.

The project is so big, and the generosity and public spirit behind it are so great, that few will appreciate the gift in its fullness until it is completed and on exhibition. It will be a lasting monument to the man who conceived it and who is to give it to the community in which he makes his home and to the welfare of which he has contributed always his best thought and his best efforts. That he is to give it actually and in the flesh, instead of leaving it in a will as many do, will add greatly to the pleasure and satisfaction Duluth will find in it.

The plans are understood to be most elaborate, and the cost will be close to a million dollars. Taken in conjunction with the Rogers boulevard along the hillside back of the city, it will undoubtedly be one of the wonders of the country, and besides giving pleasure to thousands it will be a first class advertisement for the community.

Work will be begun upon it as soon as the right of way is secured for the full distance between the beginning of London road at Ninth avenue east and Two Harbors, a length of twenty-seven miles along the shore of Lake Superior.

A California man got married all over again to the same woman, for $2,000,000. And the love of money is the root of all evil.

TARIFF BILL PROSPECTS.

Word driits out from Washington, from very reliable sources, that there isn't going to be nearly so much delay in the passage of the Underwood tariff bill by the senate as might have been feared because of Republican threats of a prolonged fight over a multitude of amendments.

Furthermore, it is now considered improbable that the bill will be changed materially, other than as the committee that is now considering it makes changes satisfactory to the administration and the party leaders.

On the whole, therefore, the prospect that the bill will pass the senate, in a form that will meet the hopes of those who looked for downward tariff revision from the extra session, is excellent.

Several things have contributed to this. The solidarity of the Democrats as shown by the vote on the proposal to require the committee to hold public hearings was the first crushing blow to the opposition. The intimation that President Wilson will consent to no material abatements in the forcefulness of the bill, and is likely to veto it if concessions are made, was another. And quite as effective as any of these, perhaps, and growing out of them, is the conviction among Republican senators that the country expects the bill to be passed and wants it to be passed, and that as useless delay can only have the effect of delaying prosperity there is little popularity to be gained by a dog-in-the-manger fight on the bill.

As to President Wilson's attitude, he has left little room for misunderstanding. Says the Washington correspondent of the Indianapolis News: "Persons who have talked with the president lately are confident that if the tariff bill should come to him in mutilated form he would veto it. He practically said this in his talk to the newspaper correspondents yesterday afternoon. The members of the cabinet feel that he would veto a bad tariff bill and still win with the people of the country. If it became necessary for him to veto a bill he would of course immediately reconvene congress in extra session and demand that it enact the kind of legislation the people demand."

It is much easier to get a fair tariff bill through, evidently, with a president who means business and a senate that must look to the people for re-election, instead of to legislatures and party bosses.

Seems kind o' queer, but it's a fact that the Republicans will expect the Democrats to furnish the foundation on which the graceless old party is to be reconstructed.

NEWSPAPER CIRCULATION, REAL AND BOGUS.

The Philadelphia Public Ledger, a newspaper with a great history mostly made in the days of George W. Childs, has lately come into the hands of Cyrus H. K. Curtis, who has made an amazing success with several periodical publications but has had no association with newspaper work since his younger days.

It will be interesting to note whether the policy that has built up the Ladies' Home Journal, the Saturday Evening Post and the Country Gentleman will avail in newspaper building—for putting the Public Ledger back where it was will be practically the same as building anew.

Mr. Curtis starts out rightly. In announcing the policy of the Public Ledger under the new management he says: "The Public Ledger's single appeal for patronage will be on its merits as a complete newspaper. Ingenious schemes for forcing circulation will be taboo. No money will be spent on what is not essential, to influence people to read it regularly; but money will be spent to make the Public Ledger the best morning newspaper ever produced in Philadelphia. No premium or gift of any sort will be offered as an inducement to subscribe for the Public Ledger; no cut rate will be offered, no clubbing plan or other seductive lure will be considered. The Public Ledger must stand on its own merits as a newspaper. No subscriber will be sought who does not want the Public Ledger for its intrinsic merit—for what he finds of interest in its pages. THE READER WHO IS 'INDUCED' TO TRY IT BY SOME 'GIMCRACK' GIFT OR EXTRANEOUS APPEAL IS OF NO VALUE EITHER TO THE PUBLIC LEDGER OR TO THE ADVERTISERS WHO EMPLOY ITS COLUMNS."

There the Public Ledger states a truth which is as thoroughly proved as any fact in the newspaper business. A newspaper which cannot thrive on its merits does not deserve to thrive. A newspaper which cannot satisfy its clientage by the character of its contents may bribe, but it cannot satisfy a clientage otherwise. There are newspapers which spend their money on petty bribes to stimulate circulation and to keep it inflated; but invariably they do so at the sacrifice of efficiency. They cannot publish real newspapers by diverting into these "extraneous" attractions the money needed to fill their columns with the right kind of material.

The Public Ledger's way is the right way, the only honest way, the only permanent way. It has been the policy of The Herald for a generation, for it early became convinced, to paraphrase the Public Ledger, that "the reader who is 'induced' to try it by some 'gimcrack' gift or extraneous appeal is of no value either to The Herald or to the advertisers who employ its columns."

The difference between a newspaper employing the policy set forth by the Public Ledger and one which seeks to bribe readers with pinchbeck gifts, is the difference between a newspaper and an advertising handbill.

The mikado is reported out of danger. That's one point where he puts it over both the czar and the king of Spain.

POSTOFFICE FINANCES.

That ex-Postmaster General Hitchcock, in his zeal to make a good showing, expunged the apparent deficit in the department's books by sacrificing efficiency was generally known.

And now a committee of postal officials makes it clear that he not only did that, but juggled the books to show a surplus when in fact there still was a deficit.

In other words, the department was managed, under the last regime, for political and personal glory and not for the good of the country. That it will be different under the new regime is already evident.

In point of fact, as The Herald long ago pointed out, there was much needless worry about the "deficit" in the postoffice department. That there appeared to be a deficit was because no count was taken of the service performed by the department for the government. If each department had been charged with the mail matter carried for it, it would have been clear that the postoffice department has been self-sustaining for many years.

What the public wants is the best possible postal service at the lowest possible cost. To that end there should be an abatement of the franking abuses, to begin with; and the books of the department should be honestly kept, as they will be under Wilson and Mr. Burleson, and as they were not under Taft and Mr. Hitchcock.

Vesuvius is grumbling again—probably about the spring weather.

SAYS LOW WAGE IS NOT THE CAUSE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I do not purpose to take issue with the gentlemen who so earnestly protest that the present day's low standard of wages is the sole cause of prostitution. I would not hazard their presumption that my attitude may be construed as an attack upon the political principles they advocate. I concur with these gentlemen and their theories in as far as they declare that some peculiar system about or within us must be revolutionized to effect a solution of the vice question. I shall not endeavor to solve the problem of prostitution in the course of my few remarks. I emphatically deny, however, that the improvement in our industrial system (if it be needed), will be accompanied by improvement in our vice situation. I am dubious also that prostitution's perplexities began as late as the Roman era. Prostitution was called into being by the same forces that today establish its security. That force is—Demand. Demand began with man and his creation. Should anyone ask why records do not show traces of this evil before the Roman era I can only answer that before the Roman era very bare records of any description were kept, notwithstanding that we have the Old Testament. The Old Testament, practically the only record of the period antedating this era is a work by and about characters whose standards of living were exemplary. Records of the masses' habits, practices and standards have unfortunately not been perfectly preserved.

Will remoulding of our economics decrease this demand? Does segregation influence this demand? Will law enforcement decrease this demand? Hamper the supply as you will, you are still confronted with this demand, a force which is a thousand times more powerful antagonist than is supply. Never will prostitution be eliminated until demand is eliminated. But how are you to eliminate demand, being as it were, born with man, a passion as instinctive with him as respiration? Measures might be designed wherewith to check, harness, bully or keep this demand at bay and improvement at last procured, but wound the forces of supply as you will, you have wrought no improvement. Respectfully yours,

DR. S. G.

Duluth, May 26.

REPLIES TO MR. LOUDAN.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In your paper for May 17 I read a letter from a Mr. Loudan and I never was more disgusted in my life. A man who will uphold and encourage vice ought to be chased out of town. It will be the ruin of many young girls he says. Does it not occur to him that those places every year ruin thousands of young men. Is that nothing or does he think that it is all right for men to be immoral? He says human nature demands it. How shocking!

I wonder if Mr. Loudan ever reads the Bible? If he does I do not think he found it there. Every clean-minded man and woman will help break this evil. It is just as important to keep our boys pure as it is the girls. If I were a woman I would never marry a man that had stepped inside a house of ill fame if I knew it. I would despise him as I would a filthy dog. I am a man but my nature never demanded I should go to such a hell hole. A man can control his animal nature if he wants to. All good men and women will rejoice to see such places cleaned out. Yours truly,

A. C. RENN.

Some Run.

Everybody's Magazine: A certain haunted house down in Georgia was held in terror by all the negroes in the vicinity except Sam, who bravely declared that for $2 he would sleep there all night. A purse was raised and Sam was told to carry out his end of the bargain and to call in the morning for the money. When morning came no trace could be found of Sam: the house contained nothing but evidences of a hurried departure. A search party was organized, but without result.

Finally four days later, Sam, covered with mud, came slowly down the road.

"Hi, dere, nigger!" yelled a bystander, "where's you been de las' fo' days?"

To which Sam curtly responded: "Ah's been comin' back."

A Hint to the Tax Gatherer.

Pearson's Weekly: The difficulty Mr. Lloyd-George has had in deciding what to tax and what to leave untaxed in this year's budget recalls the story told of an earlier chancellor of the exchequer who was reduced to despair in similar circumstances.

Finally he decided to consult a friend who had on several occasions helped him to find fresh sources of revenue, and having written to this friend he waited hopefully for his reply.

The friend's suggestion came by return of post.

"Put a tax on umbrellas," he wrote, "and make the bishops order the prayer for rain to be read in all the churches!"

Her Wish.

Denver Times: A Baltimore man tells of receiving a unique note acknowledging a wedding present sent by him on the occasion of the marriage of his chum.

"Your lovely etching was received," wrote the bride, "and gives us both pleasure. It is now in the parlor hanging above the piano, where we hope to see you very soon, and as often as you find it agreeable."

The Tariff in the Senate

By Sawyard.

Washington, May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Hon. Penrose, a senator in congress from the state of Pennsylvania and a disciple of the political school of the late Boss Quay, has worked himself into a state of mind over the tariff question. Mr. Penrose is the leader of his party in the United States senate, head of the Republican contingent of the finance committee, thus succeeding William Pitt Fessenden, John Sherman, Justin S. Morrill and Nelson W. Aldrich in that station, Pennsylvania, the plum orchard, is a stall-fed state, living off provender supplied by non-prohibited communities, and as a mendicant its hat is about as full as that of New England. It is the home of the steel trust, of the coal trust, of the tin trust, of the carpet trust, and numerous other insatiate tariff beggars.

Impregnably intrenched in her monopoly of the American market, Pennsylvania enjoys free trade in labor, and here are some of the nationalities of the "American Labor" she imported and put to work at scant wages in the mines, furnaces and shops of the steel trust: Arabian, Austrian, Bohemian, Bosnian, Bulgarian, Croatian, Czech, Dalmatian, Finnish, Japanese, Korean, Macedonian, Magyar, Montenegrin, Polish, Roumanian and Russian. The steel trust imported these gentry from abroad, and each one of the thousands of them got the job of an American laborer, and here they are—Penrose, Gallinger, Alden, Smith, Root, Oliver, Burton—the entire lay-out of the henchmen of privilege, in the United States senate—prating about the "dignity of American labor." Mark you, I have no objection to healthy and legitimate immigration. On the contrary, I approve it.

Penrose is not pleased with the way the tariff was treated in the house of representatives. Of course he is not; the protected interests did not write it. It was made by the representatives of the American people in the interest of those who pay the taxes, and not for the benefit of those gorged with tariff graft. That is why Mr. Penrose objects to the bill and he will fight it to the last ditch. That is the only mission he ever had in politics—to tax one citizen for the benefit of another citizen. That is the only mission the Republican party has had in politics the past third of a century, and that is what killed it.

The Underwood bill was made in the open and when it becomes a law it will benefit fifty where it will injure one. It will hurt nobody but somebody who ought to be hurt. For example, those manufacturers who are employing antiquated machinery and poorly equipped plants will have to go out of business or improve their facilities. It is the worst sort of husbandry to use a machine that, with the same labor, will produce only one-third what a later and up-to-date machine will turn out of the same article. It is a hardship on the entire community and a piece of stupidity on the part of the concern that practices it.

That is one of the offices of protection—to make an old and worn-out and ill-equipped manufacturing plant profitable. It is the very meaning of the word "protection." It implies inferiority. It was developed before the Stanley committee that many of the plants of the steel trust are out-of-date, fit only for old junk, incapable of competing with the latest and most improved machinery, but the steel trust, having a monopoly of the American market by virtue of the tariff, continues to operate those antiquated plants, and American consumers of its wares pay the outrageously enhanced cost of production.

The Democratic tariff will force every manufacturer to go out of business, or build the best mill, and equip it with the most efficient machinery, that can be had. That is for the common weal. It will benefit the manufacturer even more than the purchaser of his wares. It is good husbandry. It avoids waste. It is the soul of economy. Monopoly is not energetic. It requires competition to get the best results of human endeavor.

Boss Penrose—that is, he was a boss—is distressed because of the "Spanish Inquisition" that he imagines the Democratic party has fetched into congress. Dope, dope, dope. That is the way they made the Dingley law and it is the way they made the Payne-Aldrich tariff. Both those measures were writ by the manufacturers. So much fat was fried out of them to buy the elections and they were permitted to write so much graft in the tariff bills. It was a bargain and sale. The people of the United States were put on the block and knocked down to the highest bidders—the trusts. There was no concealment about it. It was an open transaction. The G. O. P. turned the government over to the people who had repeatedly bought the presidency for the "Party of Great Moral Ideas." Everything is grist that comes into the Republican hopper. Once it stigmatized the Mormon church as the twin relic of barbarism along with African slavery. Now that church is become the very citadel, the last ditch, of the party of Lincoln and Grant, of Aldrich and of Cannon. Reed Smoot, the high priest of the Mormon church, is the ablest and best trusted champion of the G. O. P. in the United States senate.

"When he speaks,

The air, a charter'd libertine, is still,"

on the Republican side. He is the authority on all matters economic. And, by the way, a devilish smart man is the Hon. Smoot. He carted the Mormon church into the camp of the G. O. P. Vermont and Utah, faithful ever.

Here is the way Schedule K was made. The Wool trust sent its secretary here, a Mr. North. He wrote Schedule K. Aldrich himself did not know what it was. Not a single senator or representative of either party knew what it was. Only the wool trust and Mr. North knew anything about it. It became the law, and the wool trust was so delighted with the work of its henchman that it voted Mr. North $5,000 in excess of his salary. And that was not all—the wool trust forced a Republican president to make Mr. North director of the census. And do you know, it is worth a heap to the tariff grafters to have the census supervised by one of their henchmen? Fact.

Well, this Democratic tariff is not made that way, and that's what's the matter with Penrose. Why fiddle, Senator? Rome is not afire.

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The recent decision of the superior court of Massachusetts to don "flowing robes of black" for the purpose of boosting the dignity of the court recalls the case of Former Delegate Rodey of New Mexico.

Shortly after Rodey left congress he was appointed Federal judge of Porto Rico by President Roosevelt. Just before he left Washington to enter on his new job, Rodey consulted a friend here in the department of justice about what he ought to wear on the bench. He thought that perhaps he ought to go to the same woman who makes robes for the justices of the United States supreme court and have her take his measure.

"I don't believe I would go in for too much dignity down there," advised Rodey's friend. "It seems to me that you ought to set them a good example in democracy. Go on the bench in a nice business suit of clean linen, such as they wear down in those tropical countries, and if you can't command the respect of the bar and the people in that simple garb quit the job and come on home."

Four years later, when Rodey's term expired, he was again in Washington, and his friend asked him what he ever did about the little matter of judicial garb.

"When I went there," said Rodey, "they showed me a gorgeous black robe with lace on the collars and cuffs and cords to tie it with, and they told me to wear it. But I didn't."

"And what became of the robe?" the friend asked.

"Oh," replied Rodey, "the janitor died one day and I got them to use it for a shroud to bury him in."

So that is what became of the gorgeous gown of the Federal court of Porto Rico.

William Flynn, head of the United States Secret service, inquired one day of a counterfeiter he had just caught, whatever got him into such business.

"Is it because you had any difficulty getting other work to do?" he asked.

"No," replied the counterfeiter, "I could have earned a good living, and I am not a man of expensive tastes, but you have no idea how fascinating it is just to make your own money—make it, you know, just as you need it. You are not bothered with banking or investments, or anything of the sort. When you need a little money you simply go and make it. Nothing could be more fascinating."

A United States senator and a member of the lower house sat in the outer office of the secretary of the treasury one morning recently waiting to see McAdoo. Each had an appointment for the same hour, and when the time came the private secretary was loath to decide which should go first, so he suggested to them that as they were both older than he they decide for themselves. The senateor let the representative go first, apparently with good grace, but when the man had gone the senator showed thar he was greatly vexed over having to wait for a mere representative. He walked over to the private secretary with flushed face and said:

"Let me suggest that the rules of precedence that have been in force here for a great many years be still followed."

"Very well, senator," replied the private secretary with politeness. "I thought I would let you gentlemen decide for yourselves—each of you being much older than I—but we'll have it as you wish."

Even as he spoke the Swiss minister entered. As soon as McAdoo's inner office was cleared the senator rose to go in.

"Just a minute," said the private secretary, "you see if we follow the rules of precedence strictly, I'll have to let you wait." And he ushered in the Swiss minister ahead of him.

The senator sat and gnashed his teeth for some moments and looked as if he were about to burst into tears, but after a time he grew comparatively cheerful.

Arthur B. Krock, Washington correspondent for the Louisville Courier-Journal, has an office boy who looks on him with a great deal of awe and veneration. One day Krock started out of the office, remarking: "Well, I must go over to the White House. I'll be back in an hour or so."

The next day he chanced to drop a similar remark about going to the White House.

A morning or two later a caller appeared at Krock's office.

"Ain't here," said the office boy.

"And where is he, pray?"

"Up at the White House, I reckon," replied the boy, pridefully; you know he spends a couple of hours with the president every morning."

At an informal tariff hearing before a senate sub-committee the other morning, the subject of the duty on peanuts came up.

"I'm in favor of placing peanuts on the free list," said John Sharp Williams, "provided that does not interfere with the chief by-products of peanuts."

"What are the chief by-products of peanuts?" asked Senator Gore.

"Circuses," replied John Sharp.

Ripping Story, Old Chap!

New York Press: Sir Donald Mann, of the Canadian parliament, is stopping at a local hotel.

"The other day," said Sir Donald, "I witnessed a funny scene in a refreshment room of the Canadian Pacific station in Montreal. An Englishman was sitting at one of the large tables, and next to him a man who seemed to belong to the humbler walks of life.

"'Please pass me those potatoes,' said the man to the elegant gentleman. The latter slowly focused his eyeglass on the speaker and haughtily asked, 'Did you think I was one of the waiters?' I expected to see our poor friend shrivel up, but he turned and beckoned to a waiter:

"'George, come here, please.'

"'What is it, sir?' asked George.

"'I want to apologize to you. You see, I mistook this party here for you, but I hope you won't be offended at it. And now pass me those potatoes.'

"That's what you call a boomerang, eh, what?" laughed Sir Donald.

A Community of Interest.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Green seem to have little to do but talk across the fence."

"Yes, they have plenty to talk about. Mrs. Brown has just come out of the hospital and Mrs. Green thinks of going."

She (still more cautiously)—If you knew I would say "Yes" would you propose?

Duluth and The Herald

Bouquets and Brickbats from the State Press.

Humane and Wise.

Minneapolis Journal: The United States Steel company has set aside $1,300,000 for the building of a model town in connection with its new steel plant near Duluth. Housing must be furnished for the workmen of the new plant. If the company did not take the matter into its own hands, the inevitable result with a preponderance of foreign laborers would be the growth of a slum district. So it has been settled that from the outset the workmen are to be well housed in a sanitary town, with plenty of light and air and good drainage for all.

The steel company's action is both humane and wise. It is in accordance with the humanitarian spirit of the times. Also it is good business. Squalid premises, inadequate houses and generally unsanitary conditions inevitably affect the morale of a body of workmen, and cause deterioration in the quality of their labor. Good housing is an essential element in industrial efficiency.

Duluth Is Not Alone.

Crosby Crucible: "It's cool in Duluth," and we got a shuddering whiff of it. The saving gladness is that we hadn't changed 'em yet.

They're Coming.

Madison Western Guard: The commission form of government seems to be a splendid success in Duluth and will be adopted by many other cities in the state ere long.

Paying Investment.

Aurora News: One million dollars has been appropriated by the steel corporation with which to build homes for their workmen at the steel plant at Duluth. Proper housing conditions for employes has proved a paying investment for large concerns and there is an effort in all cities toward the same end.

Come Along!

Northfield News: The proposed excursion of Minnesota editors to the iron range in July bids fair to fail to materialize this year also, due to lack of a sufficient number of editors enrolling for the trip. Duluth renewed its generous entertainment offer on condition that seventy-five editors participate. Considering the low cost, the educational value of such a trip and the entertainment which the live wires in Duluth and on the range will provide the country editors should not be slow in registering for the excursion.

Duluth a Clean City.

Virginia Enterprise: Hicken has been doing a good deal to make the Zenith City a counterpart of the holy city, and if current report is true he is succeeding admirably. Under his regime the state liquor laws are being rigidly enforced and the death knell of the so-called restricted district has been sounded.

Should Be Backed Up.

Hill City News: During the city campaign citizens of Duluth demanded pledges from all candidates in regard to law enforcement and for cleaning the city of the social evil. Now Commissioner of Public Safety W. A. Hicken is carrying out the promises he made. The citizens of Duluth who clamored for a clean city should back up Mr. Hicken at this time.

Out of Date Tariff Gloom

Indianapolis News: In the face of the cheery and bracing gospel of self-respect and self-confidence from an up-to-date manufacturer like Secretary of Commerce Redfield, tremblings of horror over the prospects of tariff reduction must look decidedly out of date. This vague, mysterious dread of somebody abler or better than ourselves is to his mind, he says, one of the great curses that the tariff has brought upon us. There might have been some justification for a little lack of confidence twenty-five years ago when we had not yet won our spurs in foreign fields. But it is certainly strange in these days when American manufactured goods are going abroad to the extent of something like $1,500,000,000 a year or about $5,000,000 a day for the ordinary working year.

The effect of the Underwood tariff bill as foreseen by Secretary Redfield is that it will jolt more American manufacturers into efficiency and prosperity. The tariff, he says, has protected profits, but it has not protected manhood. It has fostered inefficiency and tended to preserve out of date methods. It is unjust to the American people to tax them so that certain manufacturers may be coddled in their old and inefficient ways. Having been dealt with so long in this way, of course, it may be wise to give them opportunity gradually to readjust themselves. But surely the evidence of our great exports must make it plain that self-dependence has been already reached by many. And it can not be without significance that it is generally the least protected manufacturers that are best able to meet foreign competition and are most successful in export trade. Nor is it without significance that it is the industries paying high wages that are most successful.

The old assertion that protection must be maintained in order that the high rate of American wages may be kept up is partly due to fallacy and partly to pretense. The fallacy is in confusing labor cost with the wage rate. It has been demonstrated many times that high wages are more likely than low wages to represent high efficiency and low labor cost. Mr. Redfield gives many examples of this in his writings and speeches, and contends that it is the duty of the manufacturer to examine into his own methods and study the many other factors that go to enter into cost rather than to fall back on this time-worn excuse.

Man's Heart Is Clean.

Collier's Weekly: Man is worthy of a fairer life and destiny than any of his leaders have yet devised. The impulses of his heart are better than anything that finds expression in the angry, overstrained acts of his daily struggle. Some deeper, sweeter tone than the whir of machines and the clamor of the streets will dominate the time to come.

Taking Their Turn.

Kansas City Journal: "Why station a policeman beside this park bench?"

"It is newly painted."

"He can't keep people from testing fresh paint."

"No; but he can keep 'em in line."

Genius.

Detroit Free Press: "Is he clever?"

"Well, he can hang his own wall paper and paint his own kitchen floor."

Evidence.

Life: "Is she a woman of culture?"

"I think she must be. She says she prefers the 'movies' and vaudeville to the regular drama."

The Call to the Colors

I.

On the blood-watered soil of the Balkans
A Bulgar lies clenched with a Turk.
And the task of the cannon and rifle
Will be finished by fist and by dirk.
And the last word of hate ere the rattle
Of death bids their enmity cease—
Is it call to the banners of battle
Or a call to the colors of Peace?

II.

In the purlieus of sin-befogged cities,
Slow food of neglect and of pest,
How many a mother lies dying,
With tomorrow's pale scourge at her breast!
And the bread-cry that serves for the prattle
Of orphans—(oh, when shall it cease?)—
Does it call to the banners of battle.
Or call to the colors of Peace?

III.

I hear from my window this morning
The shout of a soldiering boy;
And a note in his proud pleasure wounds me
With the grief that is presaged by joy.
I hear not the drum's noisy rattle
For the groan of one hero's release;
Is it call to the banners of battle,
Or a call to the colors of Peace?

IV.

O ye of the God-given voices,
My poets, of whom I am proud,
Who sing of the true and the real
When illusions are dazzling the crowd:
Go, turn men from wolves and from cattle,
Till Love be the one Golden Fleece.
Oh, call us no more unto battle,
But call to the colors of Peace!

ABOUT INFLAMMATION OF THE KNEE JOINT

I have received a letter from "F. K.," who writes:

"Dear Doctor—Would you kindly give me information as to whether synovitis of the knee joint of three years' standing is curable or not?

It is impossible to say "yes" or "no" to this question without knowing something about what is the cause of the inflammation of the joint. You do not say whether you mean the knee joint proper, or just that outer part which holds the knee-cap, known as the Patella. The two cavities are entirely separate, though they appear to be all in one.

If the knee joint inflammation has been caused by the tuberculosis, the condition is curable only by a surgical operation. Thus far no serums or medicinal remedies have proved successful, although some of them have been widely advertised.

If, on the other hand, the knee joint is simply stiffened from any previous inflammation, the result of an accident, a cure can oftentimes be readily effected. This, of course, means in cases where the inflammation has not been caused by any virulent type of bacteria.

The patient should be placed under an anesthetic and the adhesions broken up by forcible and vigorous bending of the knee. If this inquirer's letter had stated more of the details regarding the condition, I, in turn, could be able to give a more detailed reply. Some knee joint inflammations are the result of gonorrhea, some come from syphilis, some are the result of other germs.

The appearance of the joint, any redness, swelling, tenderness, discharge, etc.—all these things have a very practical meaning to a doctor making a diagnosis and treating a case of bone and joint disorder.

During the last five years our knowledge and scientific skill has advanced so far that I can tell you, in a general way, that you need not feel discouraged. Go consult the best surgeon in your city, and FOLLOW HIS ADVICE. The degree of pain and any past accident will also mean a lot in telling you "yes" or "no" as to whether synovitis of the knee joint three years old is curable or not. I should like to hear from you again more in detail.

Editor's Note.—The policy of this paper is to be of the utmost service to its readers. This means more than merely to furnish you the news. It aims to aid in the great work of adding to your health and happiness. There's always a way when determination is coupled with practical common sense. We can do it. Humanity is fighting to learn the truth. It is this latter truth which is precisely what the feature The Doctor's Helps tells. You are privileged to ask any questions of this department, but write in care of the editor.

MAN HAS NARROW ESCAPE IN FIRE

Charles Olson Awakened By Rocks Thrown Through Windows.

A midnight fire in the Home Laundry building, 15 North Twentieth avenue west, came near causing the death of Charles Olson last night. Rocks thrown his window woke him up and before he could grope his way through the smoke in the hallway of the building he was nearly overcome.

Olson was rooming in the front room of the second floor of the building. At first it was believed that no one was living there but a chance rock thrown by a fireman to ascertain if some one lived there woke him up. His room was filled with smoke at the time and crawling along the floor to the staircase he made his way out.

The fire is believed to have started in rooms in the rear of the building occupied by M. Levy. A pair of oil soaked overalls left in a suitcase owned by Walter Smith, a painter, is thought to have been ignited by spontaneous combustion. The rear part of the building was damaged causing a loss of approximately $400. The laundry was only partially damaged.

Blaze in Box Car.

A blaze in an empty box car gave department No. 2 a run to the Northern Pacific yards at 10:50 o'clock last night. The fire was put out with only a small loss. It is thought to have started from sparks from an engine.

Alumni Will Meet.

The Adams Alumni association will hold a business meeting Thursday evening in the school building, Seventeenth avenue west and Superior street, for the purpose of making final plans for its annual banquet to be given early in June. Committees to handle the affair will be appointed.

This includes about 30,000 barrels of cement which will be used in making the 25,000 cubic yards of concrete estimated as required for the foundation. It is planned to have this part of the work far enough advanced so as to begin putting up the steel early in July.

STOCK NOT DUTIABLE

Where Animals Stray Across Border to Feed, Says Judge.

Butte, Mont., May 27.—Judge Bourquin of the United States court rendered a decision Monday which may establish an international precedent. It was in a suit entitled "the United States versus eighty-five head of cattle."

A herd strayed from Canada into Montana some days ago and was seized by customs officers. The United States claimed duty on the cattle and the Canadians appealed. Judge Bourquin decided that where cattle feed near the boundary and stray across the boundary they were not dutiable. The court remarked that settlers in the sections involved were in moderate circumstances and it should not be the policy of the government to harass them.

ROSENBERGS ARE SENTENCED.

Fort Wayne, Ind., May 27.—Dave Rosenberg was given a sentence of two to twenty-one years in the state penitentiary, and Ben Rosenberg was given a suspended prison sentence of two to fourteen years, and paid a fine of $25 and costs. They pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of arson.

Abe Franklin, the third man against whom an indictment was returned in connection with the same investigation, probably will not be placed on trial until the fall term of court here. He is at liberty on bond.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

BIG MEET AT GRAND FORKS

Many Are Expected for State Sunday School Association Convention.

Parade of Many Sunday School Workers Will Be Big Feature.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the features of the North Dakota Sunday school association convention to be held here June 10-12 will be a parade with a thousand or more Sunday school workers in line. Many people are expected to the meeting which promises to be a record breaker.

Tuesday afternoon, June 10, will be given over to the reception and registration of delegates. The convention chorus will sing at 8 in the evening following a joint band concert, and at 8:20 the third annual graduation exercises of the teachers' department will be held.

Wednesday morning, June 11, the formal opening of the convention sessions will take place. C. L. Young, assistant attorney general, will be the first speaker, after which the question, "The Possibilities of the Small School" will be taken up, with Dr. J. M. Walters of Fargo, R. W. Adair of Larimore, Mrs. E. C. Knapp of Spokane, Wash.; W. S. Athearn of Des Moines as the speakers. W. C. Pearce of Chicago closes the morning session with an address.

Some Department Reports.

Reports of department superintendents will be received in the afternoon. These will be by Mrs. Ella M. Snow, Mrs. M. H. Tousley of Beach, Dr. Wallace N. Stearns of Fargo, J. W. Widdefield of Leal, R. W. Adair of Larimore, F. G. Behner of Fargo, G. W. Barnum of Bottineau, and W. J. Lane of Fargo.

Officers will then report, these being by President A. L. Bishop of Fargo, Secretary Walter A. Snow of Fargo, and Treasurer M. B. Cassell of Hope. The various counties then make their reports for work during the past year and make their pledges for the coming year. The presentation of banners closes the afternoon session, with the convention supper following.

W. E. Carpenter of Brazil, Ind., talked in the evening on "The Sunday School Vision;" Prof. Athearn talks on "Next Steps in Religious Education," and Dr. Adam Geibel of Philadelphia will also talk.

Thursday morning there will be department sessions. In the afternoon "Sunday School Evangelism" will be the theme, the election of officers, selection of next meeting place, executive board meeting and other business features also being scheduled. The last addresses by the visiting Sunday school experts will be given in the evening.

SEEKING AID IN EVERY COUNTY

Prisoners' Aid Society Would Like Volunteers to Help in Work.

St. Paul, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state board of parole has been engaged for some time in organizing a prisoners' aid society for the state of Minnesota. The initial steps were taken last winter, when letters were addressed to every member of the legislature asking for suitable men in every legislative district who would volunteer to act as members of this society. The work has now progressed so far as to be nearly ready to be put into operation.

Dr. S. G. Smith, who has had charge of organizing the work of this department, in speaking of it, said:

"We are extremely anxious to have representatives in every county of the state, but they must be men of responsibility and particularly of the right temperament. The men on parole often need the friendly counsel of a man who understands human nature and especially of a man who believes in human nature. Large numbers of these prisoners are not bad men at heart, but, by reason of unfortunate circumstances or bad habits, have fallen into crime. A little volunteer sympathy and wisdom will often keep them in the right path. It is impossible for the paid agents of the state to visit the men as frequently as is desirable, and, besides, there is a certain work that can be done by volunteer service that can never be done by any paid agency whatsoever.

Fifty Counties Volunteer.

"About fifty counties have already furnished volunteers. It is desirable that every county in the state be covered. It is not anticipated that any volunteer agent will have more than one man whom he is supposed to befriend, nor is it expected that he will be the employer of the man, but rather that he will meet him on human grounds and assist if there is any difficulty between the man and his employer or if there is any danger in his moral surroundings. It is not a heavy burden, and should engage the best efforts of the best citizens. The state board of parole will be extremely glad if men in the various counties who are willing to serve in this capacity will report to their own members of the legislature and have their names sent in to the board of parole. The board will then communicate with the individuals, giving them directions as to what is expected of them.

"The indeterminate sentence and the parole law can be made ten-fold more useful by the thorough organization of the Prisoners' Aid society, which shall reach every man who is out and which shall cover every county in the state."

JOHNSTON'S CREAM BILL IS UNPOPULAR

Act Limiting Railroad Cream Shipments Locked Upon as Freak.

St. Paul, Minn., May 27.—Attorney General Smith is trying to find out whether the state legal department wants to take the burden of enforcing the Johnston cream bill, which prohibits the shipment of cream more than sixty-five miles by railroad unless pasteurized or in refrigerator cars.

The obvious intent of the legislator was to make it a health measure, but no less an authority than Dr. H. N. Bracken, secretary of the state board of health, refuses to have anything to do with it on that ground.

"It is just a fool law," Dr. Bracken said. "The idea that it has anything to do with public health is preposterous. For instance, cream may be carried thirty miles in a wagon over rough country roads to a station within the sixty-five-mile limit, let stand on the platform for a week and then still can be shipped in a refrigerator car. On the other hand, good fresh cream cannot be shipped from a station seventy miles from its destination unless the law is complied with. I will not have anything to do with the law as a health measure."

As to Commercial Advantages.

The attorney general then turned to Joel G. Winkjer, state dairy and food commissioner. He has volunteered to furnish data as to commercial advantages of the law and to show that it would, if enforced, tend to make Minnesota butter bring better prices, but he cannot vindicate it as a health measure.

Mr. Smith must appear in the Federal district court on Wednesday to fight the suit brought by R. E. Cobb & Co. and the Tilden Produce company to restrain the railroads from enforcing the law, which goes into effect June 1. The ground for the action is that the regulation is unreasonable and contrary to the fourteenth amendment of the Federal Constitution.

Griggs County Fair Dates.

Cooperstown, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—June 26 and 27 are the dates selected for the annual exhibit of the Griggs County Fair association. Griggs county has advanced rapidly in thoroughbred horses and beef cattle, and the farmers are just now being awakened to the advantages of dairy cattle. It is expected the exhibits of these breeds will be interesting.

KILLED TWO WIVES.

Is Charge Against Negro Porter Arrested in St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., May 27.—James Black, a negro porter, was arrested here, charged with murdering his wife, who died April 19. According to the coroner's certificate, she died from strychnine poisoning. The drug was taken by mistake, it was said. An investigation is being held.

A letter was received by the police department here from the chief of police at Springfield, Ill., saying that he held a warrant for Black, who is accused of having attempted to kill a former wife in that city in 1910. It is claimed at Springfield he was known as Ben Barker. The police say an investigation will be made of the death of still another wife who died at Louisville, Ky., in 1905.

CROOK WILL REFORM.

Aged Evil Doer Tells Milwaukee Police So and Is Released.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 27.—"My days as a thief are over. I am too old to be a crook now. If I tried to do a job I would be caught at it and I don't want to die in prison. I have reformed and will go to the wheat fields if you will only let me go," was the appeal of Thomas Murphy, 75 years old, to the Milwaukee police. Seventeen years ago Murphy, alias Moffet, was arrested here by Detective D. J. Sullivan for highway robbery and sent to prison for two years. Since leaving the Wisconsin penitentiary Murphy has served time at Joliet, Cleveland, Chicago and Detroit.

Murphy, when first arrested, was known as the "Beau Brummel" among crooks because of his fastidious style of dress. Monday the same man, bewhiskered, stoopshouldered, tottering and in rags, was recognized and taken into custody by the same detective who caught him the first time, seventeen years ago, though they had not met during the interim.

He was given his liberty.

McGOVERN VETOES DIRECT MARKET ACT.

Madison, Wis., May 27.—A bill directing the state industrial commission to establish a system of direct marketing was vetoed by Governor McGovern Monday. The bill, which was introduced by Speaker Hull, would give the commission power to furnish the names of accredited farmers to reputable consumers from a "fair list" to be compiled.

The governor declared the bill was unwise and unconstitutional and questioned the right of the state to spend the public money to assist prospective purchasers and sellers of farm produce to bargain with each other.

LAUNDERERS' MEETING.

Delegates for Several Northwestern States Gather in St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., May 27.—The American laborer was criticised as being too independent and Norwegian, Swedish and Irish named as the most successful in laundry work in an address by O. M. Tiffany of Aberdeen, S. D., principal speaker Monday before the Northwestern Launderers' association, which opened a two-day convention here in the morning. He advocated the adoption of a commission plan of paying employes as the only successful method of coping with new wage and limited working day laws.

Launderers from North and South Dakota, Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota, are included in the association of which C. M. Way, St. Paul, is president. An interesting feature of Monday's program was a talk by Maj. Taylor of Indianapolis, credited with being the oldest active laundry man in America. He was unanimously voted an honorary life membership to the Northwestern association.

Last night the delegates were guests at a banquet and ball, given by the order of "goats" an organization of salesmen of laundry machinery and accessories. Officers will be elected and meeting places named for the 1914 convention at today's session.

COMING TO LEARN.

New Yorkers Also to Study Conditions at Wisconsin University.

Madison, Wis., May 27.—That there is a probability of a pilgrimage of New Yorkers to the state to study the works of the University of Wisconsin became known here Monday. J. W. Leib, a member of the New York Board of Trade, who accompanied the Pennsylvania party, asked Dean Reber whether the university would receive a delegation from New York to study the work of the university.

The dean replied that the university would be glad to do so.

SOILED DOVES OF ST. PAUL DEPART.

St. Paul, Minn., May 27.—The tinkle of pianos and the laughter of women were absent in the so-called segregated district of St. Paul last night for the first time in nearly thirty years. Bolts and padlocks barred the entrances of the sixty-two houses constituting the "red light" district as the result of an order recently issued by Chief of Police Flannagan that all resorts must be closed at midnight May 25.

A law prohibiting the operation of all such resorts in the state was enacted by the last legislature and will go into effect June 2. Mayor Keller instructed Chief Flanagan to issue the order which resulted in the closing of the houses. It is estimated by officials that 300 inmates of the resorts boarded trains Monday for points in Wisconsin and Illinois.

SEEKING ENLARGED RIGHTS FOR STATES.

Madison, Wis., May 27.—The state of Missouri has sent a resolution to the secretary of state for presentation to the Wisconsin legislature, asking the state to petition congress for an amendment to the Federal Constitution to secure greater rights for the states.

The resolution says that many state laws are held unconstitutional by inferior Federal courts. It also holds that only the United States supreme court may hold a state law in contravention of the Federal law.

CAN BE APPEALED.

Federal Engineers to Hear Objections to Lake to River Decision.

St. Paul, Minn., May 27.—The Federal board of engineers for river and harbor improvement has notified Governor Eberhart that should any one wish to appeal from their decision against the proposed Lake Superior-Mississippi river canal project made last August, arrangements for a hearing can be made. The last legislature authorized the governor to name a commission to consider this matter, to consist of himself and two other members. The Wisconsin legislature has named a like commission to act jointly. It is not believed likely that an appeal will be taken, but the whole question will be seriously considered before a decision is reached.

MILL CITY MURDERER GETS LIFE SENTENCE.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 27.—Gus Gustafson, who recently was convicted of the murder of William A. Darling, Monday was sentenced to life imprisonment at Stillwater by Judge Leary. Gustafson who steadfastly has refused to give any information regarding his life previous to the murder, broke down when sentence was pronounced.

PLACING FISH FRY IN WISCONSIN WATER.

Couderay, Wis., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The sportsmen in this locality have planted about 300,000 trout and pike fry in the nearby streams and rivers during the last few days. Upon application, the state furnishes the fry free of charge from their hatcheries at Bayfield and Minoqua, railroads transporting them free and all the fishermen do is to meet trains and place the young fish in the fishing grounds.

Bigamist Admits Guilt.

Moorhead, Minn., May 27.—Charles T. Daque, 27 years of age, appeared before Judge Nye in district court and entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging bigamy. He was sentenced to the state penitentiary for an indeterminate term and was taken to the prison on the fast train, as there is no jail here. Daque married the daughter of John Irwin, a farmer living in Barnesville township on Jan. 16, and later it developed he had a family at Mitchell, S. D.

MINOT OFFICIALS INSPECT STREETS.

Duluth's system of pavements underwent an inspection yesterday by Dewey Dorman, commissioner of streets and public improvements, and E. J. Thomas, city engineer of Minot, N. D., who have been sent here for that purpose by the city commission of the North Dakota city.

Mr. Dorman explained yesterday that Minot is asking for bids for seven blocks of paving on the principal streets. "We have been visiting several cities of the West," he said, "notably Fargo, Grand Forks, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth. We are taking Duluth as one of the best examples to be guided by because the streets in Minot on which the pavement is to be laid are hilly."

Mr. Dorman was elected to the city commission in Minot this spring. He is not only a politician, but an aviator. He purchased a modern biplane last year and made one flight with it at a county fair.

Mr. Dorman states that prospects were good for a big crop. He returned today to Minot. Mr. Thomas left last evening for the North Dakota city.

TEACHER FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER.

Salt Lake City, Utah, May 27.—Caleb A. Inlow, a former school principal and juvenile probation officer at Bingham, Utah, was found guilty in the Utah district court here of second degree murder. Inlow and his wife were charged with killing Thomas E. White, a taxicab driver, last October, to prevent the latter from telling of a theft committed by Inlow. Inlow recently attempted to saw his way out of jail.

Eleven jurors voted for a first degree conviction, until a compromise was reached on the ninth ballot. It is expected that Mrs. Inlow will be released without trial.

LICENSING SALOONS WILL NOT DRIVE OUT BLIND PIGS

Commissioner Merritt Speaks His Mind on Liquor Question.

Transfer to New Duluth Refused---Kenny Will Lose License.

The city commission yesterday afternoon refused to grant the application of C. N. Inforzato for a transfer of the saloon at 713 West Superior street to 1504 Commonwealth avenue, which would have placed a third saloon at New Duluth and Gary.

The debate and hearing on the transfer brought on the first display resembling fireworks which has yet appeared at a meeting of Duluth's new governing body. Commissioners Merritt and Hicken, opposing each other, were in the commission foreground, while several interested citizens were heard when the transfer came up for action.

Commissioner Hicken declared that an ulterior motive inspired the fight which was being made against the transfer, stating that it is a brewery fight. He expressed his belief that the best interests of all directly concerned as well as the general welfare of the public would be best furthered by the granting of the third saloon, while no further transfers should be allowed. He pointed out that the blindpigs which flourished in that vicinity until recently have been stamped out and that provision should be made so that the people in that suburb could do their drinking in a licensed saloon, as most of them were of a class which insisted upon having intoxicants.

Saloons Don't Help.

Commissioner Merritt protested against the transfer. He said that his experience has convinced him that the right way to handle the blindpigs is not to put in saloons. Mention had been made of the range and he referred to conditions at Ely and between there and section 30, stating that while saloons are numerous, the blindpigs are many and scattered broadcast without particular regard to locality. He told of the time he was president of the village of West Duluth. His marshal had nothing to do as he refused to allow any saloons. The succeeding administration licenced sixteen "doggeries," as he characterized them, marking the end of law and order at West Duluth for many years.

"This business of curing the blindpig evil by putting in saloons is all rot," he said. "It's a bugbear and should not be allowed to take up our time."

Commissioner Voss stated that the wishes of the people in that part of the city should be respected, as indicated by the large petition which had been presented to the commission protesting against the transfer. He supported Commissioner Merritt and when the transfer came to a vote Commissioner Murchison voted with them. Commissioner Hicken and Mayor Prince voted for the transfer.

Noble Sampson, former sealer of weights and measures and now a resident of West Duluth, made an earnest appeal to the council not to allow a third saloon in New Duluth. He said the people would be satisfied to get rid of the two already located in that territory. He pointed out that in addition to the two saloons in question, there are three others across the river on the Wisconsin shore.

Ordinance Put Over.

The ordinance of Commissioner Hicken eliminating brewery control of saloons and putting the ban on free lunches, music and gambling devices in saloons, was not brought up at yesterday's meeting. Commissioner Hicken stated that the city attorney was preparing another draft of the ordinance. It will be brought up at the meeting to be held next Monday afternoon. At that time the commission will hear those who have stated that they wish to be heard before the commission passes upon it.

Joseph Kenny, proprietor of the Metropole hotel, was cited to appear before the commission next Thursday morning at 10 o'clock to show cause why his license should not be revoked. This is done in order that there may be no question of the legality of the action which may be taken by the commission. The commission has declared that it would revoke the licenses of saloonkeepers who are convicted of violating the law.

In police court yesterday afternoon Kenny pleaded guilty to having kept his saloon open on Sunday about two weeks ago and paid a fine of $100.

Dike Commission.

The resolution of Commissioner Fred J. Voss, commissioner of finance, directing the mayor to appoint a canal and dike commission, was passed unanimously. The commission will urge congress to allow Duluth's claim of approximately $200,000 for money expended in the construction of the ship canal and the dike which was afterwards built and then destroyed. Commissioner Voss does not base his hopes upon securing a money return, but believes that in settlement of the claim congress will deed the city the site now occupied by the Federal building at Fifth avenue west and First street. This would be available for a site for the new city hall, at least in part, while the balance could be secured through negotiations with the county. The government will erect its new building between Fifth and Sixth avenues west, in keeping with the civic grouping plan, which will be completed when the city builds in the block between Fourth and Fifth avenues west. The government now owns approximately one-half of the latter block while the county holds the balance. Mayor Prince heartily approved making the effort and will appoint the dike and canal commission shortly.

Sidewalk Bids.

The resolution awarding contracts for the construction of plank and cement walks for this season was laid over a week. A. Bodin, a low bidder on plank walks, desired to withdraw his bid on the ground that it was too low, his price on lumber being below the market about $2 per thousand feet. Commissioner Hicken questioned the advisability of returning him his certified check on the grounds that the advertisement and specifications were plain and that the bidder should have known what he was doing. He didn't think that the establishing of that kind of a precedent would be good business. Commissioner Murchison stated that it was plain on the face of his bid that he could not buy his lumber within $2 a thousand of the price specified and that his desire to withdraw had no semblance of fraud.

The improvement of Twenty-third avenue west was again brought up. The resolution awarding the contract was amended to conform with the original petition, which calls for crushed rock above Fourth street. Commissioner Murchison said that Dr. Oredson, a property owner, had stated that the change would be agreeable to him as well as to other property owners. As it now stands the avenue will be paved with brick from Michigan street to Third street, with sandstone between Third and Fourth streets, while crushed rock will be laid from Fourth street to Piedmont avenue.

The ordinance regulating the vacation of streets and avenues was passed. Its provisions are similar to those which were in effect under the old charter.

The coal ordinance was laid over another week to give the commission additional time to investigate the situation which prevents the city from buying 3,000 tons of coal at an appreciable lower price than one ton.

A petition was received for paving with asphalt a 24-foot road on East First street from Twenty-eighth avenue east to Parkside avenue, a distance of about three blocks.

City Attorney Clapp informed the commission that he would need more information before he could continue his investigation of the complaint of Lundmark & Franson that the Northern Pacific had refused to switch cars to their warehouse on East Michigan street. The firm claimed that they had been obliged to unload cars consigned to them at Garfield avenue, necessitating a long haul by team.

The Duluth Herald was declared the official paper of the city for the coming year.

CONVICTED ON ROBBERY CHARGE

Joe Kuto Less Fortunate Than Partner Who Pleaded Guilty.

Joe Kuto was convicted of first degree robbery by a jury in district court before Judge Dancer yesterday afternoon. Kuto with Albert Garbich held up Albert Gross near the Lake avenue viaduct on the night of May 8. Kuto knocked Gross down and Garbich removed his pocketbook, which contained $10.

Garbich and Kuto were jointly indicted but demanded separate trials. After Garbich was brought to trial, he was allowed to change his plea to guilty to robbery in the third degree. The same offer was made to Kuto, but he refused to admit his guilt.

For robbery in the first degree, for which he stands convicted, Kuto must serve from five to forty years in the state penitentiary. Garbich, his partner in crime, will serve from one to ten years for robbery in the third degree.

Both men will be brought before the court later for sentence.

GAVE EXPERT TESTIMONY

Joseph Sellwood and Dwight Woodbridge in Michigan "Test Case."

Messrs. Joseph Sellwood and Dwight E. Woodbridge have returned from Ironwood, Mich., where they were summoned as expert witnesses in the case of the Newport Mining company against the state of Michigan.

This was a suit involving the validity of the so-called "Finlay valuation" of mines in Michigan, and intended to overturn the entire system of mine valuation adopted by the state upon the recommendation of J. R. Finlay, a well known mining engineer.

In addition to Messrs. Sellwood and Woodbridge, others were called as expert witnesses, there being C. K. Smith, head of the mining school of Wisconsin university; R. C. Allen, state geologist of Michigan; John Birkinbine, a well known engineer of Philadelphia; J. C. Richard, who is in charge of the ore business of M. A. Hanna & Co., Cleveland, and C. R. May of New York, senior American partner in the accounting firm of Price, Waterhouse & Co., and one of the most noted accountants in the world.

"DROP LAP DOGS, TAKE UP BABIES"

Is Advice to Women Given By Dr. Harvey W. Wiley.

Washington, May 27.—"It is high time American women were changing their lap dogs for babies and venting the maternal instinct which prompts them to caress a fuzzy dog, on the object that nature intended them to."

This was Dr. Harvey W. Wiley's crisp comment on the "lap dog habit" in an interview here.

"There are thousands of homeless babies today and thousands of babyless wives, each needing the other," he said. "I feel sorry for the misguided women who elect to tote a dog with a pink nose and silky hair instead of an infant. Where a mother carries a lap dog, I certainly feel sorry for the children.

"Some of the best loved children I have known have been adopted children and there are many thousands of excellent genealogy who today are without homes. They would fill a woman's lap and heart much better than any dog, no matter what his pedigree or accomplishments."

Dr. Wiley declared that aside from the sentimental point of view, which he said represented a serious question, there was grave danger from rabies when a woman carries a dog.

RICH CANADIAN KILLED BY AUTO.

Brandon, Man., May 27.—George Hadley, proprietor of a hotel here, and Leo Biscoby, also of this city, were instantly killed and J. G. Kirkland was probably fatally injured when their automobile was overturned between here and Rapid City yesterday. Reginald Waldron was seriously injured and was taken to a hospital. Four women in the party, including Hadley's wife and daughter, were but slightly injured.

While descending a steep hill, the automobile overturned, pinning the eight occupants underneath. Farmers working nearby lifted the car off the victims and summoned aid from Brandon.

Hadley was one of the wealthiest men in Western Canada.

Mr. Alfred Uihlein

Dear Sir:
Answering your favor of recent date in regard to the influence of light on the quality of beer, will say that our observations, extending over the last twenty-five years, have convinced us beyond a doubt that exposure of beer to light has a very detrimental influence on its quality generally, but especially upon the flavor of the beer.

We have tested beers repeatedly in this direction placing the bottles into direct sunlight, and testing the same after one, two, three and five minutes exposure, found that the beer with three and five minutes exposure became undrinkable on account of the peculiar odor developed.

The detrimental effect of light upon beer can be successfully counteracted by the employment of brown or dark colored glass bottles, and such bottles are therefore recommendable.

Yours very truly,
RW/B
Wahl-Henius Institute

Extract from letter to Mr. Alfred Uihlein, written by Robert Wahl, President of the Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentology, Inc., Chicago.

"Beer bottles should be manufactured from reddish-brown glass, inasmuch as same will to a much higher degree than any other kind of glass, minimize the influence of the rays of light on the quality of beer, and will protect the latter against acquiring the disagreeable taste (Sonnengeschmack) due to the chemical action of the light. **

"In white and green glass bottles the beer is most affected by the action of the light. Such bottles are, therefore, absolutely inappropriate and should never be employed by brewers." (Signed) Prof. Dr. F. Schonfeld

From the Illustrated Brewery Encyclopedia, p. 99 (Illustriertes Brauerei Lexikon). Published by Dr. Max Delbruck, Privy Councilor, Professor at the Royal Agricultural College and Director of the Institute for Fermentology at Berlin. Berlin: 1910.

"Bottles of strong glass should be selected. They should never be of colorless glass, inasmuch as through the influence of light the beer will not only take on a disagreeable odor and taste, but will also become turbid." (Lintner.)

Extract from Die Malz und Bierbereitung. Published by E. Leyser, Director of the Brewing Academy in Augsburg. Tenth Edition, Stuttgart, 1900, page 680.

"The beer in the white glass bottle had taken on disagreeable odor and taste and was absolutely undrinkable. The beer in the dark bottles did not show this peculiar odor and taste." (G. Beck.)

"It is interesting to note the observation that beer in colorless bottles exposed to diffused light will undergo a change, precipitating a heavy sediment and taking on a disagreeable odor and taste."

Extract from Die Theorie und Praxis der Malzbereitung Bierfabrikation. Published by Director Julius E. Thausing, Leipzig, 1893. Fourth Edition, page 920.

"It is a known fact that sunlight and daylight influence unfavorably the taste and flavor of the beer and care must be exercised in the selection of the bottles."

HERDING THE SPORTING SHEEP AND GOATS INTO THE DOPE CORRAL, AS SEEN BY BRUCE

YOUTH still burns with effervescent vigor in the soul and heart of Ted Sullivan. The decades have passed like milestones on the road of the weary traveler, in the life of this venerable baseball man, and yet we find him today just as enthusiastic, just as full of the bright fancies that have been catalogued in the bright lexicon of youth—and Ted is old in years if not in the attributes that generally come with the steady march of the receding chapters of time.

As he sat in the Holland yesterday the veteran discoursed on baseball and some of its great characters. He is of the opinion that Ed Walsh is the greatest pitcher in the world, and this after paying an eloquent tribute to the prowess of Walter Johnson and Christy Mathewson.

"Why," said Ted, "this man has gone on for eight years with a team of weak hitters and a losing aggregation. It is much easier to drift with the stream than it is to struggle against the current. It is likewise much easier to ride to victories with a winning team than it is to achieve victory with a losing team behind you. The record of Walsh is a grand one and he will go down on the scrolls of fame as one of the grandest of all pitchers.

"Radbourne was one of the greatest of all pitchers, if not the greatest of all time. His record is one that has never been equalled, much less surpassed. Mordecai Brown, when right, ranked with the great luminaries of the baseball ages; his arm is gone at the present time; the human machinery has bowed to the strain. A great heart, a clear and strong brain, the fans of Chicago can well be proud of the great feats of this remarkable performer."

While here yesterday the veteran baseball man, who has done more perhaps for the game than any man in the bright light of the present glare, was arranging for the giving of his famous lecture on the national game.

Carrying slides and equipped with facts from the date of Abraham Lincoln's experience in baseball in the very infancy of the sport, this lovable old man presents for the lover of the nation's greatest sport a review of the grand old game from the very beginning down to the present time.

TO THE lovers of athletics the coming of Hannes Kolehmainen is an event well calculated to inspire enthusiasm and interest. Kolehmainen is running under the colors of the Irish-American Athletic club of New York and when it takes part in a meet in the metropolis, according to the statements that have been sent to the writer, crowds of 12,000 people often flock to the track to see this marvel perform.

Art, literature and almost every human endeavor has produced its genuises. There was a Shakespeare, a Wagner and a Milton. While it is rather a far cry from the grandeur of the efforts of these great men to the achievements of the running track, nevertheless it is not exaggerating the matter in the least when it is stated that of all the runners in the history of the world the name of Hannes Kolehmainen stands out clear and unapproached.

For years the name of W. T. George, that great Englishman, was held as the greatest figure in the running of three continents. So great was George that long after he figured in the records of the track he was held as the greatest of all cinder kings.

Then, out of the darkness of oblivion, out of no where it seemed, sprang this young Finn, a striking figure of the athletic world that caused the tongues of the nations that eagerly watched the results of the Olympic games, to wag long and in deep wonderment.

Kolehmainen is the genius of the running track. His equal has never been produced since the first runners of the world began to shatter records. The Finn is the holder of countless world's records, and he runs with an ease and machine like smoothness that has caused critics to stamp him as the most marvellous athlete of the age.

Prominent Finnish people of this city and the Northwest have been using their influence for the past few months to bring this young man to this part of the country. At last it appears that these persistent efforts have been crowned with success. In Kolehmainen the people of Duluth will behold the young man who was the undoubted and unclouded hero of the 1912 Olympiad; the young man who caused the trainers of America, England, Germany, France and the other countries with participating teams to stand aghast and marvel at the ease with which he defeated the crack athletes of the great nations that had not counted seriously upon the little country of the far North.

IF Peggy Rhoades can keep anywhere near the excellent standard of pitching perfection that he exhibited in his maiden effort in a White Sox uniform, by all the eloquent appeal of sweet and coruscating wit he will be one luscious help to our brave athletes. Once our flingers are flinging in due form and with regard to the proprieties, it looks as if it will require some sweet baseball playing upon the part of the other seven teams of the league to prevent our riding at anchor in the safe harbor of first place.

Duluth lost the opening game with Superior at Hislop park yesterday by the count of 6 to 5. The White Sox got away to a good lead in the opening of the game, but the hated enemy kept coming all through the game and in the final round the Red Hose put the winning run across the plate.

Brackett was taken out of the game and Woods sent to the mound at a critical point of the game. Cy Dahlgren started the game for Superior and was later derricked in favor of Chicken.

After O'Brien and McGraw had grounded out in the opening round, Miller singled to left and Smith dumped a single into the right garden. Rhoades was passed, and when Ford muffed Schreiber's fly, Miller and Smith raced across the pan. Schreiber and Rhoades worked the double steal, Sunny getting to second on the throw and Rhoades coming home with the third count of the inning.

In the second round the Curtis crew came back and tied up the score. Monahan lofted to right and then Withers singled through the box and Benrud singled to left field. Dahlgren was passed and at this stage of the game Brackett was sent to the dog house and Monty Woods called to the mound. Persch grounded out, Withers counting on the out at first. Cullis hit one over the right field fence for two bases and the count was knotted.

In the sixth the Sox got a lead of two. Smith whiffed, but Rhoades singled and was advanced to second base on a wild pitch. Schreiber grounded out and then Wilke hit over the fence for two bases and counted when Fishel singled to right.

In the eighth the Red Sox tied the count. Monahan whiffed and Withers got a life through a bad peg to first upon the part of Schreiber. Chicken flew to left and then Persch counted both runners by a double, later being caught off second base.

In the ninth Superior won out. Cullis flew to Wilke and then Curtis singled and promptly pilfered his way to second. Ford walked and McCauley hit one to left which scored the leader of the enemy with the winning count.

Shannon's Men Take First of Series By 5 to 4 Count.

Virginia, Minn., May 27.—Virginia took the opening game from Minneapolis here yesterday by the score of 5 to 4. With a lead of one run in the ninth inning it looked bad for the rangers. With Breyette retired in the final round, Si Bennett doubled and scored when Collins duplicated the hit. Collins swiped third. Robert singled and Collins came over with the winning count.

Watkins was hit hard by the visitors and was succeeded by the veteran, Bob Worman. After passing the first three men the rube settled and pitched good baseball for the remainder of the game.

Leverett was hit hard by the locals, though during several stages of the game where hits would have meant several runs the visiting twirler was unhittable.

MAROONS RALLY AND WIN FROM FLICKERS.

Winnipeg, Man., May 27.—Morse pitched shutout ball for eight innings here yesterday and then went to pieces in the last two rounds and permitted the Winnipeg team to score four runs and win the game by the count of 4 to 3.

To the start of the ninth inning Morse was invincible and it looked as if the Maroons would be calcimined. But in the ninth the home team put three runs over the pan, tying up the game, and in the tenth won the contest by scoring the winning run on clean hitting. Clothier's home run in the tenth after two men had been retired won the game for the home guard. The contest was one of the best played here during the present season.

Win in Fourth.

Boston, Mass., May 27.—New York scored seven runs in the fourth inning of yesterday's game and defeated Boston, 7 to 2. James was hit hard in that inning and was succeeded by Rudolph, who held the visitors to two singles. Lord's double in the third inning drove in the locals' two runs.

After Fletcher had been thrown out by Maranville in the fourth inning, Doyle tripled and scored on Merkle's fit to Sweeney. Murray hit over the left field fence for a home run, the first that has been made in that direction here this season. Meyers and Herzog walked, and Marquard singled, filling the bases. Mann dropped Burns' try for a sacrifice fly, Meyers and Herzog scoring. Shafer singled to right, Marquard scoring and Burns being out at the plate. Fletcher doubled, scoring Shafer, and was hit by Doyle's grounder, retiring the side.

Play Eleven Innings.

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 27.—A three-run lead was not enough for Brooklyn to beat Philadelphia yesterday, the leaders coming from behind in the eighth with the tying runs and winning out in the eleventh by an 8 to 5 score. The locals sallied into Seaton in the opening inning, a base on balls, Stengel's hit and Wheat's drive for the circuit, scoring three runs. The Phillies got one in the fourth, mainly through errors and Brooklyn scored another in the fifth. Dolan batted for Seaton in the eighth and led off with a single. Paskert's triple, a wild pitch, Magee's double and Cravath's single sent over the tying run. In the eleventh the Phillies sewed up the game by scoring four runs on three hits and as many errors. Divide Double-Header.

Philadelphia, May 27.—Thhe American leaguers indulged in their first double-header of the season yesterday and split even with Washington. Philadelphia won the first game, 4 to 0, and Washington the second, 9 to 2. Washington's misplays in the first game were costly, wild throws by Groom and Milan allowing the Mack men to score two runs. The two runs in the fifth inning were the result of a wild throw by Gandil. Houck held the visitors runless, but he was frequently in tight places.

There was nothing to the second game but Walter Johnson. He pitched for seven innings and then, with Washington far in the lead, he was relieved by Boehling, who went to Groom's assistance in the first game.

The visitors found Mack's young pitchers for good hard hits. Taff lasted until one was out in the second. Pennock took his place and of the four hits secured off his delivery, two were for home runs, one by Gandil and the other by Johnson. Bush relieved Pennock in the sixth. First game—Score:

Pitchers' Battle.

New York, May 27.—Bedient, of the world's champions, won a pitchers' battle from McConnell yesterday and New York lost, 3 to 1. Both pitchers were very effective. Only twenty-five men faced Bedient after the first inning. New York made its only run in the first inning, when Hartsell hit an infield single, stole second and scored on Cree's single through the box. The world's champions won in the fourth, when they scored two runs on singles by Yerkes and Speaker. Speaker's steal, Derrick's fumble on Henriksen and Janvrin's sacrifice fly. In the ninth Boston scored again on Hartsell's error on Henriksen and Engle's triple. Wolter was put out of the game in the third inning for protesting a play at second base. The score:

St. Louis made two of its four runs on homers, both Austin and Johnston sending the ball into the right field bleachers. COLORADO ATHLETES WILL ATTEND MEET.

Boulder, Colo., May 27.—Colorado university will be represented at the Western intercollegiate track meeting at Madison, Wis., June 7, by Clarence Ireland, and Wendell Vincent, whose expenses will be covered by a subscription by students taken yesterday.

At the Rocky Mountain conference meet Saturday Ireland equaled the world's intercollegiate record for the 100-yard dash and Vincent cleared the twenty-two yards high hurdles in 25 3-5 seconds, a new record for the conference. In a lower altitude, it is believed they will exceed these performances.

PITCHERS OF NORTHERN MAKING A GOOD RECORD

There have been up to date six no-hit games pitched in the entire country, and of these three have been in the Northern league. No league of the same size has had such attention attracted to its pitchers, and big league scouts are angling already for three or four of the Northern stars.

There have been up to and including May 24, twelve shut-outs, three no-hit games, two one-hit games, five two-hit games, five three-hit games, and eleven four-hit games.

One of the notable performances was Comstock's feat of holding Superior hitless until the eleventh inning on May 22, and giving but two hits in thirteen innings.

PELKEY IS REARRESTED

Prize Fighter Placed in Custody After Exoneration By Jury.

Sudden Move Is Made By Mounted Police, Who Refuse Explanation.

Calgary, Alta., May 27.—Just what action the civil authorities would take regarding the unexpected arrest late last night of Arthur Pelkey, following his complete exoneration by a coroner's jury from charges connecting him with the death of Luther McCarty, who died in the prize ring Saturday, as the indirect result of a blow administered by Pelkey, was problematical early today. Northwest Mounted police, members of which took Pelkey into custody for the second time last night, refused to give out any statement pertaining to the course of action they intended following, but it generally was presumed that at least a preliminary hearing would be given Pelkey in police court today.

Whether or not the police will push the case unaided by provincial authorities is not known. Acting Premier Mitchell is said to have stated last night before the announcement of the decision of the coroner's jury that he would be governed by the findings of that body.

A coroner's jury last night exonerated Pelkey, whose blow killed Luther McCarty in the prize ring here Saturday.

Dr. H. H. Moshier, who conducted the autopsy Sunday night, was one of the first witnesses at the inquest last night. He testified a blow on the edge of the jaw, the dislocation of the fourth cervical vertebra, the hemorrhage of the brain that followed and the forcing of blood into the spinal canal, were the causes of McCarty's death. He was on the stand for more than an hour and was questioned closely by Attorney A. Smith, who appeared for Pelkey and Burns.

Crown Prosecutor Shaw questioned Burns, who acknowledged he promoted the fight and that McCarty and Pelkey were to receive $5,000 each, according to the agreement.

Referee Smith testified that not one hard blow was struck during the battle.

Manager McCarney asserted McCarty was in good condition when he entered the ring. He said that in his opinion death was not caused by a blow.

A short recess was taken late last night after which the inquest was to be resumed and the testimony of a number of promoters, newspaper men and others was to be taken.

McCarty's body was shipped to his home in Ohio last night. McCarney had planned to accompany the remains, but was detained here by the authorities.

The jury deliberated only a short time before returning the verdict which exonerated all principals in the staging of the contest. The authorities were not pleased with the verdict and it was intimated the criminal proceedings would be continued, although this could not be confirmed at midnight.

Those who have been handling the legal end of the case have protested that the jury was made up principally of men who are friendly with Burns.

It developed yesterday that eight-ounce gloves instead of the customary five-ounce gloves were used by the fighters in Saturday's tragic fray. This became known when members of the Northwest Mounted Police seized the gloves for evidence to be presented to the coroner's jury last evening. McCarty and Pelkey had agreed to use the lesser weight gloves and, it is said, when the heavier ones were brought into the ring with the excuse that the five-ounce gloves unintentionally had been left in Calgary, which is five miles from the scene of the fight, McCarty's manager objected to their use until McCarty overruled him.

It generally is conceded that the burning of the Burns arena Sunday night added the only needed blow to put a quietus on the boxing game in Alberta province, C. R. Mitchell, acting premier of Alberta, told the Associated Press yesterday that the law which prohibits professional fighting in Alberta would be rigidly enforced. He has been approached by men in every walk, many of whom attended the McCarty-Pelkey bout, all urging him to take steps to see that prize-fighting is discontinued in this province.

JOE DAWSON WILL ENTER AUTO RACE.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 27.—Joe Dawson, the driver who won the 500-mile sweepstake race here last year, probably will drive a machine in the third annual automobile race Memorial day, it was announced today. The contest board of the American Automobile association refused the inventor of one of the cars permission to drive in the race on the ground that he lacked experience. Dawson, it was said, would steer his machine.

The elimination trials will start this morning and continue until 6 o'clock Thursday night. Each car must do seventy-five miles an hour and meet certain technical requirements in various dimensions.

Referee A. B. Pardington of New York, who will have charge of the race, arrived last night and will direct the preliminary contests. Tonight the drivers will be instructed in the rules governing the event.

For the first time in the history of the race the track will be used the day before the race. This has been made necessary by rain yesterday. Heretofore the track has been closed the day preceding the contest in order to put it in shape for the event. Instructions were issued last night that no car would be allowed to cross the brick track after midnight Thursday until the race is over.

REGATTA PUT OVER ONE WEEK

The Northwestern International Rowing regatta, originally set for July 18 and 19, has been postponed one week and will be held on the Mississippi river at St. Paul on July 25 tnd 28. The postponement was made at the request of several of the clubs of the association.

Plans are being made by the Minnesota Boat club, which will be the host for the other members of the association this season, and it is expected that the meet this year will be one of the best ever held by the association, especially if the Detroit Boat club sends several crews.

It is expected that the Minnesota club will have a very much stronger representation than it sent to the regatta at Winnipeg last season.

RUDOLFO SETS RECORD AT KENTUCKY DERBY.

Louisville, Ky., May 27.—Rudolfo, a 4-year-old colt, well ridden by Jockey Loftus, won the Kentucky handicap, the richest American turf event, at Douglas park yesterday and set a new track record of 2:05 4-5 for the mile and a quarter. Officially, the track was pronounced "good," but the track record was equaled once and broken three times in the six races of the opening program of the meeting.

The eleven starters in the handicap included some of the crack 3-year-olds that have shown class at the spring meetings, but the race went to an older horse and gained a point for those who contend a really good horse is at its best as a 4-year-old. Rudolfo won the race from a 3-year-old, Ten Point, after the latter had led for most of the distance. Getting away badly, Loftus forced the son of Sir Huon into second place at the three quarters, with Gowell third, this position was maintained until in the stretch when the 3-year-old faltered and Rudolfo, under urging, forged to the front to win by a length. Then Ten Point tired rapidly in the last furlong, and had to be ridden out to get second place by half a length from Any Port, which showed remarkable speed in the last quarter mile.

Hamilton was close up to Ten Point when the former was running his race in the first mile, but quit badly and Foundation, to which many Westerners had pinned their hopes and their money, failed to show ability commensurate with his showing as a 2-year-old. Buckhorn suffered interference at two turns and finished far in the ruck.

Rudolfo paid more than 8 to 1.

McCUE OUT-BOXED BY PATSY BRANNIGAN.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 27.—Patsy Brannigan of Pittsburg checked Matty McCue's fast march toward the featherweight championship last night when he defeated the Racine boy in a fast and furious 10-round bout before the South Side Athletic club.

The last round was furious with first one leading then the other. Each forced the other to retreat with heavy blows to the jaw and neither was willing to quit when the final bell sounded.

KLAUSS IS TRAINING FOR JACK DILLON.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 27.—Frank Klauss, the Pittsburg middleweight, who is to meet Jack Dillon, the local boxer, at the American Association baseball park the night before the 500-mile automobile race on Memorial day, began training for the fight yesterday. Klauss says he is in excellent shape, having done most of his training before his bout in Pittsburg last Saturday night with Eddy McGoorty. His training here will consist mostly of road work.

Dillon continued his hard training at his camp at Riverside park yesterday. During the last few days he has been using a "dummy" fashioned after the one used by Willie Ritchie, and says he is adding "steam" to his blows.

The betting on the bout is about even. The fight is scheduled to go ten rounds.

Claim World's Record.

Chicago, May 27.—Cory, the University high school (Chicago) athlete, made a world's interscholastic record in the 220-yard hurdles in the University of Michigan's school meet at Ann Arbor Saturday, his friends claimed yesterday. Cory's time was 24 2-5 seconds, while the best time ever made in the event by a preparatory school athlete, according to the A. A. U. manual, is 25 seconds, the time credited to F. Scheuber in 1901. The manual is silent as to Scheuber's school.

PROPOSAL IS ACCEPTED

Commission Takes Action to Further Plans for Boulevard.

Deeds Will Be Placed in Escrow Until Road Is Complete.

The ordinance directing the condemnation of the right-of-way of the $1,000,000 boulevard to be constructed from Duluth to Two Harbors along the north shore of Lake Superior was introduced at the meeting of the city commission yesterday afternoon by Mayor Prince and given its first reading.

The ordinance calls for the condemnation of "a strip of land 150 feet, more or less, in width, lying south of the right-of-way of the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company and between said right-of-way and the shore line of Lake Superior."

A communication signed by Chester A. Congdon, the public-spirited citizen through whose generosity the beautiful driveway is possible; Henry Nolte, the real estate agent who has had charge of the acquisition of the necessary property, and C. S. Rogers, the civil engineer who made all the surveys and maps, was presented to the city council. Following its reading the commission passed a resolution accepting the proposal of Messrs. Congdon, Nolte and Rogers.

The communication states that a parkway 100 feet wide has been carefully surveyed; that a precise description of it through each parcel has been obtained; that at the present time those furthering the project have obtained all information necessary to secure deeds or institute condemnation proceedings, or to proceed and construct the driveway; that they believe the time has come for the commission to promptly pass the matter, bringing it to a speedy conclusion, and that they understand that if any condemnation proceedings are taken, as they necessarily must be, the funds to pay the damages assessed will be forthcoming.

The deeds of those who are willing to dedicate property to the city will be placed in escrow in the American Exchange National bank in Duluth. This is done to insure the grantors that the driveway will ultimately be built, assuring them that the city will proceed to acquire the right-of-way by condemnation proceedings where it is not given.

The condemnation will start at or near the mouth of Lester river, whence the parked boulevard will run along the north shore of the lake, through some of the most beautiful and scenic country in the world. The driveway will start approximately at the eastern end of London road, which will in effect become an integral part of the driveway.

The Communication.

The communication setting forth the proposal is as follows:

"To City of Duluth, and the Honorable Council of the city of Duluth, City.

"Dear Sirs: Some of the citizens of Duluth have for a long time desired to secure a driveway along the north shore of Lake Superior from Lester river to the east line of St. Louis county.

"To that end they secured the enactment, in the legislative session of 1909, of chapter 485 of the laws of 1909, which authorizes any city to extend, lay out, build and maintain, outside of its limits, any road, street, avenue, boulevard, parkway or other public highway. It further provides for the method of condemning any such parkway.

"A parkway 100 feet wide has been very carefully surveyed from the Lester river to the east line of St. Louis county.

"The ownership of each parcel of land through which this parkway runs has been ascertained. A precise description of such parkway through each such parcel has also been obtained.

"A profile of the parkway has been made, so that at the present time we have obtained all the information necessary to secure deeds or institute condemnation proceedings, or to proceed and construct the driveway.

"We are therefore now ready to do business, and we are addressing this letter to you for action on the part of the city of Duluth.

"Many of the land owners stated that they would give a right-of-way for this parkway through their lands. Others have refused to do so, so that condemnation proceedings will have to be instituted by the city to secure this result.

"C. S. Rogers, civil engineer, whose office is in the Lyceum building, made all the surveys and maps necessary for the acquisition of the above described information, and Henry Nolte has conducted all the negotiations with the land owners and can advise you who will give the right-of-way and who will not. Mr. Rogers has prepared, as stated previously, the precise description necessary for a deed of the parkway going through each parcel of land. Mr. Nolte desires to proceed at once to secure deeds from those who will give them, but before doing so wishes your legal adviser to prepare a form of deed that will be satisfactory to the city.

"In order to secure these deeds, it will be necessary to assure the grantors that by giving them they will ultimately secure this parkway, which means it will be necessary to assure the grantors that the city will proceed to acquire the right-of-way by condemnation proceedings where it is not given, as rapidly as they can do so.

"Mr. Nolte and Mr. Rogers will furnish your legal adviser with all the information necessary to conduct condemnation proceedings.

"It is proposed to ask those who are going to donate the right-of-way to execute their deeds and place them in escrow in the American Exchange National bank of Duluth. The condition of this escrow should be that within one year from the first day of September, 1913, the city of Duluth should, either by deed or by proceedings of condemnation, acquire a right-of-way for the parkway between Lester river and the east line of St. Louis county surveyed and laid out by C. S. Rogers, in the years 1911 and 1912. Then each such deed should be delivered to the city of Duluth when such bank is notified in writing by said city through its mayor, or acting mayor, that such facts have been accomplished, but that upon failure of the city to so notify the bank within said period, said deeds so deposited in escrow shall be returned to the grantors.

"We think that the time has come now for your honorable body to promptly pass this matter, and bring it to a speedy conclusion.

"We undertsand that if any condemnation proceedings are taken, as they necessarily must be, that funds will be forthcoming to pay the damages assessed, always providing that such assessment of damage is reasonable in the opinion of the contributors.

"Trusting this program will meet with the approval of your honorable body, and that your legal adviser will take steps promptly to communicate with Messrs. Nolte and Rogers so that these deeds may be secured and the necessary condemnation proceedings may be instituted, we remain, yours truly,

"CHESTER A. CONGDON,
"HENRY NOLTE,
"C. S. ROGERS."

WARNED AGAINST FAKE SOLICITORS

People Said to Be Making Capital of Dayton Flood.

Duluth people are warned against imposters and fake solicitors who have been touring the country and making capital of the situation in the flood-stricken district of Ohio.

Yesterday the Duluth Commercial club received a letter from the Dayton chamber of commerce asking for information regarding any "salvage" sales or lecturers purporting to be acting in the interests of the flood-stricken community.

Some salvage from the factories of Dayton, the letter states, is being sold, but not in such quantities as would permit of all of the sales which are being advertised. The Duluth club is requested to make a local investigation of any such sales, if there are any.

The matter of lecturers soliciting funds is also called to the attention of the local club. The letter states that $2,000,000 has been raised by the people of Dayton to prevent the recurrence of the disaster of last March.

NO MOVE TO REPEAL ORR LAW.

Jefferson City, Mo., May 27.—Governor Major has reiterated that he will not call a special session of the legislature to repeal the Orr insurance law, which prompted most of the fire insurance companies in Missouri to leave the state. The governor expressed his policy in the matter in a telegram sent to E. M. Clendenning, secretary of the Kansas City Commercial club.

WORKS WANTS AUGUST ELECTION.

Washington, May 27.—A new plan for national elections and the assembling of congress is proposed by Senator Works in two bills. He would change election day from November to August, and provide for annual sessions of congress from the first Monday of October to the first Monday in June. Congressmen would assume office in October immediately after election, and the president and vice president would take office in November.

How did you pick your car?

When you bought your car you didn't choose it because you happened to like the carburetor or because of its thick upholstery or even because of its famous motor.

You got right down to the bottom of the question. You compared various cars point by point until you finally found the car that came the closest to combining all the good points you wanted to find in your car.

Why not buy your tires in the same way?

Why not size up the various brands point by point and pick the tire that combines all those strong features that a good tire ought to have.

You want high mileage

You will get from 25 to 50 per cent. more mileage from United States Tires than any tire ever yielded up to the time the United States Tire Company was organized.

You want to avoid rim cutting

United States Dunlop Tires are the only tires ever guaranteed against it.

Air capacity and diameter are important

No tire ever made has a larger average air capacity or larger diameter measurements than the United States Dunlop. Get a few cross sections and prove it with your own eyes.

You want an easily manipulated tire

The round toe makes the United States Dunlop the most easily manipulated tire on the market.

But the prime essential is fabric strength

Strong fabric means not only high mileage but protection against blow-outs. By a process which we have perfected and control exclusively we have practically doubled the strength of United States Tires and reduced blow-outs proportionately.

These are the good points you want to find in your tires. They govern the size of your tire bills. Four-factory cooperative methods (used exclusively in the making of United States Tires) have enabled us to combine all of them in this one tire.

Cost no more than you are asked to pay for other kinds

United States Tire Company
New York

United States Pneumatic Tires are guaranteed when filled with air at the recommended pressure and attached to a rim bearing the name or mark of the unencumbered inspection stamp. When filled with any substitute for air or attached to any other rims than those specified, our guarantee is withdrawn.

PAPER MILL MEN MAY NOT STRIKE

Grand Rapids Operatives May Not Go Out for Shorter Day.

Grand Rapids, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—A strike threatened at the Itasca Paper company's plant in all probability will be averted, according to a statement by A. C. Rossard of the company. The mill operatives want an eight-hour day in place of the 11 or 13-hour day now in force. At present the day shift works eleven hours, and the night shift thirteen hours. The operatives ask that sixteen hours be considered a day, and that the time be divided equally between the men of the two shifts. They also ask for the same pay which they now receive.

George J. Schneider of Appleton, Wis., representative of the International Brotherhood of Papermakers, consulted with the papermakers, then returned to Wisconsin, and there seems little doubt that the difficulty will be settled, although Mr. Bossard stated it might be ten days or even longer before matters were finally adjusted.

On his promise not to do so but to go to work and support them Judge Masters allowed the man to go with a warning he would be sent to the county jail if he got drunk again. An officer on inspecting the Smeyth home claims he found paris green in the woman's possession with the possibility she intended to make way with herself with the poison but this was not substantiated. ANNEXATION IS PROVING POPULAR

Mass Meeting Develops Little Opposition to Taking Over Alice.

Hibbing, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Only a feeble protest was offered at the mass meeting held in the council chamber last night to feel the public pulse on the question of annexing the nearby village of Alice with some 1,000 population and about $3,000,000 taxable property. J. J. Cox, owning property on the North side, where it has been reported there was much opposition to the idea, on the ground it would depreciate values and rents in that section, was the only one offering objection, and he soon subsided. A resolution urging the annexation was adopted asking the council to take the necessary steps.

Rupert Swinnerton presided at the meeting and Oscar Wildstrand was secretary and after Mr. Swinnerton had stated the reason for the assemblage, remarks were made in favor of the proposal of D. T. Collins, Village Attorney Scott, W. J. Ryder, E. S. Woolfan and Robert Stratton. SIXTY MEMBERS OF SOCIETIES EXPELLED

Bitter Feeling Stirred Up By Denver High School Affair.

Denver, Colo., May 27.—Teller Ammons, son of Governor Elias M. Ammons of this state, and Miss Evelyn Arnold, daughter of Mayor Henry J. Arnold of Denver, with fifty-eight fellow students of the five high schools of this city, were expelled from school yesterday by the order of Supt. Smiley, who alleges they belong to secret societies. Many of the expelled students are seniors and would have graduated within two weeks.

Young Ammons, several weeks ago, announced that he would begin the circulation of a referendum petition to refer to a vote of the people the assembly bill signed by his father prohibiting membership in fraternities and sororities in high schools within the state. Miss Arnold has been identified prominently with clashes between students and high school faculties in Denver concerning sorority membership.

Supt. Smiley announced he would give each of those expelled a chance for reinstatement if, at a meeting on Wednesday, they could prove they do not belong to fraternities or sororities.

Wrathy protests from parents of those expelled are being received by the board of education. Many mothers and fathers believe, according to the protests, that the children have a constitutional right to belong to any organization they please so long as that organization is not immoral nor contrary to public policy.

New York, May 27.—A suit for $300,000 against F. Augustus Heinze, the copper magnate, by the New York state banking department, has been begun in the supreme court, Brooklyn. MRS. SPRECKELS' WILL SUSTAINED.

Honolulu, May 27.—The territorial supreme court has reversed a decision and sustained the will of the late Mrs. Claus Spreckels. Hawaiian property worth $1,000,000 was involved in the litigation.

The will of Mrs. Spreckels left virtually all of her estate to three children, Rudolph and C. Augustus Spreckels and Mrs. Emma Ferris; cutting off two sons, John D. and Adolph B. Spreckels, with small sums each. It was explained by the testator that the latter had been amply provided for during the lifetime of their parents.

Since the death of Claus Spreckels and wife, litigation conducted by their heirs has kept the estate almost constantly in the courts.

Bishop Morrison, in his annual address, stated that such a change at present would be disastrous to the church. He advocated an increase in the salaries of clergymen, married men to receive not less than $1,200.

"No minister can live adequately on less," he said.

The convention declared in favor of legislation preventing any man working more than six consecutive days out of seven.

COCOS TREASURE HUNT IS FUTILE.

San Francisco, Cal., May 27.—Failure of another expedition sent in request of a legendary $16,000,000 treasure cache of Cocos island, in the South seas, was recorded here last night when the British steamer Melmore put into port.

These fabled millions, according to a dying sailor, were buried on Cocos island by officers of the Peruvian church early in the last century. Mrs. Barry Till and Miss Davis, English women, were told by the sailor on his deathbed of his knowledge of the location of the cache, and supplied them with charts. The women succeeded in interesting British capitalists, and the Melmore was purchased for the expedition. Mrs. Till and Miss Davis accompanied the party.

After many weary months of labor with pick and shovel, the searchers gave up their quest and started homeward.

Within the last fifty years a half dozen expeditions, equipped with ample funds, have been dispatched to Cocos Island to search for the gold believed to be buried there.

Coroner's Jury Version of East Grand Forks Murder and Suicide.

East Grand Forks, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jealousy was the cause assigned by the coroner's jury that investigated the murder of Mrs. Jarvis Rogers by Leonard Erickson, and his suicide. Mrs. John Grumbo and Harry Bubb of Williamsport, Pa., were the principal witnesses.

They declared that Mrs. Rogers disregarded their warnings that Erickson was armed, and she even taunted him into the shooting by declaring that he was afraid. He also developed that Erickson fired three times, shooting wild the first time. He did not kill himself till several minutes after he had shot Mrs. Rogers.

Tried to Quit Erickson.

By Mrs. Grumbo's testimony it was shown that Mrs. Rogers had, on several occasions, attempted to rid herself of Erickson. He had persisted, however, and had followed her to several places. Previous threats of killing her had failed to alarm her, and she had talked of them to others, saying that she was not afraid.

Mrs. Rogers' divorced husband is residing at International Falls, Minn.

WHEAT HOLDS ITS ADVANCE

Dry Weather, Chinch Bugs and Hessian Flies Bolster Prices.

Flax Sags in Market Marked By Very Dull Trading.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 27.—The combination of reports on dry weather, chinch bugs and Hessian flies sustained, in part at least, the bulge which the wheat market took today following bulges of the two prior days of trading. Net gains: May wheat, ½c; July, ¼c; September, ⅜@½c; May durum, ¼c; July durum, ½c. Cash grain closed at the same figure as July.

Outs fell off ⅜c after its bulge of the past few days and rye and barley remained unchanged.

The grain market opened unchanged this morning and for the early trading hours a sagging movement started. As was generally expected for it was believed that the bulge of the last two trading days had about spent itself. However, the unexpected happened.

After the falling off from opening prices had occurred in one or two options, another bulge started. This was due chiefly to a batch of bad reports from Topeka and Kansas City, indicating a further deterioration of the winter wheat crop. The scare over Smiley's report of the other day has not yet been dissipated, and the result is that every additional piece of information regarding damage to the winter wheat crop renews the panicky feeling and the market is given another hoist. Another wire that came in today was that Western Canadian territory is beginning to complain of lack of rain to develop the seed that is in the ground, and also kicking about the cold weather which is holding it back. The result of all of this bullish news was a distinct bullish movement and the market rapidly advanced beyond the opening figures.

May spring wheat, with very little action, rose ½c by noon, July had gone up ⅝@¾c and September advanced ½@⅝c. May durum wheat joined in the upward trend with an advance of ¼c and July durum had a similar gain.

Flax's Further Decline.

With a slight start upward today, flax had a strong opening, but later in the session began a reactionary movement and closed lower in every option. The market was narrow but there was considerable buying on the decline, which has been the chief system of buying for some time now. May and July fell off ¼c each and September and October fell off each ½c.

Crop is lighter in eastern counties but fully up to average of the Illinois side of the Wabash river. South of Terre Haute crop is spotted with average hardly up to usual promise. "They left Dodge City early this morning for Colorado. The morning papers say they found crops fine until reaching Dodge City, but needing rain there and the yield cut down. Farmers who met them in large numbers at all stops informed them that if rain came soon the total yield would be raised."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Increase in English Visible Supply Weakens Wheat.

Chicago, May 27.—Wheat today showed a little decline on account of decided increase in the European visible supply. Foreign crop conditions were also more favorable. Adverse reports from Kansas, however, held the bears in check. The opening was ⅛@¼c lower to ¼@⅜c up. July started at 91¼c to 91⅝c, a loss of a shade to ⅛@¼c, rallied to 91½@91⅝c, and then fell to 91⅜c.

Reduced estimates from Oklahoma brought about later a sharp upturn. There were also dry weather complaints from North Dakota and Minnesota. The close, however, was weak with July at 91¾, a net gain of ¼@⅜c.

Better weather eased corn. July which opened ⅛@⅜c off to 58@58¼c, sagged to 57¾c.

Lightness of rural deliveries prevented any further serious decline until wheat weakened at the close. Latest trading was depressed with July at 57⅝c, a net loss of 1c.

General selling carried down oats. July at the outset was ⅛@¼c to ⅜@⅝c lower, but rallied to 38⅜@38½c.

Steadiness formed the rule in provisions. First sales ranged from 2½c decline to an advance of 5c with September options as follows: Pork, $19.72½; lard, $11.17½; ribs, $11.27½.

WEAKNESS IN STOCKS

More Liquidation Occurs in the St. Louis & San Francisco Issues.

Professional Selling Increases as the Session Nears Its End.

New York, May 27.—After a brief period of irregularity, today's early stock market became distinctly weak, primarily as a result of recurrent liquidation in St. Louis & San Francisco issues. New low records were established by the 5 per cent bonds and second preferred stock, the former declining 4½ points with a loss of 3⅝ for the refunding 4's. Rock Island issues were sympathetically affected, common and preferred yielding 1 and 2 points respectively. There was also marked heaviness in Canadian Pacific, attended by disquieting reports from the dominion, while Harrimans sold a point or more under yesterday's close. The general bond market was steady.

Prices showed a declining tendency at the opening of today's stock market, with especial weakness in such leaders as the Harrimans, Canadian Pacific and Great Northern preferred. Further weakness was shown by the bonds of the St. Louis & San Francisco road. Trading was in light volume and without any indication of public interest.

Wide and irregular fluctuations marked the first hour's dealings. Union Pacific, Reading and Canadian Pacific rallied a point, but when the latter reacted 2 points the rest of the list sagged fractionally.

Increased weakness of the early afternoon were particularly marked in some low priced railroad stocks. Missouri Pacific and Denver & Rio Grande preferred yielded 2 points. Further losses were made also by the Harriman and Copper issues.

St. Louis & San Francisco issues made new low records late in the day, concurrent with the announcement that receivership proceedings had been instituted. Further delay in the Harriman settlement was another adverse feature.

The market closed weak. Professional selling increased as the session neared its end. Union Pacific and Southern Pacific were jammed down two points and Reading, Steel, Lehigh Valley and Amalgamated one. St. Louis & San Francisco 5s sold down eight points to 58.

London Stocks.

London, May 27.—The delay in the signing of the peace treaty between Turkey and the Balkan states unsettled the stock market today, especially in the sections in which the continent is principally interested. Berlin sold Canadian Pacific and Paris offered Rio Tintos and Kaffirs pretty freely. Consols and Nigaran Tin shares were about the only steady exceptions. The closing was easy.

American securities opened quiet and unchanged. Later in the forenoon the list declined under the lead of Canadian Pacific, which was sold by Berlin. In the afternoon prices continued to decline under New York offerings and the market finished dull at the low point.

Money and discount rates were steady.

Cotton Market.

New York, May 27.—Cotton opened steady at a decline of 1 to 2 points under scattered offerings inspired by the easier ruling of the late Liverpool cables, good weather and favorable private crop reports—general crop 84 per cent—while another placed the condition of the Texas crop at 92 per cent. Selling was not general, however, and the market steadied up to a shade over the closing figures last night during the early trading on covering and a moderate demand from houses with foreign connections.

Futures closed steady. May, 11.56; June, 11.59; July, 11.64; August, 11.43; September, 11.20; October, 11.15; November, 11.14; December, 11.16; January, 11.12; March, 11.22.

Spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 12.00; middling gulf, 12.25. Sales, none.

New York, May 27.—Money on call steady, 2½@2¾ per cent; ruling rate, 2½ per cent; closing bid, 2½ per cent; offered at 2¾ per cent; time loans steady; 60 and 90 days, 3¾@4 per cent; six months, 4½@4¾ per cent.

Close: Prime mercantile paper, 5½ per cent; sterling exchange steady with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.83⅛ for sixty-day bills, and at $4.8640 for demand; commercial bills, $4.82½; bar silver, 60c; Mexican dollars, 48c; government bonds heavy; railroad bonds easy.

BEMIDJI IS TO UNVEIL MONUMENT

Granite Shaft Erected By G. A. R. Post to Be Dedicated.

Bemidji, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alexander I. Janes, retiring assistant attorney general, will deliver the Memorial day address here in connection with the ceremony of unveiling a granite shaft erected here by Robert H. Carr post and Ladies of the G. A. R. in honor of the soldier dead. Department Commander Roberts of Minneapolis and Past Department Commander Wood of Cass Lake will be honor guests.

For the first time, the Grand Army post will be relieved of the work of the Memorial day observance, the city having agreed to take charge of the program. A parade led by the Bemidji band will proceed at 11 a. m. to the cemetery for the unveiling of the monument. The veterans and their wives will ride in automobiles behind the band, and school children will form a guard of honor.

At the cemetery, L. H. Pendergast, commander of the Bemidji post, will turn the monument over to the cemetery association and it will be accepted on behalf of the association by Attorney F. J. Russell.

At 2 p. m. a program will be given in a large tabernacle especially erected for a series of religious meetings now being held in Bemidji, and it is here that Mr. Janes will deliver his address.

The annual Memorial day church service was held in St. Phillip's Catholic church, Rev. Father John J. T. Philippe preaching the sermon.

WILL POISON 'HOPPERS.

Column Eighteen Miles Long and Five Wide Is Reported.

Amarillo Tex., May 27.—Traveling northeastward, a column of grasshoppers five miles wide and eighteen miles long is reported in Northeastern New Mexico. Reports that the millions of grasshoppers seem to spread as they travel, and also the appearance of smaller bodies of grasshoppers in sections of Western Texas have caused fear of a general grasshopper pest in the Southwest, especially in Texas, Western Oklahoma and New Mexico.

The New Mexico column is between Elida and Texline. It is reported they are entirely denuding the land of grass as well as destroying all kinds of foliage.

Government, state and railroad experts have combined forces in New Mexico to fight the grasshoppers by using poison.

GRASS EXPERIMENT.

Bemidji Commercial Club Will Conduct Work on M. & I. Tract.

Bemidji, Minn., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The development committee of the Commercial club has agreed to give expert supervision over a grass experiment on a tract of land to be selected at a point between Northome and International Falls on the M. & I. railroad, the railroad company to furnish free seed. J. J. Opsahl of this city is arranging for the test with W. H. Gemmell, general manager of the railroad company. The land selected is to be low. During the summer it will be dragged and in September timothy, alsike clover and red top will be planted. The same test is urged for persons owning land east and north of Red lake.

PREHISTORIC VASE.

Found By North Dakotan in Cave on Farm Near Medora.

Medora, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Neuens, while walking over an old Indian camp near his ranch in this county, found a cave which he explored. In the back part he discovered a vase about a foot in heighth, round on the bottom, that had been moulded out of plastic clay and burned very hard. It was an artistic piece of work and skillfully done. It is thought the pottery must have been made by earlier inhabitants than the Indian tribes found here on the arrival of the white men. Mr. Neuens' discovery may lead to further explorations and investigations in that locality to see if more specimens of pottery can be unearthed.

LABOR FEDERATION WILL MEET AT FARGO.

Fargo, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota Federation of Labor will meet here in the third annual meeting since the creation of North Dakota into a district of its own. Until that time it had been combined with Minnesota. The growth of union organizations in the state has been rapid and the federation is now on a strong basis. There are many important matters to come up at this meeting, but the indications are that everything will be harmoniously considered. Local committees are arranging for the entertainment of the visiting delegates.

FAILED TO SEND HIS CHILDREN TO SCHOOL.

McClusky, N. D., May 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. L. Schmidt of Martin was arrested for failure to send his children to school. It is the first arrest of this nature made in Sheridan county for a violation of the compulsory school law, and is already having a salutary effect, as others started their children to school yesterday.

DIFFERENCES ADJUSTED OUT OF COURT.

Steve Talkovich, a fireman who lost an eye in the explosion of a heating plant, and the Oliver Iron Mining company, his employer, will not adjust their difficulties in court. A settlement out of court has been effected and the $11,000 personal injury action against the company has been withdrawn. A stipulation of dismissal was filed today. The terms of the compromise were not stated.

When Talkovich on April 10, 1912, heaved a shovelful of coal into the furnace of an office building belonging to the defendant mining company, an explosion from some unknown cause followed, scattering fragments of coal and other substances in every direction. A flying object struck him in the eye totally destroying the sight.

FEED DEALERS AT KANSAS CITY.

Kansas City, Mo., May 27.—Delegates from Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Iowa, Nebraska and Illinois were here today to attend the opening session of the annual convention of the Interstate Feed Dealers' association. The convention will last two days.

Col. Joseph W. Allison of Dallas, Tex., chairman of the publicity committee of the Interstate Cotton Seed Crushers' association, and Prof. L. A. Fitz of the Kansas State Agricultural college were among the speakers on the program. A number of grain experts from other agricultural colleges also were scheduled to deliver addresses.

H. G. Cheerry of Kansas City is president and J. L. Frederickson of St. Joseph, Mo., is vice president of the association.

POULTRY AND EGGS.

YOUR EGGS, CHICKS AND BREEDING STOCK WANTED.

Hundreds of people in Duluth and vicinity who are interested in poultry raising will buy eggs, chicks, breeding stock, incubators and feed during the present season. Somebody among this vast multitude wants what you have for sale. You can reach these buyers by inserting an ad in these "want" ad columns.

The Duluth Herald has the greatest circulation of any newspaper in Minnesota, outside of the Twin Cities.

RATES ARE LOWEST.

The charges for classified advertising in The Duluth Herald are less per thousand circulation than those of any other newspaper in Minnesota.

A "want" ad man will be pleased to call on you and give estimates as to how much space your ad should occupy and the cost.

FOR SALE.
"FAULTLESS" HOUDANS.
This strain has been egg-bred from trapnest records since April, 1899. I have bred them 21 years for great layers and 12 years for large-size chalk-white eggs. Send 10 cents for the largest illustrated poultry catalogue ever issued; it tells you how to breed these fowls, which average 250 eggs a year apiece; it tells you how to net $3,000 a year from 100 hens. NEW RAILROAD WILL TAP THE IRON ORE DEPOSITS BACK OF GRAND MARAIS

Cook County Votes $100,000 Bond Issue to Aid Road.

Grand Marais Will Be Shipping Point for Ore and Lumber.

Village Will Have Connections With Duluth and Port Arthur.

The development of a new iron ore field in Cook county, with Grand Marais added to the list of ore shipping ports at the Head of the Lakes, is one of the prospective results of the building of the Grand Marais & Northwestern railroad, on which construction work will begin next fall.

Just twenty years ago yesterday St. Louis county voted $250,000 which made possible the building of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad and the development of the Mesaba range. Cook county Monday voted $100,000 to the Grand Marais & Northwestern railroad. The people of Cook county believe that the history of the Mesaba range will be duplicated, in some measure at least, by the new ore district of the county to the north.

For some years drilling has been going on in the interior of Cook county. The results have been such as to strengthen the faith of those interested. Enthusiasts claim that the deposits indicated are immense. One development company claims to have shown up 20,000,000 tons of merchantable ore. It was first thought that the Cook county ore lands were a continuation of the Vermillion range, but it is now said that the formation is entirely different from either of the old ranges and indicates that the Cook county deposits are in an entirely new range.

Development of the mineral resources of Cook county have been held back by the lack of a railroad. That lack will be supplied within the next eighteen months, and then the people of Cook county expect to see a development that will make their county one of the richest divisions of the state instead of an almost inaccessible wilderness.

Vote the Bonus.

Last Monday the people of Cook county, by an affirmative vote of 80 per cent of all the votes cast, autho-

Chicago Detectives Are Trying to Solve the Mystery.

Chicago, May 28.—With the neck broken, the body of an unidentified man, 25 years old, was found in a sitting posture in the hallway of a building in South Clark street today.

LORD AVERBURY (SIR JOHN LUBBOCK) DEAD

British Banker, Scientist and Naturalist Dies in London.

London, May 28.—Lord Averbury died today of heart disease after a short illness, at the age of 79 years.

Lord Averbury, formerly Sir John Lubbock, was prominent as a banker, famous as a scientist and popular as an author of nature studies. He was president of the Corporation of Foreign Bondholders; lord rector of St. Andrew's university; president of the Society of Antiquaries; president of the Central Association of Bankers; and officer of nearly a score of other organizations having to do with finance, education and natural science.

As Sir John Lubbock, he won great popularity among the working people in 1871 when he succeeded in passing the bank holidays act. This added four national holidays every year to the statute book and these days were for a long time known as "Lubbock days."

Authority on Banking.

Besides banking, on which he was a recognized authority, he also took great interest in the reform of municipal life and in movements for the welfare of the working classes. He introduced legislation to rescue open spaces from the builders so as to provide playgrounds for the children. He also devoted himself to the conditions under which clerks worked in stores and succeeded in passing a bill regulating their hours of labor. Another bill provided for the establishment of public libraries by municipalities.

WILSON NAMES SOME GOPHER POSTMASTERS

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, May 28.—President Wilson yesterday nominated Minnesota postmasters asc follows: Nels Hawkinson, Grove City; Herman N. Dahl, Minneota; E. L. Flaten, Moorhead; Walter W. Parish, Rushford; W. P. Lemmer, Belgrade; Charles L. Skaugh, Crookston; George A. Blackburn, Hancock; C. H. Phinney, Herman; Edward Hurley, La Crescent; Joseph S. Seal, Melrose.

H. L. Buck was nominated for the office at Winona in place of George Tawney, whose term expired eighteen months ago. This is one office where National Committeeman Fred B. Lynch did not make a choice among the many candidates, but put the whole matter up to Postmaster General Burleson and President Wilson. Mr. Buck was candidate for congress against Sidney Anderson.

NEW YORK SENATOR SENT TO SING SING

STEPHEN J. STILWELL.

New York, May 28.—State Senator Stephen J. Stilwell, convicted of bribery by a jury last week after he had been exonerated by the New York state senate, was sentenced today to serve not less than four years nor more than eight in Sing Sing prison.

Supreme Court Justice Seabury granted a stay of execution in order that the convicted senator's lawyers might apply for a certificate of reasonable doubt. Stilwell, state senator from the Bronx, was convicted of attempting to obtain $3,500 from George H. Kendall, president of the New York Banknote company for favorable consideration by the senate and assembly codes committees of a bill to make illegal discrimination against bank note companies by stock exchanges.

The convicted senator is 47 years old and had been long in politics. His conviction automatically removed him from the senate.

ROBBED MAN MUST EXPLAIN TAX ITEMS

Yager of Chicago Will Be Called on By Assessor.

Chicago, May 28.—William A. Yager, president of the Arms Palace Horse Car company, who reported to the police the theft of $20,000 worth of jewelry from his residence, is to be called before the board of assessors to explain discrepancies between his tax declaration and the property scheduled as stolen.

Property scheduled in his tax report of April 1, 1913, by Mr. Yager, read: "One automobile, $1,000; one ring and scarf pin, $150."

The list of jewels he reported to the police as stolen included such items as "collar of diamonds, $3,500; diamond brooch, $3,500; diamond ring, $1,000." Mr. Yager offers $5,000 reward for the recovery of the gems.

"I intend to ask Mr. Yager if he came into possession of all this jewelry since April 1," said Tax Assessor Koraleski. "I also want to ask him where he expects to get the $5,000 he offers as a reward."

CROOK WHO POSED AS WOMAN HAS ESCAPED

Jumps From Train While on Way Back to California.

Ashfork, Ariz., May 28—James Arthur Baker, arrested at Kansas City, Mo., last week on a charge of stealing money orders from a village postoffice in California, and also wanted for forgery and embezzlement, while being taken back to that state for trial escaped from Sheriff George Wilson of Riverside, Cal., by jumping from a Santa Fe train near here. Baker, who at various times taught school and posed as a woman, is regarded as a confirmed criminal.

SLIDE BURIES CARS IN THE CULEBRA CUT

Ten Cars, Two Steamshovels and One Locomotive Are Caught.

Panama, May 28.—The slide on the east bank of Culebra cut is again active. After a heavy rain Monday several hundred thousand yards of earth and rock slid into the canal excavation, burying ten cars and two steamshovels and covering all the tracks. A locomotive also was caught in the moving mass. Work at the station in Culebra cut will be at a complete standstill for several days.

UNVEIL SHAFTS TO CONFEDERATES.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 28.—Unveiling of monuments in Chickamauga Park to the memory of Florida and Alabama soldiers marked the second day of the twenty-third reunion of the United Confederate Veterans in Chattanooga. Mrs. Townes Randolph Leigh of Montgomery presented the Alabama shaft to the park commission, and former United States Senator Samuel Pasco delivered the dedication address for the Florida monument.

CLOSE DOORS; STUDY TARIFF

Senate Sub-Committees Begin Reading Briefs on the Schedules.

La Follette Plans Week-Long Speech Against Underwood Bill.

Washington, May 28.—Members of the senate finance sub-committees met behind closed doors today and plunged into the mass of briefs and testimony relating to the Underwood tariff schedules preparatory to making their reports to the entire committee some time next week. Many items, some senators have declared, probably will be changed.

While the sub-committees were at work, Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, sought counsel with Secretary Bryan and John Bassett Moore, counselor of the state department, regarding foreign protests against administrative features of the Underwood bill.

The committee is considering eliminating the clause which would extend a 5 per cent tariff discount on imports in American-owned or controlled ships. Many nations have protested that is a violation of treaty rights.

La Follette to Talk a Week.

Part of the Republican program for debating the tariff bill in the senate has been outlined.

More than twenty senators have long speeches in preparation. Senator La Follette plans to talk for one whole week on many features of the bill. Senator Burton will make one of the first speeches. Senator Oliver will discuss the iron and steel schedule; Senator Lodge the textile schedule; Senators McCumber, Gronna, Norris, Nelson and Clapp the agricultural schedule; Senator Smoot the wool schedule, while Senators Borah, Works and Cummins are preparing lengthy arguments.

HEAD OF GERMANY'S ARMY WILL RETIRE

Field Marshal Von der Goltz Makes Request of Kaiser.

Berlin, May 28.—Field Marshal Kolmar von der Goltz, considered one of the foremost strategists of the age, has presented a request to Emperor William to be allowed to retire.

The field marshal, who entered the army in 1861 and fought through the Prusso-Austrian and Franco-German wars, would have commanded the main German army in case of the breakout of a war.

FIND SUICIDE AT COMO PARK

Police Recover Body Supposedly That of Mrs. Florence Gebhardt.

Raymond Burnham, Formerly of Duluth, Connected With Case.

St. Paul, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—After searching since daylight, the police shortly before noon today recovered the body of a woman who committed suicide yesterday by jumping from a boat into the lake at Como park. The body was found at the spot where she jumped from the boat. She is believed by the police to be Mrs. Florence Gebhardt, divorced wife of Prof. George F. Gebhardt of Chicago.

R. Burnham, formerly of Duluth, whose name, it is claimed, was mentioned in a note left by the woman before she committed suicide, left the hotel in Minneapolis where the two, it is alleged, had been stopping, at 10 o'clock this morning, according to the manager. His destination is unknown.

Jumped From Rowboat.

The woman registered at a Minneapolis hotel Sunday night as Mrs. G. F. Gebhardt of Chicago, and committed suicide yesterday afternoon by jumping from a rowboat into the lake at Como park. She had but a few minutes before rented the boat from a park attendant. Her act was witnessed by many persons at the park. When Mrs. Gebhardt left the hotel in the forenoon, according to the clerk, she left a note giving instructions that Raymond Burnham, formerly of Duluth, be notified of her suicide.

That the woman was the Mrs. George F. Gebhardt of Chicago who was separated from her husband, Prof. Gebhardt, head of the mechanical department, Armour Institute of Technology, last fall, was made certain, according to the police, when her grip, which had been left at the hotel, was opened and a note found which read: "This is the property of Prof. G. F. Gebhardt of Chicago."

Talked With Burnham.

Burnham announced through his attorney that he would make no statement until the identity of the woman had been established beyond doubt.

The police say Burnham, who came here recently from Duluth, Minn., and who was employed by an electrical company, held a long conversation with the woman Monday night, after which the two parted.

Many pleasure seekers at the park watched the woman row to the middle of the lake, stand upright in the boat, and then plunge to her death. Efforts to reach her were futile.

FOSTER IS ON TRIAL FOR ATTACK ON RYAN

Detective Who Worked on Dynamite Case Faces Jury.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 28.—Robert J. Foster, a detective employed by the National Erectors' association during the investigation of the "dynamite conspiracy" cases here, charged with having assaulted Frank M. Ryan, president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, was placed on trial in the criminal court this morning.

Four counts against the detective allege assault and battery, trespass, carrying concealed weapons, and drawing deadly weapons, all growing out of an encounter between Foster and Ryan early in the dynamite investigation. Mr. Ryan will be the chief witness for the state.

Federal Bureau of Fisheries Will Ask Fund for Duluth Work.

May Put Fishway in Dam Now in Lester River.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, May 28.—An effort will be made by Representative Miller during the long session of congress next winter to secure an appropriation for the construction of an underground duct to carry water from the Lester river to the government fish hatchery at Duluth, so that the present wooden flume which crosses Lester park and the hatchery park may be removed.

Mr. Miller has discussed the matter with officials of the bureau of fisheries, and they have agreed to ask congress for an appropriation of $4,000 for the construction of the proposed underground aqueduct.

The bureau of fisheries has also agreed to put a fishway in the dam in Lester river, provided the parties owning the private dam further up the river will make a similar change in their dam. The purpose of the change is to improve the fishing in Lester river, as the fishways will permit trout to go up from Lake Superior.

HABEAS CORPUS IS DENIED VON KLEIN

Minneapolis Man Must Go West to Face Woman's Charges.

Chicago, May 28.—Edmund E. C. Von Klein, the Minneapolis diamond broker, must return to Portland, Or., to stand trial on charges preferred against him by Miss Ethel Newcomb, formerly of Fort Wayne, Ind. Judge Kersten today refused to release him on habeas corpus proceedings begun by Von Klein's attorneys.

Soon after Von Klein had been remanded to the county jail, Detective Joseph Day of Portland served Sheriff Zimmer with a warrant for Von Klein, issued by the governor of Oregon.

Von Klein appeared to be greatly dejected when Judge Kersten decided against him. He rubbed his eyes for a moment, then cast them toward the floor.

Counsel for Von Klein attempted to block extradition by raising the point that the information on which his return to Portland was sought was insufficient. Judge Kersten ruled that the proceedings on which the governor's warrant was issued were regular.

Miss Newcomb accuses Von Klein of pretending to marry her at Portland in 1912 and then deserting her several days after the "marriage," taking her jewelry valued at $3,325.

ALLIES ON WAR'S VERGE

Servia and Bulgaria Are Close to Actual Hostilities.

Tension Is Severe Between Bulgarian and Greek Armies.

Sofia, Bulgaria, May 28.—The military circles of the Bulgarian capital expect an almost immediate outbreak of hostilities between Bulgaria and Servia.

Bulgaria Offers Settlement.

Vienna, May 28.—Bulgaria has addressed a note to the European powers offering to submit to their decision the question of the future of Saloniki, according to the Reichspost today.

Tension Is Severe.

Saloniki, May 28.—The most severe tension still exists between the Greek and Bulgarian armies facing each other some distance north of this city. Several clashes, during which shots were exchanged, occurred yesterday and today. The Greeks accuse the Bulgarians of assuming the aggressive.

In spite of the declaration made at the Bulgarian capital that the Bulgarian troops have been ordered to observe a moderate attitude and to avoid conflicts with the Greeks, the Bulgarian commanders apparently are preparing to attack Eleftheria, with a view to gaining complete occupation of the dominant position of Mount Panghaion. They have already placed guns on the crests of the hills to the southeast of Prava, commanding Eleftheria.

The Bulgarian troops have also occupied the heights commanding the village of Bujuktu, to the south of Lake Doiran, and the town of the same name which is occupied by the Greeks.

It is the belief of the Greek generals that the Bulgarians are systematically creating incidents and endeavoring to drive the Greeks toward the sea and seize the positions vacated by them.

LAWYERS IN LONG DEBATE IN LIBEL SUIT

Newspaper Man Is First Witness of the Day in Marquette Court.

O'Loughlin Testifies to Abstemious Habits of Former President.

Bacon, Newberry, Pinchot, Post, Garfield and Others to Testify.

Marquette, Mich., May 28.—Charges that the idea that ex-President Theodore Roosevelt was accustomed to drink to excess was general throughout the country, featured today's session of the trial of Col. Roosevelt's $10,000 libel suit against George Newett, publisher of the Ishpeming Iron Ore. The suit is based on a published article charging that Col. Roosevelt sometimes got drunk.

The assertion that the report of Roosevelt's excesses in drinking was so general "as to amount to a reputation" was made by Attorney Belden for the defense during the absence of the jury. It was brought out in answer to the formal declaration of Col. Roosevelt in his complaint that he never "had been suspected of drinking alcoholic liquors to excess."

Introduction of testimony to show the abstemious habits of the plaintiff was resumed today in the libel suit.

John Callan O'Loughlin, a Washington correspondent, was the first witness.

The tenseness and nervousness which pervaded the atmosphere of Judge Flannigan's court the first two days seemed to have subsided. Lawyers, witnesses and principals engaged in the suit confessed to profound slumber last night and ravenous performances at the breakfast table, and smilingly took up the thread of the case where it left off yesterday.

Col. Roosevelt entered with George Shiras, his host here, and took his accustomed inconspicuous seat with a row of spectators inside the railing. His gaze turned upon the jury and then upon O'Loughlin as the latter was sworn.

Caressed His Watchchain.

Col. Roosevelt sits quietly caressing his heavy watchchain which stretches like a cable across his vest. He does it slowly and reflectively, rather than nervously. He resumed this habit as he listened to the testimony today.

Mr. Newett, the defendant, came into court with his counsel. He is a very sick man, but his ruddy countenance hid this from all but those who know him well.

He sat looking straight in front of him and not at any one in particular, utterly motionless, as he has appeared thus far in the proceedings. He was an exception to those whose appetites are reflecting the keen clear atmosphere of this region, for his food is regulated by the orders of his physician.

Ex-Cabinet Members Called.

Former members of his cabinet, his intimate friends and men who were associated with him in his travels in this and foreign lands were to testify today on behalf of Col. Roosevelt.

Today, it was expected, would be devoted entirely to the oral testimony of Col. Roosevelt's witnesses. These include Robert Bacon, former secretary of state; Truman H. Newberry, former secretary of the navy; Gifford Pinchot, James R. Garfield, Regis H. Post, former governor of Porto Rico; Lawrence Abbott, W. Emlen Roosevelt, William Loeb, Jr., and newspaper correspondents who have accompanied the colonel on many of his campaign trips.

All of these witnesses were to testify as to Col. Roosevelt's habits with reference to liquor in his official and private life.

Many Depositions.

James H. Pound, chief counsel for the plaintiff, made it known that many depositions are to be read after the hearing of oral testimony, which precluded the possibility of completing the case on behalf of Col. Roosevelt before tomorrow.

Such depositions as already have been read indicate that much time will be taken up with the lengthy depositions yet to come because of the probability of legal arguments over technical points involving the admissibility of evidence.

Court will take a recess over Friday on account of it being a legal holiday. Many of the attorneys believe the case cannot go to the jury before the middle of next week.

Although Col. Roosevelt, on returning to Europe from his African hunt was obliged to attend banquets and receptions tendered him by monarchs, he never indulged in champagne to an immoderate degree, was the testimony of O'Loughlin, who said he had been associated with Col. Roosevelt for twenty years.

The witness said he met the former president on the Nile after the African hunt, and accompanied him as far as Paris, acting as secretary to Col. Roosevelt. O'Loughlin also accompanied the colonel on various campaign trips in this country.

Calls Charge "Silly."

"During your twenty years' experience with Col. Roosevelt, have you ever seen him in the slightest degree under the influence of liquor?"

"I not only never saw him under the influence of liquor, but it seems absolutely silly to me to have anyone suggest the fact that he ever was," replied O'Loughlin emphatically.

"At banquets have you ever seen him drink any liquor?"

"At banquets he sometimes took a glass of white wine. I never saw him drink more than one glass of champagne."

O'Loughlin described the various

"JOBS" FOR GRADUATES

Employment Bureau Will Be Established at Industrial High School.

Will Provide Permanent Work and Vacation Positions for Students.

A free employment bureau will be established in connection with the Duluth Industrial high school. Announcement to this effect was made today by S. A. Foster, principal of the school.

It is proposed through this to secure permanent employment for graduates of the high school and vacation jobs for those students who wish work during the summer.

The plans of the bureau have not been fully outlined as yet. Mr. Foster expects to have these completed within a short time. He is a member of the committee of the Schoolmasters' club which has similar plans in view for uptown.

"No matter what action the committee takes I intend establishing a free employment bureau here for my own scholars," said Mr. Foster. "The idea is to bring the employer and employe in close touch with each other. The bureau will also keep in close touch with every boy or girl sent to fill a position in order to not only find out if he or she is making good but also to know if an advancement is made so that others may be put in similar position.

"There is no doubt but that many employers are looking for high school graduates. If they know that they can get one with the good references they will employ one at our recommendation.

"High school graduates often have difficulty in getting positions on leaving school. This is because no systematic effort has in the past been made to get positions for them. With the free employment bureau established and positions open when they graduate it will be an added incentive for the students to finish their term with a good standard."

Mr. Foster stated that there had been few requests so far for assistance in securing positions, but believed that this was because the pupils were not looking for assistance from this source. He stated that it was his belief that the proposed bureau would prove very popular, not only with the students but with the people at large.

ROYAL LEAGUE PLANS FOR ANNUAL PICNIC.

Plans were made for a picnic to be held on July 27 at the meeting of the West Duluth council and Pocahontas council of the Royal league last evening. The affair will be held at Fond du Lac. An invitation will be extended to the Zenith and Ruth councils from uptown to join in the affair.

The members of the Zenith council will be challenged to a ball game. This feature of the outing has in past years proven the biggest drawing card of former affairs. A committee from the West Duluth lodges was appointed to make the arrangements. The members of the committee are: M. J. Murray, chairman; Carl Nelson, E. G. Kriedler, T. F. Olsen, E. W. Lund, Mrs. M. J. Murray, Mrs. E. W. Boerner, Mrs. E. J. Zauft and Miss Merle Wright.

DULUTH IS "CLEAN, PROGRESSIVE AND DRY"

That West Duluth has a great future before it is the opinion of Columbus J. Long of Morgantown, W. Va., who with a party of Eastern men has been looking over the city and Northern Minnesota. In the party were A. L. Woodfill and Charles Ellason also of Morgantown, and Charles Woodfill and Rocco Lepera of Uniontown, Pa.

"The school system of Duluth and Northern Minnesota is the best in the country," said Mr. Long, who viewed many of the buildings from their architectural standpoint. "Many of the schools through the country districts and small towns would do credit to some of the big cities of the East.

"Regarding Duluth, I want to say here that you have one of the cleanest and most progressive as well as the dryest in the country."

The party left this morning for a visit to the Twin Cities.

Gen. Lunsford Dead.

INSPECTS NEW PAVEMENT

City Engineer John Wilson Returns From Eastern Cities.

Experiment With Rocmac Material May Be Made in Duluth.

City Engineer John Wilson has returned from a trip to Toronto, Can., Niagara Falls, Detroit and other Eastern points to inspect a new pavement known as Rocmac, a recent patent process. He accompanied a committee which made an investigation in the interests of a number of Woodland property owners.

The Rocmac pavement has been in use but a few years. It resembles a macadam pavement more closely than anything else. In fact, it is practically a macadam pavement treated by the Rocmac process. The Rocmac forms a binder, which with lime and chemical reactions with the air, results in a smooth and nearly dustless surface. It is strongly adhesive and if a crack appears in the pavement it was stated that it would heal itself.

For experimental purposes a block of crushed rock macadam may be treated with the Rocmac process in Duluth this season. Those who were familiar with it in the East said that it had given excellent satisfaction. It cost about 35 cents per yard more than the ordinary crushed rock macadam in the East.

The city engineer stated that in Detroit he was surprised to learn that asphalt is classified as a more slippery pavement than creosote block. He also found that in some sections of the city the creosote blocks were laid differently than in most municipalities. A thin lath, probably one-quarter of an inch in thickness, was placed between each block, about half its height. This left a slight space between the blocks which was filled with tar and gravel, affording a better foothold for horses.

City Engineer Wilson also inspected other pavements, but because of limited time was unable to make any minute examination of them. He found that brick and asphalt were the pavements most commonly used in the cities which he visited.

One concrete roadway impressed him considerably. It was constructed to a width of about fourteen feet, with an average crown but no curbs. The drainage offered no obstacles and the cost was greatly reduced by the elimination of the curbs. He said that it struck him that such a roadway would be desirable for the road to the steel plant and New Duluth. The street cars were operated to one side of the driveway, thus offering no interference to the other traffic.

SAYS STATE LAWYER DEMANDED A BRIBE

Alleged Forger Accuses District Attorney in Milwaukee Court.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 28.—District Attorney Edward Yockey and his special deputy sheriff, Edward Tracy, were today charged with demanding $400 as release money by Stephen E. Sontelleu, who is on trial accused of forging a $5,000 note.

Sontelleu made his sensational charge against the district attorney in municipal court this morning while on the witness stand. He said that Mr. Yockey told him that he had better "come across," and that when he asked the deputy what it meant, he alleges, Tracy told him his freedom would be insured for $400.

Tracy is not only charged with being an accomplice in the extortion charges, but is accused of having gone to the home of Sontelleu and taking letters and papers which, the accuser says, would prove his innocence in the forgery case.

"It is absolutely untrue," said Mr. Yockey today when told of the charges. Deputy Tracy also made strenuous denials. No action has yet been taken and Sontelleu still is being held.

PLAY POLITICS OVER CALIFORNIA DISPUTE

Japanese Faction Seeks to Discredit Yamamoto Ministry.

Tokio, Japan, May 28.—The executive committee of ex-Premier Count Katsura's new party today issued a statement declaring that the president cabinet could not be relied upon to settle the California alien land ownership question, and adding that after a conference with Count Katsura, who is convalescent from a recent illness, the party had decided to adopt its own propaganda with regard to the dispute.

There are indications that the opposition parties in Japan are utilizing the California problem to discredit the Yamamoto ministry and to further their own interests.

The cabinet, however, is generally conceded to be in a strong position with the public, chiefly because of the extensive economies and administrative reforms which it has brought about.

WELCOME FOR DULUTHIANS

North Dakota Towns Show Interest in Coming Trade Excursion.

Large Party of Duluth Business Men to Leave on Trip Sunday.

Newspaper comments and letters received at the Commercial club indicate that the people of the North Dakota towns along the route of the Duluth trade excursion to be held next week are looking forward with interest to the visit of the Duluthians.

The experience of the trade excursionists has been that the people of the towns visited realize that there is a large territory to be covered in a few days, and accordingly do not resent the short time allotted to each town. In many of the smaller places the excursionists will be unable to leave the station platform, but they will be met there by citizens and business men and given a greeting.

The Duluthians will not be out looking for business or entertainment. They will make a friendly call on their neighbors of North Dakota and will ask only that they be given an opportunity of meeting the people and saying a good word for Duluth.

Indirect Results.

The results of the trade excursions are indirect rather than direct. The greatest result from the standpoint of Duluth is the arousing of a friendly feeling toward Duluth on the part of the people of the towns visited. Good will is essential to business, and Duluth doesn't want business without good will. The trade excursionists endeavor to establish the good will and the business will come of itself.

F. X. Gravel, chairman of the trade extension committee of the Commercial club, will personally conduct this excursion as he has all others taken by Duluth business men. Mr. Gravel knows Duluth trade territory as he knows Duluth and under his escort, the Duluthians will get the most out of the territory they visit.

Mr. Gravel says that the party will be a big one and will be made up of substantial business men of the city. He is taking every precaution against delays and mishaps and he exects the excursion to be a smooth and successful one.

The excursionists will leave the union depot at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon and will run direct to Neche, N. D., far up on the border where the first stop will be made. On the first day the excursionists will work down to Grand Forks, where the stop for the evening will be made. The trip will cover all of the towns on the Great Northern main line from Grand Forks to Minot and the branches north. The last day of the trip, Saturday, June 7, will be given to the Fargo-Surrey cut-off en route from Minot to Fargo, and the excursionists will run in to Duluth from Fargo without intermediate stops, arriving here at 8:35 Sunday, June 8.

GOOD WEATHER CALLS OFF BASEBALL GAME

Aspirants for Diamond Honors Stay Home to Hoe Corn.

Trempealeau, Wis., May 28.—Intense rivalry on the baseball field between Trempealeau and Onalaska, Wis., was to have been decided today, and a thousand fans had gathered early from the whole country side ,when it was announced that the game was off. The weather was fine for baseball, but it was also fine for hoeing corn, and four members of the Trempealeau team, including the star battery, were obliged to respond to the call of duty, and fans, by automobiel, buggy and afoot left for home, disappointed.

SEVENTH STREET WILL BE GRADED

Big Improvement Contract Is Awarded to J. A. Johnson.

Following a hearing of the property owners at the city hall this morning Commissioner Murchison, head of the division of public works, directed the city engineer to prepare plans for grading Seventh street to its full width from Fourth avenue west to Fourteenth avenue east.

The contract for improving the street has been awarded to J. A. Johnson, who will do the grading and surface it with crushed rock macadam.

The change agreed upon this morning will not alter the width of the roadway on which the crushed rock will be laid but will call for more grading. Between Fourth avenue west and Seventh avenue east the roadway will be forty feet wide and from Seventh avenue east to Fourteenth avenue east it will be 25 feet wide. A number of cuts and fills will be necessary. No sidewalks will be constructed this year in order to give the fills an opportunity to settle before they are built.

GERMAN AVIATOR KILLED BY FALL.

Hanover, Germany, May 28.—A. Horn, a German aviator, was killed instantly this morning by a fall from a height of 500 feet while making an overland flight in his monoplane. The cause of the accident could not be ascertained, as the machine was shattered.

FLAGLER'S WILL PUT ON FILE.

St. Augustire, Fla., May 28.—The will of Henry M. Flagler, has been filed here. By its provision J. R. Parrott, president of the Florida East Coast railroad, is to retain that post as long as he desires. The will states that this is in recognition of Mr. Parrott's great executive ability and his long and faithful service.

The widow is left the bulk of the $100,000,000 estate, it being provided that the estate shall be handled for five years by J. R. Parrott, W. H. Beardsley and William R. Keenan, Jr., as trustees, during which time Mrs. Flagler is to receive $100,000 annually. To Harry Flagler, his son, Mr. Flagler gives 5,000 shares of Standard Oil of New Jersey stock.

Among other bequests is that of $100,000 to Hamilton college of Clinton, N. Y. Other colleges mentioned in the will as beneficiaries are cut off by codicils, as having been otherwise aided since the will was made. To J. R. Parrott, Mr. Flagler left $100,000, and to W. H. Beardsley of New York $50,000. The Flagler Memorial church here is to receive $75,000. Many smaller bequests were made to friends and servants.

The will, which was made in 1898, contains six codicils.

Muskegon Temporarily Dark.

Muskegon, Mich., May 28.—This city was without electric light or power for several hours as the result of a strike of the operators of the Commonwealth Power company. Street and residence lights were extinguished and electric cars both inside the city and on the line between here and Grand Rapids, were "dead."

Late last night the company succeeded in manning its sub-station at Muskegon Heights and a reserve plant at Fruitport and service was restored.

LICENSE MAY BE REVOKED

Another Saloon Runs Afoul of Commissioner Hicken's Policy.

Dunlap and Thatcher Will Be Cited to Defend License.

Commissioner W. A. Hicken, head of the division of public safety, is following close upon the heels of the so-called disorderly saloons.

At the meeting of the commission called for 10 o'clock tomorrow morning he will offer a resolution citing Dunlap and Thatcher, saloon keepers at 519 West Superior street, to appear before the council to show cause why their license should not be revoked. The license runs until March 15, 1914.

In police court yesterday afternoon George Dunlap, one of the proprietors, pleaded guilty to having assaulted John Nystrom in his place of business on the Bowery. He was let off with a fine of $25 and costs, amounting to $27, but was severely reprimanded by the court.

Hold-up Is Charged.

The report was that Dunlap engaged Nystrom in a dice game. Nystrom lost and it is said that Dunlap announced that the "drinks for the house," or all the men at the bar at the time were on him. Nystrom objected and entered an earnest protest at what he considered a hold-up proposition. Dunlap is alleged to have beaten him up because he would not settle the score for the "house." Nystrom swore out a complaint for his arrest. When first arraigned in police court Dunlap denied his guilt but when he came up for trial he changed his plea to one of guilty.

Joseph Kenny, proprietor of the Metropole hotel at Lake avenue south and Michigan street, is due to appear before the commission tomorrow morning to show cause why his saloon license should not be taken from him. He pleaded guilty in police court Monday afternoon to having kept his bar open on Sunday. The citation is to comply with legal requirements. As the commission has announced that saloons convicted of law violations would lose their licenses there is small prospect that Kenny will continue in the saloon business in this city.

Application for a license to operate a pool room in the Metropole hotel building was made some time ago. When other similar licenses were acted upon it was stricken from the list and has not been brought up since.

Several weeks ago the application of John Talonen for a saloon license on Lake avenue south was denied. The police reported that the place was not desirable, as it did all in its power to frustrate the police and to give protection to law violators.

WANTS DAMAGES FROM RAILROAD

John Cotily Says Brakeman's Push Was Responsible for Fall.

For injuries alleged to have been received as a result of having been pushed through the open vestibule of a rapidly moving passenger train, John Cotily is seeking to recover $1,520 damages in a personal injury action against the Great Northern Railway company, which is on trial today before Judge Ensign and a district court jury.

Cotily claims that on Aug. 7, 1911, he was a passenger on a Great Northern passenger train from Duluth to Dewey, Wis., and that as the train was approaching his destination, and he was moving towards the vestibule of the coach, he was pushed by a brakeman so that when he stepped into the vestibule he lost his balance and fell through the door which had previously been opened by the brakeman. Cotily is a Greek and gave his testimony through an interpreter.

Cotily alleges that he was internally injured. McCoy & Hanson are attorneys for the plaintiff and Baldwin & Baldwin are in court for the defendant company.

JURY SPENDS NIGHT ON CASE

Unable to Reach an Agreement in Personal Injury Suit.

From present indications, the personal injury action brought against the Great Northern railway by Esther G. Benedict, who wants $10,000 damages for alleged wrongful death of her husband, Fred C. Benedict, will result in a mistrial.

The jury, which spent a restless night deliberating on the case, reported to Judge Cant this morning that there was little probability of reaching an agreement. The court, however, suggested that the jury take the case again.

On July 16, 1912, it is claimed that Benedict was struck by a loaded ore train. Both legs were cut off and death followed shortly afterwards. The testimony showed that he was crossing the company's tracks from the roundhouse, where he was employed as a hostler, to a hydrant for a drink of water. Negligence on the part of the defendant was charged.

MONEY WILL GO TO INJURED BOY.

John Gillson, guardian for his 14-year-old nephew, Leonard Linden Gillson, who received $2,500 from the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Railway company in settlement of a personal injury claim, today petitioned the district court for an order approving his account and disposition of the funds received in the settlement.

Gilson represents that after expenses have been deducted, the sum of $1,425 remains for the benefit of the boy, who on May 24, 1911, had one of his feet crushed under the wheels of a box car.

CHILD DIES AT HOTEL.

Fort Frances People Bring Little One to Duluth for Treatment.

Franklin M. Paine, the 1-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark A. Paine of Fort Frances, Ont., died at 10 o'clock last evening at the Miller hotel, where the family was staying.

Mr. and Mrs. Paine came here last Saturday for the purpose of obtaining expert medical treatment for their son, who was afflicted with inflammatory rheumatism.

This morning Dr. McAuliffe and Dr. Patton, at the direction of Coroner McComb, conducted an autopsy, after which the body was taken to the Crawford undertaking parlors. The funeral will be held from the parlors at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, with interment at Calvary.

Simon Heads Grand Lodge.

Kansas City, Mo., May 28.—Harry Simon of St. Louis was elected president of the second district grand lodge B'Nai B'Rith, which concluded its annual convention here. The other officers elected were: Rabbi Joseph Kornfeld, Columbus, Ohio, first vice president; Samuel Kornhauser, Cleveland, Ohio, second vice president; Victor Abrahams, Cincinnati, secretary, and A. Bloch, Cincinnati, treasurer.

PROBLEM IN SALE OF BONDS

Issue of $100,000 Must Be Sold for Water and Light Department.

Bids Will Be Asked From Bond Houses in the East.

The city commission met in conference in the mayor's office this morning to consider the problem of disposing of the $100,000 of bonds of the water and light department.

No definite action was taken further than that the commission agreed that it is necessary to dispose of the bonds within a short time, as money is needed for extensions and improvements in the water and light department, some of them of an urgent nature.

Commissioner Merritt, head of the division of public utilities, submitted a statement of improvements which are contemplated, aggregating $91,500 in cost. These include improvements and new machinery at Woodland, the construction of a concrete reservoir for the middle system, a new pump at Lakewood and an office building at West Duluth.

Negotiating With Bond Houses.

N. J. Upham, who has handled much of the city's bond business, met with the commissioners. He submitted a proposal whereby his company should dispose of the bonds at the best price possible on a 1 per cent commission basis, but this was not accepted. Mr. Upham is going East on other business and while there will take up the question of the sale of the bonds, keeping the commission informed of progress. Pending his negotiations the bond disposal will be held open for ten days.

In the meantime, Finance Commissioner Voss has written a number of Eastern bond dealers, asking them for prices on the bonds. He expects to hear from them within a few days. The bond market is not in the most favorable condition at present and the indications are that as good a price as could be desired will not be offered.

The bonds are last block of the issue of $300,000 authorized at the city election two years ago. They had to be sold before April 1 under the terms of the approval. In order that the remaining $100,000 might be available they were sold March 21 to the N. J. Upham company, who in turn reassigned them to the city. The proceeding was a formality to prevent the block dying a natural death. The legality of the transaction has been attested by a reputable firm of bond attorneys.

CHURCH PUTS BAN ON TOBACCO'S USE.

Winona Lake, Ind., May 28.—All church officers, Sunday school teachers, evangelists and mission workers of the Reformed Presbyterian church are forbidden to use tobacco in any form under the terms of a resolution adopted by the synod.

The resolution was presented by Rev. W. W. Carithers, a delegate from Cache Creek, Okla. After its adoption a resolution providing that one year hence an effort be made to revise the church discipline to provide that all members of the church abstain from the use of tobacco was adopted.

Bloomington, Ind., was chosen for the 1914 meeting. Milwaukee also wanted the convention.

RAILROAD VALUES ARE TO BE FOUND.

Washington, May 28.—Preliminary plans for a physical valuation of railroads, authorized by congress for use in rate making, were discussed yesterday at a conference between members of the interstate commerce commission and the presidents or directing heads of the principal American railway systems. The commission's ideas, so far as they have been worked out, were submitted, and the railroad men, who are required by the law to co-operate in making the physical valuation, declared their intention of undertaking their part of the task immediately in conformity with the view as outlined.

FIREMEN FACE DEATH FOR HORSES.

Chicago, May 28.—Eleven firemen were overcome early today attempting to rescue a large number of horses in the stables of W. A. Wieboldt & Co., which practically were destroyed by fire. Forty-one horses were burned to death.

The unconscious firemen were taken in an ambulance to headquarters where they recovered soon afterward.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE!

People Notice It. Drive Them Off With Olive Tablets.

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pimples will vanish after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Nothing ever cleansed the blood, the bowels and the liver like Olive Tablets.

Olive Tablets are the only successful substitute for calomel—they oil the bowels; there's never any sickness or pain after taking them.

Olive Tablets do all that calomel does and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with "a dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are made of pure vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result.

Try them. Take one nightly for a week. Then look at yourself in the glass and see how you feel. 10c and 25c per box.

BUSINESS TO BE SUSPENDED

Public Offices and Business Places Will Be Closed Memorial Day.

Governor Eberhart Issues Proclamation Urging People to Observe Holiday.

Friday, Memorial day, will be observed generally by a suspension of business in Duluth. All public offices and nearly all business places will be closed for the day.

The schools will close tomorrow evening not to reopen until Monday. There will be no markets Friday and business generally will stand still in tribute to the dead and in honor of the living veterans of the wars.

Governor Eberhart has issued his annual Memorial day proclamation calling upon the people of the state to observe the day. It follows:

"It is with a spirit of consecration, deeper than ever before, that the American people will this year pay their tribute to the members of the Grand Army of the Republic. That tribute will be the more genuine and the more sincere because, with the lapse of time, a more proper perspective of the deeds thy accomplished and the great national purposes brought about, is obtained.

"As the ranks of the living become thinner, so the hosts of those who have answered the last roll call become greater, but as with each succeeding year we pay greater honor to the grand army of the dead, so our regard for the grizzled veterans who survive becomes more infinitely tender and more genuinely considerate. This year the surviving members of the Grand Army will gather on the battlefield of Gettysburg to commemorate the greatest battle of the Civil war and to consecrate again the field where so many lives were sacrificed to secure the principle upon which the Republic was founded.

"Accordingly all events conspire to make the Memorial day of this year one of unusual beauty and interest. It is not only the memory of the soldiers of '61 that we shall honor, but tribute will be paid also to the soldiers of a later war and the veterans of the Spanish-American conflict will be honored with those who wore the army blue in the war of great rebellion. It is a beautiful custom which prompts us to scatter flowers upon the graves of those who have gone beyond, but we should not forget that the flowers are for the living even more than for the dead. Let us honor the thinning ranks of the Grand Army veterans with more than ordinary tribute. The combined emotions of patriotism, reverence and love should prompt us to consecrate to their memory the date of May 30, so that the great deeds of those who fought that their county might be what it is, may not be forgotten by those who are the beneficiaries of their great service.

"Therefore, I, Adolph O. Eberhart, governor of the state of Minnesota, do issue this proclamation and urge the observance of Friday, May 30, 1913, as Decoration and Memorial day."

Woman's Realm

One of the most interesting weddings in the history of Duluth took place at noon today when Mrs. Abbie Goodale Smith and Townsend W. Hoopes, both well known residents of Duluth, were married by Quaker ceremony at the home of the bride, 318½ Seventh avenue east.

In the presence of about thirty intimate friends the service was enacted. The bride entered on the arm of W. A. McGonagle, meeting the bridegroom in front of a tall screen of ferns and flowers, where J. L. Washburn read the long wedding contract which constitutes the Quaker service. Rev. Charles N. Thorp, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church, of which congregation the bride has been a member during her residence here, closed the service with the benediction. All of the guests signed the wedding certificate.

Mrs. Frank J. O'Donnell who today celebrated her first wedding anniversary, had charge of arrangements for the wedding and was assisted by Miss Genevieve Washburn, Mrs. T. A. Wells and Miss Winnifred Warner.

The bride wore a gown of pearl grey crepe de meteor with trimmings of pearl and real lace put on in fichu effect, and Mrs. O'Donnell's gown was of an apricot shade.

The rooms were a bower of flowers. Pink and white sweetpeas and peonies were arranged with effect in the parlor and banked the fireplace and in the dining room American Beauty roses were used.

A wedding breakfast was served at small tables after the ceremony and Mr. and Mrs. Hoopes left this afternoon for a month's wedding trip in the East after which they will make their home at Hunter's Park.

ORGAN RECITAL.

Possibilities of New Instrument at St. Paul's Are Shown.

Members of St. Paul's Episcopal church and some of their friends were guests at a delightful musical last evening at the new church, Serena Ender, organist and choir director of Gethsemane church, Minneapolis, playing an organ recital which proved a treat.

Mr. Ender is a young organist of great ability and he showed an artistic appreciation of the numbers which were played with taste and accuracy. His clear and distinct pedalling was an especially good feature of his work.

The beauties of the new organ were fully displayed under his touch and he had no hesitation in declaring it the best two-manual organ he had ever played. Compositions of a wide range of feeling and quality were given from works by Beethoven, Wagner, Ravanello, Dvorak and Mendelssohn, making a pleasing balance for the program.

The organ is a new one built by Cassavant Brothers of South Haven, Mich., and St. Hyacinthe, Can., and the action is electro-pneumatic.

Give Party.

The young people of St. Clement's church who took part in the little comedy drama, "Diamonds and Hearts" given last evening at the church hall before an audience which packed the house acquitted themselves with great credit. The play went without a hitch and with smoothness which reflected credit on Miss Mary Shesgren who directed it, assisted by Rev. Father Raymond.

Miss Ella Phillips in the leading role, Charles Kremer as "Dr. Burton" and James Wade received special praise for their work and the rest of the cast, Miss Louise Emerson, Miss Mae Nolan, Miss Mayme Monahan, Miss Lydia Gage, Walter Emerson, Lawrence Drohan, Ambrose Nolan and John Miller were also exceptionally good.

DON'T WORRY ABOUT THAT BOY.

Boston Journal: Don't worry if the boy who reports for meals at your table and smashes the windows playing ball in the back yard does not fetch home long columns of high marks from school. Don't be alarmed by all the yarns the papers print about the boy prodigies at Harvard and elsewhere. We wish those remarkable lads luck and a fair field in life and we are amazed by the intellectual stunts that they perform. They play with the fourth dimension as blithesomely as ever the champion pole vaulter goes over the bar at ten feet. But we wish to remind the average father of the average boy "that the race is not always to the swift nor the battle to the strong."

Let's see about some of the others. Sir Isaac Newton was a dull boy. Liebig, the chemist, was called a "booby." Sir Walter Scott was thought "the thickest skull in his school" and the "greatest blockhead in his university." Richard Brinsley Sheridan was told in his boyhood that he was an incorrigible dunce. Goldsmith was slow. The renowned Isaac Barrow was "a marvel of stupidity" when a lad. Douglas Jerrold, the wit, was very slow witted in his early years.

You can't always tell. In "Evelyn's Diary" there is a long description of a stupendous prodigy; no one knows what became of him. Precocity does not always succeed nor does dullness always fail. Let your boy have a real boyhood. When he becomes a man let him put away childish things; help him to weave good strong fibers into his character, and you may await results with a reasonable degree of complacency.

A LONG COAST.

Indianapolis News: Chile yields to no other country in the extent of her unbroken coast line, which extends from Peru to Cape Horn, a distance of about 4,000 miles. The Chilean government is now engaged in making this great coast safe for mariners by erecting lighthouses, at dangerous points, along its entire length.

DISTRICT CONVENTION

W. C. T. U. Branches Hold Joint Meeting, Elect Officers, and Indorse Policy of Commissioner Hicken.

Interesting reports covering forty departments of work carried on by the Women's Christian Temperance union, were given yesterday afttrnoon at the annual district convention of the organization held at the Grace Methodist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street.

Following the reading of the reports of officers and the annual address of the president, officers were elected. Mrs. Joseph Cochran was re-elected president; Mrs. Alfred Jaques, vice president; Mrs. L. W. Linder, second vice president; Mrs. Alice Warren, secretary, and Mrs. B. H. Smith, treasurer.

Mrs. T. B. Jones, president of the West Duluth union; Mrs Otto Carlson, secretary of the Duluth Scandinavian, and Mrs. Ella Robinson, president of the Central union, reported on the work accomplished by their unions during the past year. Among the things accomplished and enumerated by Mrs. Jones were the successful holding of cooking sales, suppers, making of clothes for children at the Children's Home, securing the opening of the West Duluth public library on Sundays, assisting in continuing the work of the Boys' and Girls' club, and holding seventeen meetings with an average attendance of thirty-three members.

Reports Given.

Among the superintendents to give their reports were the following: "Evangelistic Work," Mrs. G. A. Fentess; "Work Among Lumbermen," Mrs. T. H. Culbertson; "Object of Medal Contests," Mrs. H. H. Phelps; "Flower Mission," Mrs. L. P. Swangle, Mrs. Otto Carlson, Mrs. Wells; "Loyal Temperance Legion," Miss Laura Davies; "What Has the W. C. T. U. Accomplished," Mrs. Ida Merritt; "What Can White Ribbon Influence Do in the Home," Mrs. Ella Robinson.

Mrs. Culbertson's report on work among the lumbermen stated that the West Duluth union had supplied between 400 and 500 comfort bags to the camps. In addition to this several tons of reading matter had been sent to the lumber camps during the past year.

The afternoon's program also included an address of welcome by Rev. George E. Silloway, musical numbers by Mrs. David Adams and Mrs. Neil B. Morrison.

At the evening's session a program of music and readings was given. Rev. W. F. Hovis, pastor of the Endion M. E. church, gave the principal address. During the course of his talk he presented the following resolution which was unanimously indorsed:

"We rejoice in the stand for law enforcement taken by all Duluth commissioners. We never have had so orderly a city as we have today. We hope that their courage and determination may endure, and assure them of our approval and support. We especially commend Commissioner Merritt for his stand against inflicting another saloon on New Duluth. We hope for the time when this evil institution shall be a relic of barbarism, like slavery."

The program included readings by Miss Phyllis Nesbit and Miss Judith Satterstrom, solo selection by Mrs. David Adams and the reading of a paper on "A World Wide War," by Mrs. Alfred Jaques.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

The Circus Season's Here—Are You Getting Old?

It always rather amuses me when the circus season comes around each summer to hear people asking each other the time-worn question if they are "going to the circus to take the children." It seems to appeal to a general sense of humor, but for the life of me I don't see where the humor comes in.

Why, in the name of your youth that may be gone, so far as the years are concerned, at least, should you have to go to the circus merely to take the children? There is little more fun, indeed, than going to a circus and taking some little tot with you to enjoy it—you enjoy it so much more when there's a youngster to watch. But what I'm driving at is this: Many grown-ups seem to think they have to apologize in some manner or other for going to the circus.

Why, pray, should any adult person be ashamed of it? There is something about a circus that appeals to all of us, more or less, and makes the blood tingle in our veins again with the elixir of youth.

I can't imagine an evening of more fun than to organize a party of friends and go to the circus—taking it all in, peanuts, red lemonade, sideshow, menagerie, three rings and all. You know before you go just what you are going to see, but you enjoy it just the same.

I heard a young man say the other day, as he stood watching a circus parade, that he had stunted his growth "running after one of those when he was a kid"—pointing to the steam calliope—and he added, "I'd like to get out there now and follow it with that bunch of youngsters."

Now of course I'm not wasting this space merely to advertise the circus, but to make a point. I mean to warn you against getting too old or serious minded to fail to get the fun out of life. It's all right to be serious and sober and dignified when occasion demands it, and the demand is made on most of us every day of our lives. But when the circus—or something else comes along that gives us an opportunity to unbend—let us do it with a relish.

Not everybody knows how to get off their dignity on occasion. But it's a fine thing to know. If you can't do it now, better cultivate the happy faculty. It will add years to your life and increase your measure of enjoyment.

WOOD'S TRIAL NEARING END

State Almost Ready to Close Its Case Against Him.

Conference With Wool Company Agents Is Inquired About.

Boston, Mass., May 28.—When the dynamite conspiracy trial was resumed in the superior court today the prosecuting attorneys hoped to conclude the presentation of their evidence by the close of the day's session. Judge Crosby, who is presiding, announced that he would extend the proceedings beyond the usual hour of adjournment if necessary to expedite matters.

The effort of the prosecution continued to center about an attempt to show that President William M. Wood of the American Woolen company, Frederick E. Atteaux, a Boston dye manufacturer, and Dennis J. Collins, a Lawrence undertaker, and Ernest W. Pitman, an Andover contractor, to prejudice public opinion against the mill operatives in the Lawrence textile strike in January, 1912, by hiding dynamite on premises occupied by strikers.

Mr. Wood's general man, Daniel Mahoney, and his chauffeur, were called by the district attorney to tell of the conference at Wood's Andover home on the night of Jan. 19, 1912.

In previous cross-examination of witnesses for the state the defense introduced evidence that the conference was for the purpose primarily of passing upon a letter which Wood had addressed to the strikers and not, as the prosecution alleged, in furtherance of a plot to "plant" dynamite. Those who took part in the conference besides Wood and Atteaux were four officials of four big mills and James R. Bailey, Jr., who was in charge of the woolen company's end of the strike.

Were at Conference.

The defense has succeeded in introducing evidence that on the night of Jan. 19, 1912, during the hours when the government alleges President William M. Wood of the American Woolen company and Frederick E. Ateaux were furthering a conspiracy to "plant" dynamite at Lawrence, both defendants were attending a conference of mill agents, during which an appeal to the strikers to return to work was agreed upon.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

Empress—Vaudeville

Amusement Notes.

In "The Perplexed Husband," which has been hailed by press and public as the best comedy he has had in years, John Drew comes to the Lyceum Friday and Saturday matinee and night. It is the event of the season in dramatic circles in Duluth, and theatergoers are eagerly awaiting the first visit of Mr. Drew to Duluth.

This latest four-act comedy from the pen of Alfred Sutro, who came over to America to stage his piece and help select the sterling cast, has for its theme the most modern and interesting of contemporary subjects—woman suffrage. A notable satire, but without bitterness, "The Perplexed Husband" shows what really happens to a married couple when the woman decides that she will live her own life, and her husband must turn over a new leaf or she will refuse to live with him longer. The complications caused by the husband's cunning are of an amusing character, and the dialogue is as sparkling as champagne. Both in London and New York this comedy has scored a triumph. Never in recent years has Mr. Drew had such a brilliant opportunity to display his capabilities as a light comedian. In the supporting cast are Mary Boland, Alice John, Hubert Druce, Nina Sevening and others.

With the two performances at the Empress tonight will come the closing of a good arrangement of vaudeville acts. Arthur Browning has startled theatergoers with the presentation of "Spot," the dog mathematician. His feats are causing considerable discussion. The work of Madge Hughes, a very clever comedienne, has been pleasing. She has a nice appearance and a captivating voice. Housely and Nicholas, the two boys with the musical instruments, are giving people a treat with their playing. The miniature musical comedy "King Bolo," with Billy Wyse in the title role, is being favorably received. The piece is clean, the lines clever, and the songs catchy. The chorus is good to look upon and the costumes are pretty as is the stage setting. Comedy photo plays complete the program.

For three days, commencing with the matinee tomorrow, the Empress management will offer another assortment of clever acts. One of vaudeville's biggest and most artistic novelties, Jesse L. Lasky's "Vision's D'Art," as presented by the perfect woman, Mlle. Fleurette, will be seen. The clever team of Mott and Maxfield will present their pleasing specialty "The Traveling Salesman and the Manicurist." Fun, jokes and songs are right in their line. Nelson Leavitt and Harriet Dunsmore will offer their fetching comedy sketch, "The Woman Next Door." This is another laugh-producing act. "That Lively Pair," Patricola and Myers, are booked. Their feats in the dancing line are surprisingly novel and entertaining. Their Texas Tommy and Tago dances are the hits of the act. A new series of photo plays will also be included in this program.

COX'S ATTACK ON SENATORS READ.

Washington, May 28.—Senator Pomerene of Ohio aroused criticism from his colleagues by having read in the senate last night a letter from Governor James M. Cox of Ohio, attacking Senators Goff of West Virginia and Gallinger of New Hampshire on account of statements made in debate relating to the governor's refusal to send troops to Cincinnati during the recent street car strike.

Senator Stone, speaking from the Democratic side, and Lodge, for the Republicans, declared the reading of the letter in violation of the senate rules, the latter expressing the hope that it would be expunged from the record. The letter was permitted to stand, however, after Senators Gallinger and Goff had made vigorous replies to the governor and Senator Pomerene had expressed the conviction that he had not violated the rules.

WORKMAN WATCHES DEATH'S APPROACH.

New York, May 28.—Imprisoned between the platform and the flooring of a gun carriage on the forward turret of the battleship New York in the Brooklyn navy yard, Frank Duffy, a contract workman, watched the breech end of a six-inch gun slowly descend upon him, realizing that he was about to die.

Laborers did not hear Duffy's muffled cries in time to operate the stopping lever from above, and his head was crushed, instantly killing him. He had been adjusting machinery and his overalls caught on a projecting bar when he tried to squirm from beneath the gun.

REFUSES TO ALLOW POOLROOM TO CLOSE.

Pool has such a charm for Peter Dombroski that when a local poolroom was about to close up late last night he refused to leave.

At first the proprietor of the poolroom politely asked Dombroski to leave as the business for the day was done. Dombroski refused to leave and began to threaten the proprietor, who after a few minutes called a policeman. Dombroski was arrested and locked up on a charge of disorderly conduct.

When brought in police court this morning Dombroski pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for this afternoon. He was released on payment of $10 bail.

Drivers in Fist Fight.

Because they could not decide on what side of the street they should drive, James Cassady and Daniel Roaden, began an argument on Michigan street about 6 o'clock last evening, which after a few minutes ended in a fight.

Both Cassady and Roaden were arrested and locked up on a charge of disorderly conduct. In police court this morning Cassady was found to have been the aggressor in the argument and slightly under the influence of liquor. He was fined $3 or three days. He paid the fine. Roaden was released.

ON THE STOCK EXCHANGE.

One used to picture the Wall Street broker as a fat, rosy-faced, well-dressed individual who lived on the fat of the land, handing twenty-dollar bills to head waiters as we hand a nickel to the street car conductor, paying heavy cafe checks with ease and nonchalance, dashing out to his country place in a high-power automobile or steam yacht, buying diamonds and Paris gowns and hundred-dollar hats for Mrs. Broker and the Misses Broker and anything he cared to for himself.

Now one pictures him much shrunken, his year-before-last clothes flapping around an ill-fed body, slipping out to dairy lunches and eating from the arm of a chair, coming in the back door rather than look his clerks in the face, reduced to a flat in Harlem, counting the pennies and throwing up his hat when—rarely—he sees a real dollar.

For speculation on the stock exchange is at its lowest ebb in years. The dullest reading in the paper these days is the stock market reports. The cheapest thing on the market is stocks. Millions upon millions of water have been squeezed out, and much solid substance has flowed out with the water.

Industry goes ahead about the same as usual. Factories are working and making money. Railroads are carrying goods at a profit. Dividends are affected in but few instances. There is as much money as there used to be, even more; but it is not drifting the way of the stock market.

European war scares have sent into hiding money that is slow in coming out. Impending tariff changes have a psychologically depressing effect. Really, too, we are just emerging from the after-effects of the panic of 1907.

Wall Street cannot prosper without speculation, and there is no speculation. The barkers have barked till their voices are worn to a shadow, but the players don't come in. The bally-hoo man shouts that "twenty can play as well as one," but he counts himself in the greatest of luck if he draws in the one. A lamb who ventures into the gaming places these days must count himself lucky if he gets away with his hide, not to speak of his fleece.

Sorry as we may be for the luckless broker, no other emotion spoils the feeling that this is a thoroughly good condition. We hope it will last, but it won't. When the public is not speculating, it is doing other and better things with its money. We may hope that it is building homes and paying off the mortgages—which it certainly wasn't doing when it was playing Wall Street.

There is another side to it—good stocks are on the bargain counter, and doubtless much wise investing is in progress. For this is the time when the wise man buys. The foolish wait until everybody is buying and sending prices kiting—and then's when the wise man sells. Sound stocks may be bought now—for investment, not for speculation, and for cash and not on margin—at attractive dividend rates. Commissions on this investment buying are paying for the ticker service and the office boy's wages, but they can hardly do more, for Wall Street is not supported by commissions on legitimate investments.

We're sorry for the brokers, that speculation is at so low an ebb; but we're glad for the country.

The Wisconsin legislature is figuring on a six months' recess. Now what do you think of the idea of a limitless session?

THE TARIFF LOBBY.

President Wilson, with his refreshing way of talking right out so people can hear him and calling a spade a spade and Dick Dick, has held up the tariff lobby for the country to see.

Thereby he has made the efforts of the tariff lobby hopelessly futile, and it might as well go home.

The tariff lobby is not a new thing. Having a president speak right out in meeting and call the country's attention to its workings is, however, a new thing, and it will be a very helpful thing too.

Said the president: "I think the public ought to know the extraordinary exertions being made by the lobby in Washington to gain recognition for certain alterations of the tariff bill. Washington has seldom seen so numerous, so industrious or so insidious a lobby. There is every evidence that money without limit is being spent to sustain this lobby and to create an appearance of a pressure of public opinion contrary to some of the chief items of the tariff bill. It is of serious interest to the country that the people at large should be voiceless in these matters, while great bodies of astute men seek to create an artificial opinion and to overcome the interests of the public for their private profit. It is thoroughly worth the while of the people of this country to take knowledge of this matter. Only public opinion can check and destroy it."

The president's word will serve two purposes. It will inform the public of what is going on, and it will result in a public opinion that will make the efforts of the lobby useless.

The lobby is handicapped much more than it used to be. When senators were elected by legislatures, its work was comparatively easy. There was a common understanding between protected interests, and between the protected interests and the railroads and other concerns which maintained political organizations. The lobby could be helpful in re-electing a senator, and it could be instrumental in beating a senator. All it had to do was to pass the word down the line, and political machinery was set in motion that duly accomplished the desired result.

That isn't possible when a senator seeking re-election must go to the people for his votes. A local protected interest may be powerful in party councils, and influential with party bosses; but those who profit by the industry are so few that their influence in the mass of voters is small.

That's why senators who have represented dividend-paying interests instead of states and people are declining to become candidates for re-election now that they must go straight to the people.

That's why the lobby must resort to muddying the waters and to the attempt to create a fictitious appearance of public sentiment against tariff reductions. The lobby is large, the lobby is eager and hungry, the lobby is zealous and insidious.

But the lobby is impotent, with political power lodged in the hands of the people, when its workings are exposed as President Wilson has exposed them.

The kaiser's daughter, Dolorita O'Gorman and Nat Goodwin all got married on the same day, but if it's a race to the divorce court, there is a sure-thing 100-to-1 favorite.

GOING AFTER THE SMOKE NUISANCE.

As a result of a conference between city authorities, a Commercial club committee and several expert engineers, a smoke ordinance will be drafted and presented to the city commission.

That's good news. The city needs it. The purest air on earth is being polluted by unnecessary smoke. A good many dollars are being wasted through overworked smokestacks. A smoke ordinance, rigorously enforced, would go far to reduce these evils.

With the smoke ordinance, though, should go a campaign of education among firemen and their employers. Much of the nuisance could be abated by proper firing, and at the same time greater energy could be extracted from a smaller amount of coal. Automatic stokers and smoke-consuming devices are admirable, but there is little need of waiting for them when results almost as great can be secured from the right kind of hand stoking.

Reform in this direction is worth going after not only because it will lessen the smoke nuisance but because it will reduce the coal bills.

Carnegie has gone to Europe, but Uncle Sam is keeping right at work just the same. Maybe the canny little Scot doesn't cut so much ice as the number of his libraries would seem to indicate.

INVESTIGATING THE OBVIOUS.

President Wilson having vigorously called attention to the impudent tariff lobby, Senator Cummins proposes a committee to investigate the subject.

From what we have heard of this lobby, from President Wilson and other good authorities, such an investigation seems a work of supererogation, very like carrying coals to Newcastle.

It is as though a party lost in the forest should appoint a committee to see if there were any trees about.

Or as though a shipwrecked crew in an open boat on the ocean should appoint a committee to look for salt water.

The supreme court proposes to decide the Minnesota rate case at its next decision day, or else at the one after that or later.

THE HOUSING ORDINANCE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Last Saturday's Herald contained a criticism as to the size and proportions of courts demanded by the housing code of Duluth.

The observations made are just except the supposition that oversight on the part of the framers of the ordinance was the cause of these discrepancies.

The oversight must be charged to the public or that part of the public which should take interest before they are "up against it" and prevent such discrepancies becoming law.

The undersigned took the liberty to call attention to this and five other essential points in The Herald's Open Court on Aug. 14, before the new code became law.

If the discoveries of discrepancies and unnecessary demands of the housing code continues at this pace it will take six years to find out that the new code is a failure, while in the meantime "two-room flats" are renting for $35 a month, which is a fair price for a five-room flat.

Duluth needs encouraging rather than the contrary in the building of apartments. The prices obtained for flats in Duluth in comparison with other cities will prove this.

The Duluth housing code is in many respects comparable to a door shut behind those who went in at "the ground floor" that is before the new ordinance. The price movement of flats in the near future will prove this for those who do not perceive it at present, a circumstance which also was pointed out before the code became law.

Everyone knows that we needed badly an ordinance at the time and everyone is familiar with the purpose of such an ordinance namely to protect the public in sanitary and other respects by imposing restrictions on the owners. What is the benefit of an ordinance which imposes restrictions and at the same time aggravates conditions? This is exactly what the new code fosters.

For instance—I want to make a big front court (or rear court, for that matter) extending to the main air channel of the street, which is the tendency in progressive cities affording not only a beautiful but also healthy arrangement. The court measures 18 by 50 feet; the housing code of Duluth compels me to cut this court in two and create one unhealthful inside court with additional expenses in the cost of the building expressed of course in rents. To proportion the width and length of courts sounds like subtracting eggs from apples and is certainly the first time the writer came across in his pilgrimage of architectural life comprising a number of cities metropolitan and others on both sides of the herring pond.

It ought to appeal to the layman in the same way by looking at streets which are besides other things the main air channels or courts of cities the proportion of width to length of one to two would seem ridiculous for these and still represent the axiom of the housing code.

Among other points mentioned at the time were the lighting of public halls, bathrooms and living rooms. The windows of all these rooms must, according to the housing code, open to the same sized court. This stipulation foils economical planning, has no benefit and is above all inconsequent, for the simple reason that I pass through one, stay half an hour in the other and occupy the bedroom for seven hours a day, which means that either something is lavished on the public hall and bathroom or the bedroom gets too little air. The distinction between the proper living rooms and secondary rooms is of paramount importance in housing codes, the latter should get just enough air and the former cannot get too much. The housing code, however, puts them in regard to courts into the same class.

Another inconsequent stipulation is the demand that the window plane of a public hall must be at right angles to the axis of the latter. This stipulation not only prevents in certain circumstances economical planning, but compels me to do the wrong thing in case I have a chance to provide the best lighting possible, namely the window planes parallel to the axis of the hall that is side light instead of marching against the light or behind my shadow.

These and more points as has been said were pointed out in juxtaposition with the respective demands of the Chicago housing code, the adoption of which was recommended by the undersigned, as it is at the same time more efficient and less prohibitive than the Duluth one, which, however, has become law just for the reason that the public, or the professional part of the public, won't take heed before they are "up against it."

The Duluth housing code remains a worthy object of the new form of city government.

A Natural Question.

Harper's Weekly: Travelers' tales, which often add charm to the conversation of an agreeable person, frequently render a bore more tiresome than ever, a fact that was amusingly illustrated by an occurrence in a Baltimore clubhouse not long ago.

"There I stood, gentlemen," the long-winded narrator was saying, after an hour with reference to his trip to Switzerland—"there I stood with the abyss yawning in front of me."

"Pardon me," hastily interjected one of the unfortunate men who had been obliged to listen to the story, "but was that abyss yawning before you got there?"

Like a Lady.

New York Globe: "Frances," said the little girl's mother, who was entertaining visitors, "you come downstairs so noisily that you could be heard all over the house. Now go back and come downstairs properly."

Frances retired and in a few moments re-entered the parlor.

"Did you hear me come down that time, mamma?"

"No, my dear; that time you came down like a lady."

"Yes, mamma," explained the child. "I slid down the banisters."

Vocation.

Life: "Hello, old chap; still doing newspaper work?"

"Yep; on the Daily Blackmail."

"On the regular staff?"

"Nope; on space yet—what you might call a penny-maligner, you know."

Caveat Emptor.

Life: "Do you charge for bread and butter in this restaurant?"

"No, sir."

"Then gimme some."

A Proposed Referendum

Editorial in Indianapolis News.

There is nothing modest about the American Protective Tariff league—there never was. But we think that it excels itself and all its past performances when it demands a national referendum on the pending tariff bill to be held a year from next November. We do not recall that it suggested a referendum on the Payne-Aldrich bill, the Dingley bill or the McKinley bill. But now that the people are at last in a fair way to get some measure of relief, this organization of the interests demands that action in their behalf be deferred for nineteen months. It was perfectly proper for congress to pass in a few months a tariff bill drawn after consultation with such men as Whitman, Wood, North and Littauer. There was nothing objectionable about the combination between the wool growers of the far West and the Eastern manufacturers, of which President Taft said:

> Mr. Payne, in the house, and Mr. Aldrich, in the senate, although both favored reduction in the schedule, found that in the Republican party the interests of the wool growers in the far West and the interest of the woolen manufacturers in the East, and in other states, reflected through their representatives in congress, was sufficiently strong to defeat any attempt to change the woolen tariff, and that had it been attempted it would have beaten the bill reported from either committee.

So keen was the regard of these men, when they were in the saddle, for the wishes of the American people. Now the American Protective Tariff league, which, four years ago, was fighting the battle of the men who would permit no modification of the "indefensible" woolen schedule, would have a referendum. We have had two referendums on the Payne-Aldrich bill, and it was repudiated. Now the people's representatives are trying to put through a new law. It will be on the statute book long before December, 1914.

It could have occurred only to men nurtured in the school of monopoly to suggest that business be asked to wait nineteen months for a readjustment of our system of national taxation. It would indeed be hard to imagine anything more preposterous. Practically every expression of public opinion that the country has had has been in favor of a prompt settlement of this tariff question. If there could be a referendum on the plan proposed by the American Protective league it would meet with crushing defeat. Few men outside of the distinctly political class would vote to keep the tariff question in acute form before the people for the next nineteen months. Men who live by business, rather than by politics or political business, are less interested in the kind of tariff we are to have than in the prompt enactment of whatever bill is agreed on. This referendum scheme of the American Protective league is a direct importation from the country of the Mad Hare and the Mad Hatter. If it were subjected to a duty according to value it would have a high place on the free list.

For Effective Law Making

Editorial in Chicago Tribune.

Senator Logan Hay is the author of a measure now under consideration in the house of representatives which the Tribune does not hesitate to describe as a piece of constructive legislation of the first rank.

It is a bill to establish a joint legislative commission to consist of the governor, the lieutenant governor, the speaker, the chairmen of the committees on appropriations of the senate and of the house, the chairmen of the committee on judiciary of the senate and house, and five other senators and five other representatives chosen by the respective houses.

The powers and duties of the commission are thus defined:

(a) To make a survey and thorough investigation of the governmental, industrial, social, and economic needs of the state, and to make recommendations of needed legislation based upon such survey and investigation.

(b) To investigate and report upon the operation of laws of other states and countries in cases where such investigation and report will afford information of value to the general assembly.

(c) To investigate the administration of any department of the state government.

(d) To investigate the expenditure of any appropriation.

(e) To prepare and submit to the general assembly drafts of bills upon matters investigated by it when such investigation shows further legislation to be desirable.

(f) To act through committees appointed by it from within or without its membership or partly within and partly without its membership.

It is made the duty of the commission to establish a legislative reference bureau on the most approved lines. A paid secretary and necessary employes are provided for, and there are other provisions devised to carry out the intent of the law which need not be discussed here.

No openminded observer of the incoherence and haphazard methods of legislation of our states has failed to realize the urgent need of some plan by which lawmaking can be made more consistent, practical, and far-seeing. Our present system, or lack of system, depends upon the dubious direction of party platforms, upon the initiative of the individual legislator, and upon the often discordant or unrelated pressures of relatively small bodies or groups of citizens. A great deal of the effort of the most conscientious legislative bodies is wasted, and from shoals of bills a conglomerate is built up to be the law of a commonwealth.

The result is the very demoralizing fact that much of our law is stillborn. One dead statute weakens the whole fabric of the law. Yet generation after generation of Americans abide in the costly fallacy that lawmaking takes care of itself, and that a law passed is a remedy applied.

The Champion Optimist.

Boston Globe: We award the championship diamond belt for optimism to a resident of one of the rural districts of Scotland. As the story goes, an old man was sitting on the roof of his house during a flood, watching the waters flow past, when a neighbor, who possessed a boat, rowed across to him.

"Hello, Bill," he said.

"Hello, Sam," replied the other.

"Are your fowls washed away this mornin', Bill?"

"Yes, but the ducks can swim."

"Apple trees gone, too, eh?"

"Well, they said the crop would be a failure, anyhow."

"I see the river's reached above your windows."

"That's all right, Sam! Them windows needed washin'!"

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—James R. Mann, the Republican house leader, who is constantly being twitted about the space he consumes in the Congressional Record, is fussy about what he eats. He greatly dislikes to eat food not picked out by his own hand. No matter how late he is kept up at night by the work of guiding legislative affairs in the house, he aims to get up in the morning early enough to do the marketing before he goes to work. He buys most of his meat at one store more than a mile from the apartment house where he dwells, and he walks there to see, face to face, the steak he is going to have for his dinner. None of your telephone shopping for Mann.

Inasmuch as he has a big garden at his place in Chicago, Mann is particularly an authority on what fresh vegetables should look like. No bride ever compiled a trousseau with the infinite care that Mann exerts when he selects a set of radishes, or a mess of lettuce.

Some time ago the Manns were living in a small apartment and taking their meals at a cafe in the building. This brought about a grave problem. How was he to know who picked out the meats and vegetables served at his table? He saw that he wasn't going to be able to eat with any relish at all, unless he made certain arrangements. So he went to the manager of the cafe and asked if, by paying a little extra, he couldn't do his own marketing, and have the stuff for his table cooked separately. The manager agreed, and Mann was himself again.

At noon, when he is obliged to eat at the capitol, Mann often eats just a cake of chocolate that he carries in his pocket, rather than take any chances.

For an absurdly small sum of money one can take a ride about Washington on a sightseeing van and acquire a surprisingly rich fund of misinformation.

For example, as one of these sightseeing outfits went by two apartment houses the other day, the megaphone man pointed to one of them, and mentioned that it was the home of Senator Gamble of South Dakota. Now, there is no Senator Gamble of South Dakota. He went out of office last March. For some time before he left office, he did not live in either of the apartment houses referred to. And he never did live in the one that the merry megaphone man pointed out. Aside from those little details the information was correct.

The delightful thing about the attitude of a great many prospective office holders is their entire willingness to serve in whatever capacity they can. Just what the job is does not matter so long as they can be useful to their country. For instance, Senator Kern received a letter recently from a Hoosier patriot, who said he "would like an appointment as consul to Liverpool, or as elevator man in the national capitol at Washington." In the same mail Kern heard from another man who was willing to be collector of internal revenue for his district, or a member of the capitol police force.

"The weird psychology of the office seeker seems to be the same as it was back in Dan Voorhees' time," remarked Kern. "There was a former circuit judge out in Indiana who yearned for a government job. Voorhees was unable to get him what he was after, and he said he would take any place at all, so long as he was on the government payroll. Just for a joke Voorhees offered to get him a job pushing a truck about the corridors in one of the departments.

"And the strange thing is that the ex-circuit judge took it."

A congressman from West Virginia recently appointed one of the capitol policemen to a job as postmaster. At about the same time he was besieged by a young lawyer who wished to be appointed to a place as United States district attorney or something equally good in the department of justice.

"The only vacancy of any kind that I know of," said the congressman, "is the job of the policeman who just became postmaster. You might take that and use it as a steppingstone to the department of justice."

And the young lawyer took him at his word. That attorney is now wearing a uniform about the capitol waiting for a chance to step up into the department of justice.

Representative M. K. Reilly of Wisconsin tells of an Irishman up his way who had six sons in whom he took great pride.

"Yes, they are fine boys," said he one day, after a friend had complimented him on them, "and, sir, d'you know, though they're all about grown now, I've never yet had to lift my hand agin a single one of thim—except, of course, in self defense."

There used to be a newspaper editor in Indianapolis, by the name of Richard Steele, who was considered the best man at offhand profanity in that town. He swore so fluently, and with such facility that he sometimes had difficulty getting all the cuss words wedged in between the other words in his vocabulary. For instance, one day a man came into Steele's office and wanted to have something kept out of the paper. "The paper's under obligation to me," he began "and—"

Steele interrupted by bringing his fist down on his desk.

"Blankety, blank, and two hyphens," said he, "this blank paper is under no obli—damn—gations to anyone."

Not By Shirking.

From Great Thoughts: You can't get rid of your tasks by shirking them.

The Secret Inn.

Enough of dreams! No longer mock
The burdened hearts of men!
Not on the cloud, but on the rock
Build thou thy faith again;
O, range no more the realms of air,
Stoop to the glen-bound streams
Thy hope was all too like despair;
Enough, enough of dreams.

Descend, descend, Urania, speak
To men in their own tongue!
Leave not the breaking heart to break
Because thine own is strong.
This is the law, in dream and deed,
That heaven must walk on earth!
O, shine upon the humble creed
That holds the heavenly birth.

And earth-born creed? We may not praise
The Eternal's lowly house;
Yet, thro' the rude beams may we gaze
And the interwoven boughs,
If on the little child thou shine,
Whom though we dream no more,
Here, in the heart's hushed Palestine,
The Magi still adore.

A lowly creed, a wayside inn
For wayfarers! O come,
Now that the long dark hours begin,
Lead thou the Nations home!
Shine on the little roof, fair star,
The thatch in silver steep,
That kings may come to it from afar,
And the shepherds from their sheep.

Minnesota Opinions

Comments of the State Press.

Made Good.

Speaker Rines in Mora Times: At the beginning of the legislative session the house organization promised that the work of the house would be conducted more economically than that of previous sessions. The fact that the house of 1913 cost the state $25,000 less than the session of 1911 is sufficient proof that the house organization made good its promise.

Carry the Statutes.

Hinckley Enterprise: After a few more legislatures have passed 600 or 700 new laws each, the law-abiding citizen will have to consult the statutes every time he crosses a street or draws a long breath.

More Coming.

Brown's Valley Tribune: Advocates of the short ballot for Minnesota are growing in number.

Wants Every Cent.

Hibbing Tribune: The Tribune hopes that no penny-wise theory of economy will persuade the county commissioners of St. Louis county to abate by so much as $1 from the amount allowed by law the amount which it shall appropriate for the county fair.

St. Louis county needs every cent of that money in its fair.

St. Louis county has no greater work to carry forward than the development of its agricultural resources and it has no more efficient means to this end than the county fair.

St. Louis county is rich in funds and can well afford the money. It is poor in agricultural development and urgently needs the money.

Let's have every cent of it.

Surprises in Store.

Aurora News: The fertile acres in this section will bear watching this summer. The amount that can be raised on a small tract is sometimes surprising and with the range markets at his door the truck gardener can find a paradise in St. Louis county.

The Best Investment.

Virginia Enterprise: The trend in the price of Northern Minnesota farm lands is steadily upward. The best investment offered to the poor man today is forty acres of Northern Minnesota land, conveniently near to a good market. It means independence, the goal of every man who toils. No section of the state has anything better to offer than the country immediately adjacent to Virginia.

Why Wait?

Stillwater Gazette: June 17 is Good Roads day. The third Tuesday of June of each year is designated by law as Good Roads day, which date should be observed by our farmer friends in particular. There are some sections of road in the city limits of all places that the city authorities should care for, but it is not necessary to wait until June 17 before getting busy.

Not All Matches Barred.

Pine River Sentinel: The new law which goes into effect in a couple of months barring parlor matches has nothing in it to worry match-making mammas, as it is intended for protection purposes along other lines.

The "Trenton Idea"

Atlantic Journal: A few years ago the business men of Trenton, Mo., a town of some seven thousand inhabitants, organized a chamber of commerce for the purpose of upbuilding their community. They were liberal in their subscriptions and faithful in attendance, but for one reason or another the results they had expected were not forthcoming. Finally, when interest in the movement was nearing its lowest ebb, some citizens suggested that the scope of the club be extended to the adjacent country and that farmers and rural residents be invited to its membership. A vigorous campaign to this end was begun with the result that in a short time the enrollment of the organization leaped from 150 to 500 and that both the town and its county are now progressing marvelously.

"The Trenton Idea," as this piece of enterprise has come to be called, is now astir in many parts of the Union.

"It is simply an effort," comments the Louisville Courier-Journal, "to do away with the imaginary line known as the corporate limits of a town and to remove the artificial barriers between the city and the country." So long as rural and urban interests are considered in any wise antagonistic or even independent, neither of them can develop as they should. The truth is the town and the rural district about it are vitally interdependent and each of them will progress to the extent that they realize and work together for their common welfare.

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce has shown the proper spirit by devoting a large measure of energy to the encouragement of rural interests. It has done a vast deal for the promotion of the boys' corn club movement, for the campaign against the boll weevil and other crop pests and for the general enrichment of rural life not only in Fulton and adjoining counties, but also throughout the state.

It will be well for the boards of trade or chambers of commerce to remember that one of the surest means toward developing their own community is to aid in the development of the surrounding country and to enlist the co-operation of farmers as well as business men.

The Good-Night Message.

National Food Magazine: The patter of tiny feet was heard from the head of the stairs. Mrs. Kinterby raised her hand, warning the others to silence.

"Hush!" she said, softly. "The children are going to deliver their good-night message. It always gives me a feeling of reverence to hear them—they are so much nearer the Creator than we are, and they speak the love that is in their little hearts never so fully as when the dark has come. Listen!"

Then there was a moment of tense silence. Then—

"Mamma," came the message in a shrill whisper, "Willie found a bedbug!"

A Queer Drink.

Gassell's Saturday Journal: An Englishman met a Frenchman at a hotel in London and asked him what he would have to drink.

"I will take a drop of contradiction," said the Frenchman.

"Contradiction? What on earth do you mean?" questioned the Englishman.

"Well, you put in ze whisky to make it strong, ze water to make it weak, ze lemon to make it sour, ze sugar to make it sweet; then you say, 'Here's to you,' and you drink it yourself!" was the quaint reply.

Some Reasons Why People Travel.

Life: Because they think they are going to learn something, and it is only by traveling that they can discover that knowledge does not come by travel.

Because it helps them to get better acquainted with their neighbors—some of whom they are bound to fall in with on their travels.

Because the doctor tells them they ought to.

Because it gives them the illusion of superiority and furnishes them with topics of conversation.

Because it costs more than they can afford.

Because they don't know all the disagreeable things that will happen to them.

Because it is the only way in which they can discover how comfortable they are at home.

An Editor—Defined.

Life: By an Unsuccessful Contributor—A malignant person, utterly devoid of literary discrimination or taste. A player of favorites. An unjust judge.

By an "Interest" He Opposes—A dog in the manger. A mule. A pinhead. A fathead. An ignoramus. A breeder of popular clamor.

By a Rival Editor—An accident. A personification of conceit.

By His Wife—An absent-minded genius, who requires her public praise and private discipline.

By a Successful Contributor—A keen but amiable man, who holds the key to the treasury. A friend in need. A good fairy. The hope of the future.

How It Turns Out.

Life: A man trying to win one woman and following the advice of another seldom fails to win—the other woman.

Men—and Vaudeville.

Smart Set: All men may be divided into two classes—those who like vaudeville and those who can stand it when they are drunk.

LAUDANUM CLAIMS CASS LAKE MAN

Railroad Employe Takes Overdose of Drug for Stomach Trouble.

Cass Lake, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Alaus Kirkpatrick died yesterday from the effects of an overdose of laudanum. Mr. Kirkpatrick had not been feeling well and procured an ounce bottle of laudanum which he stated was to be used for stomach trouble.

He lived here eight or nine years and for a long time had been employed on the Great Northern section. Kirkpatrick was about 42 years of age. During the past few months he had been suffering from melancholy. His folks wanted him to come home and a few days ago he received word to come immediately; his intentions were to go Monday morning but he was not feeling well and took the entire contents of the bottle at one dose. Frank Kirkpatrick, a brother living at Richland Center, Wis., has wired that he will be here this afternoon to take charge of the body.

CIRCUS' CLEVER TRICK.

Denied Grand Forks License, Will Show in East Grand Forks.

Grand Forks, N. D., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Refused a license to show in Grand Forks, the Barnum & Bailey circus executed a flank movement and secured a license to show in East Grand Forks, Minn., on July 28. The Grand Forks city council refused to grant the right to show here because the circus date is the last date of the state fair, to which railroads have granted special rates. The North Dakota Fair association fought the circus on the plea that a counter attraction would not be helpful to the exposition.

In 1890 he was elected a member of the city council, serving till 1910 when he retired voluntarily because of his removal from voting precinct to another.

Mr. Lynch has been in Grand Forks thirty-four years, and for thirty-three years was engaged in the ice business.

BANK EXAMINERS' BONDS ILLEGAL.

Washington, May 28.—Thomas P. Kane, acting comptroller of the currency, has rescinded an order of Former Comptroller Murray requiring national bank examiners to furnish bonds of $20,000 each, holding that such bonds have no legal force and are worthless. While examiners had been compelled to give bond, Mr. Kane said there is no authority in law for the comptroller to require such security. The bonds have been given by the examiners to the comptroller personally, and it is declared that in case of fraud recovery could not be made under the law.

PEOPLE WANT HIGH SCHOOL

Board of Education Will Be Asked to Provide for Higher Grades.

Suggestion That Junior High School Building Include Higher Grades.

Residents of the West end intend making a demand on the school board for the establishment of a high school in this end of the city. They say that the population is now growing so fast that the high school is necessary, claiming that the five schools included in this section are graduating 100 or more students who wish the higher education.

They want it established, they say, in a similar manner as that of the Duluth Industrial high school of West Duluth. Beginning with the freshman class in the fall and advancing the classes year by year until a full high school is established.

The high school, they say, can be established in connection with the proposed junior high, which will take care of the seventh, eighth and ninth grades. They say that if a building is to be constructed for this purpose it should be constructed in such a manner as to provide accommodations for the higher grades.

A location near the center of the West end, in the district between Twenty-third and Twenty-sixth avenues west and not above Fifth street is said to be the most desirable. This section is easily within walking distance for older pupils even though they might live on Garfield avenue or in Hazelwood park.

"There are many people in the West end who would like to see the school board establish a high school here," said Dr. O. A. Oredson yesterday. "These people would like to take advantage of giving their children a higher education, but hesitate because of the additional cost of street car fare. While this amount may seem small each day, it amounts to 50 cents a week for each. This item alone is considerable for the ordinary man working for a living.

"If the school board is considering the establishment of a junior high school it would do well to make the plans such as to gradually work in the classes of the high school."

Cass Lake, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. G. A. Christensen who left about six months ago for an extended trip to visit health resorts and clinics in the United States and abroad has returned hale and hearty and will continue to reside here. He says reports that he would locate in Western Canada are without foundation. He states that Western Canada is experiencing a period of great depression and farmers cannot borrow money on their lands with the best of security. It is the doctor's belief that the period of heavy immigration to Canada is about over and that Northern Minnesota will soon be getting great hordes of immigrants. The doctor expresses pleasure at the evidences of gain in population in Cass Lake and vicinity since he left on his trip.

NEW RAILROAD WILL TAP THE IRON ORE DEPOSITS BACK OF GRAND MARAIS

rized the county board to issue bonds for $100,000 as a bonus to the Grand Marais & Northwestern railroad. The money is to be paid over after the line is constructed and in operation from Grand Marais to a junction with the Duluth & Northern Minnesota railroad, which is the Alger-Smith line. Surveys for the new railroad, which will be thirty miles long in its first link, will be begun immediately, and President Arthur Mitchell says that construction work will begin next fall.

By a connection with the Alger-Smith line the new railroad will establish communication by rail between Grand Marais and Duluth. When the Alger-Smith line is extended to a connection with the Canadian Northern's Port Arthur line, a development certain to come within the next few years, Grand Marais' position will be even more secure by connections with the Canadian port as well as with Duluth.

The Grand Marais & Northwestern Railway company was organized during the past winter with Arthur Mitchell, 5401 London road, Duluth, as president. John Jenswold, Jr., is secretary and Clarence B. Magney of Duluth, treasurer.

Last Obstacle.

"The voting of the bonds by Cook county removes the last obstacle to the financing of the railroad," said Mr. Mitchell this morning. "The surveys will begin immediately and construction work will begin next fall."

For the time the new railroad will be a logging road with general freight and probably accommodation passenger service. Its principal revenue will come from forest products, but later the road will be extended beyond the junction with the Alger-Smith line and if the ore deposits of Cook county fulfill expectations, the railroad will play a large part in the development to follow. Grand Marais has an excellent harbor and ore docks could be built there without any extra development.

There is a sentimental side to the new railroad project. For many years Grand Marais has struggled along in corporate existence without the commercial aid of railroad connections with the outside world. Up to a few years ago it had no telephone or telegraph connection of any kind, until telegraph connection was established by a wireless company. When the first wireless message was received in Grand Marais the occasion was one of great rejoicing. Since that time the wireless has added greatly to the enjoyment of life in Grand Marais.

There have been many winters in which supplies have run low at Grand Marais, and with the ice barring boats and no railroad connections, or other means of communication, the town has been completely isolated and without means of letting its plight be known. There have been springs when the residents of Grand Marais have watched anxiously for the arrival of the first boat, not because of the natural interest, but because of the knowledge that its cargo of provisions would relieve an actual shortage in the food supply of the village.

Memories of experiences figured in the results of the election Monday, and the heavy vote in favor of the bond issue had a sound economic basis. In order to shake off the frontier position, Cook county needed a railroad, and the people are ready to assume the obligations of the bond issue in order to bring about that result. S. C. Murphy, as a member of the Cook County Commercial club, managed the campaign for the bonds, and was ably assisted by other public spirited men of the county.

Instant Postum

Is in thousands of homes where health is valued.

Former coffee users who have felt the pinch of indigestion, headache, heart disturbance, nervous irritation, etc., have written by the score, telling of remarkable benefits following the change from coffee to Instant Postum.

A level teaspoonful in an ordinary cup of hot water dissolves instantly and makes it right for most persons.

A big cup requires more and some people who like strong things put in a heaping spoonful and temper it with a large supply of cream.

Experiment until you know the amount that pleases your palate and have it served that way in the future.

"Thanks for the sample of Instant Postum sent me. I had been drinking coffee for a long time and thought it would be difficult to give it up, but I was mistaken.

"While I was drinking coffee I always felt exhausted and I weighed but 112 lbs. After using Instant Postum I soon recovered and now am as healthy as any person can be. I now weigh 120 lbs. and am steadily gaining in weight." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Postum comes in two forms.

Regular (must be boiled).

Instant Postum doesn't require boiling, but is prepared instantly by stirring a level teaspoonful in a cup of hot water.

Both kinds are sold by grocers everywhere.

NEWETT'S ATTORNEY CHARGES ROOSEVELT HAD REPUTATION OF DRINKING EXCESSIVELY

dinners, official and otherwise, given at Washington, including dinners at the Gridiron club.

"Will you tell this jury whether Mr. Roosevelt mixed his drinks at all or not?"

"If he took champagne he never took anything else."

A question involving the customs of former presidents in regard to liquors at banquets caused objection by counsel for the defense. The court held it was competent for the plaintiff to show whether Col. Roosevelt followed custom in the use of liquor in the White House.

Followed the Custom.

O'Loughlin said his first experience with presidents began with the second Cleveland administration and Col. Roosevelt followed the precedent of Presidents Cleveland and McKinley in serving wines at public dinners.

"Are you not in charge of some work of the Progressive party?" O'Loughlin was asked on cross examination.

"I am not," he answered.

O'Loughlin said Col. Roosevelt had appointed him assistant secretary of state and he had gone on a mission to Japan for the Roosevelt administration. He said he went to Japan the same year that Col. Roosevelt ordered the Atlantic fleet to the Pacific.

Fleet Sent to Prevent War.

"Now, you mention that Col. Roosevelt sent the fleet to the Pacific. Was that a measure taken because of the relations between this country and Japan? Was it to prevent war?"

"Well, yes; it was perfectly evident that Japan would not go to war with this country if it was apparent that this country was more powerful. It was one of the measures taken by Col. Roosevelt to prevent war. It was a measure of peace."

One reference was brought out in O'Loughlin's testimony to the incident of Col. Roosevelt's visit to Rome, with regard to the pope. O'Loughlin explained he had been acting as the colonel's secretary after the former president left Egypt for the tour of the continental capitals, and he communicated with Ambassador Leishman at Rome to arrange for the reception of Col. Roosevelt by the king of Italy and the pope.

"When you wrote to Ambassador Leishman to arrange for Mr. Roosevelt's reception by the king and the pope was that your purpose?"

"Yes, it was to arrange those receptions."

Objected to Rome Incident.

Here objection was entered by Col. Roosevelt's attorney on the ground that this line of questioning was immaterial.

"I regret that this subject came up," said the court. "I suggest that it stop right where it is."

The inquiry along this line accordingly was dropped.

In 1912 and for some time prior, was there not a general report among newspaper men that Col. Roosevelt drank to excess?" asked Attorney Belden.

O'Loughlin, shaking his finger at the lawyer, replied:

"There was not a reputable correspondent in Washington but who thought the report was silly, too absurd to be regarded or repeated."

Counsel on both sides were on their feet with regard to this reply and the jury was excluded.

Attorney Pound said he found the answer "embarrassing" and Belden explained that he proposed to show what other newspaper men had to say on this subject.

The answer was stricken out by order of the court. The lawyers then suggested, in the absence of the jury, that the legal question of the admissibility of testimony touching on "general" reports that Col. Roosevelt uses liquor to excess, be settled.

Would Show General Report.

Attorney Belden said it was the intention of the defense to ask future witnesses, in an attempt to show the position of the defense, that there was in existence a general report, amounting to a general reputation, that Col. Roosevelt does use liquors and sometimes to excess; that these reports were published in newspapers, and that Col. Roosevelt read these reports and this charge had never been contradicted by him; the defendant published the report of the former president's reputed excessive use of intoxicants, believing it to be true and not with any malice.

Mr. Belden maintained that such testimony was required to show good faith, the absence of malice, in the publication of the defendant's editorial. It could not be, in the presence of widespread comment by the public and in important newspapers, stated the lawyer, that Mr. Roosevelt had been greatly damaged by the repetition of charges of intoxication in a remote weekly with a circulation of about 3,000 copies.

Most Talked of Man.

"We purpose to show," continued the lawyer, "that such charges as were made in the Iron Ore were by no means confined to this region. The plaintiff during 1912 was the most talked-of man in the United States, and we expect to introduce testimony to show that adverse comments as to his habits were made in other parts of the country. This point bears strongly in showing the absence of malice on the part of the defendant."

"In the declaration to this suit, the plaintiff not only included the question of his use of or non-use of liquors, but also that of his general reputation," said Mr. Belden.

The attorney read from the declaration, quoting that Col. Roosevelt never "had been suspected of drinking alcoholic liquors to excess."

Would Show Reputation.

On this basis, he said, the defense would claim the right to bring out testimony on Col. Roosevelt's reputation as it existed in various parts of the country.

The purpose of the defense, as pointed out by Col. Roosevelt's attorneys, was to prevent the exclusion by the court of what is termed "hearsay" testimony throughout the trial.

The court asked Mr. Belden whether the defense would combat the position of the plaintiff that malice in the publication of the article was a basis for damages. Mr. Belden answered that proof of malice undoubtedly would increase the basis for damages, and the defense would combat the attitude of the plaintiff.

Attorney Pound here rose and said: "At first I wanted to sue for $50,000, but Col. Roosevelt insisted that the amount asked for should be nominal. He did not want to be vindictive, but wanted merely damages for the publication of a falsehood."

Denies any Malice.

It was stated by Mr. Belden that the pecuniary damages in this case under the law might be any sum from 6 cents to $60,000, regardless of the amount asked in the suit. Whether the alleged libel was true or not, Mr. Belden argued, the defendant believed the article to be true, and did not publish it out of malice.

Attorney W. H. Van Benschoten, for Col. Roosevelt, said he would not oppose the attitude of the defense that the admission of so-called hearsay evidence bearing upon the colonel's reputation as to liquor was merely to mitigate damages. He contended, however, that such evidence should not be admitted unless it first should be proved that the defendant knew of the reports before he published the article, and believed them to be true and based his article on them, believing them to be true.

"Under the position of the defense," argued Mr. Pound, "a man may be as pure as St. Paul and his reputation may be ruined in a moment by a lot of gossip mongers. You cannot mitigate and deny at the same time."

Cited Various Cases.

Various libel suit decisions were cited by Mr. Pound. In one case a man had merely said, "He stole my horse;" another case was that of a woman who sued for libel because an editor had said she stole a pocketbook which she found on the street.

"The defense has said this case is unprecedented," shouted Mr. Pound. "It is true that there has been a reluctance on the part of presidents to come into court, but I can cite you a recent case where the king of England prosecuted a newspaper for charging him with being a bigamist in marrying a woman while he was a sailor and before he married the present queen. Would it have been a defense for the editor to have come into court and say: 'Oh, I only knew what I heard and I publish what I hear'?"

The argument of attorneys in the absence of the jury was still on when court adjourned until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Cross-Examination Brief.

Cross-examination of Col. Roosevelt following his direct and testimony yesterday only occupied twenty minutes. It was conducted by Horace Andrews of the defense as follows:

Q.—You have never lived in the state of Michigan?

A.—I have never lived in the state of Michigan.

Q.—Outside of a flying trip made through the state of Michigan you have never been in the state of Michigan during the last ten years?

A.—I have never been in the state of Michigan within the last eight or ten years except upon the flying trip I made through the state.

Q.—So I would be correct in saying that you have not been within the state of Michigan within the last fifteen years?

A.—Yes, sir

Q.—Your acquaintance is somewhat limited in Michigan?

A.—It is limited.

Q.—Do you know George Shiras?

A.—I know Mr. Shiras.

Q.—Do you know that Mr. Shiras is not a resident of Marquette?

A.—I have heard that he does not live here regularly.

Q.—Mr. Shiras really is not a resident of this city?

A.—I don't know.

Met Shiras in Washington.

Q.—It was in Washington that you met Mr Shiras?

A.—Yes; when he was in congress.

Q.—Since you came back from Africa have you been connected with the Outlook at New York?

A.—I have.

Q.—And connected some in politics?

A.—And in politics also.

Q.—Now your acquaintance while you were in the city of Washington and possibly at Albany was with political men?

A.—Not many were political men. A great many were writers of history and naturalists.

Q.—You have many friends in congress, have you not?

A.—I have known almost every senator.

Q.—You know also a great many congressmen and received a great many congressmen at the White House and they invited you to their residences?

A.—I received a great many congressmen but they rarely invited me to their residences.

Q.—Did I understand you to say you have never taken anything in the way of intoxicating liquors?

A.—You did not so understand me; you understood me to say that I did so only in small quantities.

Only Brandy With Milk.

Q.—The only spirituous or intoxicating liquors you took in general would be a little brandy with milk?

A.—A teaspoonful in a tumbler full of milk.

Q.—You have never, for fifteen years, taken more than a dozen glasses of whisky?

A.—I did not drink a dozen glasses of whisky in fifteen years.

Q.—You never drank any whisky?

A.—I said that in the fifteen years it would probably not be more than a dozen times that I have drunk whisky.

Q.—Now the wine you drink is light wine?

A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—What do you mean by light wine?

A.—I mean white wines and sometimes it may be a little Madiera.

Q.—Any other kind of wine?

A.—I may have drunk a little red wine and occasionally a little sherry.

Q.—You don't keep any wine of any kind in your house?

A.—Red wine?

Q.—Do you keep wine of any kind in your house?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you keep brandy and wine in the White House?

Q.—Mr. Pound: I object to that.

The Court—You may note an exception.

Followed His Predecessor.

Roosevelt—I continued to keep wine as I found that my predecessor had done.

Q.—Did you drink whisky or have you drunk whisky on your trips?

A.—No, except as I have described, a teaspoonful in a glass of milk.

Q.—Did you carry a flask of whisky or brandy with you on your trips?

A.—I did not.

Q.—Do you know Mr. Wallace of Detroit?

A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—What is his business?

A.—I don't know.

Q.—Had he anything to do with the beginning of this suit, if you know?

A.—That I cannot tell.

Q.—Don't you know who began this important suit?

A.—I was in the Mercy hospital at the time.

Q.—Did you hear that Mr. Wallace had charge of it and did you know that he had charge of employing counsel?

A.—That I could not say.

Q.—Had you met Mr. Pound up to that time?

A.—I may have met him.

Q.—But have you any memory of it?

A.—I don't remember whether I met him or not.

Q.—Was Mr. Pound employed by you, that is, employed by you personally?

A.—No, he was not employed by me personally.

Q.—Do you know who paid for the expense of taking testimony and all that; did you stand that expense?

A.—Yes.

Assumes Responsibility.

Q.—And it has not been borne by any organization in the state of Michigan?

A.—It has not.

Q.—Have you or any other person had charge of it?

A.—Mr. Pound has had charge of it.

Mr. Andrews—I think that is all.

Mr. Pound, on redirect examination, asked: "As I understand it, you have no recollection of having seen Mr. Pound in Michigan or Chicago prior to the beginning of this suit, which was some time in the month of September."

A.—I have no recollection.

Q.—As a matter of fact, you communicated with Mr. Pound by letter as soon as you were sufficiently able to do so?

(Objected to as leading by Mr. Andrews.)

A.—I assume complete responsibility. No organization has any responsibility excepting myself. I have it all.

Q.—You have hired your attorneys and stood all the expense in regard to this case?

(Mr. Andrews objected to question as leading.)

The Court—It seems to me the question is leading.

Jacob Riis on Stand.

When Col. Roosevelt was excused from the stand Henry Ruther, city assessor at Ishpeming, was called. He identified Iron Ore as Newett's publication, and was followed by Jacob Riis.

Jacob Riis said he was 45 years of age, came to America in 1870 and mined coal when he first arrived. He told of his rise in the world through his work for his neighbors, the very poor.

"The jury is entitled to know who these men are who give testimony," commented Judge Flannigan.

"I met Theodore Roosevelt in 1890 or 1891 when I wrote 'How the Other Half Lives.' I had become a police reporter by that time," testified Riis.

Since that time, said Riis, he had known Roosevelt intimately.

"In the days he was a police commissioner, I was working with him not only every day, but almost every night, sometimes all night, looking into tenement and police conditions in which we were both concerned," said Riis. "In Washington later our friendship was as close as it could be."

The colonel, listening with obvious delight, repeated with his lips, but voicelessly, the words Riis was saying and laughed and nodded and once or twice apparently was on the point of breaking out in applause.

Never Under Liquor.

"During the entire time of your acquaintance with Mr. Roosevelt," asked Pound, "have you ever seen him under the influence of liquor?"

"No," exploded Riis.

He went on to tell, much as the colonel had done before, of Roosevelt's abstemious habits in the use of drink.

"Have you ever heard him use profanity?" asked Pound.

Defendant Newett's paper charged that the colonel "cursed disgustingly."

"He is a gentleman," said Riis emphatically. "About the worst I ever heard him say was 'By Godfrey.'"

Attorney Andrews examined Riis.

"You lecture to religious societies?" asked Andrews.

"Yes, sometimes, and sometimes to irreligious societies," said the publicist.

"Ever been in politics?"

"No, I have refused office several times."

"You think Col. Roosevelt is human?"

"Indeed, he's human," returned Riis.

"You don't think, then, he's the one man without a fault?"

"No," said Riis. "I've fought with him. I know he never took brandy in his milk," said Riis indignantly in answer to a question. "I've never seen him take mint juleps and don't believe he does."

Riis was not in court while Roosevelt testified.

Court recessed then for two hours.

Doctors Testified.

Much of the succeeding testimony was introduced to indicate that the plaintiff's physical vigor, his functional perfection, his violence of exercise and his immense capacity for work could not exist in the person of a drunkard. Important witnesses on this phase of the examination were Dr. Alexander Lambert, Roosevelt's family physician and intimate friend for thirty years, and Dr. T. N. Rixey, surgeon general, U. S. N., retired, whose official duties during the McKinley and Roosevelt terms of office included little else than to guard the president's physical well being. Other witnesses were Jacob Riis and Gilson Gardner, the former a sociologist and writer and the latter a newspaper man whose duty for many years compelled him to take close note of everything pertaining to Col. Roosevelt.

Dr. Lambert, aside from his intimate social and professional relations with the plaintiff, testified that he had made a special study of the heart and lungs and of the effect of alcohol, tobacco, opiates and drugs on the human system.

Knew About Breakfasts.

When Dr. Andrews, on cross-examination, suggested that the witness' knowledge of what Col. Roosevelt drank at meal time did not extend to breakfasts, the doctor, who talked very rapidly, sparkled back:

"Oh, yes, indeed; many breakfasts. I have frequently stayed at the Roosevelt home all night, and might drop in at breakfast any day, as I frequently did."

"He is extremely temperate," testified the doctor. "His heart and liver, which, if alcoholic, would be affected, were prodigiously healthy and competent."

"None but a very vigorous and healthy man could have stood the shock and loss of blood as did Col. Roosevelt, when shot at Milwaukee," he said. "No alcoholic could have rallied as he did. He was not nervous, as an alcoholic would have been, and despite the pain, fell asleep and rested as quietly as a baby. Had he been a drinking man, his nervous system would have shown it; he might even have had delirium tremens. It is a fact that 50 per cent of alcoholics who are wounded or shocked as Mr. Roosevelt was would have gone into delirium. Had Col. Roosevelt been an excessive user of alcoholic liquor he never would have survived the shock he sustained when he was shot at Milwaukee last year."

Knew Him Since 1891.

Dr. Lambert said he had known Col. Roosevelt since 1891 and had been on hunting trips with him in North Dakota, Colorado, Wyoming and Louisiana. The witness said in his profession he was an expert on alcoholic subjects and had treated 40,000 of them.

"From your close personal experience with Mr. Roosevelt on hunting trips and in official life at Washington, what would you say—was he a man who drank to excess or not? Dr. Lambert was asked.

"He was extremely temperate," replied the witness with emphasis.

Dr. Lambert said the first time he was called upon to give his professional services to Col. Roosevelt was when the latter was at Mercy hospital at Chicago suffering from the wound received from the bullet at Milwaukee. When the witness was asked to describe what course the bullet took in the body, objection was made by the defense on the ground that it was immaterial.

Another question was permitted.

"If he had been a constant user of alcoholic drinks what is your opinion as to his chances of recovery?"

"He would not have recovered."

"To what then do you attribute his recovery?"

"To his splendid physical condition, unpoisoned by alcoholism."

Was on Hunting Trips.

Dr. Lambert then told how he had been on hunting trips with Col. Roosevelt in 1893, 1905 and 1907.

During those trips, he said, he had never observed Col. Roosevelt drink any whisky except once, and that was when the Colonel was suffering from a slight fever he had contracted in the Cuban campaign.

"I gave him a teaspoonful of whisky to hasten the perspiration," said the witness. "That was all the whisky I ever gave him."

When cross-examined Dr. Lambert was asked whether there had not been a meeting of witnesses for the plaintiff in Col. Roosevelt's editorial office in New York, and whether it had not been talked over as to what testimony should be given here. Dr. Lambert said he had been in Col. Roosevelt's office and had signed a statement giving the substance of his testimony.

"You know Mr. Roosevelt drinks wine at his meals, don't you—many of his meals?"

"No; I said I had seen him take light wines at lunch."

"Did you ever see him drink champagne?"

"Yes, I have seen him drink it at public dinners, but never more than a glassful. He drank it at a dinner given to his guides on the Colorado hunting trip."

"On those hunting trips there was liquor carried in the camp?"

"Yes. I had some myself."

On redirect examination Dr. Lambert was asked: "What kind of a marksman was Mr. Roosevelt?"

Objection was interposed, but Attorney Pound held it was proper as tending to show the condition of Col. Roosevelt's nerves. The court held the subject was too remote to pursue.

Dr. Rixey Questioned.

Dr. T. N. Rixey, surgeon general, U. S. N., retired, who was the official White House physician for President McKinley and for Col. Roosevelt when the latter occupied the mansion, spoke in so low a voice that Attorney Pound from time to time admonished him to please speak up. Witness would respond for a few moments, then drop to his former low tone. Attorney Andrews, whose voice is smooth and low on cross-examination, rather played even with the doctor, although unintentionally, but eventually emerged from the difficulty by leaving his table and advancing to within a few feet of the witness. Meanwhile the spectators heard but little and most of the jurors leaned forward in their endeavor to hear.

Dr. Rixey testified that he saw President Roosevelt practically every day and sometimes oftener. He kept an anxious eye on him, owing to the heartiness of his appetite and his fondness for violent exercise. It was necessary also to guard against a slight fever to which the then president was subject.

Never Saw Him Drunk.

"Did you ever in your life see him under the influence of liquor?" asked Pound.

Dr. Rixey's voice for once became clearly audible as he answered:

"Never."

"Is he a frequent drinker?"

"He was as moderate a drinker as a man could be who drank anything at all."

"In the matter of wines and liquors did the state dinners of McKinley and of Roosevelt differ?"

"Not in the slightest."

Attorney Andrews interposed objections all the way through this phase of the examination, but without checking the placid stream of the testimony. Attorney Pound developed that at the White House meals Col. Roosevelt always sat at the head of the table and witness at the foot, by which arrangement the doctor was able to note what his charge ate and drank.

What He Drank.

"What were Col. Roosevelt's drinks?"

"He confines his drinking to one kind of wine, usually a white wine. He never drank to excess, nor was he ever under the influence of liquor at table."

"Did you ever smell liquor on his breath?"

"He had a remarkably sweet breath."

Dr. Rixey testified that the use of alcoholic drinks affects the heart, and among other things enlarges the liver. Both of these organs belonging to the anatomy of the plaintiff were in robust condition. Dr. Rixey spoke of the long horseback rides he used to take when at the White House. On cross-examination he would not say that an alcoholic could not indulge in such violent exercise, but he declared that such cases would be rare.

Attorney Andrews, further along in the cross-examination, elicited the information that he as well as Dr. Lambert was on the Louisiana hunting expedition with the then president.

"He had plenty of doctors?" purred the defense lawyer insinuatingly.

Five Years Ago.

Witness gave further testimony of Col. Roosevelt's robust physique and vigor and then Mr. Andrews asked:

"That was five years ago, wasn't it?"

"Three—no five years—you're right—five years ago," was the reply.

"Some time, isn't it?" suggested the attorney.

Referring to a hunting trip, Andrews, speaking of the presence of the doctors in the party, asked:

"You were there to see how much he drank?"

The witness wanted to elaborate his answer, but he was unable to do so clearly until Mr. Pound took him in hand, on redirect examination. The the doctor, apparently greatly relieved, explained he watched what the colonel drank, what he ate, and everything pertaining to his health.

As to Milk Punches.

Coming to the matter of milk punches, which it has been testified were given the colonel in mild form by medical direction, Dr. Rixey estimated that in the seven and one-half years at the White House, Mr. Roosevelt drank maybe twenty punches under his direction.

"He didn't like them and fought me off when he could," said the witness.

Depositions of Dr. John B. Murphy and Dr. Arthur D. Bevan of Chicago were read as confirming the testimony of Dr. Lambert that, while at Mercy hospital in Chicago, suffering from the bullet wound, Col. Roosevelt showed no signs of having been an excessive user of alcoholic liquor.

Dr. Murphy testified he was called to attend Col. Roosevelt on the night of Oct. 14, 1912, after Col. Roosevelt was shot at Milwaukee.

Dr. Murphy gave five reasons for saying that Col. Roosevelt did not use liquor, as follows:

"The absence of alcoholic odor on his breath.

"The absence of enlargement of the liver.

"The absence of tremor of his hands in this period.

"The absence of bile.

"He had to have no stimulants of any kind during the progress of his case and his nervous system was evenly balanced."

Had Heard Gossip.

On cross-examination, Dr. Murphy said he had heard gossip about Col. Roosevelt being a drinking man, but that these reports had been only incidental and that he had paid no attention to them until he came to examine Col. Roosevelt.

Dr. Bevan testified he had been called to attend Col. Roosevelt with Dr. Murphy.

"Was the condition of his nerves such as would result from the withdrawal of alcoholic stimulants from persons addicted to their use?"

"On the contrary," said Dr. Bevan, "our thorough physical examination showed Col. Roosevelt to be in magnificent physical condition and in especially good shape to resist the effects of a gunshot wound, so much so that this was marked, and in a bulletin which the medical consultants issued we made the statement that his excellent physical condition was due to habitual abstinence from tobacco and liquor.

"If the colonel had been a drinking man the medical attendants could easily have recognized that fact during the time we had him under observation," he said.

At 4:45 p. m. Judge Flannigan announced that the court would adjourn until this morning.

ALFRED MOE GIVES TALK TO AD MEN

"Objectionable Advertising" Is Subject at Meeting of Club.

An interesting discourse on "Objectionable Advertising" was delivered by Alfred Moe at the regular meeting of the Duluth Advertising club at the Commercial clubrooms last evening. The address followed a dinner attended by eighteen members of the club.

Mr. Moe pointed out that more than $1,000,000,000 had been worked out of the public through wildcat mining schemes, stock deals and a variety of other frauds which were heavily advertised during the year of 1912.

The talk was illustrated by a number of slides. The stereopticon was handled by R. T. Close.

COFFEE TRUST CASE TO DROP.

New York, May 28.—A motion for the dismissal of the government's anti-trust suit against Herman Sielcken and others, known as the Brazilian coffee valorization syndicate, has been filed in the United States circuit court of appeals here by District Attorney Marshall. The court took the motion under advisement after Mr. Marshall announced that 950,000 bags of coffee seized here a year ago had been sold to seventy independent coffee dealers in the United States.

The government charged that the coffee was stored here in restraint of trade, awaiting an advance in price.

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY

CHURCHMEN AT BANQUET

Congregationalists Bound By No Creed, Says Speaker.

Business Sessions of Head of Lakes Conference Resumed.

Chief among the speakers last evening at the joint meeting of the Duluth and Superior conferences of the Congregational denomination, now being held at the Pilgrim church of Duluth, were Rev. Lewis H. Keller of Madison, Wis., Congregational superintendent of Wisconsin, and Mayor Prince of Duluth.

Mayor Prince spoke at a dinner which was served early in the evening, and Mr. Keller spoke at the evening session of the gathering. Rev. C. J. Armstrong of Superior conducted the devotional services which preceded the evening addresses.

E. W. Matter was toastmaster at the dinner and filled his place in a witty way. Mayor Prince, who is a member of Pilgrim church, spoke of the development of Congregationalism the country over and especially in this part of it. He spoke also of the desire of Duluth to co-operate with the surrounding communities in all things and applied his idea of such co-operation to the religious bodies contained in Duluth and the surrounding territory.

Rev. Mr. Keller spoke of the ideals of Congregationalism, which, he said are freedom of thought and democracy. He declared that Congregationalism stands for individualism and the members are bound by no creed. They interpret the Bible according to their own judgment and worship God accordingly.

Rev. Everett Lesher of Minneapolis, Congregational superintendent of Minnesota, also spoke. He talked of the gospel work, the breadth of fellowship and the educational features of the Congregational church and spoke of the influence its attitude has wielded among other denominations.

Business sessions started this morning in the various sections and at 10 o'clock a devotional service was held with a brief sermon by Rev. E. E. Day of Iron River, Wis. Following that was a discussion on the subject: "Efficiency in the Sunday School," by Christian Bruhn of Brainerd, Prof. J. D. Brownell of Ashland and Prof. A. D. Whealdon of Superior. The discussion of the arguments was opened by Rev. R. J. Barnes of Hayward. The program for the rest of today follows:

Afternoon.

2:00—Closing business in separate sessions.

3:00—Woman's missionary hour; devotional service; "Social Service in Distant Lands," Mrs. C. N. Thorp, Duluth; music, "Missionary Work in Porto Rico," Miss Grace E. Josselyn, Porto Rico.

4:00—An automobile ride over the Duluth boulevard.

Evening.

7:45—Service of praise and devotion.

8:15—The annual sermon, President M. J. Fenenga, D.D., Northland college, Ashland.

8:45—The communion service, Rev. G. H. Sheridan, Brainerd; Rev. S. P. Luce, Superior; the offering for ministerial relief; adjournment.

TRAINMEN OPPOSE COMPENSATION BILL

Brotherhood Favors Laws in Force in Eighteen States.

San Francisco, Cal., May 28.—By a vote of 8 to 1, the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen in convention here registered opposition to the proposed workmen's compulsory compensation act now before congress. No further action, it was stated, will be taken by the convention on this subject.

Officials said that while the delegates were opposed to the enactment of a compulsory measure by congress, preferring that the present Federal liability law remain unchanged, they regarded with favor the workmen's compensation laws now in force in eighteen states. This issue was regarded as the most important business of the convention.

The report of the committee on constitution and by-laws was taken up and occupied the convention at today's session.

SENATE WILL PROBE COAL MINE AFFAIRS

Sweeping Inquiry Ordered By Adoption of Kern Resolution.

Washington, May 28.—By a viva voce vote, the senate passed the resolution authorizing a sweeping investigation of conditions preceding and accompanying the strike of coal miners in the Paint Creek region in West Virginia. The resolution, introduced in somewhat different form by Senator Kern, has been before the senate for a month, the subject of many bitter attacks and of scores of speeches of commendation.

Under the resolution's authority, the senate, through the education and labor committee, will look into the charges of peonage in West Virginia, of violation of the immigration laws, of interference with the mails and postoffices, and of violation of the Constitution and laws of the United States in the trial of citizens by a military tribunal. It will examine reported combinations among operators in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act, and alleged discrimination by immigration authorities at ports of entry and determine whether arms and explosives were imported into Paint Creek for improper use.

Second Such action.

The terms of the authorization are so broad that the committee will be able to inquire into anything and everything which figured in the troubles between the miners and the operators. The investigation will be the second in the history of the nation, so far as senators have shown in debate, to be made of the acts of a state by a legislative branch of the Federal government. The strike in the Coeur d'Alene mining region in Idaho was investigated by a house committee in 1900.

The education and labor committee will begin the work of investigation immediately.

COMMITTEES FOR HOUSE ARRANGED

Two New Bodies, on Roads and the Labor Department, Formed.

Washington, May 28.—The committee organization of the house has been completed by the ways and means committee majority. Chairman Underwood will present the names of the members of all the committees, Democrats, Republicans and Progressives, to a Democratic caucus next Monday afternoon.

Two new committees are provided for in the slate, one on roads and one on expenditures in the department of labor. It is expected there will be enough votes to provide for the good roads committee, despite opposition on the ground that it would involve too great an increase in government expenditures. Representative Shackleford of Missouri is slated for its chairman. The labor expenditudes committee is necessary because of the creation of that department by an act of the last congress.

Mr. Underwood obtained unanimous consent of the house to increase the membership of the committee on Indian affairs from twenty to twenty-one members; the irrigation committee from thirteen to fifteen; the public buildings committee from seventeen to nineteen, and a membership of seven on the new committee on expenditures in the department of labor.

Gives Quickest and Surest Cure For All Sore Feet

The following is absolutely the surest and quickest cure known to science for all foot ailments: "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the sore parts." The effect is really wonderful. All soreness goes instantly; the feet fell so good you could sing for joy. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. It gives immediate relief for sore bunions, sweaty, smelly and aching feet. A twenty-five cent box of Calocide is said to be sufficient to cure the worst feet. It works through the pores and removes the cause of the trouble. Don't waste time on uncertain remedies. Any druggist has Calocide compound in stock or he can get it in a few hours from his wholesale house. It is not a patent medicine but is an ethical preparation.

BOARD TO CONSIDER AGRICULTURAL COURSE.

The proposal of Supt. R. E. Denfeld of the city schools, to establish an agricultural course in the Duluth Central high school for the third or fourth year students interested, will be given special consideration at the next meeting of the board of education, which will be held June 6.

The proposition is understood to be favored by the board members. Supt. Denfeld suggests it as a plan to give the boys who have a taste for such work an opportunity to prepare for more advanced study along this line in the state university.

It is probable that Prof. E. P. Gibson, head of the biology department, will be placed in charge of the course. A. B. Hostetter, agricultural expert of the Duluth Commercial club, will be asked to assist in the preliminary work.

RAILROAD EVANGELIST TO SPEAK AT Y. M. C. A.

A meeting which promises to be an interesting one will be held this evening at the Y. M. C. A., the principal speaker at which will be J. B. Turner, engineer of the Chicago Limited on the Pennsylvania road. The meeting will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

Mr. Turner has been on the range, conducting, in company with "Jim" Burwick, "the preaching conductor" of the Duluth & Iron Range road, evangelistic services for a month, and will spend a few days here holding meetings at the Y. M. C. A. and at railroad shops. Mr. Turner became a follower of the Savior two years ago while suffering from what nine doctors declared to be an incurable disease. Following his conversion came cure, for which Mr. Turner gives credit to his conversion.

DAVIS TAKES OATH OF OFFICE.

Washington, May 28.—Joseph E. Davis of Madison, Wis., whose nomination to the commission of corporations was withdrawn from the senate by President Wilson when he learned that action by the senate was not necessary, yesterday took the oath of office. Whether Mr. Davis will resign as secretary of the national Democratic committee, his continuation in which office was the cause of objection to his nomination, was not indicated. He declined to comment on the matter, but it is understood he does not see any objection to a commissioner of corporations remaining on a political committee since the enactment of the law which makes it a felony to seek or accept campaign contributions from any corporations.

FREE WATSON OF HOLD-UP CHARGE.

Kansas City, Mo., May 28.—After a dramatic scene in justice court, where he was confronted by his accuser, Jesse M. Short, wealthy mining man of Joplin, Mo., Louis Watson, an itinerant preacher held by the police for several days suspected of holding up a Kansas City Southern train and seriously wounding Short, was released over the vehement protest of Short.

"There's the man who shot me," said Short when Watson appeared before him in court.

"You're a liar, and you know it," shouted Watson. He leaped toward his accuser and was restrained by two policemen. Short, while in a hospital suffering from the hold-up man's bullet, identified Watson positively as his assailant.

POLICEMAN SHOT BY ACTOR DIES.

Jersey City, N. J., May 28.—Patrick Considine, a policeman of Cliffside, N. J., who was shot Saturday night with his own revolver by James Devlin, a vaudeville actor, is dead. With his last breath he refused to make any charge against his assailant.

Devlin accused Considine of being too attentive to Devlin's wife.

"If you think I am the man you say I am, you had better end it all by shooting me," said the policeman, proffering his revolver.

Mad with jealousy, Devlin snatched the weapon and fired. Devlin was overcome with grief when he heard of Considine's death.

A charge of homicide was lodged against Devlin after the policeman died. He is being held without bail for a grand jury investigation.

Mrs. Devlin, who was Mae Ellwood, an actress, and Devlin's cousin, Miss Anna Devlin, are detained as witnesses.

STOMACH SUFFERERS, CHEER UP! TAKE SAMUEL'S "3-P" CAPSULES

"I have been a salesman forty years. I ruined my digestion snatching hasty meals at lunch counters and hotels, until I got so bad that after a meal I suffered untold tortures until the attack of dyspepsia passed off," says Mr. T. W. Bush, a well-known shoe drummer of Cincinnati, Ohio.

"A few months ago a friend asked me to try Samuel's '3-P' Capsules and now I can eat corn beef and cabbage, mince pie, or anything I want, and I feel as chipper as a schoolboy."

You, too, can get instant relief from the distress and pain of fermented, undigested food, flatulency, bloated, gassy and sour stomach, eructations, bad breath, nervousness and dyspepsia.

Don't give up hope if ordinary stomach remedies haven't helped you. Get at any drug store a 25-cent package of Samuel's "Three-P" Capsules and enjoy instant relief. They not only digest the food, but FEED the nerves so they gradually become stronger and control the digestive juices, enabling you to eat whatever you like—things you haven't even dared taste in months.

Made after the formula of a famous French specialist. Containing Pepsin, Papain, Glycero-Phosphates and other harmless ingredients, put up in easy-to-take, pure gelatin capsules, sealed so they are always fresh—unlike sickening tablets and pills. Immediately the capsule reaches the stomach, it dissolves and gives instant relief from belching, fermentation, flatulency, sour stomach, bad breath and all the miseries of indigestion.

Thousands now know it is needless to have a bad stomach. A prominent banker, Mr. Charles S. Stone, Cashier of Bank of Yampa, Colo., writes: "Your '3-P' Capsules have done me wonders of good."—Every "3-P" user can't say enough in praise of them.

BY BRUCE.

Under smiling skies and before the glowing eyes of many fair fans Dad Ford and a hole in the wall yesterday assisted valiantly in encompassing our defeat at the hands of the Red Hose by the count of 3 to 2. Containing heart throbs, spasms of hope and dark valleys filled with dark despair, the soiree was one of the best of the season.

Henry Clay Blancke, the poet pitcher, did not deserve a lost mark as a reward for the brand of ball he loosed from his romantic self. Circumstances, among which was the hole in the wall, contrived to defeat our lover of hexameters. But five blows were scattered by the stickers from the Village across the way and during the affray nine of the swatters swung vainly at the ambient atmosphere and nothing more.

Samuel Sycamore Meniece, the eminent cricketer, has been ailing with a bad hand for the past two days. He has been unable to labor in his garden at Woodland and for this very reason has neglected carrying onions in the left hip pocket. Yesterday the first saint acphyrs of summer's debut fanned around the park and the heat affected some of our boys. Had he had an onion convenient it is very possible, aye, probable, that Sam might have delivered at one of the times when we were fervently praying for some manner or mode of deliverance.

Withers Starts Game.

Henry Clay was opposed at the start by Montague Withers, late of Kansas City, or one might say early of Kansas City, as it was early in the spring that Montague trained with Chesty Carr's Blues. Mr. Withers was taken while young and presumably innocent and inveigled into coming to Superior.

He pitched six innings against our brave athletes. Then he was ordered to the dugout. Why? That's the question that many present vainly sought to answer. At the time he was yanked from the hurling hill the said Mr. Withers was doing very well.

Young Mr. Schauer, Will Sommers' $17,000 green trading stamp wonder, who possibly would bring $1,500 right now in real money, was sent to the rubber after the baseball demise of Withers, and during his incumbency no more runs gladdened the hearts of the enthusiastic fannettes or the rowling fans, who pulled hard for a victory.

Superior Scores First.

All was well and happy in the first round. McGraw walked, stole second and was wild pitched to third, where he remained. In the second trouble brewed and came to a head. Ford was the first up and he hit one to the right wall. The pellet mischievously hid in a hole until Dad was almost to third. McCauley went down on an infield offering, but Monahan offered one to McGraw and the Superior trakeman beat the throw to the plate.

In the fourth stanza Cullis hit one nearly to the handsome flag pole down in the far corner of the lot. Those of conservative nature labeled her a triple, while the more optimistic souls from Superior pronounced the wallop one of the home run pretensions.

Our Elmer Miller galloped gayly with the hit, occasionally looking over his shoulder as did Lot's wife on a certain well-known occasion, and then leaping to the side thrust his hands on the pill and held it. Great catch and the prevention of a possible home run. Curtis doubled right after this, but nothing of further heart-breaking interest occured during the remainder of the inning.

In the fifth Benedict McGraw backed up against the left field paling and took one from Chicken off the fence.

In the sixth both sides counted the rest of the score marks of the conflict.

Two Runs for Each.

With Withers withered on a little fly to O'Brien, our brave commander, Schreiber kicked away the offering of Persch and Cullis immediately singled to the left of Meniece. At this high-power psychological point, Mr. Fred Curtis singled deeply to center and two runs were across the pan.

In our half McGraw singled smartly over the second bag and then Miller hit one that fat Ignatius McAuley at third was barely able to get the tip of his right hand finger on, the index finger, Mr. Meniece, sans onions, hit a little offering to left field. And here came Dusty Rhoades. With the stage settings perfect for the act, our heroic third baseman walloped the pill clear to the flag pole and was safely landed at third before the long drive was relayed home from the country. Two runs.

With one out and a man at third the chances gleamed and shimmered brightly in the afternoon sunlight. But extreme and radiant joy was not to be ours. Smith of Milan was easily retired and Schreiber broke his back biting at two wild pitches and then hit blindly at the third. Hope hurried for an early street car.

With $17,000 green trading stamp Schauer on the mound, we had an excellent start to do something in the eighth. Meniece and Rhoades hit and then Smith of Milan lofted a little one to Schauer and that gent promptly and without apparent hesitation threw to Curtis in time to beat Rhoades back to the bag. Schreiber again whiffed.

The green trading stamp gent of pitching proclivities snuffed out emergency militia men Brackett and Fishel and O'Brien flew crippled wing-like to left to complete the ninth and one of the best played games of the present season came to an unhappy end, with nd little Cinderella to alleviate the pathos of the moment.

BRONCHOS WIN SECOND GAME

Minneapolis Blanks Virginia in Hitting Contest By 8 to 0 Score.

Virginia, Minn., May 28.—After Sherrin had been yanked in the first inning of yesterday's game Chase went in and proved a puzzle to the local batsmen and Minneapolis walked away with the second game of the series by the score of 8 to 0.

Errors by the Rangers at critical stages of the game assisted the visitors in piling up their runs. While neither Tony Faeth or Watkins proved an enigma to the Bronks, several of the scores of the visitors were gifts from the erring fielders.

Grodnick hit one over the left field fence, this being one of the longest hits ever made on the local field.

GRAND FORKS TAKES GAME FROM WINNIPEG.

Winnipeg, May 28.—Grand Forks defeated the Maroons here yesterday by the score of 4 to 3. The visitors came from behind in the eighth inning and scored three runs. While the Flickers played a perfect fielding game, several sensational plays, cutting off runs, the Maroons slumped badly at times, errors at several critical stages of the game assisting the visitors to runs.

Altman saved the game for the Flickers in the ninth frame when he ran clear to the fence and speared a long line hit from Kirkhams bat. The hit looked like a sure home run.

WHITE SOX NOTES

According to the report of our country correspondent, Sam Meniece was busy this day digging in his garden. He will not be caught onionless again this season, according to the short and snappy interview granted to our stubborn news-chaser.

* * *

In the eighth round, Mr. Elmer Randolph Rhoades hit a little Peninsula leaguer to center field. All hands believed that the loft would prove very easy picking for Lake Superior Persch. That gent ran merrily and then suddenly slowed up and allowed the pill to drop in perfectly safe territory. It was learned, during interview after the combat, that Lake Superior Persch ran into a sand bank and thus diminished his speed.

In the seventh round, our Henry Clay Blancke walked. He was tickled to death over the incident. Launched on first, the poet gayly dangled his legs and waved red-shirted arms in the gentle early spring air. Our brave pitcher got as far as third and was filled with visions of tieing the score, when lo and behold, the inning was brought to an untimely end.

The brunt of yesterday's hitting for the outcasts fell on the shoulders of that brave old man, Frederick Grant Curtis, of Winona, Minn. Alone the doughty leader of the arsnic band drove out 60 per cent of the clouts garnered by the visitors. Frederick Grant Curtis is 49 years of age and showed in the work of yesterday not the least signs of giving way in the battle of the mirthless scythe swinger.

* * *

Mr. Perry Werden was obmutescent yesterday. If he reads this he may become angry. However, there is nothing wrong in it.

TOMORROW 3:30 P. M.
DULUTH vs. GRAND FORKS
TWO GAMES FRIDAY, DECORATION DAY

GRAND FORKS FLICKERS COMING FOR THREE GAMES

Bill Carney's Renovated Bunch Will Start Series Thursday and Will Play Double-Header on Decoration Day.

With the third game of the series with Superior being played off this afternoon, tomorrow will find the Sox battling with the Grand Forks team. Managed at the present time by Bill Carney, the former pitcher of the American association, and strengthened by the addition of several players, the Flickertails are playing one of the best games of any team in the league.

The Flickers will be here for three games, but these three contests will be played on two days. Friday being Decoration day the first doubleheader of the season will be staged.

The Sox are battling valiantly for the league leadership and Commander O'Brien desires deeply to be in the van when he and the team leave here on the evening of June 5 for Winnipeg.

Right now the Sox are traveling at a very fast pace. The same can be said of Superior. Minneapolis is after two new outfielders, and Charles Jones of St. Paul is after a number of new players. Grand Forks is stronger now than when the team was here before, and Virginia is also playing better baseball than it was during the first few weeks of the season.

From now on it looks as if the race in the Northern league is going to be a pretty one. The wobbly stages have been passed with the passing of the terrible weather conditions of the early spring or winter, just as you will. The pitchers are settling to real work and some of the best baseball of any of the minor leagues of the country is being played in the new organization.

That the fans here appreciate the class of baseball they are getting is shown by the increased attendance. During the past few days three of the best games ever played here have been pulled at Athletic park, and this is the kind of baseball that is bound to bring out the crowd.

Fast Games.

Another thing—the games are being played in a little less than an hour and a half. President Burmeister has been insistent upon this speed thing and he is being backed up by all of the umpires and by the heads of the eight clubs of the league. Just as soon as the people around the cities of the new league begin to realize that the games are being completed in a great deal less than two hours just then will the crowds increase. This is just what the officials of the league are endeavoring to accomplish, and their efforts are meeting with success.

Thus in the latter part of May the race in the Northern is becoming sultry. To date Duluth, Superior and Minneapolis have shown the class of the league. To tell the truth, however, the Bronks did not look like a well balanced aggregation during the three games they played here.

Unglaub needs some new outfielders and he could also use some new infielders. The great pitching staff of the little Millers has kept the team in the race, while the German count has also a great catcher in Allen.

Leverett is being hit rather hard and if the pitchers of the Bronchos don't pitch air tight baseball it is very probable that Minneapolis will drop lower than its present position.

Superior has a grand baseball team and one that any minor league should be proud of. The Dooks are playing a fine article of baseball at the present instance, and if the pitchers continue to put up the grade of flinging stuff they have shown in the last few games, it is a sure prediction that the Sox will be in the race all the way through.

O'Brien expects to take three games from the Flickers, though the Dakota crowd is going fast. With the race as close as it is every victory means a lot, and some strenuous battles can be expected to be engaged in with the Flickertails.

Giants Lose Double-Header.

Boston, Mass., May 28.—Boston won both games of a double header from New York yesterday, forcing the Giants into the fifth place. The scores were 1 to 0, and 5 to 2.

Mathewson and Tyler had a pitchers' battle in the first game, which was decided in an unusual way. It was in the ninth inning. Maranville, first batter, singled and went to second on Myers sacrifice. Connolly fellowed with a single to center, but an accurate throw by Shafer retired Maranville at the plate. Connolly took second. Sweeney then singled to right, dropping his bat as he ran. Connolly raced for home, while Burns made a pretty throw to catch him, but the ball struck Sweeney's bat, carromed away from the waiting Meyers, and Connolly scored.

The fine pitching of Rudolph, who went in as relief pitcher after New York had two runs off Perdue in the second inning and timely hitting by Boston gave the locals the second game. Rudolph was master in the seven innings in which he pitched. A double by Titus with three men on bases in the sixth inning, scoring three runs, was an important factor in Boston's offense. Merkle injured his ankle sliding into second base during this inning and was succeeded by Snodgrass. Scores:

Bunch Hits.

Chicago, May 28.—Chicago defeated St. Louis, 2 to 1, yesterday and as a result of New York's double defeat went into third place. The game was a pitchers' battle between Overall and Sallee. Sallee had but one bad inning, the first, when the locals bunched two of the three hits made off him with a stolen base and an error, for two runs. Mitchell made the third hit, a triple, but Sallee's great fielding cut Mitchell off at the plate when he tried to score on a grounder. He retired in the eighth inning to allow Evans to bat for him. In this inning, singles by McLean and Evans, coupled with a sacrifice and an out, saved the visitors from a shutout. Manager Evers of Chicago argued a decision with Umpire Orth and was ordered to the clubhouse. Score: R. H. E.

Athletics Take Two.

Philadelphia, May 28.—Philadelphia won both games of the double-header from Washington here yesterday in rather easy style, the first resulting in a shutout by 8 to 0, and the second 7 to 1.

In the first game Washington was helpless before Plank. The veteran lefthander allowed but two singles and but twenty-eight men faced him. Not a Washington base runner passed first base and but one was left on the sacks, although three doubles by the Philadelphia infield helped to cut down Washington runners. Philadelphia batted Engle from the box in the third inning and while they failed to hit Gallia with any degree of safety the latter's wildness and a few timely hits gave them four runs in the eighth.

Hughes was batted from the box in the fifth inning of the second game, but Altrock, who succeeded him, checked the Athletic's hitting and run getting.

Bender never had to exert himself. Although seven hits were made off him when occasion required he invariably fanned every batter at the right minute. Oldring's hitting and base running featured the game.

Pitchers' Battle.

St. Louis, Mo., May 28.—Mitchell, tossing for the St. Louis Americans, won a pitcher's battle from Detroit, 3 to 2. Zamloch pitched good ball, but Stanage was wild on throwing to second. St. Louis made two of its three runs in the seventh when Williams singled, took second on Pratt's sacrifice and scored on Stovall's triple to deep center. Austin's single brought in Stovall. The first run came in the fifth on Pratt's single and Vitt's error. Detroit scored one in the second on a single and one in the third on a single and Bush's triple.

Win in Tenth.

St. Paul, Minn., May 28.—St. Paul beat Kansas City yesterday by a tenth inning rally in which four runs were scored. Kansas City took the lead in the seventh, and Flynn's single in the ninth tied the score. In the tenth, Kansas City scored three runs and apparently had the game won, but a base on balls, a double, two singles and Manager Friel's perfect sacrifice netted St. Paul four runs.

For eight innings the game was a pitchers' battle between Rhoades and Rieger, the former having a shade the better of the argument. La Roy succeeded Rieger in the eighth.

Walker and Williams featured with triples and Walker made a running one-handed catch of Riggert's long drive that seemed good for a home run. The score: R. H. E.

Pull Out Victory.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 28.—Milwaukee pulled out an 8 to 7 victory over Minneapolis yesterday in the ninth on Bemis' single, Lewis' double and Hunter's error. The second round netted two runs and was just enough to overcome the one run obtained by the champions in the preceding frame. In the opening inning the visitors clubbed Bill Burns for six hits and sent across five runs. Altizer was chased from the game for ragging with the umpire. The score: R. H. E.

Indians Defeated.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 28.—Four singles, a double base on balls and two stolen bases gave Louisville five runs in the third inning here yesterday, enough to easily defeat Indianapolis. The visitors scored four more during the game, winning, 9 to 1. A single, a base on balls, a sacrifice and a single to center scored Downs in the second for the locals' one tally. The score: R. H. E.

AUTO DRIVERS HAVE NARROW ESCAPES

Indianapolis, Ind., May 28.—Two accidents occurred yesterday at the Speedway where elimination trials for the 500-mile automobile race, to be held Memorial day, were being run. Both were due to tire trouble, while the cars were going at a high rate of speed.

Harry Endicott was struck on the elbow, partially paralyzing his arm for a time, by a valve, when his machine threw a tire in front of Grandstand A. He managed to keep his car on the track and brought it to a stop without damage.

Paul Zuccarelli, driver of a French car, had practically the same experience a little earlier in the day. His car threw a right front tire and before he could stop it a spoke in the wheel was broken.

A large crowd was at the Speedway and the two accidents brought hundreds to their feet while the sight of the men, fighting desperately to hold their machines to the track, held them breathless. Pit workers said the escapes were the narrowest they had ever seen.

Italian Cars Arrive.

The three Italian cars entered in the race arrived yesterday and began tuning up for the big event. The drivers have been here for some time awaiting their mounts and say they will be ready to breast the wire Friday morning, as their machines were put in shape before they left the factory.

All cars are to be weighed-in today, and, in the meantime, the technical committee, of which F. E. Edwards is chairman, is examining the bore and stroke of every car to see that no one attempts to use an oversize motor. It is expected the work will be finished today.

The track officials announced that all elimination tests must be finished by tonight as Thursday would be needed for work of cleaning the course.

R. C. Gilhooley, driver of one of the cars entered in the race, was arrested last night by Mayor Shank on a charge of speeding. He was going to the Speedway and the mayor charges was driving faster than thirty miles an hour.

DAN McLEOD PULLS FOOT OUT OF GRAVE.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 28.—Daniel McLeod, veteran wrestler and holder of the light heavyweight championship, successfully defended his title against Tony Ajax at the Los Angeles Athletic club last night.

McLeod won in straight falls, the first in 35 minutes, 26 seconds, and the second in 15 minutes, 25 seconds, both with crotch and half Nelson holds. The toe hold was barred.

WILLIAMS STOPS YALE WINNING STREAK.

New Haven, Conn., May 28.—Williams broke Yale's great record of seventeen consecutive victories, by shutting out the Blue on Yale field yesterday afternoon, 2 to 0. It was Yale's second defeat by a college team this year, Pennsylvania winning an early season game.

WAIVERS ASKED ON REULBACH AND RICHIE.

Chicago, May 28.—Waivers have been asked on Pitchers Reulbach and Richie, for years with the Chicago Nationals, it became known last night. Manager Tinker of Cincinnati has refused to waive on Reulbach, and, it is reported, is trying to procure him at the waiver price. None of the other clubs have asked for Richie.

Game Postponed.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 28.—The second game scheduled yesterday afternoon between Indianapolis and Louisville was canceled by Manager Kelley. The postponement will be put over until a future visit of the Louisville club.

Accuses Camnitz.

Chicago, May 28.—Manager John Evers of the Chicago Nationals yesterday accused Pitcher Howard Camnitz of deliberately hitting Pitcher Larry Cheney's head during the game at Pittsburg last Saturday and of trying to do the same to Heine Zimmerman.

Evers believes Camnitz also hit Archer intentionally during the same contest. Zimmerman was missed by a few inches. Cheney was struck just above the temple and was knocked unconscious for a brief time.

DAVY JONES IS SOLD TO TOLEDO.

Chicago, May 28.—Word was received here yesterday that Davy Jones, for years a member of the Detroit Americans and recently bought by the Chicago Americans, has been sold to the Toledo club of the American association.

Jockey Is Killed.

New York, May 28.—William Smith, aged 19, of Warrenton, Va., a jockey connected with the Widener stables, was thrown and killed today while exercising a horse over the jumps at Belmont Park race track.

PELKEY AND BURNS HELD

Promoter and Fighter Must Stand Trial on Manslaughter Charge.

Burns Files Suit Against Minister Who Attacked Him in Sermon.

Calgary, Alta., May 28.—Representatives of the crown who have been conducting the investigation into the death of Luther McCarty, claimant to the white heavyweight championship, who died in the prize ring at the Burns arena Saturday, today are gathering a mass of evidence which will be presented when the cases of Arthur Pelkey and Tommy Burns are called to trial.

That Burns, promoter of the fight in which McCarty met his death, and Pelkey, whose blow in the first few minutes of the initial round resulted in the fatality, will have to face trial on the charge of manslaughter, was the most startling of the several developments that followed in rapid succession the rearrest of Pelkey yesterday, after the coroner's jury had failed to make any charges against him. Meanwhile, William McCarney and Referee Eddie Smith are out on $500 bail each and ordered to appear as witnesses when the cases are tried.

Another development was the filing by Burns of a suit for criminal libel against a minister of the city who is alleged to have denounced the promoters of the fight as "murderers who should be deported." Burns said he also would file suit against other ministers who are said to have attacked him in a like manner in their sermons last Sunday.

McCarney and Smith are accompanying McCarty's body to the home of his parents at Piqua, Ohio.

At a hearing last night Burns and Pelkey were committed to stand trial for manslaughter in connection with the death of McCarty. The bail of $10,000 each for the release of Pelkey and Burns was continued. The case probably will not come up for trial before October, according to officials.

HOPPE RUNS AWAY FROM JAP PLAYER.

New York, May 28.—Willie Hoppe successfully defended his world's championship title at 18-inch balkline, two shots in, against the challenger, Kodjt Yamada of Japan, here last night, the score being 500 to 38.

Since the rules of the game were so changed that the "ancher" was barred, no other such one-sided championship game has been seen. Hoppe won the bank, but failed to score when he led off. Yamada ran 15 and this was his best attempt as in the next ten innings he added only 18.

Hoppe, in the second inning, made a run of 115 of the most masterly billiards of which he is capable.

FRANKIE BURNS WINS FROM WILLIE HOPPE.

Oakland, Cal., May 28. — Frankie Burns of Oakland, knocked out Willie Hoppe of San Francisco in the ninth round of a scheduled 10-round fight here last night. The men are lightweights.

"SCOTTY" BROWN IN GREAT FORM.

Mat Brown, leader of Duluth Central high school track team and one of the greatest distance runners that has ever been developed in the high schools of the country, will be depended upon to win a number of points for the hill top institution at the coming interscholastic track and field meet.

"Scotty" is showing the best form of his career at the present time. The great little runner is in fine form and his friends will be greatly disappointed if he does not win several of the events that are to be run off on the meet scheduled for Saturday at Superior.

With track teams from several of the range teams and also from the Ashland high school, it is expected that some of the best of all the athletes in the northern part of Minnesota and Wisconsin will participate in the meet.

AMERICANS DO WELL AT ST. ANDREWS.

St. Andrews, Scotland, May 28.—The American players did well yesterday in the second and third round of the amateur golf championship turnament. Harold Weber of Toledo, Ohio, first beat Sheperd of the Henley club by 3 up and 1 to play and in the third round, defeated J. F. Myles of the Royal and Ancient club by 3 up and 2 to play.

W. Heinrich Schmidt of Worcester, Mass., beat Capt. Brune of the Royal North Devon club by 6 up and 5 to play, and later defeated Lassen of Lytham and St. Anne's, one of the strongest players in the north of England, by 3 up and 2 to play.

De Oro Wins.

San Francisco, Cal., May 28.—Alfred de Oro, the challenger, won the first of a series of three games for the three-cushion billiard championship from John Horgan, the title-holder, here last night. The score was 50 to 44. Horgan's high run was 4, de Oro's 3.

Summer Skin Humours Now Quickly Banished

Eczema, Tetter, Lupus, Pimples, Rash, Boils and All Blood Troubles That Attack the Skin Completely Disappear.

Can't Find a Blemish After Using S. S. S.

Now is the time of year to get quick action on any skin disease. The pores are more active during these early days of summer, and this condition should be taken advantage of. The best remedy is S. S. S., the famous blood purifier.

Its influence in the blood is more healthful, more penetrating, more stimulating, and more productive of noticeable results than anything else ever discovered for the promotion of pure blood.

The skin is but a net work of fine blood vessels. And it is a perfectly natural consequence that any influence in the blood that is a condition of ill health makes its first appearance in the skin. There are certain medicinal properties that follow the course of the blood stream, and the influence of these properties is that of an antidote. This is why S. S. S. has such a positive action on the skin. There is one ingredient in S. S. S. which peculiarly stimulates cellular or glandular activity to select from the blood or from this fine net work of blood vessels in the skin, those elements which it requires for regeneration. Thus pimples, acne, eczema, lupus, or any other blood condition that attacks the skin or seeks an outlet through the skin is met with the antidotal effect of S. S. S.

This is why skin troubles vanish so readily, and why they do not return.

Under the influence of S. S. S. this fine net work of blood vessels in the skin is constantly taking from the blood the nutrition required for healthy tissue, and the cause of disease is just as constantly being removed, scattered and rendered harmless.

It is surprising the amount of real blood purification that is accomplished by a single dose of S. S. S.

This famous remedy has an action unknown to any other. It is made entirely of botanical materials, not drug extracts, but from the native roots, hence contains elements which cannot be obtained in prescriptions or combined in other remedies.

It is not a laxative, does not affect the bowels, and since it is relatively just as essential to well-balanced health as the elements of meats, grains, fats and sugars of our daily food, it is absorbed at once into the blood vessels and thus promotes a very rapid cleansing influence.

Dr. Westmoreland states that S. S. S. contains one ingredient that serves the active purpose of stimulating the cells of the tissues to the healthy and judicious selection of its own essential nutriment.

S. S. S., unlike most remedies and prescriptions, contains no "dope," no crude drugs, no mineral drugs. Don't accept something offered you as "just as good." There is only one reason for any one not selling S. S. S., and that is because with crude drugs something else can be made cheaply to sell at a great profit. S. S. S. is prepared only in the laboratory of The Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.

SANITARY DRINKING CUPS

Must Be Provided By Railroads, Says Wisconsin Assembly.

Madison, Wis., May 28.—The McComb bill providing that judges may not preside in trials where a son, mother or brother is either an attorney or litigant, passed the assembly Tuesday after surviving several heavy attacks on the floor.

The following bills were passed:

Requiring railway companies to provide sanitary drinking cups.

Authorizing the supreme court to admit to practice district attorneys not yet admitted to practice in Wisconsin.

Permitting the establishment of teachers' training schools in free high schools.

The assembly refused to receive a new bill by Assemblyman Anderson providing for full train crews. The vote was 47 to 34.

Assemblyman Roessler's bill to abolish the primary and election pamphlet, which passed the lower house after a bitter fight several days ago, met its death in the senate yesterday.

SENATORS TALK LOBBY

Cummins Offers Resolution to Investigate Wilson's Charges.

Gallinger Calls It Absurd to Ask Names of Workers.

Washington, May 28.—President Wilson's charge that an "insidous lobby" is at work in Washington in behalf of desired changes in the tariff bill, has been brought to the formal notice of the senate through a resolution by Senator Cummins demanding an immediate investigation by a committee of five senators, to determine the identity of all corporations which had made any efforts to present arguments or bring influence to bear in favor of changes in the tariff law. A similar resolution was introduced in the house by Representative Tavenner of Illinois.

Senator Cummins attempted to secure immediate action on his resolution, which will be to authorize the greatest investigation of so-called lobbying ever undertaken by congress.

"Absurd," Says Gallinger.

Senator Gallinger at first objected to the resolution as "absurd." Later he withdrew his objection, but on demand of Senator Owen the Cummins resolution finally went over for one day without action.

The proposed investigation would require all senators to give the names of any persons who had approached or written them in the interest of changes in the tariff law. It would require President Wilson to furnish the names of persons referred to in his statement that a great and powerful lobby was at work, and would authorize the senatorial committee to determine whether the action of any lobbyists who might be discovered was "proper or improper."

"It is absurd to demand that the names be given of men who have talked with senators about the tariff bill," declared Senator Gallinger. "Men are here who have a right to be here, because they represent the great interests of the country that are imperilled by proposed changes in the tariff. To call them lobbyists is absurd."

Unenviable Position.

Senator Cummins declared he had presented the demand for an investigation because members of the senate had been put in a very "unenviable position."

"I recognize the right of any interest affected by pending legislation to appear and offer argument," he said. "I do not know that any lobbyists are here. None have approached me. But we have a tariff bill before us. A great many men are here, I suppose for the purpose of putting legitimate claims before the senate and its committee affecting that legislation.

"Now it is said by the highest authority that a lobby of great proportions, employing means of the most insidious and illegitimate character, is engaged in the effort to secure changes in the bill as now proposed. The public has been led to believe, and will believe, that if any changes are made they will have been due to their influence.

"I don't know what a lobbyist is. If it is the man who appears to make legitimate arguments, I am for him. But the country has a right to know what influences are surrounding the senate of the United States, to know who is here and who is attempting by argument, by influence or by persuasion to change the tariff rates."

Thornton Critical.

The fight over the lobby resolution ended abruptly at the objection of Senator Owen. The president's public statement had brought an earlier comment in the senate from Senator Thornton, one of the Democratic senators from Louisiana who opposed the president's free sugar program. Commenting on steps that Louisiana sugar interests had taken to secure certain information which he presented to the senate, he said:

"I suppose this is what some people would call 'insidious lobbying,' but it is what we call an earnest and legitimate move to save a large part of our state from this impending blow."

An echo of the Cumming resolution was heard shortly after it was laid aside when Senator Lippitt of Rhode Island asked Chairman Simmons of the finance committee when the senate might expect to get the material being presented to the subcommittees in the shape of briefs. Senator Simmons replied that one book of briefs probably would be available today.

WILL CONSULT PUBLIC IN BUYING BOOKS

Mayor Prince, head of the division of public affairs, which includes the public library, wishes to know the desires of the public before any large purchases of books are made. When the city spends about $5,000 next fall for books and literature he will be glad to have any one interested confer with Miss Frances Earhart, librarian, and himself. In the past purchases of books were made under the direction of the library board.

CITY WILL DO ALL TRENCHING

Commissioners Murchison and Merritt Have Conference With Plumbers.

At a meeting with Commissioners Murchison and Merritt at the city hall yesterday afternoon, Duluth plumbers expressed themselves as well pleased with the decision of the city to do all trenching in the streets and avenues.

The plan was devised by Commissioner Murchison and has the approval of Commissioner Merritt. Under the arrangement the plumbers of others who desire to make sewer connections in the streets will apply to the works division to have the work done. The city will maintain its own crew of men for that purpose. They will do the ditching and backfilling, which will insure the streets being left in as good condition as they were originally. In the past there has been much complaint because of the damage done to pavements by men who tore them up.

The water and light department will continue as it has done in the past, making its own service connections. The only change is that the works division will have an inspector to see that the backfilling is properly done and the street left in proper shape. If sewer pipes are to be laid at the same time the work will be done by the works division.

MORGAN HOUSE DENIES HE ACCUSED WILSON

HENRY P. DAVISON.

Washington, May 28. — Secretary Bryan has sent J. P. Morgan & Co. the following telegram:

"I beg to thank you for your prompt repudiation of the interview attributed to Mr. Davison of your firm. We are gratified to know that he has denied the authenticity of the Paris dispatch, and that your disclaimer is so full and complete. Respectfully yours,

"W. J. BRYAN."

Henry P. Davison, one of the leading members of the firm of Morgan & Co., was interviewed in Paris, and was quoted as criticizing the policies of President Wilson in almost unmeasured terms. He was said to have described the withdrawal of the United States government from the arrangements for the big Chinese loan as a piece of political catering to the mob, to the whims of which he was quoted as declaring the Wilson administration unqualifiedly susceptible.

WEST AND WINCHELL ARE MADE RECEIVERS

Financial Troubles of Frisco Line Are to Be Adjusted.

St. Louis, Mo., May 28.—Thomas H. West, chairman of the board of directors of the St. Louis Trust company, and B. L. Winchell, president of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad company, were appointed receivers for the railroad in the Federal district court here late yesterday afternoon.

The appointment of the receivers took place about an hour after the appointment of ancillary receivers for the Chicago & Eastern Illinois, a subsidiary of the 'Frisco, by the United States district court in Chicago. The ancillary receivers are William J. Jackson, vice president of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois, and Edwin W. Winters of New York.

The application for the appointment of receivers for the St. Louis & San Francisco was made to Circuit Judge Walter H. Sanborn, who came here from St. Paul especially to hear the 'Frisco matter by the North American company, which is said to be a creditor to the 'Frisco to the extent of $400,000. A receivership was urged as the only solution of the financial difficulties of the road by James Campbell of St. Louis, president of the North American company. The immediate cause of the receivership was the maturing on June 1 of short time notes issued by the railroad for $2,250,000, which bear 5 per cent interest.

For Welfare of the Road.

The impending crisis in the affairs of the 'Frisco has been a depressing influence on its stock for some time, and last week Chairman Yoakum of the railway board of directors came to St. Louis to consult with local interests concerned in the welfare of the road as to the best course to pursue.

At first it was rumored that some means would be found to tide the railroad company over its pressing necessities, but this hope was dissipated when Judge Sanborn, who came here to sit as district judge in the matter, and attorneys and directors for the railroad went into secret conference.

The formal application was presented to Judge Sanborn late in the afternoon. Attorneys Frederick W. Lehmann and Charles Nagel, representing certain creditors, said they preferred to have as receivers men who were in no way connected with the railroad, thus opposing the appointment of President Winchell and of Mr. West, whose trust company has looked after many of the financial affairs of the road in the past. Mr. Nagel also requested that the receivership be made temporary until he could get definite instructions from his clients.

The objections of Attorneys Lehmann and Nagel did not prevail with the court, who appointed Mr. West and President Winchell receivers for the road. Thomas T. Fauntleroy of St. Louis was appointed special commissioner to represent the court in the future proceedings.

The application for the appointment of receivers was laid before the court by Henry S. Priest, representing the directors of the railroad and the principal bondholders and acting in behalf of the North American company. He requested the appointment of Mr. West and of Mr. Winchell.

ORDINANCE CUTS TAXICAB FARES.

New York, May 28.—The Grimm taxicab ordinance, abolishing private stands on public streets, and virtually cutting in half present taxicab fares in New York, has been passed by the board of aldermen with but one dissenting vote. The measure now goes before the mayor for his signature and will become effective sixty days thereafter. Mayor Gaynor has indicated his intention to sign it.

The measure reduces the fare to 50 cents for the first mile and 40 cents for each additional mile for two passengers, and 70 cents for the first mile and 60 cents for each additional mile for three or more passengers. It also empowers the mayor to designate public stands.

GRAND JURY HITS MODERN DANCES.

New York, May 28.—The grand jury has handed down a presentment against modern dances.

"Within the last few months the amount of suggestive, sensual dancing in hotels and restaurants where the sale of liquor is allowed, has greatly increased in the city of New York," reads the presentment, "and we believe with deplorable results to the morals of the young, many of whom are able, without the knowledge of their parents, to frequent such places owing to the fact that dancing therein is no longer confined to the evening hours, but takes place during the afternoon as well.

"It appears to us that the remedies available to the authorities are inadequate. We respectfully present this matter to the court, with the suggestion that in our opinion the statutes should be so amended that liquor tax certificates shall be summarily forfeited in the case of all premises in which dances of an immoral nature are allowed."

CRIPPLED GIRL SENT TO STATE HOSPITAL.

Two-year-old Alma Lindgren, a crippled girl whose mother is in hard financial straits, was taken yesterday to the state hospital for crippled children at St. Paul.

The little girl is suffering from deformed ankles and at the state hospital an attempt will be made to correct the deformities.

Alma was sent to St. Paul last evening, the trip being arranged through the office of Charles Shogran, clerk of the poor commission.

DEADLOCK DELAYS CHINESE ELECTION.

Pekin, May 28.—The adoption of the constitution and the definite election of a president of the Chinese republic have been deferred for an unlimited period. Owing to the deadlock among the parties in parliament, the assembly is unable to exercise its functions and there is seldom a quorum of members in attendance.

Government troops continue to march toward the South, but it is believed here that they will only attempt to surround and not attack the rebellious faction in the province of Kiang Si.

Provisional President Yuan Shi Kai yesterday received twenty-nine Americans who are proceeding by way of Japan and China to the world's Sunday school conference to be held in Switzerland.

The purpose is to redeem $17,500,000 of securities now in the hands of the Central Trust company of New York city, which company is holding them as collateral for a loan of $6,000,000 obtained by the Wabash company.

ON THE IRON RANGES

VIRGINIA BONDS ARE AGAIN SOLD

Same Firm That Took Them Before Given Securities Again.

Virginia, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The contract was closed today with W. H. Cash, representing Bolger, Mosser & Williams, the successful bidders for the water and light bonds. Mr. Cash says the full amount will be here in a few days, $22,000 guarantee with the bid being deposited as part of the $450,000. Mayor and supporters and other citizens are wondering if another attempt to stop the sale will be made.

Virginia, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council again last night sold the $450,000 water and light bonds to Bolger, Mosser & Williams, the firm that got the bonds before but the sale of which was held up by court proceedings. The successful bidders offered par and accrued interest. Other bidders were: Commercial Investment company of Duluth, whose bid was par and interest; N. J. Upham company of Duluth which made a par bid with interest, and Farsen, Son & Co. of Chicago. The Bolger, Mosser & Williaman bid was very brief. The others had conditions attached. The bonds are of the serial sort, the city refunding from $20,000 to $55,000 annually for fifteen years, the final payment being due March 1, 1928.

May Again Attack Sale.

When the bond sale was made nearly two months ago, Col. Cash, representing Bolger, Mosser & Willaman, said at that time that the bonds were in Virginia and the money was here too. He states now also there will be no delay in producing the purchase price of the plant. In various quarters it is stated the anti-administration workers may come forward with another injunction. It is also said the recall petition against Mayor Murphy may go by default not be filed for action by the council, since the sale of the bonds is about to be consummated. The municipal ownership advocates had feared for several days, on account of reports that were received that the bond market was sluggish, that the required par bids might not be received. The water and light commission, which was appointed the first of the year to take over the plant April 1, has had nothing to do. The members are John D. Lamont, J. W. Murphy and Max Lewis. Extension of time has been granted and the city has until July 1 to acquire the plant, which will cost about $550,000, now owned by the Virginia Electric, Power and Water company and managed by O. H. and R. L. Griggs.

Two Harbors, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—About thirty property owners on Eighth avenue met at the Ninth avenue fire hall last night to discuss the proposed grading of Eighth avenue, the work on which is to begin in about a week. There has been a variety of opinions as to the construction of the avenue, both by the city council and the property owners on that avenue, and the meeting last night by the property owners was for the purpose of arriving at some definite plan. It appeared to be the general desire of all present that the avenue be made thirty feet wide, from curb to curb, with a six-foot cement sidewalk and that eight feet be left between the sidewalk and the property line.

Some members of the city council were present. The desires of the property owners will be taken up at the next regular meeting of the council.

COAL BIDS ARE ALL VERY CLOSE

Tenders Offered Hibbing By Twelve Dealers Almost Same.

Hibbing, May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Twenty-five coal dealers occupied seats in the council chamber at the meeting of the water, light, power and building commission last evening to open bids for the purchase of what will probably amount to about 11,000 tons of coal for the village for the ensuing year not be filed for action by the council, since the sale of the bonds is about to be consummated. The municipal ownership advocates had feared for several days, on account of reports that were received that the bond market was sluggish, that the required par bids might not be received. The water and light commission, which was appointed the first of the year to take over the plant April 1, has had nothing to do. The members are John D. Lamont, J. W. Murphy and Max Lewis. Extension of time has been granted and the city has until July 1 to acquire the plant, which will cost about $550,000, now owned by the Virginia Electric, Power and Water company and managed by O. H. and R. L. Griggs.

Twelve coal companies submitted bids on the big contract and by a remarkable coincidence the bids of all twelve were exactly alike.

The Hibbing Lumber company was awarded the contract. Their bid offered Youghiogheny run of pile at $3.25, Hocking run of pile at $3.15, Pocahontas run of pile $3.30, Splint run of pile $3.25. Of the eleven other bids submitted none was lower and not more than two higher.

List of Bidders.

The bidders were: The Hibbing Lumber company of Hibbing, John McHale of Hibbing, Zenith Furnace company of Duluth, Pittsburg Coal company of Duluth, Island Creek Coal Sales company of Minneapolis, M. A. Hanna Coal company of Duluth, Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron company of Superior, Berwin Fuel company of Minneapolis, Northern Coal & Dock company of Minneapolis, Clarkson Coal and Dock company of St. Paul, North Land Coal company of Duluth, Carnegie Fuel company of Minneapolis.

The contract will cost the village of Hibbing about $35,000 in the ensuing twelve months.

ANNEXATION IS MAKING HEADWAY

Hibbing Council Takes Steps Toward Taking Over Nearby Village.

Hibbing, Minn., May 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village council passed a resolution last night certifying that the Mesaba Electric railway has completed its road from Hibbing to Gilbert and has it in operation according to the terms of its franchise in Hibbing. General Manager Newton of the line addressing the council, explained that the trouble with the paying between the street car tracks in Hibbing and Chisholm was that a mistake had been made with the shape of the blocks laid next the track with the result that the flange of the car wheels cut the blocks and afforded an opening for snow and ice which eventually caved the pavement. New blocks of proper shape will be put in and the paving will be repaired, according to Mr. Newton, as soon as crews can be spared from necessary reballasting of the line.

Annexation of Alice Advanced.

Oscar Wildstrand, secretary of the mass meeting held Monday reported to the council the action of the meeting in indorsing the annexation of Alice to Hibbing. The council appointed Village Accountant J. L. Stewart to examine the books of Alice to ascertain the amount of indebtedness of the village and the amount of taxes levied and payable to the village. As soon as this is done the council will go ahead with the proper steps for annexation. It is probable that a joint meeting of the councils of Alice and Hibbing will be arranged for next Tuesday evening.

The village attorney was instructed to prepare a resolution to be passed at the next meeting of the council appropriating $1.000 in aid of the county fair in accordance with the terms of an act passed by the legislature of 1913.

Village Recorder Haley was instructed to have published notices to the merchants of Hibbing of the terms of the ordinance by which the sale of fireworks for the Fourth of July is forbidden and that the ordinance will be strictly enforced by the council.

George Kohrt addressed the council on behalf of the Hibbing band. The band now consists of about twenty pieces and it is hoped to enlarge the membership to thirty-five. Arrangements have partially been perfected with the park board by which the band will give free public concerts twice a week at the parks. This will entail considerable expense and an appropriation was asked for by Mr. Kohrt. The council agreed to turn the matter over to the park board and Mayor Power informed Mr. Kohrt that any arrangements made by the park board in the matter would receive the sanction of the council.

Can Sublet Ditch Contract.

H. E. Osman was given permission to sublet his contract for the new sewer ditch from Hibbing through Brooklyn to J. R. Swigart. Mr. Swigart, it is expected, will push the work vigorously at once as he has the equipment to put at work immediately.

The manufacture of blocks for the contract of 1913 will begin June 2 and it was deemed advisable for the village to have an inspector at the plant to see that the blocks are properly prepared. David Graham was appointed as such inspector at a salary of $5 per day and expenses.

Dr. C. F. Morsman, chairman of the board of health, recommended the immediate appointment of a milk inspector to make tuberculin tests and to properly inspect all dairies, large and small. The recommendation was referred to the village attorney for investigation as to the council's authority in the matter.

A report of the clerk of the municipal court, several applications for liquor licenses, applications for the position of paving inspector, building permits, etc., were referred to the proper committees. The bond of the Butler-Coons company for upkeep of the paving was approved. It was decided to extend the Superior street sewer from Second to First avenues. The next meeting of the council will be held June 3.

PIRIE OUGHT TO KNOW.

Accountant Says Report of His Marriage Is News to Him.

Hibbing, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rumors of the approaching marriage of John Pirie, expert accountant, who recently completed an examination of the village of Hibbing books, to Mrs. Mildred Holland of Hibbing, as published in the papers of Hibbing and Duluth, have come to the ears of Mr. Pirie. "It's the first news I have had of such a thing," writes Mr. Pirie. "There is absolutely nothing to it." As proof of his assertion Mr. Pirie offers the fact that he will make application for membership in Minneapolis Lodge No. 44, B. P. O. E., as soon as he returns from International Falls, where he is examining the books of the Shevlin-Mathieu Lumber company.

SMASHES WINDOWS.

Hibbing Drunk Goes to County Jail for Adopting Suffragette Tactics.

Hibbing, Minn., May 28.—Matt Posterich drew thirty-five days in the county jail in municipal court. Posterich was run in as a common drunk. After he was drunk he began to smash windows a la an English suffragette. He had five nicely shivered when the turnkey descended upon him and put an end to his activities in that direction. Matt has no money and went to Duluth today to sober up.

BELTRAMI SHERIFF FINDS "BIRDS" FLOWN.

Spooner, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheriff Johnson of Beltrami county arrived Monday in response to orders from the attorney general to close the resorts of East Spooner and Baudette. When the sheriff appeared upon the scene the "birds" had flown. He did not go away empty handed, as he took with him the two Murphy brothers, who had been bound over by justice court.

STUNTZ DIVISION TO BE CONSIDERED

Hibbing, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.—The Stuntz township board tonight will consider the petition of Chisholm people relative to cutting off a slice of Stuntz township that will take a large amount of mining property. The Chisholmites ask for the organization of a new township to include the town of Balkan, north of Chisholm, the village of Chisholm and sections 1 to 30, inclusive, of township 58-20 of the town of Stuntz. This proposition involves the giving up on the part of Stuntz of one entire township with the exception of six sections. The town organization of Stuntz is made up of four townships.

Mines to be Lost.

The larger part of section 1 to 30 of 58-20, the northeast township of the town of Stuntz, is made up of the village of Chisholm. The mines outside of Chisholm which Stuntz will lose if it agrees to let the territory go are the Pillsbury, Morrow, St. Anthony, St. Louis, Hartley, Myers, Croxton and a part of the Shenango, which is not now in the village limits of Chisholm. The assessed valuation involved amounts to about $10,000,000. The total valuation of Stuntz township is $119,591,459.

Many contend it will be advisable to allow Chisholm to form the township government it desires, thus relieving Stuntz of the care of roads north and east of Chisholm.

ELY DISTRICT IS MAKING EXHIBITS.

Ely, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state high school examinations at the local high were completed yesterday, and now all that remains of the present school year is the industrial exhibit and the closing exercises, although sessions of the school are being held today and tomorrow. The exhibits, which have been features of the school term each year, will be held at Winton tonight and Ely tomorrow. In former years the exhibit has included the work of each department and it was deemed wise by the board of directors this year to do away with much of it, and feature the industrial departments in the exhibits. The manual training department and domestic science will be given large space in the exhibit. In the manual training department among the high school students iron work has been pushed largely, castings and other work with iron being worked extensively.

FIRE THREATENS MINE BUILDINGS

Nashwauk, Minn., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The buildings at the Quinn mine, a mile northwest of here were threatened with destruction by forest fires late yesterday. Supt. John Hunter, Jr., telephoned to the village at 3 p. m. for aid in fighting the fires.

Paul H. Tweed, chief of the fire department, immediately summoned the department, which quickly responded, and was taken to the scene just in time to save the company's and other buildings. The firemen were kept busy clearing away the underbrush to keep the fires from spreading. A bucket brigade worked all night quenching fires on the buildings, and in several instances the houses caught fire. This mine has just recently been opened and is situated in thick woods where there is practically no fire protection. The mine is also out of the village limits, and the village water supply has not as yet been extended to the property. The danger is about over unless the wind changes.

No girl should allow herself to become pale, bloodless and weak and thus lay the foundation for a lifetime of ill health and misery. Let every girl ask herself today if her blood is as pure and rich as it should be. Pale cheeks, lips and gums, shortness of breath on going up stairs and palpitation of the heart are some of the signs of bad blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enrich the blood and this new blood carries health, nourishment and strength to every part of the body. As the blood improves the general health improves. The good results are soon felt throughout the body.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists at 50 cents per box or six boxes for $2.50 or by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Jennings first thought he was feigning, but learning differently ran to town for aid and De Zon was hurried here to the Coleraine hospital where he died about 10 last night, despite the doctors working over him for several hours. There are nine people in the traveling hypnotist show, all of whom are detained. The show appeared recently at Cloquet. The home of young De Zon is not known.

MAKES RHEUMATISM PROMPTLY DISAPPEAR

Crippled-up Sufferers Find Relief After Few Doses of Croxone Are Taken.

It is needless to suffer any longer with rheumatism, and be all crippled up, and bent out of shape with its heart-wrenching pains, when you can surely avoid it.

Rheumatism comes from weak, inactive kidneys, that fail to filter from the blood, the poisonous waste matter and uric acid; and it is useless to rub on liniments or take ordinary remedies to relieve the pain. This only prolongs the misery.

The only way to cure rheumatism is to remove the cause. The new discovery, Croxone, does this because it neutralizes and dissolves all the poisonous substances and uric acid that lodge in the joints and muscles, to scratch and irritate and cause rheumatism, and cleans out and strengthens the stopped up, inactive kidneys, so they can filter all the poison from the blood, and drive it on and out of the system.

Croxone is the most wonderful medicine ever made for chronic rheumatism, kidney troubles, and bladder disorders. You will find it different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It matters not how old you are, or how long you have suffered, it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. You will find relief from the first few doses, and you will be surprised how quickly all misery and suffering will end.

An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle at any first-class drug store. All druggists are authorized to sell it on a positive money-back guarantee. Three doses a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to overcome the worst backache or urinary disorders.

GRASSHOPPERS MARCH MILE A DAY.

Clovis, N. Mex., May 28.—The great army of grasshoppers which invaded New Mexico on the east, has reached Elida, Roosevelt county. The army is twenty miles long and four miles wide and the grasshoppers are literally stripping the country in their path. They are making westward across the central part of the state at the rate of a mile a day. A mass meeting is to be held here at which funds will be raised and a plan devised for resisting the invading army before they reach Clovis. Growing crops already have been totally destroyed by the grasshoppers and the range bared of grass.

PROSECUTOR IS HUMANE

County Attorney Lightens Grip of the Law on Joseph Kuto.

Verdict of Jury Set Aside and Lighter Sentence Imposed.

Warren E. Greene, county attorney, appeared in district court this morning in the role of the Good Samaritan and incidentally delivered a swift jolt to the mistaken idea held by some people that prosecutors are persecutors, heartless and devoid of human sympathy.

It is not often that a prosecuting attorney will ask a court to set aside a verdict of guilty, which he himself has urged a jury to return against a defendant, but this was what County Attorney Greene did this morning in the case of Joseph Kuto, aged 22, who stood before Judge Dancer this morning to be sentenced for robbery in the first degree.

And Kuto has the county attorney to thank that he is allowed to go to the state reformatory instead of the Stillwater prison and that his sentence is from one to ten years instead of from five to forty. Upon the recommendation of Mr. Greene, the court set aside the verdict of guilty of robbery in the first degree and allowed Kuto to plead guilty to robbery in the third degree, a lighter offense.

Partner Pleads Guilty.

Kuto and Albert Garbich, a companion in crime, held up and robbed Albert Gross on the night of May 8, last, near the Lake avenue viaduct, relieving him of a pocket book and $10 in cash. Both were arrested and indicted by the May grand jury for robbery in the first degree.

When their cases were called for trial, the men demanded separate trials. Garbich was put on first. During the progress of his trial, when he realized that the "jig was up," he consented to change his plea. He was allowed by the county attorney to change his former plea of not guilty to the charge of first degree robbery to a plea of guilty to the same offense in the third degree. He was sentenced to the St. Cloud reformatory.

Kuto was given the same opportunity but flatly refused to consider it. He demanded a jury trial. His defense was that although he was with Garbich he knew nothing of the robbery and took no actual part in it. The jury found otherwise and convicted him of robbery in the first degree.

When brought up for sentence this morning, Mr. Greene suggested that Kuto be also sent to St. Cloud for the same term as his partner, Garbich. The court consented and Kuto was sentenced for third degree robbery. N. H. Wilson appeared as his attorney.

ILLINOIS SOLONS CENSURE LABOR MEN

Action of House Is Said to Forecast Doom of Labor Bills.

Springfield, Ill., May 28.—The minority report of the sub-committee to conduct the labor inquiry was adopted this morning by the house of representatives by a vote of 45 to 44. The report censures officials of the Chicago Federation of Labor for the circulation of hearsay evidence on which was based the federation's resolution attacking members for the defeat of the initiative and referendum resolution.

When the roll call was completed the vote was a tie. Speaker McKinley recorded himself "present and not voting." Representative Boyer, Republican, arrived in the hall during the call of the absentees, and cast the deciding vote in favor of the minority report, signed by Messrs. Shurtleff and Abbott, the two Republican members of the special committee.

It is predicted that the adoption of the report censuring the labor leaders means the defeat of all labor legislation at this session of the general assembly.

WILSON IN FAVOR OF DIRECT ELECTIONS

Believes Party Conventions Necessary to Draft Platforms.

Washington, May 28.—Representative Britton of Illinois today sought President Wilson's views on his measures to provide a six-year single term for the president and vice president, the abolition of nominating conventions, and the choice of president and vice president by presidential preference primaries and direct elections without the use of electors.

Mr. Britton said later that the president favored the abolition of national conventions for nominating purposes, but thought them necessary to draft party platforms; he declared that Mr. Wilson approved presidential primaries and direct election, which would shorten the ballot.

On the six-year proposition, Mr. Britton said, the president refrained from comment.

MEMORIAL DAY SPORT PROGRAM

Many Athletic Events Are on the Calendar for Next Friday.

Decoration day will be celebrated here by a number of athletic festivities.

Friday will mark the opening of the Duluth Boat club for the season, while there will be open house at the Northland club and a regular program of golf events during the afternoon.

The Twin Ports team of the Duluth and Superior league will meet the New Duluths at Desmond field on Park Point, while several of the crack local teams of the city, including the Adams, have out of town games scheduled for the day.

While there are no special athletic events upon the program of the opening of the boat club, it will be the first opportunity that many of the club members will have enjoyed to witness the crew at work.

The program at the golf club will include the Memorial day medal handicap play. There will be a table d'hote luncheon and dinner served at the club and the play will extend through the day.

Fishermen of Duluth are planning to whip the trout streams in the neighborhood of the city, and it is believed that Friday will see the greatest number of nimrods of the present season, leaving Duluth for various fishing places within a radius of fifty to seventy miles of the city.

MOTORCYCLISTS TO HOLD RACES.

Friday afternoon on London road the Duluth Motorcycle club will give the first motorcycle races that have ever been held in Duluth. There will be races for both professionals and amateurs, and according to the number of entries that have been received at the present time by the racing committee it is believed that the program will be very successful. Practically all of the crack riders of the city are entered and it is believed that some very fast time will be made.

CROSS-COUNTRY RACE HAS BEEN POSTPONED.

The cross-country run that was originally planned for Saturday has been called off for the time being, according to the statement of Prof. A. B. Wegener of the Y. M. C. A. The inability to get the various runners of the city in condition so early in the season is the principal reason for the indefinite postponement of the event.

American Wins.

St. Andrews, Scotland, May 28.—W. Heinrich Schmidt of Worcester, Mass., beat A. V. Hambro of the Royal St. George's club, by one up in the world's amateur golf championship tournament today. Hambro last year defeated H. H. Hilton in the championship tournament at Westward Ho.

American Beaten.

St. Andrews, Scotland, May 28.—In the fourth round of the world's amateur golf championship tournament played here today, Worthing of the Mid-Surrey Golf club beat Harold Weber of Toledo, Ohio, by one hole.

Railroads

ADVANCE IN RATES IS NOT ALLOWED.

Washington, May 28.—An advance of 1 cent per 100 pounds in break-bulk rates by carriers, on transportation of grain and grain products from Milwaukee and other Wisconsin points to Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and other Eastern destinations is held by the interstate commerce commission to be unjustified. The carriers were ordered to cancel the advance and maintain the old rates.

ANNUAL BALL OF RAILROAD EMPLOYES.

Agate lodge No. 519, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen will entertain at its fourteenth annual ball at the Armory tomorrow evening. Complete arrangements have been made by the committee to make it the best given by the firemen since the local lodge's organization.

The hall will be decorated with bunting and national colors. A feature of the affair will be the ringing of a big locomotive bell at the start of each number.

The members of the committee in charge are: V. E. Seashore, H. Verboncouer, John Scholtes, H. Frisk, George Engels, W. J. Lawrence and E. H. Miller. The music will be furnished by Blewett's orchestra.

SAYS SALES TO CITY WERE ILLEGAL

Claiming that politics has played a prominent part in automobile sales to the city in the past, J. G. Moran of the Duluth Automobile company is threatening to bring action to set aside former purchases of automobile equipment by the city.

Mr. Moran claims that a former city official was interested in a company which sold some of the equipment and that the sales are therefore illegal.

The police patrol, which was turned down the other day by Commissioner Hicken, was sold to the city by Mr. Moran. He claims that Commissioner Hicken refused to hear his proposal to substitute any part in the machine that was found at fault. Mr. Moran yesterday sent the patrol back to the factory. The commissioner claims the machine was a "built-over" one and not a new car.

NEVER SLEEP IN CANADA

Real Estate Men Aghast at Program of Entertainment.

Winnipeg Plans 7 o'Clock Breakfasts and 9 p. m. Ball Games.

Real estate men of this city, who contemplate attending the sixth annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges at Winnipeg the latter part of July, have about come to the conclusion that the Canadians up in Manitoba never sleep. During the past week information was received by the local realty dealers that arrangements have been made for a series of "convention breakfasts" to be held at 7 a. m. each day and that the day's festivities will wind up with a baseball game at 9 or 10 p. m.

Up in Winnipeg, at that time of the year, day dawns at 3:30 a. m. and there is plenty of light at 9 or 9:30 p. m. to witness an exciting finish in the ninth inning with three men on base and the town slugger at the bat.

A great deal of interest is being evinced in the entire convention, and it is believed that there will be a good sized delegation from this locality. The "sunrise breakfasts," which are scheduled to begin at 7 a. m., will close at 9:30 a. m., in time for the regular convention session. It is proposed at these breakfasts to get together different classifications of real estate men. Those interested in sub-divisions, rentals, home building, farm lands, colonization and other work will each have an occasion on which they can get together and meet men in their own line of work.

Attractive plans are being formulated for entertaining the ladies. Auto rides around the city are planned for Monday afternoon, July 28, and the "get-together - get - acquainted" entertainment for that evening includes both men and women. On the second day of the convention, the ladies are to be taken in automobiles to upper Fort Garry for luncheon. The fort is by far the best preserved of any of the old forts erected by the Hudson Bay company. It has a historic past, and its walls, loopholes, bastions, gateways, etc., are in perfect state of preservation. Being picturesquely situated, it is now the delightful and romantic summer home of the Winnipeg Auto club.

On the same evening, there will be a garden party at Government house, the official residence of Lieutenant Governor D. C. Cameron. The governor and Mrs. Cameron will receive informally for all delegates and their ladies. The Seventy-ninth Highlander regiment and their celebrated Kilty band will parade in full regimentals and among the ceremonies will be the unique "Trooping the Colors."

On Wednesday evening, there will be a mammoth banquet in the queen's room at the Royal Alexandria, the splendid C. P. R. hotel in Winnipeg. This affair will bring the convention officially to a close. On the following morning at 8 o'clock, the delegates will leave for the 1,100-mile trip through the Canadian wheat belt, provided free through the courtesy of boards located along the route to be visited.

A program of unusual interest to real estate men is being prepared in connection with the three days' business session, to be held July 28, 29 and 30. Meetings will be held in the big convention hall and the feature will be a large display of real estate exhibits. Cities all over the country are expected to participate in this display and what space is not utilized by visiting delegations will be filled up with Canadian home products.

Special trains will carry delegations from most of the large cities. Real estate boards located east of Chicago will meet in that city on Saturday, July 26, and on that evening will proceed en masse to Minneapolis, where they will be the guests of the Minneapolis real estate board on Sunday, July 27. The entire party will leave Minneapolis at 4 p. m. on Sunday, arriving in Winnipeg, the convention city, at 7 a. m. Monday morning, the day on which the convention begins.

Superior

Big Coal Bridge.

A coal handling bridge which will be the largest in the world will be constructed on the Northwestern Fuel company's dock at a cost of $300,000. The bridge will be 710 feet long with a clear span of 551 feet. The bridge will be equipped with two buckets with a carrying capacity of ten tons each and will be able to unload 600 tons per hour.

Woman Delegate.

Mrs. Ada Garland, former resident of Duluth, will represent the Superior Homestead of Yeomen at the quadrennial convention to be held in June at Oklahoma City. Mrs. Garland is local organizer for the lodge and is the only woman delegate chosen to represent the order from Wisconsin.

Run Over By Auto.

Mrs. Frank Kitter, 404 Nettleton avenue, was seriously injured at 10:30 o'clock last night by being run over by an automobile at the intersection of Broadway and Ogden streets. The machine was driven by Mrs. A. T. Roth. Mrs. Kitter remained unconscious until late this forenoon at the Broadway hotel, where she was being cared for by Dr. D. R. Searles. It is thought that she may have a fractured skull and other internal injuries. The wheels of the machine passed over her body. Eye witnesses claim that Mrs. Roth became confused when she noticed the woman in front of her machine and turned in the direction taken by the woman when she was attempting to get away from it. Mrs. Roth and Miss Mae Ross were leaving the theater on their way home.

Realty Men to Meet.

Real estate men of Superior will meet tonight to consider sending a large delegation of their members to the national convention at Winnipeg. It is proposed to send about fifty men from Superior to the Canadian city.

THE BOOKWORM'S WIFE.

English Woman Tells of Her Post-Nuptial Awakening.

London Mail: When I first became engaged to Robert, the fact that he was known as "the Bookworm" seemed to promise a happy, tranquil future. I congratulated myself on his decidedly "stay-at-home" habits.

"He will not spend all his evenings at the club like Mabel's husband," thought I (Mabel is my great friend). "It must be awful to sit in solitude like she does, knowing all the time that half your income is being lost at bridge."

But now that our honeymoon is a thing of the past I am beginning to wonder whether the wife of a book-lover has not just as fair an excuse for grumbling as those other wives, whose husband's tastes are frankly "sporting" and uniterary.

Why He Likes Home.

It is true that Robert spends every minute of his spare time at home. It is a haven where he would be, for it is quiet, and boasts really comfortable chairs and a good reading lamp. He prefers our house to the British museum for two reasons. First, because he can wear a pair of very old slippers; and, secondly, because he can smoke a particularly nasty briar pipe as he reads—luxuries denied him in the public building.

And then his own collection of books is stored in our little home and where his treasure is there his heart is also.

Poor sentimental little idiot! I used to imagine that he would look upon home as a shrine for me . . . whereas he hardly knows whether I am in the house unless I happen to be playing the piano, whereupon he sends me a testy message. Robert does not like music when he is reading.

He does not care for conversation, either. Thrilling news concerning a new frock, a new friend, or a new cook, all fall on deaf ears, for no one can call the impatient turning of a leaf a sympathetic response. Once let him become buried in some dry-as-dust volume (and he buries himself with mole-like rapidity in the most unpromising looking tomes) and I verily believe you might shout tidings of battle, murder and sudden death in his ear, gaining no more than a grunt in response.

Frequently I put on my prettiest frock and with my most engaging wiles try to tempt him into some semblance of gayety. At the best I only win the half-vexed response:

"Go away, you little bother, and let me read in peace."

No Love for Society.

And he will never go out with me. Secretly, I am very proud of Robert; proud of his nice eyes, his beautiful hands, and his pleasant voice. If he would only brush the dust from the library off his coat and take me about sometimes it would make me exceedingly happy.

But society bores him. "It's so much jollier in one's own library," he says.

Any love that I may have had for reading has been crushed out of me. I hate books now, for they have come between Robert and myself. Besides, my taste in literature has been so criticised and jeered at that I dare not mention my likes and dislikes.

If I am found enjoying a love story —some simple tale with a "strong domestic interest"—it is snatched from me—drastically dismissed as "rot"—and I am presented with a volume of essays or the works of some bygone poet, whose "style" or "teaching" I am told to try to admire.

When I read I do so for amusement, not to be struck dumb by the genius of the author; I care nothing for style; I prefer a good, exciting plot. But when I say things like that my husband gets angry. . . .

Robert has just come in looking awfully excited, his hair all ruffled and his eyes as bright as diamonds. He has been to the sale, and a first edition has been knocked down to him—a fat, shabby book, half out of its ugly binding.

"It was a wonderful bargain, really. Still, old girl, I'm afraid I shan't be able to give you that check for the dressmaker for a week or two. You don't mind, dear, do you?"

But, of course, I do. B. TELLING.

TOMB OF JONAH.

Christian Herald: The site of Nineveh is almost perfectly level. But adjoining the western wall are two huge mounds concealing the palaces of the greatest kings of Assyria. The lower or southern mound is occupied by a mosque and a village of considerable size.

Its name is Nebi Yunus, or the Prophet Jonah, for in the mosque is the tomb in which Jonah is said to have been buried. The age of the tomb is uncertain, yet probably it dates from long after the Hebrew prophet's time. However, the place is now sacred, so sacred that pilgrims visit it from afar.

O rode up the steep, narrow streets of the village to the mosque, and to the amazement of the natives I dismounted and entered the mosque yard. A crowd of excited men quickly surrounded me. To a priest I explained that I had come to see the grave of Jonah, and with a motion of the hand I made it understand that he would be rewarded. Removing my shoes, I followed the priest through a dark passageway.

There he pointed to a wall and said that the tomb was just beyond. I wished to enter the prayer room from which the tomb itself might be seen, but the place was considered far too sacred for my profane feet. However, the few Christians who have been permitted to see the tomb may look only through a small window into a dark chamber, in which a cloth covered mound is scarcely discernible. It is said that no Moslem ever will enter the inner shrine.

Two of the Many Reasons Why You Should Investigate:

No other gas range heats its oven as does the Double Action.

No other gas range broils as does the Double Action.

The Double Action gas range is constructed on an entirely new principle and is different from all other gas ranges made. The Double Action gas range uses the heat in the oven twice, and is the only oven in the world that does. The Double Action Gas Range has only two rows of fire in the oven where all others have three or four which means that the Double Action oven uses from 33 1-3 to 50 per cent less gas.

CINCHONA.

Indianapolis News: Java produces about two-thirds of the world's supply of cinchona, and it has for years been regularly shipped to Holland. The large quinine manufacturers, mostly situated in Germany, supply themselves with the raw material in the Dutch market, and of late years the manufacturers have combined to keep the price at such low level as to render the chinchona cultivation unprofitable, although the manufacturers of quinine have been earning large dividends. To meet this combination it was resolved to establish a quinine factory in Java, and this has been done at Bandong, where the first Java quinine has been produced. This is described as of excellent quality and equal in all respects to the best European brands. Last year the total production of cinchona in the island was more than 8,500,000 pounds.

HIGHPRICED NECKLACES.

The London Standard: Some pearl necklaces reach fabulous prices, prices that astonish even the owner. Such was the case in the last public sales with the necklaces belonging to the ex-Sultan Abdul Hamid and Mme. Russell. A necklace of three rows which had belonged to Abdul Hamid, brought $300,000, though there was nothing extraordinary about the pearls. In most cases these necklaces are taken to pieces, the pearls are cleaned, worked up and classified. Subsequently they are used in making other necklaces more perfect, for modern taste is more refined than it used to be, and now demands absolute uniformity of color and form.

FITZGIBBONS GETS REWARD

Man Who Turned State's Evidence Released By Court.

Testified Against Matt Engel in Prosecution for Assault.

James Fitzgibbons, who turned state's evidence in the prosecution of Matt Engel, who was convicted of assaulting Delaus Rensaa at the North Star lodging house on Sept. 3, 1912, will not be held to trial on a charge of having a hand in the same affair.

This morning, upon the motion of County Attorney Warren E. Greene, the case against Fitzgibbons was dismissed by Judge Dancer. An order was also entered by the court releasing Fitzgibbons from custody. He was allowed to walk out of the county jail a free man.

The jury in the Engel case found that it was Matt Engel who had knocked Rensaa down and kicked the only good eye he had left blind. The testimony of Josie Engel, the common law wife of the defendant, was that after Engel had knocked the man down, Fitzgibbons had finished the job. This was not substantiated by other witnesses and was denied by Fitzgibbons.

MISLED BY FALSE FRIENDS

Country Boy Tells Court How He Was Urged Into Crime.

Says Man Who Taught Him Forgery Took the Money.

It was a story of a country lad led into a career of crime by a new-found pal who was wiser in the ways of the world than himself, that Siver Siverson, an 18-year-old farmer boy, related to Judge Dancer in district court this morning when he pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery.

Siverson's parents are farmers of humble circumstances living in a rural district near Milan, Minn. He stated that since he has been in trouble he has written to his parents and told them, but that he has not heard from them. At the time of his arrest he told the police that he thought that the news would break his mother's heart.

The young boy was arrested on May 8, charged with having passed three worthless checks, each for $45, obtaining the money. He also admitted that he had been in trouble in Superior for the same offense and that he was on parole from the courts there at the time. He had promised the court he said to square up his debts there and upon the advice of a friend had been urged to forge more paper to do it.

Taught to Forge.

The name of his "friend" was disclosed to the court as Earl Hendrickson. Siverson met Hendrickson in the harvest fields of North Dakota. According to the boy's story, he showed him how to forge the checks and get the money.

"He told me that it was an easy way to get the money and that if anyone was to suffer for it, it would be him and not me," said the boy. "I got $45 from the three checks and gave it to him. He gave me back $1.50 and told me to 'beat it.'"

The court continued the case for sentence until the boy's story can be investigated. Young Siverson prior to his recent trouble, was held up and robbed of $25 by one Andrew Russell at Cusson, Minn. Russell was convicted of the crime by a jury on the range. He is now in the county jail awaiting sentence.

ALASKAN RAILROAD PLAN TO BE FAVORED

Senate Committee Will Urge $35,000,000 Issue of Bonds.

Washington, May 28.—Government construction of a government railroad from tidewater to the interior is expected to be recommended by the senate territories committee when it meets Saturday. Senator Chamberlain's bill authorizing a $35,000,000 government bond issue to build the road probably will be reported at the same time. Senator La Follette is expected to support the measure on the floor of the senate, and members of the committee believe President Wilson will not oppose them.

PLACED ON TRIAL FOR STEALING SHOES.

Mike Foley was put on trial in district court before Judge Dancer and a jury this afternoon on a charge of grand larceny, second degree.

Foley, it is claimed, stole two sample grips containing seventy pair of children's shoes, valued at $60, from T. W. Palmer, a traveling salesman, at the union depot on March 31 last.

C. C. Colton is attorney for the defendant.

To Be Coggswell's Postmaster.

Coggswell, N. D., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.) — National Democratic Committeeman Breugger has spoken and the lively contest here over the postoffice is now settled in favor of Frank McGraw. He will no doubt be appointed at an early date as the term of the present official expired some time ago.

MAY SHAVE COAL BILLS

Commissioners Will Inspect All Boilers Owned By City.

Hope to Save $5,000 to $10,000 in Heating Expenses.

Mayor Prince and the city commissioners are delving further into the coal situation, and the more they investigate the more they are satisfied that they can save Duluth money on the purchase of its annual supply of fuel.

This afternoon they are planning to make an inspection trip of all the boilers owned by the city. They will be accompanied by one of the most efficient coal experts in the Northwest, as well as by one or two representative of coal companies who are not allied with any alleged combination.

Mayor Prince has gone quite fully into the situation, and he stated this morning that the hope is now entertained that the city can dispense largely, if not entirely, with anthracite. If bituminous coal can be satisfactorily used exclusively, the difference in the prices alone will mean a big economy. It is estimated that the city consumes close to 3,000 tons of coal a year, costing from $20,000 to $25,000. If $5,000 or $10,000 can be lopped from that sum, no stones will be left unturned to do so.

Although the city uses large quantities of fuel, the coal question has never been investigated, either as to price or the kind of coal which can be utilized. The city has been paying as much for its coal as the private consumer who uses two or three tons a year.

Mayor Prince called this fact to the attention of the commission when an ordinance appropriating $8,000 for the purchase of coal for the public safety division was introduced. The commission saw the point at once, and pending the investigation which is now being made, the ordinance has been postponed from week to week.

FURMAN GOES TO PRISON

"Terrible Swede" Finally Graduates From County Jail Class.

Two Prisoners Gipen Indeterminate Sentences at St. Cloud.

Gust Furman, or, as he is better known in police circles, "The Terrible Swede," was handed a term at Stillwater prison this morning by Judge Dancer. Furman was convicted by a jury on the crime of assault in the first degree and was sentenced on this charge. The sentence is indeterminate.

The former "king of the Bowery" broke a whisky bottle over the head of Gust Thompson while the two were occupying the same room in a lodging house at 110 St. Croix avenue on March 19, last. Furman was provoked to the act through the snoring of Thompson on the night previous.

In police court Furman has been convicted thirty-four times and has been in and out of the county jail at various times since 1905. He is 39 years old.

Goes to Reformatory.

John Miller, aged 22, who on May 22 last was found guilty of robbery in the first degree by a jury in district court, was sentenced to the state reformatory. Miller, on March 8, held up and robbed Gust Johnson, a woodsman, of $37, a watch and a knife, the robbery taking place on Michigan street, near the Union depot. The jury recommended the prisoner to the mercy of the court. Judge Dancer stated that this recommendation would be forwarded to the officials of the state reformatory at St. Cloud. Miller's sentence is indeterminate. The county attorney stated that he had been in trouble before.

One to Ten Years.

Paul Morris was sentenced by Judge Cant this morning to the St. Cloud reformatory on a charge of grand larceny, first degree. He will serve from one to ten years on the indeterminate plan. Morris stole $50 from Nickola Randanchich, under the Lake avenue viaduct on the evening of April 22. When arrested he broke away from the police and, although handcuffed, effected an escape. He was captured at Peoria, Ill., and brought back for trial. Morris told the court today that his relatives lived at Peoria.

STARTS EXCITEMENT.

Advent of Eastern Capitalist in North Dakota Oil Fields Attracts.

Marmarth, N. D., May 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—The oil excitement in this section took another boost when W. C. La Rue, a wealthy capitalist from the East, arrived here with his attorney. They went over the territory and examined leases and titles. LaRue is said to be one of the men behind the prospector who spent several weeks here looking over conditions.

H. A. Miller of Austin is endeavoring to interest W. D. Terel, a well-known oil man of Beaumont, Tex., in this country.

PHILADELPHIA NOW HAS TWO WOMEN POLICE OFFICERS

MRS. M. P. DIEHL.

MISS L. M. GILLESPIE.

Miss L. M. Gillespie and Mrs. Mary Diehl are Philadelphia's first police women. Los Angeles and some other cities have had women on police duty for some time and the experiment has proved a success. The need for women to receive female travelers was the reason for the appointment of the two Philadelphia police women. Organizations in many cities have kept women agents at railroad stations to protect young girls for several years past. They have had no authority from the cities in which they worked but the police have always aided them. In Philadelphia the Travelers' Aid society has done this work and in 1912 it placed in trains 8,333 persons and took 2,521 to their home addresses on arrival in the city. Miss Gillespie and Mrs. Diehl were two of the aid society's special officers. They have the authority of the city behind them now.

ESTIMATE FAR TOO LOW

Remodeling of City Hall Will Cost More Than $9,000.

City Hasn't Money Necessary in Permanent Improvement Fund.

Instead of $2,500 to $3,000, as was given by the architect as the estimated cost of remodeling the city hall, the work will cost over $9,000.

Bids for the work were opened at the city hall this morning by Mayor W. I. Prince. The low bids for the three parts of the work were as follows: General construction, Enoch Erickson, $5,981; electrical work, Burgess Electric company, $2,300; plumbing, E. S. Farrell company, $810.

The total of the low bids is $9,091. The city hasn't the money in the permanent improvement fund, or nearly that much, as all but about $1,500 has been appropriated. It may be that an arrangement can be made whereby the funds can be provided in anticipation of next year's levy by means of a loan from some other fund. The city hall is an antiquated structure and the idea of spending over $9,000 upon it does not meet with warm approval. On the other hand, however, it seems imperative that something should be done to provide adequate quarters for the commissioners and city officials, all of whom are now cramped for room and office accommodations.

Judging from the bids it does not appear that better prices could be secured on the present specifications. One of the bids for the general construction was over $10,000. The bids on the electrical work were comparatively close while the low bid on the plumbing was considerably below that of the others submitted. The matter will be threshed out at an early meeting of the commission.

WILSON FREES MAN TO SUPPORT BABIES

President Remits Fine of Convicted North Carolina Moonshiner.

Washington, May 28.—The plight of three little motherless girls working in a Southern cotton mill and needing the help of their father, Marion Cook, serving a two-year penitentiary term for illicit distilling in North Carolina, caused President Wilson today to remit the $100 fine, which was a part of Cook's sentence and which he was unable to pay. Cook was confined at Ashville, N. C., and as a result of the president's action will be released June 16.

BAPTISTS COME TO CLOSE OF MEETING

Carter H. Jones of Seattle Heads Foreign Mission Body.

Detroit, Mich., May 28.—The Northern Baptist convention which has been in session here for the last week, was scheduled to come to a close tonight with a devotional rally.

At the business sessions the reports of the commission on city missions and of the Brotherhood council were on the program for discussion.

The report of the nominating committee of the American Baptist Foreign Mission society was made and the following officers elected:

President, Carter Helm Jones, Seattle; first vice president, Dr. Edward Judson, New York; second vice president, John S. Tuthill, Waterloo, Iowa; third vice president, J. A. Sunderland, Omaha; general secretary, Dr. Emory W. Hunt, Granville, Ohio; recording secretary, George B. Huntington, Boston; home secretary, Fred P. Hamgard, Boston; treasurer, Ernest S. Butler, Boston.

Resolutions were adopted by the convention setting aside the first Sunday in March of each year to be known as "denominational day." The setting aside of this day for special services was urged by the secretary of the home mission society.

LAKES OF LIFE AND DEATH

Weird Discoveries Made By an Englishman in Africa.

London Chronicle: From Southern Nigeria news has been received of the remarkable discovery just made by P. Amaury Talbot, a district commissioner, of what is known as the "Sacred Lake of Life," on which, according to popular belief, the existence of a hundred thousand persons depends.

When, some months ago, Mr. Talbot returned to this country from extensive travels in unknown parts of Nigeria, he announced, as one of the most interesting discoveries, the finding of the "Lake of the Dead," in the Oban country. This he visited after great difficulty, and in spite of the fact that porters and carriers refused to proceed to the dreaded spot.

Scene of Mystery and Dread.

The scene about the lake, he said, was full of mystery and dread. The surface of the water was absolutely still, and round about were 10-foot high bushes, bearing what looked like great tufts of creamy flowers. These, however, proved to be nests of tree frogs. The place was a sanctuary for all wild things, for no hunter would dare to penetrate the bush to this fearsome place.

As Mr. Talbot stood at the edge, gazing over the water, its quiet was suddenly broken by a broad ripple, and little fish were seen to spring agitatedly above the surface. A great python was crossing, and this, it was learned, shared with the crocodiles the guardianship of the Sacred Lake. Nothing was allowed to trouble the water or even to touch its outer edge, for fear of famine and pestilence ensuing. Hither, the natives believed, came by night the ghosts of long dead Ekoi, to drift in sad companies, hopeless and wailing, over the surface of the water.

Jealously Kept Secret.

On Mr. Talbot's return to Nigeria he found that the news of the discovery of the "Lake of the Dead" had brought to light the fact that another sheet of water to which mysterious powers were ascribed existed in the neighborhood of Ikot-Obo, the chief town in the neighborhood of Ibibios; and one afternoon Mr. Talbot and Mr. Eakin, accompanied by Mrs. Talbot and her sister, set out to endeavor to locate it.

Hitherto the knowledge of the lake had been kept a jealously guarded secret from all Europeans, and not even the natives, with one exception of the high priests, had been allowed to approach the sacred water—the dwelling place of the greatest deity of the race.

Access to the lake was through a sacred grove so cunningly contrived that a stranger might pass within a few yards and yet never find the holy pool. Mr. Talbot and his party, guided to the spot, found that the water was full of great fish on the welfare of which depended the life of the Ibibio race. The fish were so tame that they fed from the hand of the reigning high priest, the only native human being allowed to look upon the water.

Formerly many victims were annually sacrificed here, though at the present day human life was not permitted to be taken. Countless legends had grown up round the spot. It was said to be placed by its first guardian, the Thunder God, under the care of a python and a leopard, who ceaselessly kept watch and ward and destroyed any one rash enough to seek to penetrate its mysteries.

It is specially sacred as the dwelling place of the most powerful deity—the Great Mother—Isu-Ma (the Face of Love), whose symbol is a holy rock facing the entrance.

TEACHES BABIES SELF POSSESSION

At Torresdale, a Philadelphia Suburb, the Italian Method of Training Children Has Taken Root in American Soil and Is Flourishing.

Leigh Mitchell Hodges in Philadelphia North American: Torresdale, a region of vast and princely estates peopled by some of the proudest and richest of old Philadelphia families, may become known as the seat of the first American school buildings put up to house the methods of teaching made world famous by Dr. Maria Montessori, that remarkable Italian woman who is devoting her life to helping humanity in various ways.

Mrs. J. Scott Anderson of Swarthmore, directress of the school, is a competent educator who made special preparation for the work by spending several months with Dr. Montessori in Rome. She is a thorough believer in the efficacy of that method, and her faith is well borne out by the progress of the little ones here in her charge.

These boys and girls, from 3 to 6 years old, are learning to read, write and figure in less time than one could well believe, were it not that evidence of their accomplishments is so irrefutable.

No "Don'ts" in the System.

One of the basic principles of the Montessori system is to attract rather than compel a response. Instead of "hammering in" knowledge, as the good old cramming systems have been doing all these years, the idea is to "draw it out."

The word "don't" is never used in this school. Of course, the shock must be great to a child just entering, but if the eliminations of this inevitable appendage of childhood will produce as much peace and order in the average home as prevailed in that schoolroom where seven youngsters went about their chosen tasks quietly and happily while the teacher devoted herself to a visitor, then I rise to move the adoption of the plan within every four walls everywhere.

"How can we get along without 'don't'?" you ask.

An illustration may suffice better than an explanatory treatise.

Two of the little girls were matching colors at a table. One of the boys was standing near, choosing a piece of crayon with which to draw. He was seized with a sudden desire to make a face at the little girls and he waited not upon the order of doing so.

Mrs. Anderson saw him. Now, it would be almost second nature to say "Johnny, don't do that," under such circumstances. But it is not permissible under Montessori methods.

"It Would Be Nice."

"Johnny, I think it would be nice for you to put the number game in order," said Mrs. Anderson, as sweetly and gently as if Johnny had just loosed an angelic smile. It so happened that the number game was at the other end of the room. Without a word Johnny started for the new task. But he was just a bit shame-faced, and when it came time to set the table for luncheon he was so gallant and so solicitous for the comfort of everyone else that his attitude could hardly have been put down as accidental.

Again, one of the little girls was making a big noise in an attempt to put away the "broad stairs," by which the children are given their first lessons in "large" and "small."

"Don't make so much noise" would have been the proper verbal usage under such circumstances, according to the 'good old" ways.

"Elizabeth, I think you are trying to carry too much," said Mrs. Anderson, and the noise ceased.

The commonest criticism I have heard of the Montessori system is that it permits too great degree of freedom to foster discipline. Yet have never visited any ordinary kindergarten in which there was better order or in which children appeared to be more respectful of the rights of those around them. Of course, there were only a few children present the day I was there, but seven healthy youngsters can raise a fair crop of disturbance when the teacher is otherwise occupied, if they so desire.

I could not blame them for being good, for they had so many interesting things to do.

How Poise Is Attained.

Poise is a matter of large consideration in Dr. Montessori's catalog of necessary attainments, and poise is a matter of such large importance in life that it is a wonder to me no one ever before thought of making it a primary consideration in the education of little ones. Of course, we hear of young women who have finished in high school being sent away for "poise, polish and politeness," but an ounce of poise in childhood is worth about twenty tons ten years later.

A LITERARY GEM

George Saintsbury, an Englishman, who has a wider reputation as a literary authority, has written a "History of English Prose Rhythm" in the course of which he says that "one of the highest points of English prose" is reached in the 1611 (authorized) version of the sixtieth chapter of Isaiah. If you don't care to refer to your Bible to refresh your memories as to this fine chapter here it is:

Arise, shine; for thy light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee.

For, behold, the darkness shall cover the earth, and gross darkness the people; but the Lord shall arise upon the, and His glory shall be seen upon thee.

And the Gentiles shall come to thy light, and kings to the brightness of thy rising.

Lift up thine eyes round about, and see; all they gather themselves together, they come to thee; thy sons shall come from far, and thy daughters shall be nursed at thy side.

Then thou shalt see, and flow together, and thine heart shall fear, and be enlarged; because the abundance of the sea shall be converted unto thee, the forces of the Gentiles shall come unto thee.

The multitude of camels shall cover thee, the dromedaries of Midian and Ephah; all they from Sheba shall come; they shall bring gold and incense; and they shall shew forth the praises of the Lord.

All the flocks of Kedar shall be gathered together unto thee, the rams of Nebaioth shall minister unto thee; they shall come up with acceptances on mine altar, and I will glorify the house of my glory.

Who are these that fly as a cloud, and as the doves to their windows?

Surely the isles shall wait for me, and the ships of Tarshish first, to bring thy sons from afar, their silver and their gold with them, unto the name of the Lord thy God, and to the Holy One of Israel, because he hath glorified thee.

And the sons of strangers shall build up thy walls, and their kings shall minister unto thee; for in my wrath I smote thee, but in my favor have I had mercy on thee.

Therefore thy gates shall be open continually; they shall not be shut day nor night; that men may bring unto thee the forces of the Gentiles, and that their kings may be brought.

For the nation and kingdom that will not serve thee shall perish; yea, those nations shall be utterly wasted.

The glory of Lebanon shall come unto thee, the fir tree, the pine tree, and the box together, to beautify the place of my sanctuary; and I will make the place of my feet glorious.

The sons also of them that afflicted thee shall come bending unto thee; and all they that despised thee shall bow themselves down at the soles of thy feet; and they shall call thee the city of the Lord, the Zion of the Holy One of Israel.

Whereas thou hast been forsaken and hated, so that no man went through thee, I will make thee an eternal excellency, a joy of many generations.

Thou shalt also suck the milk of the Gentiles, and shalt suck the breast of kings; and thou shalt know that I the Lord am thy Savior and thy Redeemer, the mighty One of Jacob.

For brass I will bring gold, and for iron I will bring silver, and for wood brass, and for stone iron; I will also make thy officers peace, and thine exactors righteousness.

Violence shall no more be heard in thy land, wasting nor destruction within thy borders; but thou shalt call thy walls Salvation, and thy gates Praise.

The sun shall be no more thy light by day; neither for brightness shall the moon give light unto thee; but the Lord shall be unto thee an everlasting light, and thy God thy glory.

Thy sun shall no more go down; neither shall thy moon withdraw itself; for the Lord shall be thine everlasting light, and the days of thy mourning shall be ended.

Thy people also shall be all righteous; they shall inherit the land forever, the branch of my planting, the work of my hands, that I may be glorified.

A little one shall become a thousand, and a small one a strong nation; I the Lord will hasten it in his time.

MORNING SESSION OF FEDERAL COURT

A session of the United States court was held this morning and several minor cases disposed of by Judge Page Morris.

The case of Thomas Persich against the Republic Iron & Steel company was dismissed at the request of the plaintiff and that of Guisepi Ercolani against the New York Steel company was also dismissed by stipulation of the parties. Ercolani was represented by his guardian, John Carmarta.

In the case of Russell R. Pealer against H. E. Smith, Judge Morris denied the motion of the defendant, Eliza M. Arnold, to dismiss action and granted the motion to dismiss the restraining order. The plaintiff was allowed to file an amended complaint.

The case of Thomas A. McLaughlin against J. Emerson Greenfield was remanded back to the Itasca county court.

H. W. Stark of Grand Rapids was admitted to practice in the United States court.

WANT HOUSING ORDINANCE SUSPENDED BY COMMISSION

Claimed That It Is Impractical and Hardship to Lot Owners.

Real Estate Exchange Is Backed Up By Improvement Clubs.

The real estate exchange, backed up by improvement clubs, builders and individual citizens, will probably present a petition to the city commission for the suspension of the housing ordinance.

The request will be supplemented by one for a new building code committee to be made up of builders, building operators and other citizens.

Various improvement clubs throughout the city have already adopted resolutions strongly condemnatory of the new ordinance, the principal objection being that it prevents the economical erection of a residence on a twenty-five-foot lot. They have called upon the real estate exchange also to take action, and at a meeting of the directors of the exchange today, the petition to the commissioners was drawn up in the form of a resolution which will be presented to the exchange at its monthly meeting next week.

The principal objection to the housing ordinance is that it is impractical. The real estate men claim that the ordinance is drafted on theory and that it does not work out to the best advantage of the city in operation. It is charged that many owners of twenty-five-foot lots adjoining lots which were previously improved are unable to make any improvements at all, and that much prospective building work is held up on account of the restrictions placed on building by the ordinance.

The real estate exchange will also request that the building inspector be placed in the assessor's office instead of in a different division as at present. It is said that work is being duplicated by the two departments.

The Resolution.

The resolution, which will be presented to the real estate exchange Tuesday, follows:

"Whereas the present housing ordinance has not worked out in a practical way, especially with the small property owners who desire to build and own their own homes,

"And whereas, it has, in a great many instances, prevented people owning twenty-five-foot lots adjoining other improved lots, from being able to improve their lots in a practical way;

"Therefore, Be it resolved that the commission of the city of Duluth be asked to appoint a competent committee on which all building organizations shall be represented, for the purpose of having a new complete general building code drafted,

"And be it resolved further, that we recommend that the office of the building inspector be consolidated with that of the city assessor's office. This would save duplicate inspection, and also give the assessor's office practical information as to the value of new buildings constructed, and improvements made to present buildings. This would not only be more satisfactory to the public, but would also effect a large saving in the expense to the city, give more efficient service, and benefit the city as a whole.

"Resolved further, that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the city clerk."

HIGHWAY TO TWIN CITIES

No Longer Any Obstacles in Way of Its Construction.

Dr. J. D. Park, president of the Duluth Automobile club, returned to this city today after attending the good roads meeting in St. Paul.

Dr. Park says practically all of the preliminary details regarding the construction of the highway between Duluth and the Twin Cities have been completed, and that with the checking up of the state engineer upon the cost of the work, the different counties will be in a position where they can proceed with the work of road building.

Dr. Park estimates the cost of St. Louis county's part of the road at something like $30,000, including the construction of the bridge over the St. Louis river. All of the other counties are ready and anxious to start on the work, according to the statement of Dr. Park, and he is of the opinion that the work will be under way some time during the latter part of the present summer.

Carlton county is very enthusiastic, according to the statements made by its representatives at the St. Paul meeting, and Dr. Park says that is no evident reason at the present time why the work cannot proceed, following the report of the state engineer.

St. Paul, Minn., May 28.—The Minnesota highway commission approved of road work in Hennepin county to cost $353,000, of which the state will pay one-half. This is only half of the work to be done in the county, according to the Hennepin county commissioners.

The commission instructed G. W. Cooley, state highway engineer, to make the proposed survey of the Duluth-Twin Cities highway and prepare an estimate of the cost in time for the good roads meeting June 10, at Lake Forest.

EUROPE USES WOMEN SPIES.

Harper's Weekly: Many an adventuress lives on the sale of state secrets, a condition of affairs that many people believe not to exist save in the imagination of novelists. The importance of having women in the service called "secret" has been demonstrated time and again in the last few years.

Lord Wolseley says in his "Soldier's Pocketbook" that spies are liberally paid when the information they give is of exceptional value. During the Anglo-Boer war the English employed many women spies. Large numbers were distributed throughout the hospitals, where they exercised their arts of fascination upon the wounded prisoners with telling effect as to the procuring of important dates and sources of supply.

Brief and mysterious was the fate of a young Russian woman of good family who left St. Petersburg during the Japanese-Russian war. She undertook to get naval secrets from a young Japanese official in Manchuria. Forgetting loyalty and patriotism, this young man fell into the trap and told her of plans and dates with regard to the movement of the Japanese artillery. But he was suspected by a companion who kept steady watch of him, and the result was that both the young woman and the man who had become infatuated with her quickly disappeared. The family of the young woman expended vast sums of money to ascertain her fate, but without any result whatever.

Not long ago in Toulouse a young girl named Juana Renee, alias Bourg, got herself into serious trouble for the crime of inducing certain naval officers to reveal secrets of the French submarine service. These secrets she sold for large sums not to one, but to several European governments. She was only 21 years of age, and her sudden accession of prosperity caused attention to be centered upon her. A young mechanician in the artillery was finally induced to accuse her and produce all necessary proofs. Some mysterious social influence protected her, however, and she was not punished.

Many musicians besides merely comic song writers have gained golden rewards by their works. Sullivan received $50,000 in royalties from "The Lost Chord." "In Old Madrid" brought its composer—until then unknown to fame—$75,000; and for "My Pretty Joe" Bishop received $10,000 a line.

GARY TELLS STEEL STORY

Steel Corporation Official Testifies in Government's Action.

Testimony That Roosevelt Was Not Deceived Is Presented.

New York, May 28.—Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, resumed the stand today as a witness for the defense in the hearings of the suit to dissolve the corporation under the Sherman anti-trust law.

He continued his recital of the formation of the Illinois Steel company, of the organization of the Federal Steel company, floated by J. P. Morgan & Co., which took over the Illinois, the Lorain Steel company and other properties, and of the acquisition of the Federal by the United States Steel corporation.

The Federal Steel company was launched, Judge Gary testified at a meeting of the various companies which went into it, held at a New York hotel in 1906. The government holds the Federal is a monopoly in itself.

The government maintains that the company paid excessive prices for the various properties united in this amalgamation. The witness said the values were fixed by the late H. H. Rogers, with the advice of experts and were conservative.

Did Not Fool Roosevelt.

Testimony to prove that Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, and H. C. Frick, a director, did not deceive President Roosevelt, as alleged by the government, when they told him it was necessary for the corporation to take over the Tennessee Coal & Iron company in order to stop the panic of 1907, was introduced by the defense yesterday. The testimony was given by Thomas W. Joyce, a security clerk in the office of J. P. Morgan & Co.

Joyce testified that contrary to the statement of complaint, Gary and Frick misrepresented the facts when they told President Roosevelt that the brokerage firm of Moore & Schley had among its assets a majority of the stock of the Tennessee Coal & Iron company and that the firm would fail and the panic be accentuated unless the stock pledged as collateral for loans was exchanged for bonds of the United States Steel corporation. It was not true, the complaint stated, that Moore & Schley had an amount of the stock even approximating a majority.

Examined the Books.

Mr. Joyce testified that on Sunday, Nov. 3, 1907, the day before Gary and Frick went to Washington to see the president, he had made an examination of Moore & Schley's books at the direction of Mr. Morgan, and found that firm had 157,700 shares out of the Tennessess company's total outstanding stock of 298,000 shares, of which only 26,000 shares were not tied up in collateral pledged for loans. He said he had so reported to Mr. Morgan at the meeting of financiers held that night in the Morgan library and that Mr. Morgan had said:

"Those figures agree with what I have been told."

Judge Gary followed Joyce on the stand, but after testifying briefly concerning the organization and growth of the Illinois Steel company, of which he was a director in the early days of the steel industry, he was excused until today.

Farrell Excused.

The cross-examination of James A. Farrell, president of the corporation, was completed by questions as to the custom of "dumping" American steel products abroad during periods of depression in the domestic market.

Mr. Farrell testified, on direct examination, that previous to the organization of the corporation the overseas markets were used by American steel companies "only for dumping purposes," and that the Steel corporation had to "live down" this business before it could develop its export trade. Yesterday he said that the overseas markets had been used for dumping purposes generally, but not entirely. He could recall but one company that engaged in the practice—the Carnegie company—and in that case it was intermittent.

In 1898 one-third of the steel rail production of the Carnegie company went to Canada, Mr. Farrell testified. More rails were exported by the Carnegie company in 1902, the year after its acquisition by the corporation, than in 1898, 1899, 1900 and 1901, he said.

"O. K."

Indianapolis News: Here is the origin of the expression "O K," according to Ado Hunnius, of Leavenworth, Kan., a veteran of the Civil war: "Among the supplies that the war department used to buy," Mr. Hunnius says, "were crackers made by the old Orrins-Kendall Cracker company, in Chicago. The boxes in which these crackers came were marked O. K. We were always eager to get hold of these 'O. K.' crackers because they were always sure to be good, while many other brands were likely to be spoiled or wormy. And gradually O. K. came to be a synonym among the soldiers for something that was above par."

FIREMEN MAKE SHAWLS.

Indianapolis News: Members of the Syracuse fire department have found a unique way of converting leisure time into profit. They make fine Shetland shawls, weaving them on a large wooden frame. The first shawl completed was as soft as silk and perfectly made. Three more are now under way.

THE LURING OF A SUCKER

How the Match Game Is Worked, as Related By the Victim.

Kansas City Star: If you want to learn the psychology of the sucker, J. H. Adamson, a machinist of Scammon, Kan., can tell you about it—admitting freely as a promise that he is a sucker.

Adamson arrived along about noon and was sort of standing around loose at Eighth and Main streets, looking about for something to do. A small, pleasant young man, also looking for something to do, met up with him. Somewhere along the Paseo they crossed the path of a big guy with a soft Southern voice.

The little guy seemed to know the big guy, and before joining him he said to Adamson:

The Stage Is Set.

"There's a guy with a roll. He's got about $500 all the time. Let's you and me get him to match dollars, odd man win, and I'll turn heads and you turn tails, and between us we'll get that roll."

But this shocked the sensibilities of Adamson and he held up horrified hands, metaphorically, and said:

"Oh, no—oh, no!"

Behold not the reward of virtue.

The big guy being duly introduced, the trio wandered along and the little man and the big man began matching pennies. The big guy, who Adamson would have sworn was perfectly innocent, won the pennies and tried to give them back to the little guy, who was a game sport and declined to take them.

The Flash Roll.

It was very affecting.

Then the big guy, in a sudden outburst of sportsmanship, offered to wager $150 on the turn of a coin among the three, and pulled what is known technically as a "flash roll," consisting probably of a $2 bill wrapped carefully around a section of corncob.

Before Adamson was quite sure what he was doing, he had won the $150.

But he didn't get it.

The big guy innocently suggested that inasmuch as he had risked his own very good money in the deal, it would be proper for the winner to show that he had enough coin to have met the obligation had he lost.

The Check Is Cashed.

Adamson blushingly owned up to $10 cash and a check for $135.

Still the big guy was uncertain about the propriety of paying up. Maybe the check wasn't good.

The folks in a "bank" near the post-office didn't know Adamson, of course. But it appears they knew Jones, who very kindly identified Adamson.

The check was cashed.

Still, Jones didn't fork over the $150. The three men strolled up a side street. It was about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. It occurred later to Adamson that he never saw a street that looked so much like a thoroughfare in the Deserted Village.

Closing In on the Prey.

He broached the subject of the $150.

"Aw, I say," objected the big guy, "let's match for a tenner. Maybe your luck is still good."

It was. Adamson won the tenner. But he didn't get that, either. And something about the attitude of the two guys made something swell up in his bosom, right against the wad of bills he had planted in the inside pocket of his waistcoat.

The street was empty and the big guy reached over——

"What sort of a stickpin is that?" he asked, fingering it.

Adamson was thoroughly scared now. His only idea was to get away. But the only means of escape that occurred to him was delay.

The Finale.

"Match you for five," he said, desperately.

"You're on," the big guy said, grudgingly. Adamson fancied.

This time the big guy won. Adamson had to produce his roll to pay.

The little guy seized it with an air of certainty, as if it were a maneuver planned well in advance.

At the same time the big guy stooped and picked up a couple of bricks.

"If you chirp," he said, quietly, "you know what you'll get."

Adamson didn't know, but he looked at the bricks and made a pretty fair guess.

He didn't chirp.

The men separated, the big guy and the little guy going in opposite directions.

And that is how Adamson came to the conclusion that he was a sucker.

TO BE A PIRATE BOLD

From Answers, London: A ragged little redhaired boy flitted stealthily down the road and reconnoitred a certain house carefully; then, placing his fingers expertly to his mouth, he gave vent to a whistle.

The shrill signal came to Willie Smith, and he glanced out of the window. On the opposite side of the road "Carrots" was leering amiably at him, and making gestures of vague invitation.

Without ado, Willie snatched his cap and joined his ally.

"Cheero, Funnyface!" was Carrots's affable greeting. "I'm off to be a pirit!" he added casually. "Coming?"

"Don't mind," agreed Willie. "Rather be a cowboy, though. If you're a cowboy—"

"Cowboys ain't no good," observed Carrots, with memories of the picture palace. "Always saving gals and marryin 'em. We won't want to 'ave nothing to do with gals."

Willie doubtfully regarded the youthful misogynist.

"We could save 'em, and ride away again before they had a chance to catch us," he suggested.

Pirits Is Much Cheaper.

"No; no cowboys!" said Carrots definitely. "Pirits is cheaper all round—no 'orse, no 'earthrug trowsers. All you've got to 'ave is a ship. And there's lots of them down in the docks. All we've got to do is to find one without anybody on board of it. We'd just pull up the sail, and sail away, and capcher Spanish treasure ships and what nots."

"Right ho!" agreed Willie, won by this splendid vision. "I'll just run in and say good bye to 'em all, and get my catapult, and I'll be ready in no time!"

"Don't you say good-by to 'em," advised Carrots gloomily. "They'll try to stop you. They won't like you being a pirit—not till you've made your fortune at it, and come 'ome to 'em with a bag of gold and a beard. You just write 'em a letter saying good-by."

Willie agreed that this was perhaps the better course. Returning indoors for a while, he rapidly made his preparations for his future career by gathering together his catapult, a clean nightshirt and his picture postcard album. These articles he tied into a bundle and dropped through the window to the waiting Carrots.

Ready, Aye Ready!

Then, giving himself over to the cares of authorship, he wrote this note:

"Dear Mother: I am going to be a pirrate, and won't be back till years and years. Do not look for me anyware, becoss I shall not be there. Hoping it finds you as it leaves me, yours respectfull,

"WILLIAM SMITH."

"Ready!" he announced, coming out to Carrots, and, with a last lingering look at his home, they set off.

It was a long, fruge one to the docks. But to Willie Smith's ill-chosen remark that he was beginning to miss his tea, Carrots remarked stoically:

"I ain't a bit tired. At least," he added, tightening his belt, "not very much. But what do they want to build the only means of escape that occurred to him was delay.

The Finale.

"Match you for five," he said, desperately.

"You're on," the big guy said, grudgingly. Adamson fancied.

This time the big guy won. Adamson had to produce his roll to pay.

The little guy seized it with an air of certainty, as if it were a maneuver planned well in advance.

At the same time the big guy stooped and picked up a couple of bricks.

"If you chirp," he said, quietly, "you know what you'll get."

Adamson didn't know, but he looked at the bricks and made a pretty fair guess.

He didn't chirp.

The men separated, the big guy and the little guy going in opposite directions.

And that is how Adamson came to the conclusion that he was a sucker.

(Opposite the City Hall.)

Not Such an Easy Job.

"'Oo's captain today?" he asked.

"Me!" asserted Willie, promptly falling into the trap.

"Captain always leads," stated Carrots, "so just you go and seize the chap and clap 'im in irons!"

"Not me!" said Willie; and added suddenly: "I'm going back home."

"Don't know as I altogether blames you," admitted Carrots. "Its 'arder than I thought, getting to be a pirit. Suppose we wait a year or two?"

Meanwhile, Mrs. Smith, at home, after a brief outburst of hysteria, had spent the hours in lamenting the deuarture of her son. He, it appeared, was the apple of her eye, the most truthful, best behaved and pick of all her children.

"Ran away because I was harsh to him, I suppose," she said sadly that evening. "Ah, if I only had him back, I'd never be hard on him again! A dear, good, obedient, clever boy!"

Even as she spoke the door opened and Willie sidled reluctantly into the room.

"Oh, there you are, are you, my lord?" she said with swift transition of emotion. "You naughty, lazy, good-for-nothing little thing!" She bent and removed a slipper. "Come here!" she ordered.

"All right ma. I deserve it," was his astonishing answer.

She looked closer at him, noted the weariness of his face and bearing. Suddenly she caught him in her arms. The slipper dropped to the ground.

ADVANCE IS NOT HELD

Wheat Has a Bulge But Falls Back at the Close.

Fair Volume of Flax Trading, With Little Price Change.

Duluth Board of Trade, May 28.—Longs' liquidation set the grain market back a notch today after a good bulge. Net losses: May wheat, ¾c; July, ⅝c; September, ¼c; May durum, 1c, and July durum, ⅞c. Cash closed at the figure for July option.

Oats fell off ½c, rye closed at 55@59c instead of 56@59c, and barley remained unchanged.

Only one opening figure was chalked up this morning, that being in July spring wheat. The opening was ⅛c over yesterday's close, and immediately after, a drop started. September fell off also. Then a bullish rally took effect and the market went up to over 93c in July and it looked like another net rise for the market for today's session of the board.

About noon however, the complexion of the market changed and another sag set in. It is gtnerally considered that the latter decline was caused by long interests liquidating. The country is offering wheat freely today and this may have had something to do with the decline. The "dope" from Chicago this morning was in favor of selling on any upturns of the market, as the idea is becoming prevalent that the rumors of crop damage are very much exaggerated.

These rumors are persistent and are coming in droves today. The Canadian West is joining in the bullish chorus and also some signal fires are burning in North Dakota.

May wheat had an advance of ⅛c over yesterday's close while July, after the bulge was exhausted, fell off ¾c from the opening. September declined ⅛@¼c. July durum went down ⅝c.

Flax Not Much Changed.

When the flax market opened this morning there were several good sized purchases made by local dealers, one ostensibly for an elevator company but believed to be for a crushing firm. While the number of trades were few the volume will be fair. May flax closed ⅛c up and September had a bulge of ½c. July and October flax, after an advance, each dropped back and closed ⅛c under.

July puts, 91c; calls, 91⅞c.

John Inglis wires from Liberal, Kan., under date of yesterday:

"Wheat through southwestern counties going backward daily. Still a large acreage in Pratt, Kiowa and Clark counties showing good stand and color. Rain within a week would make wonderful change. About 25 per cent a failure. Meade and Seward counties almost a total loss; oats gone; alfalfa very poor."

B. N. Snow wires from Cincinnati: "Wheat in Central and Southern Indiana is not making good its early promises. In the Wabash and White River valleys on overflow lands the water filled up holes, leaving only seed stocks to mature. Stocks are well headed, but necessarily the stand is thin. The state as a whole will hardly get an average yield. Oats are very spotted. Some early fields are good but the prospect as a whole is very poor."

Price Current of Cincinnati has the following to say in its issue of today: "Corn planting in Iowa, Minnesota, the Dakotas and Nebraska has been seriously delayed by wet weather. In the southern territory of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma, crops are exceedingly spotted. Rain is needed in portions of this locality. The growth of winter wheat is favorable. No critical conditions are in prospect. The crop this far has not been molested to any great extent by pests. We estimate the yield 335,300,000 bushels on the strength of the present condition for Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas. The growth and condition of oats in the northern territory is about the ten-year average, while the condition in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois is below the ten-year average. Farm reserves of wheat in the twelve leading agricultural states, 11.6 per cent; oats, 17.6; corn, 19."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Is Bearish on Crop Opinions By Experts.

Chicago, May 28.—Opinions by crop experts that rain within a week would make a wonderful difference in the dry sections of Kansas had a bearish effect today on wheat. The market responded promptly. Buying was only of a scattered sort. Opening prices ranged from a shade off to ⅛c advance. July started at 91¾c to 91¾c, unchanged to ⅛c higher, and declined to 91½c.

Unfavorable crop reports from a number of Illinois points led to a rally which, however, failed to last. The close was steady with July ⅜c net lower at 91⅜c.

Fine weather and increasing receipts made corn easy. July, which opened the same as last night to ½c down at 57¼c to 57⅜c, sagged to 57⅛@57¼c.

Later the market rallied temporarily with wheat. The close was steady at 57½c for July, ⅛c under last night.

Oats traders were nervous about reports that recent damage appeared to be irreparable. July after starting unchanged to a shade lower at 37⅞@38c to 38c, rose to 38⅛c.

In provisions the controlling influence was a decline at the yards. First sales were at last night's level to 10c below, with September deliveries as follows:

New York Grain.

New York, May 28.—Close: Wheat—May, $1.00⅞; July, 99¼@99¾c; September, 98⅛c.

London Stocks.

London, May 28.—The general settlement and the congestion of new issues checked business on the stock exchange today. Weakness in Wall Street and on the continent depressed most of the sections, while firmer discount rates, due to the appearance of a German demand for gold, were in evidence. There was little or no recovery from heaviness during the rest of the session. Marconi shares were flat.

American securities opened quiet and unchanged. Trading was light during the forenoon and prices moved irregularly within narrow limits. Later the whole list became weak, but the market hardened under the lead of Union Pacific in the later trading, and the closing was steady.

Money was in increased demand and discount rates were firmer.

Cotton Market.

New York, May 28.—Cotton opened steady at a decline of 2@5 points, in response to disappointing cables. There seemed to be a pretty good demand for new crop positions, but offerings of near months were relatively heavy, giving the entire list a nervous and unsettled appearance during the early trading. As Friday and Saturday are holidays, trading in May contracts will be ended at noon tomorrow, and that position was influenced by scattering liquidation, while local and foreign spot interests seemed to be sellers, 11.10:

Spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 11.90; middling gulf, 12.15. Sales 200 bales.

Futures closed steady; closing bids: May, 11.46; June, 11.51; July, 11.55; August, 11.36; September, 11.16; October, 11.10; November, 11.09; December, 11.10; January, 11.08; February, 11.06; March, 11.16.

New York Money.

New York, May 28.—Money on call steady, 2¾@3 per cent; ruling rate, 2¾ per cent; closing bid, 2¾ per cent; offered at 3 per cent; time loans steady; sixty days, 3¾@4 per cent; ninety days, 4 per cent; six months, 4¼ per cent.

Close: Prime mercantile paper, 5½ per cent; sterling exchange steady with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.83 for 60-day bills and at $4.86.40 for demand. Commercial bills, $4.82½; bar silver, 60⅛c; Mexican dollars, 48c. Government bonds firm; railroad bonds heavy.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., May 28.—Barrett & Zimmerman report. Trade is on a quiet basis, demand being limited to retail orders for extra heavy matched draft teams and delivery horses, shipments being made to scattering points throughout the Northwest. Today's receipts included about eighty head of draft and general purpose horses. Values as follows:

LIQUIDATION IS CONTINUED

Minor Stocks Again Under Pressure and Prices Take Drop.

Rallies Forced Later in Active Shares By Shorts Covering.

New York, May 28.—Liquidation was again distinctly in evidence during today's early stock market session. Initial prices reflected relative steadiness in the more representative shares, despite further severe declines in St. Louis & San Francisco issues, which yielded all the way from material fractions to 7 points for the first preferred stock. Improvement was not long sustained, however, all the market leaders losing their early advantage, with substantial recessions in Amalgamated and American Smelting.

Among the minor specialties, Distillers' Securities fell over 4 and the 5 per cent bonds 9 points. Bonds were heavy.

Further liquidation in the various issues of the St. Louis & San Francisco railroad constituted the chief feature at the opening of today's stock market. Losses ranging from a point and a half in the common stock to over four points in the 5 per cent bonds were recorded. All the active stocks showed nominal declines with the exception of Reading.

Standard stocks shook off the depression caused by the decline in St. Louis & San Francisco securities and other low-priced issues, Union Pacific rising a point. St. Louis & San Francisco first preferred, extended its loss to 7 points and the general 5's to 6⅝. Distillers' securities fell 4¼ and the 5 per cent bonds 4 points.

The market became quite active at midday when at the suspense of quoted values, more leading values, scored lower prices, with especial pressure in Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific, Reading, Steel and Amalgamated.

Activity abated somewhat in the later trading, but prices evinced little tendency to recover more than mere fractions. Selling of Canadian Pacific continued with a new low record for Pennsylvania.

The market closed heavy. Liquidation in minor stocks stopped and shorts covered in the active shares, forcing rallies of a point in Reading and the Pacifics.

BAN PLACED ON FREE TRIPS

Pittsburg Steamship Company Will Carry No Passengers in Future.

Other Lines May Adopt Policy on Account of Congressional Action.

These fine free trips down the lakes on freighters, which the friends of steamship men and their friends' friends have been enjoying for lo, these many years, will be mighty scarce this summer. But please don't blame the vessel owners: it isn't their fault. Uncle Sam is responsible.

When congress last winter passed the Carter act which said that lake vessels should carry a couple of more firemen and also a boatswain to lighten the burden of the mate it put an end to hundreds of free rides on the big boats clearing from Duluth.

Most of the big steamships had a couple of extra rooms which were put at the disposal of guests. With the additions to the crew these rooms will be occupied regularly, leaving no place for summer tourists. For instance, the Pittsburg Steamship company with its fleet of one hundred boats will not be available at all. Of that number only five will have accommodations for persons outside of the crew and the passengers will be limited absolutely to officials of the company. And this doesn't mean the heads of departments and others in executive positions, who have counted as surely on their annual trip as they have on their pay envelopes.

Owners of passenger vessels will hail the new order of things with great glee. For years they have protested—not always openly—that the freight men were stealing business from them by giving free rides. They didn't object so much to employes enjoying the lake breezes from the deck of an ore carrier, but when it came to including almost everybody who happened to know somebody in the shipping business they protested. Already they see better times ahead.

Not all the steamship lines will make the rigid cut planned by the Pittsburg company. Many have accommodations for fifteen or eighteen passengers on their freight-carrying vessels. Still the congressional act has given them a fine chance to say "No" when requests for transportation begin to pour in.

CHANGES IN LIGHTS NEAR GREEN BAY.

The latest bulletin of the bureau of lighthouses received today contains several important announcements to mariners. About Saturday gas buoy No. 2 will be established in Rock Island passage at the entrance to Green Bay, Wis. The buoy will have a pyramidal superstructure with an occulting red light showing ten feet above water every twenty seconds. The buoy will better mark the passage.

Also a buoy will be placed in St. Martin Island passage to the entrance at Green Bay. This will have a white light of about 120 candle power. Other changes will go into effect at the same time. Poverty Island Shoal Gas Buoy No. 2 will be discontinued and a spar put in its place. A spar also will replace the Gravelly Island Shoal Gas buoy.

ALONG THE LAKES

The new steamer James H. Farrell made the trip from Duluth to Loraln in 70 hours, 20 minutes, carrying 11,700 tons of iron ore. The running time of the big boat from the Soo to Loraln was 37 hours, reducing the previous record by three hours.

Lumber shippers at Upper Lake ports are reported as seeking tonnage at $2.50 per 1,000 from the Head of the Lakes to Lake Erie ports.

The recommended loading depth for Niagara river is 14 feet, 6 inches.

RECORD ORE CARGO TAKEN

Steamer Snyder Clears With 12,170 Tons in Her Hold.

Higher Water in Channels Will Bring Still Greater Records.

The largest cargo of iron ore ever shipped from the Head of the Lakes—12,170 tons—is on its way down Lake Superior today on the Snyder, Jr., of the Shenango fleet. The big carrier cleared late Tuesday afternoon after loading at the Missabe docks. While this sets a new world's record for ore tonnage, it is likely that it will be exceeded many times this summer and fall.

Deeper draft at the Soo locks is responsible for the large cargo. Today's bulletin gives the draft at the American lock as nineteen feet, six inches; a year ago it was eighteen feet, two inches. As a matter of fact, old Lake Superior is rising. Marine men don't attempt to explain this, but for the past five years there has been a steady deepening of the water.

At least they don't credit the rise to rains, for records show that the depth is greatest in the fall after the usual dry period. Last year, for instance, the water reached its high point, nineteen feet, in September, and it is in this month that shipping men look for a shattering of all tonnage records. The average cargoes up to this time, taking the old and the modern boats together, has been about 7,500 tons.

GOOD DISPATCH AT THE ORE DOCKS.

Boats loading at the ore docks are now getting away with good dispatch. Earlier in the season delays were frequent. Coal boats are discharging their cargoes promptly and the loading of ore is getting up to normal speed. On Sunday the Thomas F. Cole arrived at Two Harbors at 3:30 o'clock in the morning and was loaded and away three hours later.

NEW SERVICE IS PROVING SUCCESS.

Officials of the Mutual Transit company are gratified over the success met by the new Port Arthur-Buffalo service which was established May 15. F. W. Winship, western agent, said today that the movement of package freight was developing rapidly. Much of the business comes from Western Canada and passes through American ports for export.

DIAGNOSE CRIME.

French Physicians Often Are Employed in Murder Mysteries.

Philadelphia North American: Dr. De Neuville, a Frnech physician who has specialized on the Medico-legal aspects of his profession, has been telling some true stories of detective work by physicians that equals the mythical achievements of Sherlock Holmes. There are several sides of the law that bear on medicine and surgery, and there are various specialists who devote themselves to one or all of these important relations.

The specialist who receives in the United States a good deal more attention from the newspapers than from medical journals is that useful adjunct to the police force who is known as the police surgeon.

Here his duties seldom, if ever go beyond the office of diagnosing ailments, attending illness and preventing the spread of contagion. But in France he oftentimes brings to bear upon mysterious crimes the acumen of his trained intelligence and the knowledge of his practical profession. He is likely to act as an assistant to the detectives along the lines of his expert observation.

To the Scene of a Murder.

Four years ago one of the "legal doctors" of the police force received his notification to accompany gendarmes to the scene of a death—that of a woman innkeeper. The apartment where the woman had been found dead had not been disturbed; the legal doctor had full play for his faculty of observation.

He went all over the room and used his microscope at various places and on several objects that appeared to interest him particularly. At last he inquired the name of the last vessel that had come in. It proved to be the Donna Maria, from Sicily. He delivered his opinion, then, without a moment's delay or a sign of uncertainty.

"A left-handed man wearing a slight mustache murdered this woman. He is probably a Sicilian, who arrived on the Donna Maria. He is more than 5 feet 6 inches in height. He was acquainted with his victim, having been a guest previously at her inn. So he knew that she often got drunk. He broke in, killed her because he feared she would awaken while he was robbing the place, and made good his escape. He has in his pocket now the stump of the candle he used to light him in committing his crime. Make a swift search for a stranger answering this description."

While one of the Havre detectives hastened to take up the quest, the doctor gave his reason for deducing all these details:

Cut Himself on a Splinter.

"In entering the murderer cut himself at the door, and a blood-stained splinter of the wood makes it clear that he is left-handed. To one side of the spot where the blood dripped on the floor you can see some candle grease; that is where his candle dripped. It is obvious that, while he held in his left hand the weapon he used, he carried the candle in the right. When I put the microscope on the candle droppings I could recognize them as coming from a Sicilian candle, having studied very closely the Bertillon collection of candles, assembled from all parts of the world. I now surmised that any one who would be using a Sicilian candle must have just arrived from Sicily. In the candle grease there appeared two small reddish hairs very different in their texture from those which grow in the beard. The assassin must have stood there, holding the candle after he committed the murder, biting or twisting his mustache while he debated his crime and his next procedure."

It was not long before the detective brought in a Sicilian named Foforazzo, who had been one of the Donna Maria's passengers. The doctor, having a piece of paper ready, offered it to him. He reached out his left hand, which was cut, to take it. When they searched him the candle end was found in his pocket; and when they questioned him he confessed the murder.

WHISKY THAT IS NOT WHISKY

American People Drinking Labels Instead of Real Thing, According to Dr. Wiley.

Chicago Tribune: Chief Chemist Wiley has declared that 85 per cent of the so-called whisky on the American market is not whisky, and that the American people are drinking labels.

Let me paraphrase Dr. Wiley's statement by declaring that I believe 85 per cent of the so-called whisky sold to stewards is not whisky, and that the American steward is buying labels.

This may seem an amazing statement, but I venture to aver that the personal amazement of many would be still greater at actual results if they subjected their stock of whisky to the expert, or became cognizant of the origin and history of many a "famous brand" for which they have been paying a fancy price.

Now, I want to give the reason for this condition and suggest the remedy. The well-spring, in which this flood of adulteration has its source is Section 3244 of the Federal Statutes, where you will find embedded the remarkable words that any one who makes a "spurious" or "imitation" whisky, brandy, rum or gin is to be known as a "rectifier," and can thus proceed to "rectify" by the payment of a small license tax. These "rectifiers," known also in the trade as "compounders" or "blenders," are now turning into commerce over 100,000,000 gallons of adulterated whisky each year, for the fiscal reports of the internal revenue bureau show that over 100,000,000 gallons of distilled spirits have been "rectified" per annum since 1903.

Mammoth Game Played.

The census of 1900 declared that most of the distilled spirits consumed by the American people passed through the hands of these "rectifiers" and consisted mainly of neutral spirits and drugs sold under the name of whisky.

Nor do the floodgates for this bogus whisky open into the broad light of day and the cheap saloon. It is a mammoth game that the "blenders," or "rectifiers," are playing against the public.

The exclusive clubs, the fine hotels, the household of the bon vivant and the invalid, are invaded under disguise. The promoters of these bogus whiskies have made their brands familiar names to you and to me. Their boundless margin of profit they spend in liberal fashion in flambeaux that illumine the night.

Colossal electric signs emblazon their brands in the public thoroughfare. They send us the clevereest salesmen. Their evidence of enterprise appeals to the imagination. An air of opulence and prosperity covers up the putridness of the fraud and disarms suspicion in high places.

Prior to the revenue-raising period of the Civil war, before the urgent need of Federal finance conferred upon the rectifier the anomalous prerogative to counterfeit whisky, all brands of whisky came from an actual whisky distillery. Goods were sold according to their true age and maturity. This genuine whisky has always had a distinctive character, both when it leaves the still, new and white in color, and again after it has aged in a charred oak barrel and acquired an indicative color varying from a light straw shade in the early states of maturation until, later along, it deepens to a reddish brown. Now this color became an index of age.

If you go to a real distillery you are impressed by the character and color of this bona fide whisky as it rests in its pure state behind the locks and bars of a government-bonded warehouse.

Making Real Whisky.

The making of this real whisky—intended to go on the market on its own merit—is expensive to begin with; but to this cost must be added those which accrue as the years go by in which the whisky is acquiring age. Evaporation, leakage, insurance and warehouse attendance make the profits of the distiller of this genuine article still more constricted, and thus when it is ready for the consumer it is a commodity rendered rigid in price by the costs which cannot be evaded.

Now, that's just the point that struck the "rectifier." With one finger on section 3244 of the Federal statutes which licensed him to "imitate" this whisky, he began to figure he could save all these costs by the trick of making "whisky" without any distillery at all and making it ten years old "while you wait." But above all—and here's a point of particular interest—he decided to pretend that he did have a distillery and that the imitation whisky was the real article or a mixture of two real whiskies and that it, too, was rendered rigid in cost and therefore rigid in price, and he actually charged, and today often charges, more for his bogus whisky than the real distiller charges for the genuine.

The wide margin of profit in this golden game of imitation, therefore, goes to the "rectifier" himself, and had not congress passed the bottling-in-bond law in 1897 genuine whisky proper would have been practically exterminated as a plain economic proposition.

There are close to 250,000,000 gallons of genuine whisky maturing in the government bonded warehouses on the premises of a round thousand of real bona fide distilleries scattered about the United States.

Kentucky Bourbons.

This real whisky, of course, ranges largely from the ordinary brands to the ultra-high-grade article. Even in genuine whiskies the perfect types will always remain distinct from those carelessly made whiskies whose aim is quantity and whose objective is mere chaffering for cheapness. The growth of the finer bourbons of Kentucky represents long years of arduous toil and scientific research. In his brochure, entitled "The Rule of the Regions," Col. E. H. Taylor, Jr., of Frankfort, Ky., the veteran bourbon distiller, declares that one cannot exaggerate the vital importance of a proper water in the manufacture of the finest grades of whisky.

All authentic geological data show that the whiskies having the greatest reputation in the world, wherever introduced, have been produced from water percolating through the strata of the bird's-eye limestone.

The properties concealed in it were stolen in its resting and passage through the mineralized strata. In valleys near streams and crystal springs gushing from such crevices and rents, distilleries have been planted whose product today stands at the head.

No fine whisky can be distilled without the use of sound grain of the highest quality. This grain, after being carefully selected, must not be scalded too high and preferably not above the boiling point of water, 212 Fahrenheit. The fermentation period should be ninety-six hours, or what is known as sourmash plan, which is characterized by the use of strained spent beer of a previous distillation combined with the new "mash." The fermentating process should take place in large open tubs of cypress wood. These large tubs, succeeding the old-time "small tub," affords the distiller greater accuracy in temperature, gravities and attenuations.

Distillation Process.

After proper fermentation the "distiller's beer" is distilled in a clean chambered copper still and run to "singlings," the first of the dual steps so necessary in the distillation of high-grade whisky.

The "singlings" are then distilled in a copper pot still and from this second distillation we have the final whisky. This should be run from the pot still to close to 100 proof.

The proportion of grain—corn, malted barley or rye—used in any particular brand is the distiller's secret, as are the other individual steps in the process, but this is a general outline, to which I might add the sine qua non cleanliness throughout the entire distillery, including every utensil used in the production of the whisky. Then comes the vital matter of maturation. To age properly, whisky must have clean dry storage in the ricks of warehouses, which are well ventilated. All such devices as artificial heat coils are a grievous mistake and only serve to give the whisky an astringent woody taste. The correct maturing of whisky is nature's province, and the high-class distiller always sees that his whisky gets the right sort of storage.

During Cleveland's administration the question was often asked in congress, "How is it possible to get these fine whiskies?" If we could only go to these real distillers and take the goods right from the barrel there under the eye of the government custodian, we would know we were getting the real, pure article, but how can we get it in the open market?" In answer, congress passed the bottling-in-bond law.

Under this law, provision is made for whisky to be put in bottles while the goods are still in bond at the distillery. The transfer to glass is made under the supervision of a government officer, who sees that the pure whisky is not tampered with and this officer then sees that each bottle containing the pure whisky is sealed with a green government stamp. This stamp must tell when the whisky was made and when bottled; it tells the revenue number of the distillery at which it was distilled and the name of the distiller. It tells that the whisky is 100 proof and the quantity in the bottle, and that it is bottled in bond in the government bonded warehouse under United States government supervision. This bottling in bond enables any steward to get bottled whisky pure and unadulterated with as much certainty as if he visited the distillery premises in person and drew the goods himself from the original two-gamp package.

Blow to the "Rectifier."

This law has been a blow to the "rectifier," who cannot get the government stamp over the corks of his concoctions. This bottling-in-bond stamp is the line of demarkation between genuine and the bogus whiskies in glass.

Now, a word as to how the "rectifier" works in making his spurious whiskies. There is a distilled spirit known to the trade as silent or neutral spirit, because it is silent as to its origin and neutral to all others. It is neither whisky, brandy, rum, nor gin, but a colorless, odorless, tasteless product, which can be instantaneously transformed by the "blender" or "rectifier" into a fictitious whisky, brandy, rum or gin by the addition of artificial essence and flavors, while by the use of caramel the bogus article can be made to look as though it had lain in charred barrels and aged for years.

The trick is done over night in tremendous volume and mammoth business houses flourish in the so-called whisky market foundationed upon this stupendous fraud.

Many a steward has bought a barrel of whisky and believed he was paying good money for a counterfeit, yet I venture to say that every time one purchases a barrel of what is known as "single stamp" whisky he is getting just such stuff. There may be a little real whisky in the mixture to add to the deception. You can rest assured that the quantity is small indeed, yet it is bought as all whisky. Every time a bottle of whisky is purchased without the green government stamp over the cork it is practically certain that one is getting one of these spurious mixtures.

PICTURE-MAKING NOVELTY.

Indianapolis News: A novelty in picture making is produced by cutting out of black paper a silhouette which is placed between two pieces of semi-transparent silk or fine-meshed netting, and hung up in a place where the light will fall through the mesh. Striking effects are produced in this way, and advertisers, as well as artists, have caught up the idea.

GOOD BUYING is one of the important qualifications of the good housewife in these days of high cost of living. To make every dollar go as far as possible she buys only trade-marked goods—things that have the quality guaranteed. These are the goods that she finds advertised over the manufacturer's name. The manufacturer having enough confidence in his goods to spend thousands of dollars advertising them is wise enough to know that his goods must have quality to make his investment yield a profit.
